

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

NOTES IN SEASON.

LEE & SHEPARD will publish at once "Aryas, Semites, and Jews, Jehovah and the Christ," by Lorenzo Burge, author of "Pre-Glacial Man."

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS will publish shortly translations of Daudet's "Recollections of a Man of Letters," and Guy de Maupassant's "Sur L'Eau" ("Afloat"). Both volumes will be illustrated.

CASSELL & COMPANY will publish this month Max O'Rell's new book, which treats of what he saw and heard during his recent visit to this country. They have also under way a new volume of stories by Sidney Luska.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. have added to their popular twenty-five cent series Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz's "Rena, or, the Snow-bird," and George D. Cox's curious psychological novel, "Run Down." This house elsewhere in this issue calls attention to special rates offered on this series.

CUPPLES & HURD have in preparation "Last-chance Junction," by Sally P. McLean, author of "Cape Cod Folks;" a new edition of "The Naturalist's Guide," by C. J. Maynard; and also a new work by the same author entitled "Eggs of the Birds of the United States," illustrated by the author, to be issued in monthly parts.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in press Dr. James McCosh's "First and Fundamental Truths: a treatise on metaphysics," which is regarded as the crowning philosophic work of this venerable author's long and fruitful life. They have also in hand a volume of musical essays by Henry T. Fink, the musical critic of the New York Evening Post and author of "Romantic Love and Personal Beauty;" a limited edition of 500 copies of Lester Wallack's "Memories of Fifty Years;" and the Dudleian Lecture on "The Validity of Non-Episcopal Ordination," delivered at Harvard University, on October 28 last, by Prof. George Park Fisher.

CHARLES A. WENBORNE, Buffalo, N. Y., announces for immediate publication an "authorized" American edition of Laurence Oliphant's "Scientific Religion, or, higher possibilities of life and practice." This book, when first published in London eight months ago, immediately became a subject of such wide-spread interest that the author felt impelled to arrange, also, so says Mr. Wenborne, "for its publication in the United States. He visited this country last summer, and upon his return to England was taken down with the fatal illness that terminated his eventful life on December 23. The author's intention to give a distinct introduction to the American edition was carried out by his newly-wedded wife, an American lady, born Dale Owen, who had for some time been a distinguished coworker in that field of religio-philosophical science, of which Laurence Oliphant may be regarded as the most brilliant, most profound, and most advanced explorer of modern times."

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "A Latin Dictionary for Schools," by Charlton T. Lewis, the editor of "Harper's Latin Dictionary." It is not an abridgment, but an entirely new and independent work, designed to explain every word or phrase in the Latin literature commonly read in schools, viz.: the complete works of Cæsar, Terence, Cicero, Livy, Nepos, Vergil, Horace, Ovid, Juvenal, Phædrus, and Curtius, the Catiline and Jugurtha of Sallust, the Germania and Agricola of Tacitus, and a few words found in some extracts of Florus, Eutropius, and Justinus. The original meaning of every word is first given, and then the modifications which it underwent in usage. The editor has preferred illustrations drawn from the earliest authors read by the students—Cæsar's Gallic War, Cicero's Orations against Catiline, and the first books of Vergil's Æneid. The general plan of the work was not finally adopted until after consultation with thirty of the leading Latin scholars and teachers in the country.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

Contains besides historical sketches of Hampden-Sidney, Randolph-Macon, Emory-Henry, Roanoke, and Richmond Colleges, Washington and Lee University and Virginia Military Institute. Also two valuable bibliographies, one of the history of the University of Virginia, the other of Washington and Lee University. Both have been compiled by the editor.

*Appleton's handbook of American winter resorts for tourists and invalids. New ed., rev. for the season of 1888-89. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. D. pap., 50 c.

*Beeton, Mrs. Isabella. The book of household management, comprising information for the mistress, housekeeper, cook, governess, etc.; also sanitary, medical, and legal memoranda. New ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1888. 1650 p. O. hf. roan, $3.

Besant, Walter. For faith and freedom: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 6+383 p. il. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 634.) pap., 50 c.

The background is the persecution of the Nonconformists in England during the seventeenth century. A love-story, interesting scenes from the life of the times, and adventures of an exciting kind by land and sea are to be found in this bright novel.

Bible. An Arabic Bible-chrestomathy; with a glossary; ed. by G: Jacob. N. Y., B. Westermann & Co., 1888. 4+54 p. D. pap., 90 c.

Davidson, Ja. Wood. The Florida of to-day: a guide for tourists and settlers. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. c. 254 p. il. and map, D. cl., $1.25.

The author has lived many years in Florida, and is thoroughly acquainted with his subject. He has written an entirely new work on Florida, all the information being of the latest date. There are chapters on the History; Geography; Climate; Divisions; Health; Geology; Travel; Population; Education; Productions; Sporting; Pests; and an Appendix containing railway routes, river routes, and list of hotels.

*Fairbank, H. W. Hymn and tune book for schools and colleges. Chic., S. R. Winchell & Co., 1888. 96 p. S. flex. cl., 30 c.

Farjeon, B. L. The peril of Richard Pardon: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1888. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 635.) pap., 30 c. Richard Pardon has the misfortune of being a sleep-walker. It is through this weakness that his life and good name are imperilled. A wicked governess with an equally wicked accomplice, and a combination of unfortunate circumstances, fasten upon him the suspicion of a vile murder. His despair and the final discovery of his innocence are well told.

ly S. Fisher, 1888. c. 7-299 p. por. and il. S. cl., $1.50.

*Francis, Jos. Hume. History of the Bank of England: an account of its origin, foundation, rise, progress, times, traditions, manner of conducting business, its officers and offices, and a full history of the bank and its entire working and management from its foundation in 1694 to date. Chic., Euclid Pub. Co., 1888. 301 p. O. cl., $3; hf. mor., $4; full mor., $5.25.

Fuller, Sarah. An illustrated primer; il. by Edith Parker Jordan. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1888. c. 6+101 p. D. bds., 30 c.

Intended to help little children who are deaf, in their earliest language lessons. This primer has grown out of the actual necessities encountered in teaching the deaf, and the actual means by which they have been met in the Horace Mann School.

Gordon, Lady Duff. The amber witch; from the German. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 153.) pap., 10 c.

Gray, D: Letters, poems, and selected prose writings; ed., with a biographical memoir, by J. N. Larned. Buffalo, N. Y., The Courier Co., printers, [J. N. Larned, Buffalo Pub. Lib.,] 1888. c. 2 v., 7+351; 3+408 p. por. D. cl., $2.

The David Gray of this memoir, from the accomplished pen of Mr. J. N. Larned, the librarian of the Buffalo Public Library, is not the young poet David Gray, born near Glasgow in 1838—two years later than our David Gray, who was also of Scotch birth, having been born in Edinburgh, 1836. He came so early to America (in 1849) that his career is entirely identified with this country. His work as a journalist made him the most widely known. During the many years he was connected with the Buffalo Daily Courier, all that came from his pen was eagerly read and appreciated. The second volume is entirely filled with his letters from Europe during 1865, 1866, 1867, and 1868 to the Courier. They possess the same fresh, unconventional quality which characterizes his poems. After a long struggle with illness brought on by overwork, he died in March, 1888.

Hale, E: E. Sunday-school stories on the golden texts of the International lessons of 1889. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. c. '88. 8+314 p. S. cl., $1.

Of the twenty-six stories contained in this little volume, Mr. Hale wrote eight; the other eighteen were written by his children, his sisters, and Mrs. Bernard Whitman, so widely known as the secretary of the "Ten Times One" societies. The authors all wrote, however, under general directions from Mr. Hale, and he edited their stories. The stories all aim to present the practical and personal side of the religious lesson of the day.

Henn, P., and Ahn, F: Henn-Ahn's German grammar; a practical, easy, and thorough method of learning the German language, in accordance with the modern German orthography. N. Y., E. Steiger & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 8+230+6+276 p. D. (Steiger's German ser.) hf. roan, $1.75; or in 2 pts., no. 1, bds., 65 c.; hf. roan, 80 c.; no. 2, bds., $1; hf. roan, $1.25; or in 4 pts., no. 1, bds., 25 c.; nos. 2 and

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

3, ea., bds., 45 c.; hf. roan, 60 c.; no. 4, bds., 60 c.; hf. roan, 80 c.

A revised edition of the well-known Ahn-Henn "Complete method of the German language," revised in accordance with the rules of the (official) modern German orthography. Based as this grammar is, on the rational and popular Ahn method, it simplifies and facilitates the teacher's task, while it insures to the learner a speedy and thorough mastery of the German language. The rules are clear and brief, the exercises simple, practical, mostly conversational; the typography is large, clear, open; there is an abundance of German script, and full and accurate vocabularies of all the German and English words occurring in the book familiarize the pupil with nearly 3000 words in common, every-day use, sufficient for practical life.

Henshall, Ja. A., M.D. More about the black bass: being a supplement to "The book of the black bass." Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1889. c. 4-104 p. por. and il. D. cl., $1.50.

Comprising additional matter on the subject of each chapter of the original work, arranged in the same order, containing the latest development in the scientific and life history of this best of the American game fishes, the latest wrinkles in angling and fly-fishing, and the most recent improvements in tools, tackle, and implements.

Kraus-Bolte, Maria, and Kraus, J: The kindergarten guide: an illustrated handbook designed for the self-instruction of kindergartners, mothers, and nurses. Nos. 6 and 7. N. Y., E. Steiger & Co., 1888. c. '82. No. 6, 2+77 p. il. O. cl., 80 c.; pap., 50 c. No. 7, 2+79+174 p. il. O. cl., $1.30; pap., $1.

Malleson, Mrs. Frank. Notes on the early training of children. 3d ed. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1887. 127 p. D. cl., 68 c.

Little Enrico, fourteen years of age, studied so hard as to impair his health. The doctor orders him to give up his studies for a year, and to go to the sea-shore and live like the peasants and fishermen. He is sent to his Uncle Bacciccia at San Terenzo, a charming village on the Gulf of Spezia, and here without books he continues his education. The method his uncle pursues with him is a very attractive one, and designed chiefly to cultivate his moral nature. He tells him stories, episodes from history, or illustrates a maxim from nature. The book will prove to young people both entertaining and improving.

"The present monograph is not a discussion of scholastic methods or an attempt to give a premature opinion on many important points now under advisement by the foremost teachers and educational authorities of the country. The author has assumed the more useful task of setting before the southern people the reasons for the growing interest in industrial education through the whole country, and the special needs of this type of educational work, in the development of the great resources and the organization of the labor system of the southern states, with a brief account of the principal institutions that have already undertaken the work."

Richardson, B: Ward. The son of a star: a romance of the second century. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 5+470 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story opens during one of the Emperor Hadrian's visits to Western Britain in the second century, when that country was a province of the Roman Empire. The festivities of the Circus Britannicus serve to introduce many of the characters, and to give many graphic pictures of contemporary customs. Simon, "the son of a star," a Jew, who supposes himself to be of miraculous origin and the Saviour of his people, escapes death in a wonderful manner in one of the brutal spectacles of the circus. His remarkable career, the great rebellion of the Jews, the events of Hadrian's reign, and those of Boadicea, furnish a succession of brilliant scenes from the history of the time, both in Britain and Rome. There is also a strong story full of a human interest running through the book.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

EDGAR SALTUS' new novel "Transactions in Hearts," will be published in the next number of Lippincott's Magazine.

THE Family Mail Bag is the title of a monthly periodical published at 140 Nassau Street, N. Y. It is intended for the amusement and instruction of the whole family, and contains an interesting collection of good reading. The January number is the second that has been issued.

CHARLES WALDSTEIN'S paper on "Ruskin's Work—its influence upon modern life and thought," will appear in Harper's Magazine for February, with a portrait of Ruskin as the frontispiece. In the same number will be printed "A Russian Village—an artist's sketch," by Verest-chagin.

THE Belletristisches Journal, which enters upon its 38th year, has passed into new hands. It will be published as before by the Germania Publishing Co., of which Mr. P. Lichtenstein is President, and will be under the editorial management of Dr. Julius Goebel, late of the Johns Hopkins University. The Journal has won for itself an enviable reputation as a first-class family paper.

MISS MARY F. SEYMOUR'S new paper, the Business Woman's Journal, which is to make its first appearance next week, will be devoted to the interests of all women, especially those who work either with brains or hands. It will advocate higher education and the adoption of some avocation by every woman whose time is not taken up in household duties, and generally will seek to present the woman's side of every question.

THE Green Bag, "a useless but mildly entertaining magazine for lawyers," to be edited by Horace W. Fuller, is announced by Charles C.

Soule, Boston. It is to be a monthly, intended to interest and entertain lawyers. It will cover legal history, antiquities, biography, news, gossip, and facetiae, together with correspondence and book notices. The first number, to be published early this month, will contain an excellent portrait of Chief Justice Fuller in his robes of office. Each subsequent number will contain the portrait of some distinguished judge or lawyer. There will also be illustrated articles—among them a series of papers upon the leading American law schools.

AN arrangement has been made by which the Political Science Quarterly and the New Princeton Review are consolidated. The publishers of the Political Science Quarterly (Ginn & Co.) have purchased the New Princeton Review, and the latter journal will be merged in the former. The political and economic questions to which the New Princeton Review has devoted so much of its attention will form, as heretofore, the special field of the Political Science Quarterly. Certain features of the New Princeton Review which have specially commended themselves to the public will be incorporated in the Political Science Quarterly, and Prof. Sloane, the editor of the former, will be associated in future with the work on the Quarterly.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Cupples & Hurd are to remove to their new store on School Street some time this month. They have added to their business the Algonquin Press.

GATESVILLE, TEX.—Thomason & Garrett, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

STURGEON BAY, WIS.—Charles O. Larson, bookseller, has sold out.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 5, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"A HAPPY New Year!"

The old year has gone out, making a mark not much to be distinguished from those of his predecessors. The trade have not yet balanced their books so as to know fully the exact returns of the year, and the impressions as to the extent of business in 1888 vary more or less with the several houses. The general verdict seems to be that the year was better than in most Presidential years in recent times, when the election is thought to greatly disturb business, but not as much better than the intermediate years as had been hoped.

It is certainly true that the business of the bookselling trade in 1888 and in the years preceding has not increased in proportion with the growth of the population and intelligence of the country. Nor are we able to report any such betterment of trade methods as promises to reduce the evils notorious in the trade. Nevertheless, the year 1888 has seen an important change which may have a bearing on the future; not only have the cheap quartos altogether disappeared, but the entire business of unauthorized cheap reprinting seems to have reached very nearly its natural end. The supply of standard English literature is pretty well exhausted, and the reprinters have to depend mostly upon such new material as may be given them by the English or foreign writers from month to month. Much of this is not successful, and with the risk on it, and the lessening of the margin on successful books because they are reprinted by so many rivals and because the possible sale for each edition is correspondingly reduced, the natural result is an increase in the price of the cheap reprints to an extent which makes the transition very easy to authorized issues at a reasonable price under international copyright and direct relations with authors. The saving in the cost of composition, advertising, etc., should enable publishers to issue their authorized reprints of paper-covered books so low that the public will be better served than now at about the same actual price. Several of the reprint publishers have resorted to the device of issuing in two parts, say at 20 to 25 cents each, books which a publisher under copyright relations ought to be able to issue in one volume at 35 to 50 cents in much better shape.

In the possibility of the passage of the International Copyright Law lies the chief hope of the trade for 1889. This would do much all along the line to promote the interests of publishers and booksellers and to enable them to serve the public better than now. That it will cure all the evils of the trade is not to be expected, but it will certainly do much.

There is some indication, also, that publishers are again tired of the eternal conflict which goes on between nominal and actual prices. One of the Philadelphia houses during the past year has tried the experiment of issuing its books without retail prices; whether the results will prove to be satisfactory remains yet to be seen. There are other indications from Philadelphia, where the competitive element has been more strikingly embodied, that the regular trade have begun to see the disadvantage of selling large lots of books only to enable one shop to retail books at an enormous seeming advantage over their own retail establishments; and the logical outcome of this recognition of facts is likely to be of some practicable betterment.

This is a large and growing country, in which year by year more and more of the people are becoming educated. The market of the South is almost yet undeveloped, as far as books are concerned, although it is fairly to be expected that the South will ultimately return to more than its old importance as a bookbuying community. This great American book-reading public is better served by libraries than it ever has been before, but not as well served by book-stores, which are quite as important a factor in general education. It is not the libraries which are at fault, but book-trade methods. Every year that brings the present system nearer to a reductio ad absurdum brings us nearer to a true revival of book-dealing as a profession.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT ASSOCIATION OF BOSTON.

THE annual meeting of the International Copyright Association of Boston was held Monday, Dec. 31, at Young's Hotel. Among those present were President Eliot, of Harvard University, Colonel Thomas W. Higginson, E. H. Clement, William T. Adams, John Wilson, James Parton, Joseph Cook, H. Alexander, Daniel Lothrop, the Rev. Dr. W. E. Griffis, Warren F. Kellogg, the Rev. Dr. N. G. Clarke, Alexander Young, Dana Estes, Samuel Elder, H. O. Houghton, Mr. Warren, and others.

President Eliot called the meeting to order. Secretary Estes stated that the Association was practically the same as at the start as to membership; and that, as the constitution provides for no annual assessment, its financial condition remains about the same. He added that there has been quite a strong opposition to the international copyright movement, manifested by the circulation of a petition by an unknown organization among the printers of the country. The Typographical Union of New York has denounced the petition, and it is hoped that the efforts against the international copyright movement will come to naught.

Mr. Houghton stated that the American Press Association is circulating a petition among the newspaper offices to the effect that such a law will injure their business, "inasmuch as they will not be able to obtain the best reading-matter without paying for it." There are sources of danger, said Mr. Houghton, that must be met. The public, he thought, is in sympathy with the movement; but unless the bill is passed this year, the Association will have to begin anew and educate the public up to the advantages to be derived from the law. There is a chance of getting the bill before the House and a probability that it will pass, and the Association ought to at once seriously consider the question of facing the opposition that already exists. An effort is being made to get the Printers' Union of Boston to support the movement.

In reply to a statement by President Eliot that the matter of raising funds was of vital consequence, Mr. Estes suggested authors' readings such as had been arranged in New York and elsewhere by the American [Authors'] Copyright League.

A motion was made and carried that the chair appoint a committee of fifteen, to be reported at the next meeting, who shall assist the Executive Committee in making the necessary arrangements for an authors' reading or other entertainment for the benefit of the Association.

The election of officers was postponed until the next meeting.

BURROWS BROS. CO.'S BANQUET.

FOR the third time the Burrows Bros. Company entertained their employes with a royal Christmas dinner. At six o'clock on December 27, 1888, the firm and its assistants, about sixty all told, assembled in one of the parlors of the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, and when dinner was announced a few minutes later they formed in line and marched by twos to the dining-room on the second floor of the new building, especially reserved for the occasion. The table was set in the form of a double T, and the arrangement may be described by saying that the tops of the T's were spread in dining-rooms on either side of the main hallway, the stems of the T's extending through the broad doorways and joining in the centre of the hall. The arrangements were in excellent taste throughout and admirably served the purpose. Under the guidance of Mr. C. W. Burrows, who acted as master of ceremonies, the company were promptly seated and called to order. Mr. B. E. Helman, in fitting words, returned thanks to "the Giver of every perfect gift," and then the discussion of the very excellent menu began. The dinner was served in excellent style and the hours passed swiftly. Nearly every one had a good story to tell, and all entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. After the table had been cleared, cigars were passed around and an impromptu programme of music, short speeches, and jolly stories began. Each one of the travelling men, of whom there are half a dozen or more, had come home loaded with jokes, and they were quick to take advantage of such an opportunity to unburden themselves. The company separated at a late hour, voting their third annual dinner a grand success.

The menu card was a pamphlet of unique design, the eight white octavo leaves of choice paper being tied at the left with doubled strands of flossy cord of delicate hue deftly knotted in a single bow. The front of the cover was embellished with a misty marine view hand-painted in water-colors, and displayed this inscription in a narrow border of regularly irregular lines of bright coppery bronze:

"Christmas feast of The Burrows Brothers Company to its employes, Thursday, Dec. 27, 1886, 6 P.M. The Hollenden, Cleveland, Ohio.

"I hold an accustomed feast
Whereto I have invited many a guest.
—Shakespeare.

"At Christmas play and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.
—Tusser ('Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry')."

The succeeding pages, bordered like the cover front and printed on one side only, contained quotations in violet tint, interspersed with the names of dishes in blue capitals. The quotations were all quite apropos and so happy as a rule that we can't resist the temptation of quoting a few:

"Grace before meat."—Burns.

"Some hae meat that canna eat,
And some wou'd eat that want it;
But we hae meat and we can eat,
Sae let the Lord be thankit."

"Oh! hour of all hours most blest upon earth, Blessed hour of our dinners."
—Owen Meredith.

With the fish was this:

"A fish should swim three times; in water, in sauce, and in wine."
—A German Proverb.

After the roll the programme had this happy thought:

"For a good dinner and a gentle wife you can afford to wait."
—Danish Proverb.

"God makes the wheat grow greener While farmer be at his dinner."

Before the dessert:

"We may live without poetry, music, and art;
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without friends, we may live without books,
But civilized man cannot live without cooks."
—Lucile.

With cheese and crackers:

"Cheese and bread make the cheeks red."
—German Proverb.

Coffee had this sentiment:

"A friendly juice to cool thirst's rage contain."
—Thomson.

"Coffee has two virtues—it is wet and warm."
—Dutch Proverb.

With cigars there was a cut of a lighted candle, a package of letters, and a paper-knife, and these conceits:

"Thy clouds all other clouds dispel And lap me in delight."

—Charles Sprague ("To My Cigar").

"Odds me, I marle what pleasure or felicity they have in taking their roughish tobacco. It is good for nothing but to choke a man and fill him full of smoke and embers."

—Ben Jonson.

The last of all was a cut of a cat sitting on its haunches, with a surprised stare and its right paw clasping a distended paunch, with the lines:

"Fate cannot harm me,
I have dined to-day."

—Owen Meredith.

We are pleased to make room for a description of this happy event. It speaks of good feeling and satisfaction all around. May such multiply.

LITERATURE A TRADE.

From the N. Y. Graphic.

"LITERATURE has become a trade," said one of the best informed New York literary men in my hearing a few days ago. "Our authors are no longer selecting the best magazines or the most desirable audiences for their wares. The publishers who pay the largest sums can get them. Look at Frank Stockton, who has left the Century to give his new novel to Once a Week. Why? Because the Century would pay only $2000 for the work, while the other publisher offered and paid Stockton, in cash, $5000. Robert Louis Stevenson is writing for the newspaper syndicate, because he can get five times as much money from them. Ten thousand dollars for a new novel has drawn Stevenson over to the Bourners, and Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett has followed him. Julian Hawthorne has accepted an offer of $3000 to write a novel to be used for bare advertising purposes by an enterprising business syndicate."

A GERMAN'S VIEW OF AMERICA IN LITERATURE.

ON the occasion of the celebration of the birthday of Prince Regent Luitpoldt of Bavaria, by the Academy of Sciences, held at Munich, December 28, Dr. von Döllinger delivered an interesting oration on the part of North America in literature. He thought that the main hindrances to literary and scientific progress in America were due to the want of a great central university and the slipshod character of the American press. In addition to these, he said, the negro and immigration questions are a possible source of some great dangers. Nevertheless, the intellectual primacy would be certain some day to fall to the Anglo-Saxon race, as it anciently fell to the Greeks and Romans. The Germans would also have a share, but incidentally through the medium of the English language.

MARCUS WARD & CO. vs. W. H. WARD & CO.

THE suit of Marcus Ward & Co. (Limited) vs. W. H. Ward & Co., which was brought before the courts last summer, came up last week for a hearing before Judge Barrett in the N. Y. Supreme Court. The Judge, after hearing the testimony of the plaintiff in the case, directed a nonsuit to be recorded, and that judgment be entered for the defendants. The result of this decision is that W. H. Ward & Co. may sell goods bearing the words "Marcus Ward's Son," as well as "late of the firm of Marcus Ward & Co." The original firm, however, demur to the decision, considering that this is only the view of one judge against the opinion of another, and therefore propose to carry the case to the higher court.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE annual dinner of the Stationers' Board of Trade will be held at the Brunswick Hotel, New York City, on Tuesday evening, January 22.

THOMAS WHITAKER will publish at once "Sermon Stuff," suggestive outlines of sermons by Dr. McConnell, of Philadelphia; and "The House and Its Builders, a book for the doubtful," by Dr. Samuel Cox, the well-known late editor of the Expositor.

PAGAN & ROSS, 352 Pearl St., N. Y., announce a work entitled "Scottish Poets in America, with biographical and critical notes," by John D. Ross, author of "Celebrated Songs of Scotland." Mr. Ross' volume deals with the life and works of twenty-five Scottish poets of acknowledged fame in the United States and Canada. Some of the sketches have already appeared in the Home Journal.

E. HOLLENSHADE, 136 Lake St., Chicago, has published what he calls a "Gored Map" of the Northern and Southern hemispheres, which is a novelty well worthy the attention of educators and students. It is designed to obviate the necessity of a globe in the study of geography, and conveys an adequate conception of the exact relations borne by one portion of the earth's surface to every other.

"MR. B. F. STEVENS, 4 Trafalgar Sq., London, has been for some years at work on indexes to the manuscripts relating to American affairs between 1763 and 1783 preserved in European archives. The United States Government urged the purchase of these indexes, and also the obtaining of transcripts of the documents themselves. Congress has, however, made no grant for the purpose, and Mr. Stevens therefore boldly proposes to publish photographic fac-similes of the documents, provided he can obtain a hundred subscribers to begin with. Each document will be accompanied by a statement of its provenance and of any variations to be found in other copies. If such exist; and a translation will be added when the original is not in English. Mr. Stevens calculates that when he has once fairly started he will be able to publish monthly two volumes of some 500 pages each, and he asks $100 for every five volumes. A copious index will be published to every twenty-four volumes, and the price of it will be $20. Mr. Stevens thinks that this valuable series of fac-similes will ultimately fill 100 volumes."

PERSONAL NOTES.

THE gentleman advertising under the name of "Experience" is one whose name would be recognized by the trade at large as having a very extensive training in the several departments of the book business, including the manufacturing of books and the literary side of publishing. We are very glad to say this for a veteran of the trade who has obtained the experience of years without becoming in any way an old foggy or beyond possibilities of good work.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

 It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

Annual Catalogues. 1888.

The Annual American Catalogue for 1888 will be ready as early in 1889 as the mechanical difficulties permit. It will contain:

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1888.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author-alphabet, of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY 1888.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1888.

The edition is limited, and to secure copies orders should be sent at once. The price is $3.00 sheets, $3.50 half leather; if ordered before publication, the price will be $2.50 in sheets, $3.00 half leather.

The Annual Catalogue for 1886 is now out of print. But few copies of the Annual Catalogue for 1887 are on hand.

The English Catalogue for 1888 is also expected early, price $1.50, paper; the Annual American and English Catalogues, 1888, can be had in one volume, half leather, $5 00.

Early orders for both Catalogues are solicited.

THE INAUCURATION BALL.

TO DANCE OR NOT TO DANCE.

The Dance of Modern Society.

By WILLIAM CLEAVER WILKINSON. Revised Edition. A work that will prove invaluable to all who cannot settle this disputed question of Dancing. They will hail a clear, vigorous, thorough, and courageous treatment of the question. Cloth, 60 cents.

Independent, N. Y.: "We do not hesitate to say that this little essay entitles him (Mr. Wilkinson) to a front rank among American essayists. He is quite as sparkling and more sententious than Parton. He is immeasurably stronger and more vigorous than Timothy Titcomb. His earnestness is not surpassed by that of Mrs. Stowe. We know no writer who equals him in the courage with which he handles the most delicate and difficult subjects.

Harper's Magazine: "The most pungent attack on the modern dance we have ever read."

English Hymns,

THEIR AUTHORS AND HISTORY,

By Rev. SAMUEL W. DUFFIELD, cites in alphabetical order the first lines of over 1500 Hymns. Under each is given a brief biographical sketch of the author, circumstances attending its composition, and incidents in connection with its use. Exhaustive indexes to authors, to first lines, and to topics, are appended. To Leaders of Praise Meetings, Sunday-school Teachers, Parents, Pastors, and the general hymn-loving public, it will be found invaluable. The selection of hymns has been made with great care, and only well-authenticated incidents are given. American as well as English hymnology has been drawn upon. 8vo, cloth, 675 pages, $2.50.

WHO WROTE THE HYMNS WE LOVE SO WELL?

Who wrote "The Doxology," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Come, Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove," in fact, many of the Hymns which in the Church, the Prayer-Meeting, the Sunday-school, and at the fireside we love to sing, or hear sung? And how came their authors to write with such intense fervor, and to express universal soul experiences?

STEDMAN (the Poet) says: "This is a noble volume, a monument to the author's taste, learning, and faithful industry. It is indispensable to every one interested in English Hymnology." S. AUSTIN ALLIBONE says: "It is a massive compendium—the intelligent result of years of well-applied labor. Dr. THOS. L. CUVLER says: "For twenty years I have made a special study of Hymnology. This is by far the most complete, accurate, and thorough work of the kind on either side of the Atlantic." Hon EDWARDS PIERREPOINT says: "It bears evidence of immense research and years of labor. The full and admirable sketch of 'Lead, Kindly Light,' is worth the cost of the book." Dr. CHAS. S. ROBINSON says: "It pleases me altogether. It is full of information."

"It meets a want which the Concordance cannot supply."—The Christian Intelligencer, New York.

Biblical Lights and Side Lights

By REV. CHARLES E. LITTLE, author of "Historical Lights," etc., etc. A CYCLOPÆDIA OF TEN THOUSAND ILLUSTRATIONS AND THIRTY THOUSAND CROSS-REFERENCES. Consisting of fact, incident, and remarkable declarations taken from the Bible; for the use of public speakers and teachers, and also for those in every profession who for illustrative purposes desire ready access to the numerous incidents and striking statements contained in the Bible. 8vo, cloth, 632 pages, $4.00; library sheep, $5.00.

Sunday-School Times: "A true book of illustration; it fills a place of its own."

Observer, New York: "Will unquestionably prove a mine of information and of illustration for ministers, Sunday-school teachers, and Bible students."

Lutheran Church Review, Philadelphia: "A work of great solidity and merit. It deserves a place alongside of Young's Concordance."

PUBLISHED TO-DAY.

The History of the Roman Republic.

Abridged from the History by PROFESSOR MOMMSEN. By C. BRYANS, Assistant-Master in Dulwich College, and F. J. R. HENDY, Assistant-Master in Fettes College. 12mo, $1.75.

PROFESSOR THEODOR MOMMSEN's History of the Roman Republic is recognized both by scholars and by the public generally as a work of incomparable value and of fascinating interest—profound and yet eminently readable. This abridgment of MOMMSEN's popular work presents the salient points of the original in a form suitable for use in schools and colleges and for the convenience of the general reader who is pressed for time. The ideas throughout are those of MOMMSEN, and the book will appeal to a large class.

A NEW VOLUME IN THE EPOCHS OF MODERN HISTORY SERIES.

The English Restoration and Louis XIV.

From the Peace of Westphalia to the Peace of Nimwegen. By OSMUND AIRY. With 3 maps. 16mo, $1.00.

In a clear, concise, and graphic style, the author has given a remarkably interesting account of this important period of modern history. The struggle between Charles II. and the Parliament, the Wars of the English and French with the Dutch; the Parliamentary and the New Fronde, the great figures of the time, the French King, Mazarin, Cardinal de Retz, and the Prince of Condé, all are vividly described. The analysis of the character and reign of Louis XIV. is particularly brilliant.

EPOCHS OF MODERN HISTORY.

NOTES IN SEASON.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have just ready a new volume by Dr. Howard Crosby entitled "The Bible View of the Jewish Church," comprising the thirteen lectures delivered between January and April, 1888, in the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, to the author's congregation.

THE WORTHINGTON CO. will publish on the 25th inst., in addition to the books announced in our last issue, "Gertrude's Marriage," by W. Heimburg, translated by Mrs. J. W. Davis, and fully illustrated; also a collection of the poetical and dramatic works of Algernon C. Swinburne.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. call attention to their Easter monotypic books and booklets, manufac-ured by Nister, Drane, and Hawkins, ranging from fifteen cents to one dollar apiece. Although Easter Day this year falls three weeks later than last, April 21, it is not too early for the trade to make preparations for the steadily increasing business which this greatest church festival brings with it.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish February 1, in their neat Town and Country Library, a novel by Helen Kendrick Johnson, entitled "Raleigh Westgate, or, Epimenides in Maine." The time of the story is just before and during the rebellion, but the reader is carried back to some curious episodes in the early history of Maine, the traditions of which supply part of the material for the plot. Mrs. Johnson, the author, is wife of Rossiter Johnson, the well-known littérateur.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "The History of the Roman Republic," abridged from the history of Prof. Mommson, by C. Bryans and F. J. R. Henty, which presents the salient points of the original in a form suitable for use in schools and colleges and for the convenience of the general reader; "The English Restoration and Louis XIV., from the peace of Westphalia to the peace of Nimwegen," by Osmund Airy, in the Epochs of Modern History series; and "The Validity of Non-Episcopal Ordination," the Dudleian lecture, by Prof. G. P. Fisher.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have just issued a new edition of Barry E. O'Meara's "Napoleon at St. Helena," in two volumes, with numerous illustrations in colors and black and white. A refutation of Croker's diatribe which appeared in 1822 and a Napoleon Calendar have been added by the editors. They have also just ready a new edition of D'Anvers' "History of Art." A new edition, in the Ideal Series, of "Sartor Resartus," with an etched portrait of Carlyle; an édition de luxe of "Kensington: picturesque and historical," by W. J. Loftie, with upwards of 300 picturesque and delicate illustrations by W. Luker, Jr.; and the first volume of Prof. Franz Delitzsch's Commentary on the Book of Genesis, of which this house (by special arrangement with the author) is publishing a translation of the fifth edition, thoroughly revised, and in large part rewritten.

TICKNOR & Co. will publish this month a volume by Rose Terry Cooke, entitled "Steadfast," which treats of orthodoxy in the past and will no doubt prove an interesting addition to contemporary controversial literature; "Great Captains," by Col. Theodore Ayrault Dodge, U. S. A., six interesting lectures upon Alexander, Hannibal, Cæsar, Gustavus Adolphus, Frederick, and Napoleon, delivered before the Lowell Institute, Boston, illustrated with 21 maps and battle-plans; "Ancient and Modern Lighthouses," by Major D. P. Heap, of the Engineer Corps, U. S. A., an interesting scientific and historical treatise, exclusively considering this important theme, with thirty-three full and double-page plates, and seventy text illustrations; a new edition in two volumes of "Discourses on Architecture," by E. E. Viollet-Le-Duc, richly and copiously illustrated with hundreds of steel-engravings and wood-cuts; and a new edition of "A Handbook of Christian Symbols, and stories of the saints, as illustrated in art," by Clara Erskine Clement and Katherine E. Conway.

Balzani, Ugo. The Popes and the Hohenstaufen. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1889.] 6+261 p. D. (Epochs of church history.) cl., 80 c.

"The history of the relations between the Popes and the Hohenstaufen is one which cannot be easily kept within strict limits, but is apt to extend to that of the whole of Europe and of much of the East. It has been a difficult task to confine it within the small space of these pages, nor could this have been done without rigorously excluding everything which did not bear directly on the relations of the Papacy with the House of Suabia and on those historical events which exerted such influence over those regions, especially in Italy, where the great drama was chiefly acted."—Preface.

Barrie, J. M. When a man's single: a tale of literary life. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 234 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 636.) pap., 35 c.

The career of a young Scotchman "Rob Angus," is the subject of this novel. He is unusually gifted and clever, though born among the working people of a little Scotch village. His literary career is interfered with for awhile from his having to assume the care of his sister's little child, but the little thing meets with a sad death, while attempting to carry him the letter which offers him a position on an English newspaper. The child's death sets him free, and he goes to Silechester and becomes a reporter on the Daily Mirror. His experience as a reporter and reviewer is quite amusing, and his love affair is full of interest.

Beaumont, Grace. Aunt Judith; the story of a loving life. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1889. 7-220 p. 2 il. D. cl., $1.

Nellie Latimer comes to London to be educated, and lives with three maiden aunts, one of whom is "Aunt Judith." Nellie's school troubles and those of her friend, Winnie Blake, are the chief events. Aunt Judith is a beautiful character, loving and helpful to all about her. A good story for young girls.

Bowen, Cuthbert, M.D., comp. Handbook of materia medica, pharmacy, and therapeutics; comp. for the use of students preparing for examination. Phil., F. A. Davis, 1888. c. 6+366 p. D. cl., net, $1.40.

Aims at furnishing candidates for examination in our medical schools with a résumé of those points in materia medica, pharmacy, and therapeutics with which they must be familiar in order to meet the requirements of the faculty of any reputable institution. All the drugs recognized by the United States Pharmacopœia and their official preparations have been treated of in detail, special stress being laid on those points which in the past have proved stumbling-blocks to the candidate in the examination-room. In the form of question and answer.

Clements, M. E. Eagle and dove: a tale of the Franco-Prussian war, founded on fact. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1889. 3-172 p. 2 il. D. cl., 80 c.

A pretty German girl sent to a French school at Metz is the heroine. Though but a mere girl, she has excited the love of a German officer, and it is in the hope that she will forget him—as her father thinks her too young to wed—that she is sent away. The war breaks out between France and Prussia while she is at school, and a good picture is given of how it looked to those shut up in Metz. The German girl has two carrier pigeons with her, which act their part in the little love drama, carrying messages back and forward.

Olemmer, Mary. His two wives. 10th ed. Bost., Ticknor & Co., [1889.] c. 74. 6+585 p. S. (Ticknor's pap. ser., no. 50.) pap., 50 c.

Crane, Rev. Oliver. Minto, and other poems. N. Y., Wilbur B. Ketcham, 1888. c. 239 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The opening poem, "Minto," was written in the spring of 1845, and delivered before the Society of Brothers in Unity at Yale College. It has since, on a few occasions, been, by special request, read, but has never been published till now. The majority of the other poems appeared in different papers and magazines, and are now for the first time collected. They are well worth reading and preserving, some of them possessing unusual merit.

Gray, Louisa M. Little Miss Wardlaw. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1889. 7-445 p. 2 il. D. cl., $1.25.

"Em," who is afterwards "little Miss Wardlaw," "Al," and "Teddy" are first introduced in a Swiss pension, where their poor mother has come for her health and is slowly dying. After her death, her brother-in-law, James Wardlaw, comes for the children, and takes them to Scotland. "Em" is only ten and the other two younger when they go to Scotland. They are all three clever, unruly children, speaking several foreign languages fluently. Their experience with their Scotch aunts and uncles is very amusing, and their homesickness at first full of pathos. Their stories are continued till they are grown up, when "Em" finds a lover, and "Al" and "Teddy" get into serious troubles.

Green, Evelyn Everett. Dulcie and Tottie; the story of an old-fashioned pair. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1889. 7-246 p. 2 il. D. cl., $1.

Opens with the coming of "Dulcie" and "Tottie," a little girl and boy of 12 and 8, who have lost father and mother, to stay in an uncle's house and be educated with their cousins. The orphaned cousins are a quaint pair, full of an old-fashioned wisdom, and become in a short time an influence in their new nursery and school-room. The scenes are all from home life in an English house, some sad ones mingling with the gay.

Harcourt, Helen. Home life in Florida. Louisville, Ky., J. P. Morton & Co., 1889. c. '88. 433 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25.

Contents: What Florida offers; A backward glance; Climate; Health; Temperature; Pine lands and hammocks; Where shall I settle? What will it cost? Making the home; Home surroundings; What shall I need? What shall I eat? Home supplies; The dairy question; Pasturage; Florida poultry; The poultry-yard; Poultry patients; Firing the woods; All about fences; Household help; Trials and tribulations; Making the best of it; Helpful hints.

Hinman, Russell. Eclectic physical geography. Cin., Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., [1889.] o. '88. 382 p. il. D. cl., net, $1.

Presents, in the form of an introductory chapter, a condensed statement of the more important and fundamental scientific conceptions regarding the properties and phenomena of matter and energy, such as inertia, gravitation, cohesion, affinity and heat, light, magnetism and electricity. This is to give the student some idea of the principles of science before attacking the subject of physical geography, which is treated in chapters under the headings, The earth, The atmosphere, The sea, Land, weather, and climate, Life. The work is handsomely printed, with numerous maps, charts, and illustrations.

Howarth, H. H. History of the Mongols from the 19th to the 20th century. Pt. 3, The Mongols of Persia. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 10+776 p. O. cl., $9.50.

Jago, W. An introduction to practical inorganic chemistry. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 72 p. D. cl., 45 c.

Janau, Elphege. French commercial correspondence, with exercises. French-English and English-French glossaries; hints on letter-writing, and copious notes; for the use of schools and classes and for self-tuition. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 16+220 p. S. cl., 80 c.

Kinne, L. G. Iowa pleading, practice, and forms in actions and special proceedings at law and in equity. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1888. c. 40+1171 p. O. shp., $6.50.

Kostyák, H., and Ader, A. Deutschland u. die deutschen. N. Y., C. E. Merrill & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 195 p. D. cl., $1.

Printed in German; designed as a reading-book for advanced German students. Presents a popular description of German institutions and the German people.

Leslie, Emma. Saved by love; a story of London streets. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1889. 7-127 p. 1 il. D. cl., 50 c.

The story of two little girls who live together in a bare room in a miserable quarter of London. "Susie" has just lost her mother, and "Elfie" has never known any home but the streets. Their loneliness and poverty bring them together, and Susie's love for the little outcast "Elfie" reforms her and cures her of a propensity for stealing.

novel. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. c. 3-227 p. D. (Globe lib., no. 82.) pap., 25 c.

*Longmans' junior school arithmetic, mental and practical. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 181 p. D. cl., without answers, 30 c.; with answers, 50 c.

Lyall, Edna, [pseud. for Ada Ellen Bayly.] Donovan: a modern Englishman. N. Y., G: Munro, [1889.] 2 pts., 237; 2+238-465 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1149.) pap., ea., 20 c.

McLean, Sally Pratt. Lastchance Junction, far far West: a novel. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, 1889. c. 10-258 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author of "Cape Cod folks" has written a story which recalls many of Bret Harte's earlier efforts. "Lastchance Junction" is the refuge of a number of men and women, who are fugitives from justice, but in spite of being forgers and murderers, they are represented as possessing attractive and endearing qualities. The hero, "Gordon Ferris," has fled to Lastchance Junction on account of some desperate act committed in the eastern states. He is a handsome fellow, of good family, and a brave, reckless rider. As the star of a sort of "Wild West" show, he wins the heart of Lucie Dorne, a beautiful, educated woman, who "runs away" with him, and becomes his wife. Her life is a miserable one, shadowed by the crimes and brutality of her husband.

Miller, Mrs. Alex. McVeigh. Rosamond; or, Sundered hearts. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1889.] c. 219 p. D. (The select ser., no. 18.) pap., 25 c.

*Müller, F. Max. Natural religion: inaugural lecture delivered before the University of Glasgow, Nov. 14, 1888. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 32 p. O. pap., 50 c.

Porres, Martin de. The life of Blessed Martin de Porres (a negro saint), of the third order of St. Dominic in the province of St. John Baptist of Peru; from the Italian by Lady Herbert. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1889. 14+110 p. D. cl., 60 c.

Martin de Porres was born at Burgos, in Spain, in the seventeenth century; he was the son of a Spanish nobleman and a free negro woman. Martin's resemblance to his mother was a bar to any social rank or dignity, his father looking upon him with shame and aversion. He sought the Catholic Church for consolation, and became, in years, a shining example of humility and practical goodness.

Shakespeare, W. Cymbeline. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 154.) pap., 10 c.

*South Carolina. The code of civil procedure as revised in 1882, with amendments up to date; annot. by O. W. Buchanan. Raleigh, Edwards & Broughton, 1888. c. 338 p. O. shp., $7.

Stewart, J. S., M.D. Obstetric synopsis. Phil., F. A. Davis, 1888. c. 10+202 p. il. D. (Physicians' and students' ready reference ser.) cl., net, $1.

By students this work will be found particularly useful. It is based upon the teaching of such well-known authors as Playfair, Parvin, Lusk, Galabin, and Cazeaux and Tarnier, and, besides containing much new and important matter of great value to both student and practitioner, embraces in an appendix the obstetrical nomenclature suggested by Prof. Simpson, of Edinburgh, and adopted by the Obstetric Section of the Ninth International Medical Congress held in Washington, D. C., Sept., 1887.

Strayer, O. O'B. Raleigh Rivers; a tale of the new south. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. c. '88. 3-255 p. D. (Globe lib., no. 87.) pap., 25 c.

Taylor, H. W., M.D. The romantic story of Wickly's Woods. Chic., T. S. Denison, [1889.] c. 5-142 p. D. (Denison's ser., v. 1, no. 9.) pap., 25 c.

Taylor, Jeremy, D.D. Holy living, v. 1. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 2, no. 155.) pap., 10 c.

Taylor, J. The thumb Bible. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1889.] no paging, 2 in. × 2 in., bds., 50 c.

An edition of John Taylor's "Verbum Sempternum," an epitome of the Bible in rhyme, termed from its size "The Thumb Bible." John Taylor was born 1580, and died 1654. He was commonly known as the Water-Poet. He first published "Verbum Sempternum" (epitome of the Old Testament) dedicated to Charles I., and then "Salvator Mundi" (epitome of New Testament). In 1693 these two appeared in one volume dedicated to the Duke of Gloucester. This volume was reprinted in 1849 by Longman & Co., London, and during the present year by Houghton & Stoughton.

*Taylor, J. E. Theoretical mechanics. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 8+264 p. D. (Longmans' elementary science manuals.) cl., 80 c.

Thompson, Maurice. The story of Louisiana; il. by L. J. Bridgman. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1889.] 337 p. il. O. (The story of the states.) cl., $1.50.

Of all the states Louisiana is most dowered with the gifts of romance and associations. Its varying fortunes as a colony now of France, now of Spain, its attraction to adventurers from the north, its picturesqueness of scenery and population, its wealth of romance make its history both attractive and exciting. Mr. Thompson's gift as a novelist and essayist, and the fact that he has long been a lover of the South and a student of her people, scenery, and surroundings make him an exceptional historian. The story is told, too, without any partisan or sectional feelings, so that all Americans may enjoy it. The aim has been throughout not to give a dull statistical compilation or historical narrative, but rather to seize the striking and picturesque side of the story that the general reader would most delight in.

Truth Seeker annual and free-thinkers' almanac. 1889. N. Y., The Truth Seeker Co., [1889.] c. 3-124 p. il. O. pap., 25 c.

Contains a symposium on "Liberalism," the contributors to which are R. G. Ingersoll, James Parton, Helen H. Gardener, Col. J. R. Kelso, E. B. Foote, M.D., and others.

V., M. von. Physicians' interpreter in four languages; specially arranged for diagnosis. Phil., F. A. Davis, 1888. c. 206 p. 2 1/4 × 5 in., flex. rus. leath., net, $1.

The object of this little work is to meet a need often keenly felt by the busy physician—namely, the need of some quick and reliable method of communicating intelligibly with patients of those nationalities and languages unfamiliar to the practitioner. The plan of the book is a systematic arrangement of questions upon the various branches of practical medicine, as the eye, ear, nose, throat, fevers, surgical operations, stomach complaints, general health, special diet, patient's history, etc., and each question is so worded that the only answer required of the patient is merely yes or no. The questions are all numbered, and a complete index renders them always available for quick reference.

Verestchagin, Vassili. Vassili Verestchagin, painter, soldier, traveller: autobiographical sketches; from the German and the French by F. H. Peters; il. after drawings by the author. N. Y., American Art Assoc., 1888. c. 4+106 p. por. and il. D. cl., $1.

Characteristic sketches taken from the great Russian artist's own experience as a soldier, painter, and traveller. They are a fitting accompaniment to the study of his pictures, as they describe with a very graphic pen, many of the scenes from which the pictures were studied. The first sketch relates to "Samarcand," the five others to the Russo-Turkish war, and are entitled "On the Danube," "The passage of the Balkans," "The march on Adrianople—Strukoff," "M. D. Skobelev," and "S. Turgenieff." Verestchagin's portraits and many excellent wood-cuts of his pictures now on exhibition illustrate the book.

*Ward, Mrs. Humphry. Robert Elsmere. N. Y., J. Alden, 1889. D. cl., 25 c.; pap., 15 c.

Washburn, L. K. Was Jesus insane? N. Y., The Truth Seeker Co., [1889.] 20 p. D. pap., 10 c.

Welles, Rev. E. Randolph. Sermons and addresses by the late Rt. Rev. E. R. Welles, third bishop of Milwaukee; with portraits and memoirs; ed. by his son the Rev. E. Sprague Welles. Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., 1889. 74+237 p. por. D. cl., net, $1.35.

The sermons comprise selections from those preached by Bishop Welles, both parochial and occasional. The memoirs are of great value, the latter presenting a history of the church in Wisconsin since the Episcopal election of 1874, including extracts of letters from those in the front of the conflict, with quotations from pamphlets, etc.; comprising a succinct account of the struggles which have made Wisconsin famous throughout the church.

Wharton, Morton Bryan. Famous women of the Old Testament: a series of popular lectures delivered in the first Baptist Church, Montgomery, Ala. N. Y., E. B. Treat, 1889. 8-318 p. il. and por. D. cl., $1.75.

Eve, Sarah, Rebekah, Rachel, Miriam, Ruth Deborah, Jephtha's daughter, Delilah, The witch of Endor, Hannah, Abigail, The Queen of Sheba, Jezebel, The woman of Shunem, and Esther are the subjects of the discourses.

Witherstone, C. Sumner, M.D. International pocket medical formulary. Phil., F. A. Davis, 1888. c. 269 p. il. S. flex. leath., with side flap, net, $2.

With an appendix containing a posological table, the newer remedies included; important incompatibles; tables on dentition and the pulse; table of drops in a fluidrachm and doses of laudanum graduated for age; formulae and doses of hypodermic medication, including the newer remedies; uses of the hypodermic syringe; formulae and doses for inhalations, nasal douches, gargles, and eye-washes; formulae for suppositories; use of the thermometer in disease; poisons, antidotes and treatment; directions for post-mortem and medico-legal examination; treatment of asphyxia, sunstroke, etc.; anti-emetic remedies and disinfectants; obstetrical table; directions for ligation of arteries; urinary analysis; table of eruptive fevers; motor points for electrical treatment, etc.

Young, C. A. A text-book of general astronomy for colleges and scientific schools. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1888. c. 6+551 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

The object of the author has been two-fold. First and chiefly, to make a book adapted for use in the college class-room; and, secondly, to make one valuable as a permanent storehouse and directory of information for the student's use after he has finished his prescribed course. As a text-book the work is meant to supply that information upon the subject which may fairly be expected of every liberally educated person, assuming in mathematics only the most elementary knowledge of algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Its aim is to give a clear, accurate, and justly proportioned presentation of astronomical facts, principles, and methods in such form that they can be easily apprehended by the average college student with a reasonable amount of effort. The double object has involved some difficulty, and occasionally some compromise; but it is believed that the author's judgment and his careful use of such mechanical aids as different styles of type, have enabled him to secure both of these most desirable objects.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

KATE SANBORN is said to be engaged on a volume to be called "The Eminent Women of New York."

"MR. ROBERT DUNLOP, who will be known," says the Academy, "as a thorough and impartial student of Irish history, has undertaken to write a Life of Grattan for the Statesmen series, published by Messrs. W. H. Allen & Co."

ALPHONSE DAUDET is said to be engaged on a novel which will be entitled "La Lutte pour la Vie" (Struggle for Life). It will be a sequel to "L'Immortel," inasmuch as the hero will be a member of Asti-Rehu's family. In it Daudet will apply himself to convince the sceptic world that French home-life is a reality and French domestic virtue not a mere word. This novel is based on a play which M. Daudet read a short time ago to M. Koning, proprietor of the Gymnase Theatre, Paris, where it will be shortly performed under the same title as the novel.

"THE ingenuous person who endeavored to put James Gordon Bennett in book-form under the title of 'A Modern Don Juan,' has not apparently met with a very great degree of success," said a clerk in Brentano's to a N. Y. Sun reporter. "Mr. Bennett's life is now thoroughly well known. It would be just about as good a scheme to write a history of the heresies of Robert G. Ingersoll. People know all that they care to know about Bennett and Ingersoll as it is. By the way, we have noticed that books which depend for a sale upon personalities are not as successful here as they are in our branch house in Europe. That is probably because people over there who are worth writing about at all have a species of fame which has more permanency than the best of sensational small talk in America."

"MR. J. H. SHORTHOUSE, the author of 'John Inglesant' and 'The Countess Eve,' is not a dreamy recluse, as most of his readers must conclude. He is, on the contrary," says the N. Y. Tribune, "a chemical manufacturer, and the successor of several generations of Shorthouses who have carried on the business in Birmingham. He is short, and has a rather strong face, a big nose, black hair, and an impediment in his speech. It is said that to this little inconvenience he probably owes his literary achievements. All through his life it has prevented him from expressing in words his ideas on any subject that strongly interests him. He can talk easily enough on business matters, but for the expression of deeper thought his only medium is the pen. So in early life he joined an essay society, each member of which was pledged to read the essays which the others wrote. 'John Inglesant' was the development of this essay-writing."

A CASE OF COPYRIGHT BY COURTESY.

WHETHER it is owing to the strong feeling that has been manifested in this country against the publication of a cheap pirated edition of Prof. Bryce's monumental work on "The American Commonwealth," or whether those who contemplated such a course have been led to recognize the unprofitableness of making the attempt under the circumstances, we do not know, but it seems about certain that no publisher will for the present undertake it. This is encouraging, and the publishing trade is to be congratulated on the resolve. Waiving all other considerations, an attack on this work, in the present period of agitation for international copyright, by an American publishing house of even the slightest importance, would be unwise, to say the least. In our efforts to come to a proper understanding in the adjustment of international copyright legislation, it is necessary to have friends not only here but in England, and even the most thoughtless will admit that it were better to have the friends and associates of a man of Prof. Bryce's standing on our side than as opponents.

And from a more disinterested point of view such an act would be sad injustice. The author's materials, as the Boston Advertiser has pointed out, "were gathered by the most patient, candid, and acute inquiry in this country, and represent many years of labor on his part and that of his American assistants. He has made admirable use of them in the preparation of a work universally recognized as a monument to our Commonwealth and of the foremost importance to all students of our institutions and people. For such a monograph the nation cannot afford to show itself ungrateful."

The case of this book, as also of "Robert Elsmere," illustrates, however, the point made by those who advocate a manufacturing clause as a part of international copyright. In both instances, the books were for some time out of print in this market owing to the unexpected demand for them and the fact that it took longer to obtain supplies from England, even by the help of the cable, than it would have done to run off new editions in this country. The fact, moreover, that a house in London may be more conservative than its branch here, and so be inclined to underestimate the demand in the case of popular books like these, adds to the difficulty. But the edition of Professor Bryce's book prepared for America illustrates also another point in relation to English copyright—that a book is almost sure, whether it comes from English or American publishers, to be brought out in such shape as to fulfil the conditions of the market which it seeks. The English edition of "The American Commonwealth" is in three volumes, and sells at about $13; the American edition is in two octavo volumes of nearly 750 pages each, printed in readable type, on good paper, bound in cloth, and is sold at $6. The book might possibly be reprinted to sell at a somewhat lower price, but at the expense of good book-making; and there are few who will grudge the price named in view of the permanent importance of the book and the great labor which has been given to it by the author.

We give elsewhere in this issue an account of the most painful occurrence that we have ever been obliged to record in this journal. One of our fraternity has been called upon to witness not only the total destruction of his business—possibly the only source from which he derives a living—but worse still, to see others dependent upon him for a livelihood suffering, dying, and dead, one of these his own son. We feel that in moments like these words, however tender and well-meant, are but words, and of little avail. Let sympathy, therefore, be expressed in action. We trust that every one connected with the book and stationery trades—especially those having business relations with the afflicted—will see his way clear to extending help of a practical kind to Mr. H. Lee Mason, as well as that kindly sympathy which to the depressed is always a source of comfort.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade was held at its rooms on the 8th inst., President George L. Pease, in the chair. 126 firms were present or represented. The President in his address expressed his entire satisfaction with the working of the Board as reorganized. It seems that the change in 1887 proved almost disastrous. He pointed out that in the Bureau of Records and Reports the Board now has over thirty-one thousand reports of traders in every part of the United States and Canada. These have been largely revised and verified and many new reports added. Some members have made from twelve hundred to fifteen hundred inquiries during the year, while others have not availed themselves of the privilege to any extent. To those who know the value of these reports, he said, "it seems unaccountable that members should pay their membership fee and not ask for what they are entitled to receive. Many members use the collection bureau largely who do not ask for a report from the record department. I would inform such members that often the record department would ring out the danger signal that would save your calling at the collection or failure desk later."

The Treasurer's report showed a balance January 1, 1889, of $108.66, the expenditures having amounted to $12,995.01 during the past year. The following report of the Executive Committee, of which Mr. C. T. Dillingham is chairman, will be found interesting and proof that the Board is worthy of the confidence that has been placed in it:

BUREAU OF INFORMATION.

|                                   | 1887.  | 1888.  |
|-----------------------------------|--------|--------|
| Names on records.....             | 11,984 | 14,795 |
| Inquiries of members.....         | 5,526  | 5,837  |
| Inquiries of correspondents.....  | 4,345  | 5,172  |
| Inquiries of dealers.....         | 6,005  | 4,703  |
| Reports furnished to members..... | 17,236 | 19,280 |
| Statements received.....          | 1,959  | 1,865  |
| Answers from correspondents.....  | 3,777  | 4,302  |
| Letters written.....              | 1,234  | 629    |
| Weekly circulars sent out.....    | 9,724  | 9,540  |

In this department the Board has been called upon to pay for reports received from correspondents, which heretofore were given without charge, but the return justifies the outlay, as the information is fuller in many details. This department has been used by 193 members during 1888, and in 1887 was used by 179.

"There has been received and disbursed by both the collection and failure departments," says the committee, "together, $110,029.41, against $88,920.24 in 1887, which shows an increase of cash collected over 1887 of $22,100.17. The books have been audited monthly and found correct.

"Since March last no legal department has existed, all claims going through the Secretary's hands direct to our city attorney, who has shown himself active and alive to the interests of the Board. A great number of cases placed in Mr. James L. Bishop's hands have turned out very satisfactorily, and the Board should feel pleased to know that they have such a painstaking attorney.

"When your present Executive Committee took charge of the office in February last they found a debt to the amount of about $1100. This indebtedness has been settled in full, we closing the year without having been called upon to touch the redemption fund, and with a balance in the bank of $108.65, and interest due us from savings bank of about $140, as well as dues uncollected from members amounting to $100, which clearly shows the Board is now in a healthy and prosperous condition."

At the election of trustees the following were chosen: Alexander Agar, James C. Aikin, Henry C. Bainbridge, Walter G. Berlin, Louis H. Blakeman, Bloomfield Brower, Charles T. Dillingham, John Gibson, Oscar S. Greenleaf, William C. Horn, Samuel I. Knight, Amos M. Lyon, John McLoughlin, Samuel Molleson, George L. Pease, Charles E. Runk, Frank Squier, and Iwan Von Auw.

CATASTROPHE IN PITTSBURG, PA.

A TERRIFIC storm of wind and hail swept over Pittsburg, Pa., on the afternoon of the 9th inst., carrying with it death and desolation. The greatest sufferers in this calamity seem to have been old friends of the trade—J. R. Weldin & Co.'s book and stationery store. From a letter received from Mr. W. W. Waters, of Pittsburg, it appears that the "building occupied by Weldin & Co., which fronts on Wood Street, extending back 100 feet to an alley, was almost surrounded by a new building in Diamond Street, owned by C. L. Willey. The building was only partly completed. It was thirty by eighty feet in dimensions, and was seven stories high. The front of the building had not been put in, and the wind seemed to enter the huge shell from the open end. The high walls of brick and undried mortar were parted, one falling each way, partly wrecking nearly a dozen surrounding buildings. The greatest of these falling masses was thrown against the building occupied by Weldin & Co., the one side of the wall striking in upon it in an almost unbroken sheet, crashing down through three stories into the cellar, burying everything in hopeless ruin. So tremendous was the concussion caused by the falling mass that the entire front of the Weldin building was hurled into the street, leaving the three floors exposed, through which could be seen the absolute wreck in the rear. Fortunately, the cyclone struck at a time when few people are out; nevertheless, it is astonishing that of the large number of employees in the store at the time, so many reached the street alive. As it is, but two are known to be dead and five or six injured. Mr. Mason, the proprietor, was at dinner, and thus escaped. A son was caught between the safe and the falling timbers and imprisoned for hours, and when rescued was found to be seriously hurt. It is feared his sight is destroyed. Two bodies are still under the ruins and certainly dead, one an errand-boy, the other Dr. J. L. Read, who will be remembered by the trade of thirty years ago as the manager of the Methodist Book-Store. Dr. Read had an office in the Weldin building. He was a venerable old gentleman, much beloved by all who knew him. In his time he was the personification of an intelligent, discriminating bookseller, a man who made the business of selling books the honorable one it should be.

"Mr. Mason will command the sympathy of the book-trade. A son perhaps fatally injured, a number of employees dead or dying, a stock of goods almost wiped out of existence, with a store building literally a pile of rubbish; his case is indeed a hard one. What the net result will be so far as the stock is concerned it is impossible at this time to say. It is certain, however, that what is lost is lost, as no insurance policy will cover the damage. As to redress from the contractor of the building which did the mischief, that is problematical.

"The book-store of H. Watts & Co. was filled with dirt and lime and obliged to close up for repairs, but not seriously injured."

THE CENTURY DICTIONARY.

THE new "Century Dictionary," which has been in course of preparation by The Century Co. during the past seven years, is approaching completion, and it is expected that the issue of the work will begin during the coming spring. It will be published by subscription, and in parts, or "sections," the whole, consisting of about 6500 pages, to be finally bound into six quarto volumes. Although the printers have been engaged upon the type-setting for more than two years, the publishers have waited until the labor of making the plates is so well advanced that the work can be regularly issued at intervals of about a month and completed within two years.

Probably few works of greater magnitude or importance have ever been put forth by an American house. The editor-in-chief, Prof. William Dwight Whitney, of Yale University, who is one of the highest authorities in philology in America and England, has been assisted by nearly fifty experts, college professors and others, each a recognized authority in his own specialty—the design of the dictionary being to make it complete and authoritative in every branch of literature, science, and the arts. It is intended that the botanist shall find in the "Century Dictionary" full definitions of terms in his special line of study; that the civil engineer and the architect can turn to it for the definitions (usually with plans and pictures) of the terms in their own specialties. And so with every other pursuit or profession—law, music, medicine, chemistry, anatomy, archæology, zoölogy, mineralogy, theology, etc., etc. Each expert is reading the proofs of the entire work; indeed the proofs are read by more than sixty people. For seven years not fewer than a hundred persons, and sometimes more, have been working upon this Dictionary. Trained readers have been searching the fields of English literature for words and uses of words and quotations. Over two thousand authors will be quoted, and it is understood that American books, and even the current literature of the magazines, have been liberally drawn upon.

The Dictionary will contain definitions of probably two hundred thousand words, and these without including any useless compounds. The work is encyclopædic, in the sense that it gives, in addition to definitions and the etymological history of words, a very great amount of detailed information which has hitherto been found only in the encyclopædias, and often not even in them.

There will be about six thousand cuts in the text, the subjects of which have usually been chosen by the experts in charge of the special departments. They have been drawn, whenever possible, from the object itself, and engraved under the supervision of the Art Department of The Century Co. The engravings are said to be of a higher class than have yet found place in any work of this character.

It is understood that all rights have been obtained for the issue of this dictionary throughout the English-speaking world, and that it will be published in England simultaneously with its issue in this country.

THE COPYRIGHT BILL TO PROTECT EVERYBODY—AUTHOR, PRINTER, AND READER.

From the Philadelphia Press.

MR. A. C. BLACK, the head of the firm publishing the Encyclopædia Britannica, in his speech at the dinner just given to the contributors in England, unconsciously made the strongest practical argument yet presented for the International Copyright Bill in its present shape. The sale of previous editions of the Encyclopædia, of which the present is the ninth issue, has been about 5000 copies, a few hundreds coming to the United States. The sale of the present edition was 50,000 copies, of which 40,000 were delivered to subscribers in this country. The number sold in this city alone is nearly as large as in the entire country for previous editions.

These copies were all made in England and exported to this country, and it was easy by the pretext of a second edition substantially to evade the protection given by the tariff. The practical result was that the American printer got nothing for manufacturing the work, and the English author, paid on the basis of the English sales, got nothing for writing it, so far as the circulation in this country is concerned. Both ends of the labor were cheated. The American reader got the book at a little lower rate than the English, but no cheaper than he would have received it if the work had been printed in this country under the demand of an American constituency.

Under the copyright law now before the House this work would have been printed and published in this country. The work would have been done and paid for here, and on the American sets alone this would have required an expenditure of at least $2,500,000 in the United States—no small addition even to our enormous publishing trade. But as a matter of fact, with four-fifths of the copies sold in the United States, it would have been cheaper and more economical to manufacture the English as well as the American copies in this country.

The mechanical work of getting out the edition would in all probability have been transferred across the Atlantic. With this transfer made, the Encyclopædia would have undoubtedly given a larger space to American subjects, more American writers would have been employed, and the entire work would have been written and prepared far more from an American standpoint than is now the case. Instead of beginning with an edition and a plan to suit the English market, and altering this to secure a far larger sale in this country, the work would have been begun on American lines in the first place.

What is true of this Encyclopædia is coming to be true in the entire field of literature. Every successful novel, every important work in more solid walks of literature, and every new addition to English letters of a permanent value, sells or is coming to sell in far greater numbers here than in England. As the English publishers, by various devices, can place a cheap edition on our market, making use of plates or sheets whose cost is met by the English sales, a very large share of the demand here adds little to the call for a printer's labor here and adds nothing to the pay of the English writer. His unpaid labor, at the same time, reduces the pay of the American author.

The copyright law will change all this. It will protect everybody in this country, printer, author, and reader. The only interest which is called on to oppose it, and which there is every reason to believe is opposing it, is the English publisher. The authors in the country to a man, the Printers' Unions and the Publishers' Association all agree in urging its passage.

Not once in a decade does the House have before it a bill which every American interest favors, and which receives opposition only from foreign and alien sources. With this bill in its present situation, it needs a two-thirds vote to pass it, and it ought to be possible, in spite of some opposition, to secure this.

If Speaker Carlisle chooses to have this act of justice and equity become a law, we do not doubt that it will pass.

MRS. HUMPHRY WARD WILL NOT COME TO AMERICA.

THE expectations raised by the recent report that the author of "Robert Elsmere" would pay a social visit to America are dispelled in the following letter just received by Mr. Edward W. Bok, of Brooklyn:

61 RUSSELL SQUARE, LONDON, Jan. 7, 1889.

DEAR MR. BOK: I have been much gratified by the pleasant sentiments evoked in the American newspapers by a report that I am shortly to visit your country.

There is, however, no foundation for the statement, and I should be very glad if you would be so kind as to contradict it.

With many thanks for the kind sentiments of my friends, believe me, yours faithfully,

MARY A. WARD.

Mrs. Ward is devoting all her time upon the new novel she has under way, and this is said to be the chief reason of her inability to come to America for the present.

OBITUARY.

JOHN M. PHILLIPS.

JOHN M. PHILLIPS, the senior of the agents of the Methodist Book Concern, managed by Phillips & Hunt at 805 Broadway, New York City, died January 19, at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Phillips was a Kentuckian, and was born in 1820. He first entered the employ of the Western Methodist Book Concern in Cincinnati, at the age of eighteen, and continued there in various positions until 1872. In that year he was appointed lay delegate to the Methodist General Conference held in Brooklyn, N. Y., and was elected agent of the Methodist Book Concern of New York City, the first layman who ever held the place. He was reflected at every subsequent Conference, and after the resignation of Dr. Nelson became chief manager of the vast publishing interests of the Methodist Church, his associate for several years past being Dr. Hunt. For the last ten years he has also been treasurer of the Missionary Society. In 1884 he made a tour of the missions of Mexico, with the late Bishop Harris, and was appointed lay delegate by the Mexican Conference to represent them at the last General Conference held in New York City in 1888. Mr. Phillips was a leading member of St. John's Church, Brooklyn. The cause of his death was blood-poisoning brought on by a carbuncle. The funeral took place on the 17th. The body will be interred in Cincinnati. Mr. Phillips leaves a wife and four children.

ALEXANDER T. MCGILL.

ALEXANDER T. MCGILL, D.D., M.D., Emeritus Professor of Ecclesiastical, Homiletic, and Pastoral Theology at Princeton Theological Seminary, died at Princeton, N. J., on the 13th inst., after a lingering illness, aged 81. He was of Scotch-Irish ancestry, and was born at Cannonsburg, Washington County, Pa., 1807. Dr. McGill was graduated from Jefferson College in Pennsylvania in 1826 with the highest honors. In 1854 he was chosen to his professorship in the Princeton Seminary, where he did active duty until five years ago, when he became deaf and was retired. After his retirement from active duty at Princeton, Dr. McGill devoted himself to literary pursuits. He was a prolific writer, and there is now in the press of the Presbyterian Board of Publication at Philadelphia his work on "The Ordinances of the Presbyterian Church." He was Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1848, and was widely known as one of the eldest Moderators.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ELKHART, IND.—C. Arnkens, bookseller, it is reported, has been closed up on foreclosure of chattel mortgage.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—George A. Hall & Co., booksellers and stationers, we learn, have made an assignment.

LYONS, N. Y.—H. D. Lent, bookseller, according to the American Stationer, has made an assignment.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Lafargue & Brierre, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

NEW YORK CITY.—We regret to learn that Knight, Loomis & Co., publishers of school-books, have been obliged to make an assignment. The embarrassment, we understand, is but a temporary one, and as the firm has the good-will of all its creditors, a speedy settlement may be looked for. It will be remembered that Knight, Loomis & Co. succeeded the firm of Potter, Knight, Ainsworth & Co., which was established in 1886 and continued until September 7, 1888, when the present firm was formed with J. R. Vandeventer, of Plainfield, N. J., as a special partner for $30,000 to September 7, 1891. S. A. Potter, the retiring partner, received $30,000 for his interest, the new firm assuming the obligations of the old firm. Two months after the formation of the firm of Knight, Loomis & Co., two attachments were issued against the firm aggregating $10,500 on notes of the firm of Potter, Knight, Ainsworth & Co. Bonds were given on the attachment, and it was alleged that the notes were given by Mr. Potter for his own benefit. Bradstreet's took away the firm's rating, and since then it has been trying to arrange its affairs. The firm claims that the assignment was caused by the issue of firm paper by S. A. Potter for his individual benefit, a large amount of which had to be borne by the firm without any benefit to it. The liabilities are about $200,000, confined to a few creditors, and the assets are not definitely known yet, but consist of a large stock of books, plates, and accounts. The amount of notes issued by Mr. Potter which the firm has had to take care of is said to be about $22,000.

PONTIAC, MICH.—Richard Brooke, bookseller, it is reported, has been closed under foreclosure of chattel mortgage.

WINONA, MINN.—William Roessner, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Roessner & Luehmann.

YORK, PA.—Harry P. Miller, bookseller and stationer, is in the hands of the sheriff.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE number of Harper's Bazar for January II contained the first instalment of Frances Hodgson Burnett's new story, "The Pretty Sister of José." C. S. Reinhart furnishes the illustrations.

THE new departure of the New York Ledger attracts much notice. Mrs. Burnett and Mr. Stevenson are engaged to write for the Ledger, and in the current number a learned paper by Dr. McCosh is found beside some very lurid fiction.

COLLIER'S Once a Week is apparently a sort of eagle among the doves. It is said to offer "rates" to the most popular writers such as the magazines, with all the pressure of competition, decline to pay, and to threaten a consequent monopoly of much of the high-priced talent. Its liberality confounds the older journals.—The American.

THE Boston Commonwealth has discarded the folio make-up and now comes out a handsome sixteen-page weekly. The staff has been enlarged and several new departments added. After Mr. Charles W. Slack's death the paper was for a short time owned by Messrs. Thayer & Washburn. It was then purchased by Mr. G. S. Peck, and for the past three years has been under the editorial charge of his wife, Mrs. Georgia A. Peck.

THE publication office of the Leonard Scott Publishing Co. has been transferred from Philadelphia to New York City, and the American edition of the Nineteenth Century, the Contemporary Review, the Fortnightly Review, the West- minster Review, the Edinburgh Review, the Quarterly Review, the Scottish Review, and Blackwood's Magazine, as well as the American Naturalist and Shakespeareana, will hereafter be issued from 29 Park Row, New York City. This change has been made to insure an earlier issue of these periodicals by the greater facilities thus secured for the importation of original sheets. Shakespeareana will hereafter be conducted under the auspices of the New York Shakespeare Society.

A PROSPECTUS of a monthly magazine to be called Poet-Lore, and to be devoted solely to the illustration of Shakespeare and Browning, and to the comparative study of poetic literature, has just been issued. It is signed by Charlotte Porter, late editor of Shakespeareana (from August, 1886, to December, 1888), and Helen A. Clarke, whose address is 223 S. 38th St., Philadelphia. Dr. W. J. Rolfe will contribute to its study department a series of questions and helps for the study of Shakespeare's plays, beginning in the February number with "Love's Labor's Lost," and continuing with later plays. The "Explanatory Index to Allusions in Browning's Pauline," given in the January number, will be continued through the later poems. Dr. Horace Howard Furness' lectures on Shakespeare, delivered at the University of Pennsylvania, will appear in extracts made by Dr. Furness for this publication. W. H. Wyman's Bacon-Shakespeare Bibliography will be continued from the December number of Shakespeareana. "Browning's Poetic Form," a seminary (Johns Hopkins) lecture, by Prof. A. H. Smyth; "Shakespeare's Verses in Chester's Love's Martyr," by Prof. Wm. T. Harris, of the Concord School of Philosophy; "French and English Literature of Elizabeth's Day," by Prof. M. W. Easton; and other contributions by Prof. Hiram Corson, of the Cornell University, Dr. H. L. Wayland, Michel N. Damiralis, of Athens, Talcott Williams, and others are promised.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will shortly publish a volume of the late Asa Gray's reviews of botanical literature during the past fifty years, selected and edited by Prof. C. S. Sargent.

F. W. CHRISTERN, New York, will be the American agent of Santa-Anna Néry's elaborate work on Brazilian folk-lore, recently published in Paris. The book has a preface written by Prince Roland Bonaparte.

"THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS" has been translated into the language spoken in Zanzibar, a tongue called Swahili. It was found necessary to make an adaptation rather than a literal translation. A part of the version was prepared by the late Bishop Steere.

THE WORTHINGTON COMPANY announce elsewhere that, desiring to devote itself hereafter exclusively to the importing and manufacturing and publishing business, it has decided to sell out its retail book department. It certainly would form a nucleus for a fine business.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will put on the market shortly a series of games and charts for home and school use, based on the most approved principles of kindergarten training, prepared by Mme. Warwedel, the distinguished kindergarten of San Francisco, formerly of Washington. They have also nearly ready Scott's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," edited and annotated by T. E. Wetherell.

CASSELL & Co. will issue shortly the Critic's "Authors at Home" papers in three editions—one an ordinary library edition, another a large-paper edition for purposes of illustration, and the third an édition de luxe. The title of Max O'Rell's book on the United States, to be published by them the latter part of this month, is "Jonathan and His Continent—Rambles through American Society." The translation has been made by the author's wife, who is an Englishwoman.

"THE final volumes, III. and IV., of the Life of William Lloyd Garrison by his children have just been given to the printer," says the Nation, "with a view to publication by the Century Co. in the fall. They will be uniform in all respects with the first two volumes published in 1885, and a general index will supersede the partial index issued with Vol. II. The supply of portraits will be liberal. Each volume covers the space of about twenty years (1841–1860, 1861–1879).

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish at once "The Pocket Gazetteer of the World," a dictionary of general geography, edited by J. G. Bartholomew, uniform with the "Pocket Atlas;" "The Nursery Lesson-Book," a guide for mothers in teaching young children, with illustrations in outline and a selection of songs set to music, by Philip G. Hubert, Jr.; "Principles of Procedure in Deliberative Bodies," by George Glover Crocker; and three volumes of poetry—"The Rose of Flame, and other poems," by A. R. Aldrich; "Idyls of the Golden Shore," by H. Maxwell; "Mastor, a drama," by John Ruse Larus.

CHARLES C. SOULE has just published a volume entitled "The Australian Ballot System, as embodied in the legislation of Australia, Europe, and the United States," a compilation of the ballot acts of South Australia, Queensland, Great Britain, Belgium, Kentucky, New York, and Massachusetts, with portions of the same of Tasmania, New Zealand, West Australia, Victoria, New South Wales, Dominion of Canada, Ontario, Quebec, Luxemborg, Italy, and other countries, with an historical introduction and cuts and diagrams. Mr. Soule has in preparation "The Massachusetts Practice Act," by Chas. E. Grinnel, and the second edition of "Schouler on Executors."

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have in press a volume entitled "Marriage and Divorce: an inquiry into the religious, the practical, and the political aspects of the question," by Ap Richard, Prof. David Swing, and others. If the contributors are true to their reputation the work will be of great value and interest to all who have followed the recent discussions of the moral aspects of marriage and divorce. Prof. Swing will contribute an appendix to the volume. They have also in press another volume by G. O. Shields ("Coquina"), the author of "Hunting in the Great West." The forthcoming volume will be entitled "Cruising in the Cascades," and is a record of an extended hunting tour made by the author in the Cascade Mountains in Oregon, Washington Territory, and British Columbia. The author carried with him a detective camera, and the work is handsomely illustrated from instantaneous photographs and from drawings. The book will contain, also, special chapters on hunting the buffalo, elk, grizzly bear, Rocky Mountain goat, antelope, and deer, and will prove interesting to general readers as well as to sportsmen.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

The Literary News.

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS will become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, will begin in January and run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work." Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Stowe will be among the first given.

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," will enliven each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specially intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

Address THE LITERARY NEWS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL ST.),

Annual Catalogues. 1888.

The Annual American Catalogue for 1888 will be ready as early in 1889 as the mechanical difficulties permit. It will contain:

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1888.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author-alphabet, of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY / 1888.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1888.

The edition is limited, and to secure copies orders should be sent at once. The price is $3.00 sheets, $3.50 half leather; if ordered before publication, the price will be $2.50 in sheets, $3.00 half leather.

The Annual Catalogue for 1886 is now out of print. But few copies of the Annual Catalogue for 1887 are on hand.

The English Catalogue for 1888 is also expected early, price $1.50, paper; the Annual American and English Catalogues, 1888, can be had in one volume, half leather, $5 00.

Early orders for both Catalogues are solicited.

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY'S EASTER ANNOUNCEMENT!

FOR the coming Easter Season we shall have a larger and finer assortment of new and attractive than we have ever yet shown. As in previous seasons, there will, no doubt, be the usual rush of early travellers, offering as Easter Booklets the goods that have already been worked as Christmas books or cards. This class makes its appearance at any season, and can be made ready at short notice by new covers and change of title, enabling such lines to be earlier in the market than any others.

EASTER MONOTINT BOOKS AND BOOKLETS

The public discriminates and will take only the best goods. Remember that Easter comes this year, April 21, three weeks later than last year. This will enable the discreet and wide-awake buyers to hold off from placing their orders until E. P. Dutton & Co.'s new and original line is shown to them.

Our travellers will be on the road with complete books by February 1, and samples will be in the hands of Jobbers by that date.

Our line will be made up from the books of the three largest manufacturers, NISTER, DRANE, HAWKINS, for whose books we are SOLE AGENTS.

We shall have Booklets at 15 cts. each, at 25 cts., 35 cts., 50 cts., 75 cts., and $1.00.

 Full titles will be given in a later issue.

RAMBLES THROUGH AMERICAN SOCIETY

By MAX O'RELL,

Author of "John Bull and His Island," "John Bull, Jr.," etc., etc., and

JACK ALLYN.

Translated by Madame PAUL BLOUET. In one elegant 12mo volume. Price, $1.50.

Max O'Rell, in this volume of impressions of America and the Americans, gives us the brightest and best work he has yet done. While often severe, he is always kind. He makes a number of statements, however, that are going to call forth contradictions in various quarters, and are likely to stir up some strong criticisms. Altogether the book is very lively reading and will unquestionably excite the interest of every American citizen who wants to know what a keen-eyed, intelligent, and witty Frenchman has to say of him and of his country.

NEW EDITION NOW READY.

JOHN BULL, Jr.;

Or, French as She is Traduced.

By MAX O'RELL.

With a Preface by GEORGE C. EGGLESTON. Boards, flexible, 50 cents; cloth, gilt top, $1.00.

"There is not a page in this delightful little volume that does not sparkle."—Philadelphia Press.

"One expects Max O'Rell to be distinctively funny. He is regarded as a French Mark Twain."—The Beacon.

"The whole theory of education is to be extracted from these humorous sketches."—Baltimore American.

"A volume which is bubbling over with brightness, and is pervaded by wholesome common-sense."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"May be placed among those favored volumes whose interest is not exhausted by one perusal, but which may be taken up again and again with a renewal of the entertainment afforded by the first reading."—Boston Gazette.

Truth About Russia.

By W. T. STREAD, of the Pall Mall Gazette. One vol., 8vo, $2.50.

"Is this great empire which divides Asia with us a power which makes for peace or which makes for war? In the new Europe upon which we are entering must we regard the Czar as peace-keeper or peace-breaker of the Continent. That is what I went to St. Petersburg to ascertain, and the results of my inquiries are chronicled in these pages. I have included in this volume, which deals primarily with Russia as the peace-keeper of Europe, chapters setting forth what seems to me the salient features of the domestic situation."

NOTES IN SEASON.

BRENTANO'S will publish at once a new book, entitled "Frederick Struther's Romance," by Albert Ulmann. It is a tale said to contain an unusual love-story amid scenes of New York life never before touched upon in fiction. The author is one of the publishers of the Jewelers' Weekly and a member of the Press Club.

D. LOTHEROP COMPANY will publish shortly in their Story of the States series "The Story of Vermont," which will be of interest, as there has been no history of the Green Mountain State published for 40 years. John L. Heaton, the author, is a well-known Brooklyn newspaper man, and is one of the many editors born and brought up in Vermont.

ROBERTS BROS. will publish on the 12th inst., "The Truth About Clement Ker," a novel by George Fleming ("Julia C. Fletcher"), which is especially notable for the atmosphere of mystery which envelops it; and new and cheaper editions of, Morris' "Epic of Hades," Pellico's "My Prisons," and Sir Thomas Browne's "Religio Medici," with a biographical sketch of the author by James T. Fields.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish at once Canon Holland's new book, "On Behalf of Belief." He has in preparation "Chief Things, or, church doctrine for the people," by the Rev. A. W. Snyder, Ph.D., of Lehigh University. Mr. Whittaker also announces that the next volume in the Camelot Series will be "Essays of Wm. Hazlitt;" in the Canterbury Poets, "Poems of Dora Greenwell;" and in the Great Writers, "Life of Schiller."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. are about to publish, under the title of "Colloquies on Preaching," a little book, by the Rev. H. Twells, on the deficiencies of the modern pulpit. The form of this discussion is quite as unconventional as its suggestions. There are about a score of pertinent dialogues in the little volume. They have also in preparation "Letters on Literature," by Andrew Lang, which appeared in the Independent during the past year.

JOHN DELAY, N. Y., has just ready the first volume of a new series to be known as Gleanings from Foreign Authors, and heads his list of foreign authors with two weight-giving and pleasure-promising names. This first issue, published in 18mo, in paper binding, contains Ludovic Halévy's "A Love Match" and Victor Cherbuliez's "King Apepi." It is not stated by whom the translation is made nor how often additions will be made to the new series. The latter will probably depend upon the appreciation practically accorded the new enterprise.

WM. R. JENKINS has just published "A Chinese and English Phrase-Book for the Chinese to Learn English," which is perhaps the first book with Chinese characters published in America. Its compilers are Dr. T. L. Stedman and K. P. Lee, and while it is unpretentious in its character it is excellently adapted to furnish Chinamen with a large vocabulary of colloquial phrases. The first edition of five hundred copies, though only just published, has been taken up so quickly that a second edition is already in the press. Also in preparation are "Vaillante," or, "Ce que femme veut," by Jacques Vincent, and Jules Verne's famous "Tour du Monde," in the series of Romans Choisis.

ALPHONSE PICARD, of 82 Rue Bonaparte, Paris, is publishing an important historical work that will be of value to collectors of Americana. It is entitled "Histoire de la participation de la France à l'établissement des Etats-Unis de l'Amérique." The author is Henri Doniol, Director of l'Imprimerie Nationale. Three volumes are now ready, covering the years 1775-1779. These explain the efforts of the ministers of Louis XVI. to influence Spain to enter into the alliance against England, which went into effect after the first victories by the Americans over the English, an alliance which later indirectly was the cause of the famous League of Nantes. The book is published by the French Government in connection with the Universal Exhibition which is to take place in Paris next summer. It is intended to make the book a specimen of the work of the National Printing Office.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.
 Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (same: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (32mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Ps. (8mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

*American and English corporation cases, both private and municipal, (excepting railway cases); Jas. M. Kerr, ed.; W. M. McKinney, asst. ed. V. 21. Northport, N. Y., E: Thompson & Co., [1889.] c. 5+709 p. O. shp., $4.50.

*Bell, Mrs. Hugh. Petit théâtre des enfants; twelve tiny French plays for children. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 115 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Blouët, Paul, ["Max O'Rell," pseud.] and Allyn, Jack. Jonathan and his continent, (rambles through American society); tr. by Madame Paul Blouët. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 13+313 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Treatment similar to that awarded to the French, English, and Scotch by Mr. "Max O'Rell" is here meted out to the American. His impressions of our people, our manners, our literature, newspapers, laws, institutions, etc., gained in a six months' visit to the United States, are embraced in this volume. He is severely satirical and often witty, showing our weaknesses up mercilessly and with, at times, a great deal of exaggeration. Nevertheless, he is amusing reading—a genuine compliment now and then making up for many pages of sarcasm.

*Boyer, Jos. A. Boyer's legal directory of the United States and Canada: cont. a digest of collection laws, name of one attorney in each county; also list of merchants. Jan., 1889. Phil., J. A. Boyer, [1888.] c. 11+334 p. O. shp., $3.

*Burrell, E. J. Elementary building construction and drawing. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 8+248 p. D. (Longman's elementary science manuals.) cl., 80 c.

Cooker, W. J. The government of the United States. N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. 8+274 p. D. cl., 72 c.

Presents in a clear, concise way, the influences and conditions that rendered our present constitution a necessity, and describes, as fully as the limited character of a text-book of this kind will permit, the powers and limitations of our form of government. After briefly referring to the principles of government, the relations of the early colonies to the mother country and to each other are described, and the causes which led to occasional leagues for defence, and afterwards to a union of all the colonies in the War of Independence. The defects of the Confederation are pointed out and the causes which necessitated a firmer union of the states, together with the difficulties encountered in forming a constitution that would be acceptable to the several states. The adoption of the constitution naturally follows. The provisions of the constitution are then commented upon.

D., E. A. B. Pincherton Farm: the story of Maurice Hamilton. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1889. 4-359 p. 2 il. D. cl., $1.25.

The site of the farm-house in the bleak North country and the narrowness and cupidity of its residents make Pincherton a fitting appellation for the opening scene. The characters are for the most part farmer-folk. The incidents are an unjust arrest, a hurried departure to America, and Maurice and Phoebe Hamilton's return to their old home. The plot involves a large sum of money and the honor of Jacob Clatworthy. A glimpse at the life of Hawthornden will impress the reader that its final scene is as aptly named as the opening one.

Dawson, Sir J. W. Modern science in Bible lands. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 12+606 p. map and il., D. cl., $2.

"The motive of this work is," we learn from the preface, "the desire of the author to share with others the pleasure and profit of a tour in Italy, Egypt, and Syria, in which it was his special aim to study such points in the geology and physical features of those countries as might throw light on their ancient history, and especially on the history of the sacred Scriptures."

Disraeli, B., [Earl of Beaconsfield.] Life and correspondence. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 139 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1288.) pap., 20 c.

*English scenery: 120 chromo-views. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1889. 128 p. il. sq. O. cl., $2.50.

Fenn, G: Manville. Commodore Junk. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] 3-347 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., v. 1, no. 19.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A stormy scene enacted in Devon fixes the interest and introduces the heroine, whose spirited dialogue with Captain Armstrong forges the motive of the story. The cast is made up of wreckers, a bold fisher lass, a society lady, two captains in H. M. S., and a band of pirates commanded by "Commodore Junk." The incidents run the entire gamut of sensation and crime, and occur chiefly in the West India Islands, where Mary Dell succeeds in establishing her identity to Humphrey Armstrong. A novel by the author of "Poverty Corners."

Ford, Laura C. Electra. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1889.] c. 112 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1291.) pap., 20 c.

Forde, Gertrude. In the old palazzo. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 242 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1289.) pap., 20 c.

*Gibson, R. J. Harvey. A text book of elementary biology. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 8+362 p. il. D. cl., $1.75.

Harte, Bret. Cressy. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 2+290 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Southern California after the war is the scene. "Cressy" is the young sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. McKinstry, a squatter from "Kaintuck," who has a perpetual vendetta with his neighbors, "them low-down Harrisons," over a piece of land that does not belong legally to either parties. "Cressy" is represented as extremely beautiful and with some of the aggressive personality of her father. She is first introduced as a pupil of Jack Ford, the public school teacher. While still in the elementary branches, she has been "engaged." Tired of her first lover, she turns her fascinations upon poor Jack Ford, much to his detriment in many ways. The story of their love affair is the story of the book.

Lunt, Horace. Across lots. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1889.] c. '88. 4+253 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The papers of this volume are full of the spirit of outdoors and of tender sympathy with nature. They deal with the characteristics of the various seasons, particularly with the bird and insect life peculiar to each. The chapter entitled "The return of the natives," in which is described the spring arrival of the singing bird, will be enjoyed by every bird-lover, and hardly less interesting are the two which follow, "Wood notes and nest-hunting" and "Winged robbers and nest-builders." There are some notably striking pictures of winter and spring landscape in "A March ramble," "Leaves from an April journal," and "Crosscut views of winter."

Meredith, G. A reading of earth. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 4+136 p. S. cl., $1.50.

The Boston Traveller says: "Another new and interesting volume of poems that appears this week is George Meredith's 'A reading of earth.' One uses the term interesting advisedly, for the reader will find not only something of abandon to the poet's mood, something of the enjoyment that comes of itself, but also problems of thought and life, treated from the point of the philosopher as well as of the poet. His early German education makes itself felt in these poems. . . . 'The appeasement of Demeter' is a long poem, which, perhaps more than any other, reveals Meredith in his rugged strength, his splendor of intellect, and the truth to which tune, if need be, is sacrificed. But vital, vigorous thought in modern poetry is not so common that we can afford to undervalue it, and 'The reading of earth' is a collection of poetic thought to be studied and prized."

*Souvenir of Scotland: its cities, lakes, and mountains, 120 chromo views. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1889. 128 p. il. sq. O. cl., $2.50.

Stead, W. T. Truth about Russia. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1888. 5+464 p. O. cl., $2.50.

Much of the matter of this volume has appeared in the Pall Mall Gazette (London), of which Mr. Stead is editor. The work arose from the widespread uneasiness that existed in London in the spring of 1888, as to the possible outbreak of war in Europe. Mr. Stead made a journey to the continent to collect opinions from authentic sources on the subject. Before leaving London, he interviewed Mr. Gladstone, Lord Randolph Churchill, Mr. Balfour, and other prominent men on the situation. In Paris he saw Boulanger, and in Berlin Bismarck. In Russia he was equally successful in reaching first sources in collecting his information. The result is a work of unusual freshness, and unconventionality on the European questions of the hour. The personality of the Tzar, the real condition of Russia—its connection with the Bulgarian question and other questions, "the shadow on the throne"—Tolstoi, and other things Russian are graphically discussed.

Village missionaries; or, to every one his work; by the author, of "Copsley's Annals." N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1889. 320 p. il. D. cl., $1.

A missionary meeting held in Westmoreland worked great change in some of the villagers. So effectual were the words spoken by Mr. Morton, that desire to do some kind of mission work became broadcast, each one assigned to himself special labor; their results make up the sum of a book in which the author endeavors to create an interest in mission work, and shows how much can be accomplished even in a limited sphere.

Waters, Gay. (pseud.) Alma; or, Otonkah's daughter; a story of the 20,000 Sioux. Chic., T. S. Denison, [1889.] c. '88. 3-170 p. D. (Denison's ser., v. 1, no. 10.) pap., 25 c.

*Wood, H. G. A treatise on the law of landlord and tenant, with copious notes and references. 2d ed. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1888. c. 8+837 p. O. shp., $11.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 2, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"PUBLISHERS' PRICES" AND "OUR PRICES."

In the current issue of The City Library, a little paper published at Springfield, Mass., in the interests of the enterprising library of that place, appears some advertising of much interest to the trade. Messrs. Forbes & Wallace, who are the dry-goods and general dealers in that city connected with the Syndicate Trading Company, print in their advertising page a list of books by standard authors, with the usual contrast of "publishers' price" and "our price," and with the following "display" notice:

"Are you thinking of gift-books still? We are thinking of history, poetry, romance, philosophy; the solidest, truest, wisest, deepest, loftiest manifestations of human worth.

"We never knew them to be more available to the thousands of people in the Connecticut Valley who are waking up to the want of them.

"Sunday-schools, libraries, givers—everybody—you who get there first. There isn't a home in New England who wouldn't find shelf-room for such for the money.

"People want books just as they want dry-goods and groceries; and the cheaper they get 'em, all the better they like it. And the men who make the books know very well that the less books cost, the more they'll sell; and the more they'll sell this year, the more they'll sell next.

"The Harpers, Houghton-Mifflin, Estes & Lauriat, Lippincott, Nims & Knight, Routledge, and all the rest of the publishers who print these books know it. Bookbuyers know it. But booksellers haven't all found it out yet.

"It all amounts to this: Here are the books from the master-writers for less than we ever knew such books to be sold for before."

"The other side" is represented by Mr. Gill, whose book-store and art gallery are well known, in a counterblast advertisement, which appeals to Springfield "common-sense" as follows:

"DON'T BE FOOLED BY 'ADVERTISED' PUBLISHERS' PRICES.

"DOLLARS AND SENSE.

"We can pick up in the 'sub-cellars' of the large cities poor editions of certain books, for a few cents, but 'common-sense,' used in purchasing from a 'regular book-store,' will enable you to possess desirable editions of desirable books, at their actual worth.

"The profits upon 'books at retail or wholesale' is less than the profits on dry-goods and certain other staple goods, nevertheless 'our business as booksellers' of many years' standing enables us to advise properly and conscientiously to your advantage on each and every book published possible for the trade to obtain.

"Your reputation as a person of taste, refinement, and judgment, should aid you and prevent your owning or giving either a bad edition of a good book, or a good edition of a bad book, for reasons obvious to yourself."

We do not propose, in relation to this interesting controversy, to raise the question whether book-departments in dry-goods stores are "regular book-stores" or not. That is rather an "academic" question at best, for no means have so far been discovered for preventing "irregulars" from buying books to sell again, if they have the money to pay for them or the equivalent credit. The book-trade is not a Trust, and, we are glad to say, never can be.

But the question we do wish to raise is the relation in which the publishers specifically named are placed to the public and to the book-trade at large by the implied statement. The list of "books in sets" includes a good many not published by the houses named, but issued at a greatly inflated "publishers' price" by those who cater especially to the syndicate trade. For instance, Irving's "Works," probably in the Pollard & Moss edition, "6 vols., 12mo, half calf," are advertised at "publishers' price, $18.00; our price, $5.25." This inflation is very transparent. The implication that the publishers named make prices like these to the end of enabling designing booksellers to "play it" on the public is for the most part unjustifiable; yet in the list are included books from some of the houses named at "reductions" of from 60 to 25 per cent. off, and the general system of prices does give some color to the accusation, and does put dealers who have to compete with this kind of advertising at considerable disadvantage. Mr. Gill's rejoinder is in the right direction, challenging the book-buying public, as it does, to look at real and not nominal values, but the system of "long discounts," nevertheless, puts every "regular" book-store at a distinct disadvantage, which is sooner or later a disadvantage to the publishers whose books it sells.

THE PUBLISHERS' COPYRIGHT LEAGUE.

THE annual meeting of the American Publishers' Copyright League was held at Delmonico's on Tuesday, January 29, the President, W. H. Appleton, presiding. The present officers and Executive Committee were reflected, as follows: President, W. H. Appleton; Secretary, George H. Putnam; Treasurer, Charles Scribner; Executive Committee, Joseph W. Harper, Henry O. Houghton, Craigie Lippincott, A. D. F. Randolph, Dana Estes. The Executive Committee was authorized in its discretion to add to its own membership.

The Secretary presented on behalf of the Executive Committee a report of its operations during the preceding year, of which the following is an abstract:

"The committee had from the outset worked in direct coöperation with the Executive Committee of the Authors' League, and all of its decisions in regard to action in behalf of the pending Copyright Bill, and concerning modifications in the provisions of such bill, had been arrived at by the two committees sitting in joint session. . . . The two committees were in accord in the conviction that the first and most essential object to be worked for was a recognition of the principle of copyright to aliens, and for the purpose of securing in the two houses of Congress the requisite support for the Chace-Breckinridge bill, they had thought it wise to modify the original text of this bill by the inclusion of certain provisions (which had not at first been considered desirable) in regard to the manufacturing in this country of foreign books securing American copyright."

"The opposition to the reform had thus far been confined almost exclusively to the anonymous clients of one firm of New York lawyers, and to certain journal syndicates or 'patent inside' concerns. The opposition of the latter was doubtless due to the belief that under the provisions of the Chace bill newspapers would not be at liberty to make use of fiction selected from foreign periodicals. This fear was, however, without foundation, as, whatever might be done in the future, it had not been found practicable in this first copyright law to provide for the protection of foreign periodicals."

"The list of active members of the League (who pay an annual subscription of $25) comprised, with few but exceptions, the publishing trade of the country. For the purpose of securing the coöperation of booksellers and printers, who also had a business interest as well as a citizen's interest in the purpose of the reform, an associate membership had been instituted, the annual payment for which was $10 a year."

The report of the Treasurer showed that all the funds collected had been expended in the operations of the succeeding year.

THE BOSTON COPYRIGHT ASSOCIATION.

A MEETING of the Executive Committee of the International Copyright Association was held at the office of Vice President H. O. Houghton on the afternoon of January 25. The resignations of the Rev. Phillips Brooks and Francis Parkman were received. General Francis A. Walker was elected Vice-President and H. W. Chiplin a director to fill the vacancies. In accordance with a vote at the annual meeting, President Charles W. Eliot appointed the following committee of authors to coöperate with the Executive Committee for arranging a reading or other entertainment for the benefit of the Association: W. W. Goodwin, Chairman; Alexander P. Browne, Secretary; Thomas B. Aldrich, A. S. Hardy, Robert Grant, T. W. Higginson, Miss Sarah Orne Jewett, Edwin L. Bynner, Mrs. James T. Fields, J. Boyle O'Reilly, Arthur Gilman, H. E. Scudder, Miss Lucretia P. Hale, F. J. Stimson, and Miss Susan Hale.

A letter was received from Mr. Houghton, who is in Washington, reporting that the House of Representatives has been well canvassed, and there appears to be a good majority in favor of passing the Chace bill.

"ALL RIGHTS RESERVED" GIVES NO RIGHTS.

IN answer to a communication to the London Athenaeum whether it is necessary to print the well-known intimations "All rights reserved," "The right of translation is reserved," and "Entered at Stationers' Hall" on the titles of books the authors of which desire to secure their full copyright privileges, Mr. W. Tuer characteristically replies: "Printing on a book 'All rights reserved' has exactly the same value as a placard pinned on one's coat-tails, 'You mustn't steal my handkerchief.' The law metes out punishment to both infringers of the rights of property, and the warnings are equally unnecessary. 'A Publisher' should know that the mere act of publication—that is, having an edition of a book ready and copies for sale—gives in this country absolute copyright without the words 'Entered at Stationers' Hall'; and as for 'The right of translation is reserved,' this right forms part of the copyright. It does not require one 'learned in the law' to point out that these intimations are mere waste of type and ink." Another correspondent adds that 'by the latest Musical Copyright Act musical publications must bear an intimation to the effect that the copyright in the performance is reserved; but this act does not apply to any other description of literary property."

A LITERARY HOAX.

From the N. Y. Star.

IN a New York paper of Jan 6, the reappeared a column-and-a-quarter article devoted to proving the authenticity of an unpublished poem entitled "The Two Offerings," alleged to be by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. The truth of the matter is that the whole affair was a hoax perpetrated by E. S. Crawford, editor of the Saturday Telegram, of East Saginaw, Mich.

The poem was written by Clarence Ladd Davis, a talented young lawyer, Vice-President of the Poets' Association, and late Circuit Court Commissioner. Crawford inclosed the poem in a letter to a New York paper, in which he said that the "inclosed unpublished poem by Longfellow" was composed fifty years ago, and given to a young lady with the understanding that it was not to be published; that the lady gave it to her daughter, who had since given it to Crawford.

CHARLES A. B. SHEPARD.

WITH the death of Mr. C. A. B. Shepard, of the firm of Lee & Shepard, we record the loss of an old, widely known, respected, and esteemed member of the book-trade. Mr. Shepard was born in Salem, Mass., in 1829. He went through the public schools of that busy sea-coast town with credit and at one time was seized with a natural desire to follow his father's calling, the sea. His parents, however, strenuously opposed his youthful infatuation, and when he left school immediately procured him a place as boy in a grocery store. This situation proved uncongenial, and in 1844, at the age of fifteen, his inclinations led him to enter the business of John P. Jewett, at that time a bookseller in Salem, quite unsuspecting that his imprint would be affixed to the most widely-read book published in the United States. Mr. Jewett soon found him a capable clerk invaluable, and upon his removal to Boston, in 1846, took young Shepard with him. Mr. Jewett was always willing to admit that much of his success in Boston was due to the untiring energy and quick perceptions of his young assistant. In 1852 "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fell into Mr. Jewett's lucky hands, and, owing to its timeliness, the merits of the work, and the shrewd advertising superintended by the untiring young clerk, the book bounced into an unprecedented success.

In 1855 Mr. Shepard decided to go into business for himself and succeeded in organizing a copartnership which was known in the trade as Shepard, Clark & Brown. The great financial panic of 1857, which swept over the entire land and changed the entire business of the country, brought ruin to the till then flourishing young house. After a few months of struggle it was forced to close its affairs. For the next five years but little is known of the undaunted young bookseller. In the spring of 1862, the story goes, Mr. Shepard, walking in Washington Street, met his good friend, William Lee, who had been until 1860 in the popular and enterprising publishing house of Phillips, Sampson & Co.

"What are you doing now, Charlie?" asked Mr. Lee.

"Nothing; and I'm as poor as a church-mouse," said Mr. Shepard.

"I haven't got much myself," said Mr. Lee, "but I'll go halves with you; come up to my room to-night and we'll talk it over."

The result of this talk was the firm of Lee & Shepard, which had its first quarters in a very old two-story house known at that day as the "Chelsea Dye-House." Occupying the oldest building in Boston, the new firm facetiously advertised as "the oldest house in Boston." A more unpromising time to start in business, with absolutely no capital but brain, muscle, energy, integrity, and friends, could hardly be imagined. The country, which had barely recovered from the panic, was plunged in civil war, and no man could say what would next befall the disunited United States. "Ill blows the wind that profits nobody," Bohn, the great English publisher, wrote to his agent in New York, saying "Your country is going to destruction. Sell all of our books and remit as fast as you realize." An immense catalogue was announced in consequence, and Mr. Lee went to New York prepared to purchase a bill of $500. The fine standard books were sold at such enormous sacrifice that Mr. Lee came home with over $7000 worth of publications, a fact testifying clearer than words to the confidence enjoyed by the young firm. Both partners had made themselves indispensable to every firm with which they had been connected. Both had a wide acquaintanceship with authors, dealers, and public; both had a wide circle of friends, and both were trusted by their friends.

Soon after the purchase of the Bohn publications Mr. Shepard made a social call upon a former member of the firm of Phillips, Sampson & Co., who when this firm also failed had become possessed of some stereotype plates of its publications. He urged Mr. Shepard to take them off his hands and agreed to take notes from the firm in payment. These plates included The Boat Club series in six volumes, by William T. Adams ("Oliver Optic"), and his Riverdale Stories in twelve volumes. The young publishers at once brought out a new edition of these books, which met with instant success. The author, at that time a struggling school-teacher, was commissioned to write a series of books for girls. These also met with success, and year by year "Oliver Optic" wrote for the house until nearly one hundred and twenty books of his appear in their catalogue.

Just as the active, energetic firm was well established and prosperity seemed within grasp, after they had moved to 149 Washington Street, and enlarged their business in many ways, having become one of the largest jobbing houses, occurred the great fire of 1872, one of the greatest conflagrations of modern days. The devouring flames spread in every direction, hundreds of costly buildings went down, millions of capital was destroyed and thousands of men and women were thrown out of work. Lee & Shepard were among the heavier losers in that great destruction. In the ten years of their existence as a publishing firm they had grown rich, but on the morning of November 11, 1872, they faced a loss at one blow of over one-quarter million dollars. Many of their best stereotype plates, thousands of books, at the printing offices and in the binderies, and their large stock of English books ready for immediate distribution throughout the country, were literally wiped out. Even insurance companies went down before the great and sudden drain, and this firm recovered scarcely anything from the various companies in which they had invested their interests.

Once more the partners began at the bottom. Their courage and good business methods again enabled them to gather up the debris and make the foundation of a new and lasting success. They removed to a building on the southeast corner of Franklin and Hawley Streets and fitted up the building with many original features. Year by year more space was needed, until every available spot under the sidewalks and in constantly increasing galleries became filled with their own publications. Not content with handling their long line of books, and recognizing the need of centres of distribution, Lee & Shepard early started a jobbing business, which grew to be second to none in the United States. In this branch Mr. Shepard's peculiar gifts have been specially telling. He was a student of standard literature and seemed to know by intuition the selling properties of every new book. It was not an unusual thing for the firm to order five thousand copies of a work for which they had not even an order, and rarely has any heavy loss been owing to mistaken judgment. New York City for many years was run under the style of Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, but has now become C. T. Dillingham. In 1885 the business was moved to its present quarters at 10 Milk Street, and the publishers gave up the wearing jobbing business and devoted themselves wholly to their own publications. Among the successful writers whose books have brought prosperity to the firm for many years the authors for young people hold a distinguished place. "Oliver Optic," "Sophie May" of "Little Prudy" fame, Elijah Kellogg, Amanda M. Douglas, J. T. Trowbridge, and many others have year by year turned out eagerly expected books. The firm was radical during the years when American ideas were being shaped and fought for, and had the courage to publish the works of Charles Sumner when no one else could be found to publish them. Mr. Shepard was an ardent admirer of the great Senator, and until recent years was always intimately connected with Republican politics. The writings of Horace Mann, Wendell Phillips, William Whiting, Rev. Charles Beecher, and other writers of this stamp who have spoken boldly for the rights of man also bear the well-known, always distinction-conferring imprint.

In February, 1887, they celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary of partnership. Rarely have partners worked more harmoniously together or been closer friends than William Lee and "Charley" Shepard. Mr. Shepard was full of original ideas, his memory was marvellous, he was fond of a joke, and his conversation was brilliant; with these qualities he readily made friends and was the centre of their attraction. He was warm in his affections and generous to a fault, a keen reader of character, and an outspoken friend or foe. One of his friends pays this tribute to him: "Mr. Shepard was a man of singularly generous disposition, but he could not bear to be imposed upon, and I recall an example of his honest indignation at finding that his kindness had been abused. He had loaned a sum of money to one of the brilliant 'Bohemians' who had appealed to his sympathies and who had promised to return it on a certain day. Meeting Mr. Shepard some time afterward, he told him that he had mailed the amount to him. 'I knew he was lying,' said Mr. Shepard, 'and while I should not have pressed him for the money, I hated to feel that he had fallen so low as to invent a falsehood to get rid of his obligation.' What impressed me in this remark was the high estimate which Mr. Shepard placed on personal integrity and his sincere regret that any one to whom he had done a kindness should have proved himself unworthy of it. It was the feeling that his aid had been the means of losing his respect for his recipient, and not the loss of the money, which excited his regret. The spontaneity of his kindness was one of its most attractive features; there was no mistaking the naturalness of his overflowing geniality, and the cordial greeting shown in the beaming expression of the eye as well as in the hearty pressure of the hand hardly needed the emphasis of words to give it weight. The qualities which he prized in his associates were those which endeared him to his friends, and they were such as inspired the respect and affection of all who were capable of appreciating the essential nobility of his nature."

Mr. Shepard married late in life, and his wife died about ten years ago. Since then he has lived with his only sister, and at the time of his death was occupying apartments at the Berkeley. He first began to feel ill about two years ago, but continued in business until quite recently. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, brought on by dropsy. Throughout his illness he showed fortitude and patience, and although he clearly knew that there was no hope of recovery his buoyant spirit and mental brilliancy rarely failed him. A touching incident in the lives of the devoted partners was the marriage of Mr. Lee at Mr. Shepard's bedside last fall. The end came on Friday, January 25, and Mr. Shepard was buried on Sunday from King's Chapel.

The funeral took place on the afternoon of the 27th, in King's Chapel. The burial service of the chapel was conducted by Rev. Andrew P. Peabody in a most impressive manner. A special chorus, under the direction of Mr. B. J. Lang, rendered the music, the hymns "Prayer is the Soul's Delight" and "Just as I Am" being favorites of the deceased. There were many individual floral offerings, among them a wreath and sickle from the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company; a standing cross, with flowers and foliage, from Mt. Olivet Commandery, F. & A. M.; floral tablets, from the Massachusetts Consistory and the Princes of Jerusalem. Among those present were Mr. William Lee and a large delegation of employes in the establishment, Messrs. George M. Baker, E. E. Williamson, Charles T. Shepard, ex-Gov. Rice, Dana Estes, Charles E. Lauriat, T. O. H. P. Burnham, Edward Avery, Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Hon. Robert O. Fuller, H. O. Houghton, Alexander Young, Dr. J. C. Street, Col. Henry Walker, C. L. Damrell, Curtis Guild, F. P. Coggeshall, Charles T. Dillingham, B. H. Sanborn, Thomas W. Deland, Cyrus Carpenter, Augustus Flagg, A. Williams, S. J. Parkhill, A. K. Loring, Bangs Williams, F. M. Goss, and D. S. Ford, Lewis A. Roberts and Thomas Niles of Roberts Bros., G. L. Mifflin, T. B. Ticknor, G. F. Godfrey. The Master Printers' Club was represented by the following members of the Executive Committee: President, Horace T. Rockwell; Secretary, J. S. Cushing; F. H. Mudge, A. A. Blair. The following Masonic bodies were represented by present attendance and by floral tributes: The Massachusetts Consistory, Ancient and Accepted Freemasons, the Mount Olivet Chapter, the Princes of Jerusalem.

The funeral being of a private character, there were no pall-bearers, and the body was borne to Forest Hills.

And thus is taken another landmark from the more and more deserted highway of the bona fide American book-trade.

OBITUARY NOTES.

A. LIEBENROTH.

A LIEBENROTH, the senior member of the wealthy blank-book manufacturing firm of Liebenroth, Von Auw & Co., New York City, committed suicide by leaping from the rear deck of a Long Island City ferry-boat on Thursday, January 24. Mr. Liebenroth was born in Prussia and was a lieutenant in the Prussian army until the year 1848. In that troublous year he emigrated to America and soon joined with Iwan Von Auw in establishing their successful house. Owing to family cares and anxieties, Mr. Liebenroth has been for some time in a depressed frame of mind. No one saw Mr. Liebenroth jump from the boat, but the hat, overcoat, and cane found on the deck have been identified as his property. Mr. Liebenroth was about seventy years old.

BERNARD WESTERMANN.

BERNARD WESTERMANN, the founder and senior member of the firm of B. Westermann & Co., died at Wiesbaden, Germany, on January 24. Mr. Westermann was a native of Leipzig and was about seventy-five years old. He was a brother of the German publisher and of the distinguished philologist, Anton Westermann. The book-importing house in New York was established in 1838 with the active coöperation of Buechner, who continued Mr. Westermann's partner until his death in 1881. After this the senior member gradually withdrew from the active management of the firm, which was left in the capable hands of Mr. Lemcke, also a partner since 1875, and Mr. Buechner's eldest son, Oscar, who became a member of the firm two years ago. The firm has offices in London, Paris, and Leipzig, and has correspondents in all parts of the world. The firm also does an extensive export trade with Central and South America and all parts of Europe. Early in his American career Mr. Westermann became acquainted with most of the prominent men in literature and science. Joseph Henry, the Whitneys, Agassiz, father and son, Henry Barnard, and many others were patrons of his from the first. In many instances the second generation of his first customers are now succeeding their fathers. Mr. Westermann leaves a widow, a son, and two married daughters. The business will be carried on by the surviving partners, Mr. Lemcke and Mr. Buechner, as heretofore, with unimpaired capital and under the old name.

SELINA DOLARO, actress and authoress, died January 23, at 365 West Twenty-third Street, New York City. She had been seriously ill with consumption for the last three years, but, through her indomitable pluck, had kept up when her friends thought it was impossible for her to live. She was an Englishwoman by birth and a Jewess. When she was fourteen years old she married a Spanish Jew named Dolaro. About nine years ago she came to this country under the management of Col. J. H. Mapleson. She was not successful, and, shortly after, her voice failing, she began writing plays, newspaper articles, and books. Two years ago she published a curious little volume, entitled "Mes Amours," a book of amatory verse, said to have been inspired by her acting. Last summer she completed the manuscript of a novel called "Bella Demonica," which was lost in her efforts to dispose of it. Undismayed by this calamity, she resolutely set to work and rewrote the whole from memory, and succeeded in disposing of it to the Lippincotts, who are said to be under contract to publish it. She then began another work and finished it just before her death. It was the effort to have this last work accepted that resulted directly in her death.

THE D. LOTHROP CO.'S NEW QUARTERS.

ON February 26, 1887, the old firm of D. Lothrop & Co. became a stock company, and the new organization began a most successful career on March 1 of that year. The D. Lothrop Co. have an exceptionally strong force, the fitting division of whose labors we printed in our issue of March 5, 1887.

The growing business has created many new departments, and for some time past the well-known Lothrop's corner at the junction of Franklin and Hawley Streets has been totally inadequate to contain the steadily expanding and room-demanding publishing plans.

The busy publishing house has now secured two large buildings in which they hope to grow comfortably for a few years to come. It is necessary that the executive and selling departments shall be in a central location, and with this end in view the D. Lothrop Co. has leased for a term of years the large building formerly occupied by Ives, Bellamy & Co., on the corner of Washington Street, opposite Bromfield Street. This will be used for salesrooms and offices. Their catalogue now shows a large list of books which call for appropriate salesrooms. The manufacturing details of their great stock can be assigned to a building more removed from trade centres, and the firm have chosen for their exclusive use, the five-story building at 114, 116, 118, 120 Purchase Street, and will devote its entire space to manufacture and storage. The basement will be the press-room, the first and second floors the stock-rooms and the wholesale department, the third and fourth floors the bindery, and the fifth floor will be given up to the four magazines of the house, and include the editorial, art, and mailing-rooms. We sincerely congratulate the successful publishers, and hope the increased facilities will make amends to them for the great labor of moving and rearranging their possessions.

LAW PUBLISHERS GO TO LAW.

THE BLACKSTONE CO. vs. C. H. EDSON & CO.

HAMPTON L. CARSON and Furman Sheppard, representing the Blackstone Publishing Company, of 19 South Ninth Street, Philadelphia, have filed a bill of equity against Charles H. Edson & Co., publishers, who recently removed from Boston to 54 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, for damages for destroying and appropriating the business of the former, and on January 24 Messrs. Earl and White were instructed by two lawyers in Boston to bring suit against Edson & Co. for editorial work in connection with their published law-book series.

Both the Blackstone Company and Edson & Co. republished similar law-books, and Edson & Co. in their edition embody notes from American legal authorities on the subjects treated, so that the purchaser has the law as practised on both sides of the water at the present day. Mr. Edson used to be Secretary of the Blackstone Company, and the allegation is that he appropriated the subscription lists and other valuable property, and that while acting as their agent he induced other agents to give similar lists to him in New York, Massachusetts, and New Jersey.

Mr. Edson answers that his publication is different from the Blackstone Company's in that it has American notes, while the other is simply a reprint of English text-books. Mr. Edson claims that in the absence of a copyright law he had a perfect right to publish these books. He denies that he used his position to obtain subscription lists or that he induced others to get lists for him. He says that it was only after he failed to induce the Blackstone Company to publish American notes in connection with the work that he went into his own enterprise. He says that he was unable to procure a just settlement of his account and that a suit is now pending in Boston over the matter.

TURKEY TAXES PUBLISHERS AND PRINTERS.

AN Associated Press despatch, dated Constantinople, January 29, reports that "the municipal authorities here, without previous notice, insist upon levying a tax of 70 piastres upon printers and publishers. The Greek printers are chiefly affected. The journal Neologos has stopped publication. The British, Italian, and French Ambassadors are using their influence to induce the authorities to withdraw the tax.

THE SUIT AS TO ALGER'S "FROM CANAL BOY TO PRESIDENT."

THE final hearing of the equity suit of Laura E. Gilmore, owner of the copyright of the work entitled "The Life of James A. Garfield," against Horatio Alger, Jr., the author of "From Canal Boy to President," and John R. Anderson, the publisher of that book, was begun before Judge Wheeler in the U. S. Circuit Court January 25. The work owned by Mrs. Gilmore was written by her husband, James R. Gilmore, better known by his pen-name as "Edmund Kirk," and was published while the President was a candidate. It is alleged that Horatio Alger's book is an infringement upon the work of "Edmund Kirke," and that the injunction now pending should be made permanent, and that Mrs. Gilmore is entitled to damages.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

"MARIE FRANCES NORTON, sister of Charles J. Guiteau," says the N. Y. Sun, "has recently published a novel, mainly devoted to a defence of her brother, who, she says, was crazy, and was influenced by others to shoot President Garfield. She calls her book 'The Stalwarts, or, Who were to blame?'"

MRS. AMÉLIE RIVES-CHANLER has offered a prize of $100 for the best American essay on child labor. The money has been placed in the hands of Professor Richard T. Ely, of Baltimore, Secretary of the American Economic Association. The essay must not exceed 55,000 words, and must be in Professor Ely's hands not later than December 2, 1889.

MISS MATHILDE BLIND has just finished a volume of poems, "The Ascent of Man," which is to appear shortly. The bulk of the book will consist of three pieces linked together by a common idea, respectively entitled "The Ascent of Man," "The Pilgrim Soul," and "Chaunts of Life." A series of lyrics headed "Poems of the Open Air," and some love songs and sonnets, make up the rest of the volume.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Copeland & Stone, booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Lyman & Stone.

BOSTON, MASS.—The mortgage on the stock of Charles K. Wadhams & Co., stationers, 220 Devonshire St., has been foreclosed.

BOSTON, MASS.—Ives, Bellamy & Co., for many years in the fancy goods and stationery business on Washington St., are retiring from business and are disposing of their stock at public auction.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—C. C. Righter, bookseller, is selling out.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—Leech & Martin, booksellers, have dissolved partnership. W. W. Martin continues the business.

CLEVELAND, O.—Taylor, Austin & Co. will open a wholesale and retail book and stationery business about March 1. The new concern's active manager will be W. R. Austin, well known in the trade.

MAYSVILLE, KY.—A. J. McDougale, bookseller, has sold out.

NEW YORK CITY.—Lund & Co. have opened a retail book, stationery, and fancy goods store at 2086 Seventh Avenue, called "The Winthrop." A circulating library is also a feature of the store.

NEW YORK CITY.—J. A. Hill announces that the business of Hill & Harvey will hereafter be carried on by him under the firm-name of J. A. Hill & Co., at the old stand, 44 E. 14th Street. The change is in name only. Announcement was made last summer of the retirement from the firm of Mr. H. L. Harvey. Since then the business has been conducted by J. A. Hill. The "Company" in the new title is nominal only.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—His many friends in the trade will be pleased to hear that Mr. John E. Potter, Jr., has been admitted to a partnership interest in the firm of John E. Potter & Co. This firm is about to remove their offices and salesroom to the new and commodious eight-story building Nos. 1111 and 1113 Market Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Normal Publishing Co. has removed from Lancaster, Pa., to 1124 Arch Street, of this city. Mr. Charles C. Shoemaker becomes the manager.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—W. F. Adams, who owns a controlling interest in Springfield's "Old Corner Book-store," two weeks ago purchased from the Thomas Dwight estate the property on the northeast corner of Main and State Streets, Springfield, Mass., extending from the corner to the Pynchon Bank block, back on State Street 75 feet to the corner of the block, and also 105 feet in the rear. Mr. Adams thus obtains possession not only of a very valuable property, but has secured the book-store itself from invasion for an indefinite period. He has also bought land in the rear of the north portion of the block extending back about 70 feet and fronting on State Street about 50 feet. It is understood that Mr. Adams designs no important changes in the structure, which is one of the city's landmarks, nor will he disturb any of its tenants, among whom are G. & C. Merriam & Co., publishers of Webster's Dictionary. The store was opened by G. & C. Merriam. They were succeeded by Merriam, Chapin & Co., who in turn became J. C. Bridgman & Co., and they again Bridgman & Whitney. Whitney & Adams succeeded them, and to-day the firm, with all its prestige of time-honored association, is called the W. F. Adams Company. Mr. J. L. Whitney, the former partner, it will be remembered, has been for a number of years and is still the Librarian of the Boston Public Library.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. P. C. LEADBEATER, the American representative of Frederick Warne & Co., sailed on Friday, the 1st inst., for London.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

It is understood that it is not Mr. Ruskin's intention to extend the "Præterita" beyond thirty-six parts.

CUPPLES & HURD announce that they will shortly be published by subscription "The Eggs of North America," by C. J. Maynard, with colored plates drawn on stone by the author.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD announce that by a new arrangement with the English publishers they have been enabled to make a reduction of price in the entire line of the famous Henty, Fenn, and Collingwood books which formerly retailed at $2. The price is now $1.50 per volume.

S. A. MORAN, principal of the Stenographic Institute, Univ. of Michigan, Ann Arbor, has in preparation a "Type-Writer Dictionary," the object of which is to show the proper spelling and division into syllables of the more commonly misspelled and misdivided words. The book will contain between eight and ten thousand words, and will no doubt be of great service to typewriter operators, since mistakes either in the spelling or the division of words into syllables show so plainly in printed matter.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish here at once "The Last Journal" of the late Lady Brassey. It contains an account of the trip of the Sunbeam to India, Borneo, and Australia. The publishers, at Lord Brassey's request, have sought to make this one of the most sumptuous volumes of late years; it is elaborately illustrated from drawings by Mr. R. T. Prichett and from photographs. The wood-cuts have been done by the best English engravers; and variety and novelty have been gained by the insertion of some forty monotypes executed in lithography.

E. B. TREAT announces the seventh annual issue of the English "Medical Annual," a résumé in dictionary form of new remedies and new treatment that have come to the knowledge of the medical profession throughout the world during 1888. The editorial staff under the direction of Sir Morell Mackenzie comprises a list of twenty-three collaborators widely known in Europe and America. The Annual has this year changed its name to "The International Medical Annual," and will be issued under copyright protection simultaneously in London and New York City.

THE MOSES KING CORPORATION, Boston, has in active preparation "King's Handbook of the United States." It is to contain 520 pages of text, maps, and more than 1200 small original illustrations. There will be 50 full-page maps, one of each State and Territory, and a double page of the United States, printed in three colors. This book attempts to answer clearly and fully the demands for a general description and a popular history of the United States. The text is being prepared by M. F. Sweetzer, the Boston littérateur and author of many guide-books, etc.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, with out charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

TO THE TRADE.

We desire to call the special attention of the Trade to our increased facilities for conducting the book-jobbing business at our new and commodious place of business,

Nos. 740 and 742 Broadway.

We are confident there is no more varied or general stock of

Miscellaneous and School Books,

nor one more readily accessible for easy examination to be found in New York; that nowhere else will customers receive more prompt or careful attention or buy on better terms than we are able to offer on our goods.

We hope for a continuance of the liberal patronage which we received in Bond Street, and trust that the greater convenience of our new location, together with our added facilities for serving our customers with efficiency, promptness, and at the lowest prices, will enable us to merit a still greater share of business.

AUTHORS AT HOME.

Personal and Biographical Sketches of Well-known American Writers. Edited by J. L. and J. B. GILDER. Published in three editions. I. One 12mo volume, gilt top, $1.50; II. Edition de Luxe, limited to 100 copies, $4.00; III. Large-paper edition for interleaving, limited to 100 copies, $5.00.

One gets a closer and more intimate view of the authors sketched in this volume than their writings could possibly afford; and he is relieved of any sense of intruding upon their privacy by the fact that the papers here gathered together were all written with the approval of the authors whom they portray. Living authors are included in its scope, and the biographical records are brought down close to date.

Important Illustrated Works on ASIA and JAPAN,

JUST PUBLISHED BY

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON, New York.

I. Through the Heart of Asia Over the Pamir to India.

By Gabriel Bonvalot. With 250 illustrations (many of them full-page engravings) by Albert Pepin. Translated from the French by C. B. Pitman. 2 vols., imperial octavo, cloth, $10.50.

The London Spectator says: "The pages are illustrated by hundreds of engravings, many being good and helpful to the letter-press. The volumes, written throughout with French brightness, ARE A VALUABLE CONTRIBUTION TO OUR KNOWLEDGE OF CENTRAL ASIA."

II. THE INDUSTRIES OF JAPAN,

Together with an Account of its Agriculture, Mining, Forestry, Arts, and Commerce. From travels and researches undertaken at the cost of the Prussian Government. By Prof. J. J. Rein, University of Bonn. With illustrations (many of them full-page engravings), some beautifully colored, and 3 maps. Royal octavo, cloth, gilt top, $10.00.

Extract from Author's Preface: "In publishing these results of many years of study, I hope to afford welcome information and instruction regarding many questions as to the state of civilization in Japan and the industrial activity of its inhabitants. The rich literature upon this land and people has either not touched at all upon many matters which are here thoroughly treated, or at least in such a way that their scientific and technical side has received scant justice."

ALSO JUST READY (Second Edition) BY SAME AUTHOR.

III. JAPAN: TRAVELS AND RESEARCHES

Undertaken at the cost of the Prussian Government. With numerous illustrations (many full-page) and 2 maps. Royal octavo, cloth, gilt top, $7.50.

London Spectator: "No existing work on Japan can pretend to vie with the present one in the fulness and accuracy with which the physiography, natural history, and topography of the country—subjects which Dr. Rein has made specially his own—are treated, and for a long time to come it must rank as the standard authority in such matters."

NEW VOLUME OF THE BOOK-LOVERS' LIBRARY.

IV. Foreign Visitors in England, and What They Have Thought of Us.

Being Some Notes on their Books and Opinions during the last Three Centuries. By Edward Smith. 12mo, uncut edges, cloth, $1.25. Being the 9th vol. of this Library, including: I. "How to Form a Library;" II. "Old Cookery Books;" III. "Modern Methods of Illustrating Books;" IV. "Dedication of Books;" V. "Gleanings in Old Garden Literature;" VI. "Story of Some Famous Books;" VII. "Enemies of Books;" VIII. "Book of Noodles." Each, $1.25. Sold separately or in sets.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 9, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKS OF 1888.

THE books recorded by us during the past year numbered 4631, being 194 more than were entered in our "Weekly Record" during 1887, and 45 less than the books of 1886, the heaviest year in book-production in our experience.

In spite of the figures, 1888 was not an exceptionally active year with our older and larger publishers. As a general thing they were conservative. Their ventures represent the best our writers have to give, but they were slower and more cautious in publishing than two years back. The surprising number of small publishers who sprung up all over the country, lent to 1888 the appearance of being a great literary year. But while the newcomers increased the figures, they did not add to the list of important publications, or those of permanent value. Their efforts, in many cases experimental, frequently did not go beyond the first book. In the majority of cases they indorsed insignificant works, which, while no doubt stimulating manufacture largely, only swelled the deep ranks of the failures.

The flood of worthless books which scarcely live beyond the week of publication, and which grows larger each year, never ceases to excite the wonder of the disinterested observer. That they continue to find publishers with sufficient courage and capital to breathe into them their little flame of life, is a most perplexing mystery. When we speak of "worthless books," we must not be understood as referring to the issues of the cheap libraries—many of these are poor enough, but the majority represent novels which have proved their right to live. We would say here, that we recorded less of the numbers of the cheap libraries during 1888 than any previous year, both because several of the better class of libraries had gone out of existence, and those that remained sent out fewer books than formerly.

Our remark refers chiefly to the classifications of Fiction, Religion—we regret to say—Poetry, and the thousand and one paltry "Souvenirs"—"books which are no books"—which assumed every color, shape, and size known to the ingenious, during the past holiday season. Distracting as they are to the bibliographer, appearing as they often do without title, author, or place of birth, they are more distracting, we should judge, to the booksellers, the handling of them often taking time better bestowed on pushing more important publications. The time cannot be far distant when publishers will realize the policy, if not the necessity, of concentrating money and labor on fewer publications. The fever of the age seemed to be at blood heat in the book-trade last year. The impossibility of reviewer and bookseller giving anything like a fair share of attention to the numerous demands made upon them, cannot but sap their eagerness and enterprise and react badly all around. The ephemeral nature of even our art books last year was a matter of general comment. We had gone back, not forward, since 1886. Our artists cannot be blamed for this. The highest creative faculties fail to respond to the constant clamor for something new. We believe it is not an Arcadian dream we picture in the near future of fewer books and better ones—and more time for those who sell them and read them to become acquainted with something more than their covers.

The sensations of the year, as every one knows, were "Robert Elsmere" and "John Ward, Preacher." No other works had such phenomenal sales, though a few other novels—notably some Spanish translations—were very flatteringly received, and a few religious works, biographies, and histories were recognized as of permanent interest. The end of the year witnessed the advent of Bryce's "American Commonwealth." It was met with an enthusiasm which promises to grow. The Russian revival came to a climax in 1887. The past year paid little attention to Russian literature. A few of Tolstol's minor works were alone translated. The topics of our "educational" campaign—the tariff, civil service reform, free trade, and protection—stimulated many new writers. Light, popular works were again the largest in demand. No profound scientific treatise nor thoughtful philosophical work can be found among our titles.

In the table which follows we give the number of books published in 1888, in classes—and for comparison, those published in 1887. In the same table we offer figures representing—as near as we could come to it—the number which were manufactured in the United States of the books published in 1888, and the number which were importations. This latter question has been so frequently asked us, that we have attempted to answer it, this year, at the expense of some little time and labor. The results will have to be accepted as approximate—as it was not always possible, even with a great deal of care, to satisfactorily trace the full history of a book. The figures in connection with reprints are, we think, quite interesting. They show we are ceasing to do “the things which we ought not to have done,” either from having reached a higher ethical standpoint, or from having discovered perhaps that it no longer pays.

Out of the 4631 books recorded during the year (1888) it appears that 3520 were manufactured in this country; the other 1111 are English importations—a surprisingly small number of which were imported in plates or sheets. Out of the 3520 made here, nearly 3000 are the works of American authors, or are translations by American writers, or adaptations, as in the case of school-books and medical works, to the needs of our own students. 590 only are actual reprints, 375 of these being works of fiction published in cheap paper form. It will be seen that our law, our politics, and our humor and satire are almost purely domestic.

Of the 4631 books recorded 2701 were books received at this office; the other 1930 titles were industriously hunted up, or taken from written data furnished us by the publishers. The order in which the popular classes rank is by figures as follows: Fiction, Theology, Literary Miscellany, Poetry, Fine Arts, Biography, Political Science, Travel, History. According to their real importance, this order is frequently reversed in our review, as in the case of History, out of whose 144 additions at least half were notable books; while out of 280 additions to Poetry, almost all of which this year are original works, only 45 had attracted sufficient favorable notice to be quoted. Fine Arts and Illustrated Works, also strong in figures, is increased by the 70 odd “Souvenirs” which we are obliged to group under this classification. In Fiction an interesting fact to note is that out of 515 books issued in the cheap libraries, 140 were American copyright books.

FICTION.

The most read and the most discussed novels of 1888 were written by women. This was the case not only in American Fiction, but also in English fiction, the four notable novels of the year being “John Ward, Preacher,” “The Quick or the Dead,” “Robert Elsmere,” and “The Story of an African Farm.” The two latter we will take up when we come to English fiction; for the present we turn our attention to Mrs. Margaret Deland and Amélie Rives, now transformed into Mrs. John Armstrong Chanler. Although Mrs. Deland was known through “The Old Garden” and other dainty volumes of poems as a poet of exceptional gifts, her ability to produce a novel of the strength and depth of “John Ward, Preacher,” was a surprise to her warmest admirers. So intense is its human interest that it reads like a chapter from life. Its most vital point, however, is the religious experience or tragedy which it depicts, and which is a profound outcry against the intolerance of the creeds. It mirrors as unerringly a broad field of religious thought for America as “Robert Elsmere” does for England. The author’s fine literary style and delicate humor are charming accessories to a story that is often painful. That the work is now selling in the seventeen thousand, and that it has reached this success without any artificial advertisement, speaks well for the improved taste of novel-readers. Amélie Rives achieved her first fame through a volume of short stories under the original title of “A Brother to Dragons.” But her first popular ovation came from the daring magazine story, “The Quick or the Dead,” which, in spite of some repellent qualities, betrayed genius. Her most finished effort, and one remarkably in advance of anything previously received from her pen, is “Virginia of Virginia,” a heroine of the “earthy” type now enjoying a brief popularity, but a character study full of power, nevertheless. Amélie Rives’ supernaturalism and materialism called into existence a new school—new at least among American writers—and a host of books of more or less merit, and some of no merit at all, created on these lines has been the result. Laura Daintrey's "Eros" probably obtained the most readers. It is doubtful if its success is more than ephemeral. Next we might quote Edgar Saltus' "Eden" and "The Truth About Tristrem Varick," also from his pen, and also hopelessly pessimistic like all he has written. Mrs. Gertrude Franklin Atherton's "What Dreams May Come" and "The Princess Daphne" are among the most representative of this class, and are both morbid psychological studies, treating of mesmerism and reincarnation in a by no means improving style.

Howells, James, and F. Marion Crawford produced but little during the year. James' short novel, entitled "The Reverberator," did not add to his reputation. Again he dissected the American girl for our amusement. This time it is in Paris that she is made to exhibit all her pitiable weaknesses, in order to furnish a column for the insatiable American "interviewers." The satire is a bitter one, not only on the ways of American girls, but on the ways of American newspapers. "With the Immortals" can scarcely be called a novel. Mr. Crawford simply uses the paraphernalia of fiction to introduce us to some of the famous names of history and literature. Howells' "Annie Kilburn" is another beautifully finished portrait to hang in his vast picture gallery. She is a typical New England girl, more attractive than many he has made known to us, and is the central figure in an unusually clever sketch of life in a New England manufacturing town. To an older school even than Howells and James belongs Bret Harte. It has been the habit of late years to write of his decadence. Nothing, however, from his pen will ever take higher rank than his latest novel, "The Argonauts of North Liberty." It illustrates in its heroine the revolt of an unruly, unregenerate nature against Puritanism. It is not without its glimpse of early California in its days of the gold fever, which Bret Harte has so often described. The only other book he produced was made up of two little stories, "A Phyllis of the Sierras" and "A Drift from Redwood Camp," charming reminiscences of the beautiful scenery and early settlers of the far West.

The younger school of novelists, which number among its most talented members Miss Murfree, Cable, Stockton, "J. S. of Dale," and E. W. Howe, are represented by several very readable works. Miss Mary N. Murfree ("Charles Egbert Craddock") seems to have found an inexhaustible fund of material in her native mountains. "The Despot of Broomsedge Cove," from her pen, is rich in scenes and characters found within sight of the Cumberland range. George W. Cable's "Bonaventura" is fitly named "A prose pastoral of Acadian Louisiana." There is a purity and poetical elevation characterizing it which lifts it out of the ranks of ordinary novels. "A Man Story," by E. W. Howe, betrays, as did the author's previous works his conscious or unconscious imitation of Dickens. Humor and pathos are oddly mingled, the style being exceedingly clever. Frank R. Stockton's sequel to "The Casting Away of Mrs. Lecks and Mrs. Aleshine," so eagerly looked for, appeared under the name of "The Dusantes." It was almost as funny as the first instalment of the adventures of the two veteran female travellers, which is high praise. Towards the end of the year Edward Eggleston's story of "The Graysons" that had been running through the Century appeared in book-form. Its scenes from pioneer life in Illinois and the introduction of Abraham Lincoln as one of the characters gave it an exceptional interest. F. J. Stimson, better known under his pseudonym of "J. S. of Dale," sent out two excellent novels, "The Residuary Legatee" and "First Harvests." The latter is a searching arraignment of the vices of New York social life and the methods of our business men. Joseph Kirkland followed up his first work, "Zury," with a continuation of the stories of some of the characters of that novel, under the name of "The McVeys." It falls behind "Zury" in power, but has a special value, as "Zury" had, in being a realistic study of our early Western life. Here again Lincoln is introduced, and Douglas, and other afterwards famous men. "Queen Money," by the author of "The Story of Margaret Kent," "A Hard-Won Victory," by Grace Denio Litchfield, and "Behind Closed Doors," by Anna Katharine Green, are all stories of the rich and fashionable social circles of New York City. "Queen Money" satirizes the struggle for wealth, and position and "Behind Closed Doors" comprises another of the clever author's thrilling detective stories. A new and altogether unknown writer created a sensation with his first novel, "Aristocracy." It is a brilliantly humorous picture of the faults and failings of the English nobility, and is offered as a contrasting sketch to the many criticisms made by English writers upon American democracy.

Albion W. Tourgée fell below his usual high aim in "Black Ice." "'89, edited from the original manuscript by Edgar Henry," is reported to have been also written by Judge Tourgée, although he has never acknowledged the work. It is much more in his style than "Black Ice," and discusses many Southern problems in which he has long been interested.

The late war was the subject of Edward P. Roe's two novels; "Found Yet Lost" has its scenes laid in the North, "Miss Lou" in the South. "Miss Lou" possesses a sorrowful interest in being the last work from Mr. Roe's pen—his sudden death last summer being one of the sad events of the year. Charles King, in "A War-Time Woeing," drew likewise upon the wealth of incidents created by the war. Mrs. Anna Bowman Dodd, the author of "Cathedral Days" proved she could write a good novel in "Glorinda." Southern Kentucky after the war is its scene, and its heroine a wild, uneducated beauty, the daughter of a pompous, broken-down planter. "Looking Backward," by Edward Bellamy, is a prophetic novel, showing how in 2000 all our industrial troubles had vanished through methods described. "The Guardians," by the authors of "A Year in Eden" and "A Question of Identity," is a character study illustrating the impossibility of eliminating hereditary traits. "The Phillistines" treats of Boston social life among the clever and commonplace. Arlo Bates, the clever author of "The Pagans," wrote it. "A Little Maid of Acadie" is a charming love-story, the scene laid in the picturesque surroundings of French Canada, and told by Marion C. L. Reeves. "Monsieur Motte" takes us to Louisiana, where Grace King, a promising Southern writer, unravels the mystery of a young girl's life, suspected of being a quadroon. "Yone Santo" has a quaint little Japanese heroine, whose sweet simplicity and sad heart history are described by E. H. House. "Counter-Currents," by the author of "Justina," makes a study of the problem of intemperance, as does Edgar Fawcett's "A Man's Will." Mr. Fawcett also produced during the year "Olivia Delaplaine" and "Divided Lives." "Olivia Delaplaine" will rank with the best work we have had from his fertile pen. It is another of his remarkable studies of New York social life.

Julian Hawthorne, with the assistance of Inspector Byrnes' diary, wrote two more detective stories, "Section 558" and "Another's Crime." He also wrote "The Professor's Sister," a repulsive metaphysical study. In the same line with this and dealing variously with occultism as formulated by Madame Blavatzky, mesmerism, voodooism, and other eccentric theories, are "Madame Silva," by M. G. McClelland; "Be-witched," by Louis Pendleton; "The Veiled Beyond," by Sigmund B. Alexander; and "An Uncloseted Skeleton," by Lucretia P. Hale and Edwin L. Bynner. Problems of life and living were admirably set forth and methods of solving them sought for in the following stories: "Gentle Breadwinners," by Catharine Owen; "Raymond Kershaw," by Maria McIntosh Cox; "A Modern Adam and Eve in a Garden," by Amanda M. Douglas; "My Friend the Boss," and "Mr. Tangier's Vacation," by Edward E. Hale, and "Uncle Tom's Tenement," by Alice Wellington Rollins. Mrs. Amelia E. Burr's "Remember the Alamo" made a pronounced success. It describes with a marvellous fidelity and fire the Texan war of fifty years ago. From the same hand we received "Master of His Fate," a tale of Manchester and the cotton mills. Caustic descriptions of a fashionable girl's methods of securing a wealthy husband, with the aid of a match-making mother, are embraced under the title "A Débutante in New York Society." The book is by a new and brilliant writer, Rachel Buchanan. "A Castle in the Air," by Hugh Ewing, appeared in The Leisure Hour series. "Mr. Potter of Texas," by Archibald Claverling Gunter, enjoyed a popular success. "A Strange Manuscript Found in a Copper Cylinder" was on its first appearance declared by the critics to be a bare-faced imitation of H. Rider Haggard, when the surprising fact was made known that it had been written by Prof. De Mille at least twenty years ago, before Haggard, as a writer, was thought of. It is rich in the supernatural and romantic elements, and found many readers. "Odds Against Her," by Margaret R. Macfarlane, is an exciting story of Paris and Germany. "Esther, the Gentile," by Mrs. Mary W. Hudson, is a story of life in Salt Lake City. "Isidra," by Willis Steell, relates to Mexico in the year 1864. "Agatha Page," received with much favor, is from the pen of Isaac Henderson, the author of "The Prelate." Italy is the scene of the tale or "parable," as it is named, and the heroine is a beautiful musician. "The Case of Mohammed Benani" deals with the wrongs of a Sultan's envoy to a North African court. "The Spell of Ashtaroth," by Duffield Osborne, is a Biblical romance. "The Secret of Fontaine la-Croix," by Margaret Field, is placed amid scenes from the Franco-German war. "A Mexican Girl," by Frederick Thickstun, is a love-tale of New Mexico, and "The World's Verdict," by Mark Hopkins, Jr., a love-tale, with an American heroine, of Paris and Nice.

Novels almost exclusively American in scenes and characters are embraced in the titles which follow: "A Gallant Fight," by Marion Harland; "From Flax to Linen," by Mrs. N. Conklin; "Young Maids and Old," by Clara Louisa Burnham; "The Silent Witness," by Mrs. J. H. Walworth; "Kenneth Cameron," by L. Q. C. Brown; "Roger Berkeley's Probation," by Helen Campbell; "His Broken Sword," by Winnie Louise Taylor; "Len Gansett," by Ople P. Read; "Titling at Windmills," by Emma M. Connelly; "A Slave of Circumstances," by E. de L. Pierson; "Miss Frances Merley," by J. Elliot Curran; "A Blind Lead," by Josephine W. Bates; "The Peckster Professorship," by J. P. Quincy; "Rénée," by Marion Calvert Wilson; "Stubble or Wheat?" by S. Bayard Dod; "A Virginia Inheritance," by Edmund Pendleton; and "From 18 to 20," published anonymously, but said to be the work of the daughter of a prominent Philadelphia lawyer. There was a reissue of two of Mrs. Elizabeth Stoddard's novels, "Two Men" and "Temple House," and a new and handsome edition of the novels of Charles Brockden Brown, one of the first American novelists.

The American short story is not so rich in examples as in former years. Amélie Rives' "A Brother to Dragons" was probably the most talked about. Frank R. Stockton's "Amos Kilbright, His Adscititious Experiences," recalled the spirit of his earlier efforts. Richard M. Johnston photographed some novel Southern types in "Mr. Absalom Billingslea, and other Georgia Folk," and Charles C. Jones, Jr., made a little volume "in the vernacular" of "Negro Myths from the Georgia Coast." Among other volumes of short stories worthy of mention are "Our Phil," by Katharine Floyd Dana; "Autrefois," by James A. Harrison; "The King of Folly Island," by Sarah Orne Jewett; "The Septameron," by seven well-known Philadelphians; "Better Times Stories," by the author of "Margaret Kent;" "The Brown Stone Boy," by W. H. Bishop; and "David Poindexter's Disappearance," by Julian Hawthorne.

In English FICTION "Robert Elsmere," of course, heads the list. Whatever the verdict of time may be on the merits of this remarkable novel, it has undoubtedly achieved for the present all the fame of greatness. Its success has been even more pronounced in America than in England, if we may judge from the many copies that have been sold here. They have been estimated as reaching nearly 150,000. In this estimate are included the sales of the three English imported editions, and the six or seven cheap "reprints," in paper and cloth. Next to Mrs. Humphry Ward's story may be ranked in importance "The Story of an African Farm," by Olive Schreiner, written under the pen-name of "Ralph Iron." Although published in England several years ago, it only made its way to us during 1888. Based on the experience of a young English girl in South Africa, it has the advantage of unusual freshness in subject and characters. But it is outside of the elements that command success in a novel that it has attracted attention. The author is a profound student of character, and makes others feel, as she feels herself, the impossibility of escape from one's environment or one's inheritance. The hopeless tone of the book and its convincing realism are its remarkable features—more especially remarkable in this case, as coming from a young woman. Two other novels coming from English pens betray the same sombre tone as "The Story of an African Farm." Perhaps for this reason they have been accepted as powerful pictures from life, coming nearer the usual experience than do the rose-color stereotyped novels that generally find favor. The one is "The Deemster," by Hall Caine, the other "A Counsel of Perfection," by Lucas Malet. "The Deemster" treats of a character new in fiction and of a scene, the Isle of Man, of which little has been written. In "A Counsel of Perfection" a heart history is portrayed with almost the skill of a George Eliot, William Black's "In Far Lochaber" would seem to have caught the spirit of religious questioning which rules the hour. He makes his hero a Roman Catholic, and his heroine a daughter of a bigoted Scotch Dissenter. The clashing of the two faiths is the chief motive of the book, though we are treated to many new views of the lovely Scotch Highlands. "The Strange Adventures of a Houseboat," also from Mr. Black, has but a slender story, the interest centering entirely in the account of the voyage of a canal-boat with a party of congenial friends through some of the most picturesque rivers of England.

In the Leisure Hour series, we get the cream generally of the English "regulation" novels. During 1888 the series included W. E. Norris' "The Rogue," a delightfully cynical society novel; Jessie Fothergill's "The Lassies of Leverhouse" and "From Moor Isles"—the latter recalling all the charms of "The First Violin;" "A Village Tragedy," by Margaret L. Woods—a word-picture of sordid country life, often worthy of Zola; "Roy's Repentance," by Adeline Sergeant; "A Life Interest" and "Mona's Choice," two distinct books by "Mrs. Alexander" of struggling middle-class life in London, warm and helpful in tone, and charmingly sympathetic; "Loyalty George," by Mrs. Louisa Parr, a love-story of the old English town of Plymouth; "In Hot Haste," by Mary E. Hullah; and "A Mere Child," by L. B. Walford.

"The Black Arrow," by Robert L. Stevenson, is a tale of stirring adventure during the wars of the two roses. "Orthodox," in spite of its name, is not a story of Evangelical theology. It is a story of Poland, and of Jews and Catholics, all of whom remain "orthodox" after much unhappiness. The author's name is Dorothea Gerard. James Payn's name appears on two novels, "The Eavesdropper," the amusing experience of a man who could make himself invisible, and "The Mystery of Mirbridge," the usual English country novel. Walter Besant is responsible for two, also, betraying the same tendency towards an investigation of the supernatural that our own novelists manifested. "Herr Paulus" is an occultist of the school of Madame Blavatsky. Whether he is quite a knave, or possesses some of the powers of an adept, is left in doubt. "The Inner House" illustrates the condition of the world, after the discovery by a learned professor of the vital principle and the banishment of death. Both stories are exceptionally entertaining. Mrs. M. O. W. Oliphant wrote one story, "The Second Son," in connection with T. B.

Aldrich, and another, "Joyce," unassisted. Her favorite theme, English country life, has lost none of its old charms in either. S. Baring-Gould added "Eve" and "Richard Cable" to the good work he has done in this line. Grant Allen, "This Mortal Coil" and "In All Shades." George Macdonald, "Home Again" and "The Elect Lady." Frank Barrett, "The Admirable Lady Biddy Fane" and "A Recalling Vengeance." G. Manville Fenn, "One Maid's Mischief" and "The Story of Anthony Grace." H. Rider Haggard created a fresh sensation with a wholly original plot in "Mr. Meeson's Will." He also pleased a large circle of readers with "Colonel Quaritch, V.C.," and "Maiwa's Revenge." Lovers of sport were catered to in "A False Start" and "The Master of Rathkelly." Hawley Smart shows in each that he is far from having exhausted his fund of turf stories.

"The Rebel Rose" has for a heroine a lineal descendant of Mary Stuart. "A Christmas Rose" is one of the numerous pretty romances built up on the adventures of the "Pretender." It is written by R. E. Francillon. "The Countess Eve," by J. H. Shorthouse, is a strong story of France in the year 1785; and "The Mediation of Ralph Hardelot," by William Minto, relates to the rebellion of Wat Tyler in the 14th century. "The Duchess" has lost none of her old inventive power. Last year she presented three creations to her admirers: "Marvel," "The Honorable Mrs. Vereker," and "Undercurrents." "Only the Governess" and "Aunt Diana" are pleasant stories of English home life by Rosa N. Carey. "This Wicked World," "A Life's Mistake," and "A Devout Lover," from the pen of Mrs. H. Lovett Cameron, are all love-tales with charming heroines.

Other English novels without special characteristics that found many readers are "Through the Long Nights," by Mrs. E. Lynn Linton; "The Fatal Three," by Miss M. E. Braddon; "A Woman's Face," by Florence Warden; "Beautiful Jim of the Blankshire Regiment," by John Strange Winter; "Benedicta," by Mrs. Alfred Phillips; "Only a Coral Girl," by Gertrude Forde; "Too Curious," by E. J. Goodman; "The New Judgment of Paris," by Philip Le-fargue; "Marahuna," by H. B. M. Watson; "Mr. Fortescue," by William Westall; "John Winter," by Edward Garrett; "Ninette," by Charlotte L. H. Dempster; "The Nun's Curse," by Mrs. J. H. Riddell; and "The Astonishing History of Troy Town." J. H. Shorthouse's "A Teacher of the Violin, and other tales," and Thomas Hardy's "Wessex Tales," should not go unnoted. The year also witnessed another new edition in cloth of the novels of George Meredith, and a new library edition of the novels of Walter Besant and James Rice—strong testimonials of the popularity and lasting power of these writers.

The Russian literary revival apparently culminated in 1887. The succeeding year, 1888, shows an almost total absence of deep interest in Russian fiction. The only translation of importance of this class was Tolstol's "Family Happiness." It is a charming story—probably the best work we know from Tolstol. The insight it affords of Russian home life invests it with a special value. Mr. Nathan Haskell Dole made the translation. It was from Spain the deepest notes were sounded last year. B. Perez Galdós' "Leon Roch" is a novel of wonderful power and intensity. The singular unison of thought it shows with "Robert Elsmere" and "John Ward, Preacher," is an additional proof of the wide-spread revolt against intolerance. "Leon Roch" rebels not only against the bigotry, but the power of the Roman Catholic Church. Thus we learn of the amazing influence it still exerts upon the social and domestic life of Spain. But "Leon Roch" is full of hope. It is a trumpet blast from the new Spain that is rising bravely from the chains of the old. Clara Bell translated the work in excellent style, as she did also Galdós' "Court of Charles IV." Here is presented a simple historical romance of Madrid in the year 1808, unusually rich in action and color. "Maximina," by Don Armando Palacio Valdés, also from the Spanish, reproduces with marked fidelity the revolutionary spirit life in Spain, and finding its centre in Madrid, within recent years. A beautiful, heroic young wife, a dashing editor of a liberal journal, and stirring scenes from the politics of the day, are among the many interesting features of a novel, which indicates as strongly as does "Leon Roch" the new day dawning in Spain. From Italy the literary harvest was meagre. There is but one novel to record: "Signor I," by Salvatore Farina. From the Turkish "The Story of Jewad," by Ali Aziz Efendi, the Cretan, is only a curiosity. A good idea is obtained from it of life in Constantinople at the close of the last century. "Lajla," a tale of Finmark, by J. A. Friis, is an example of Norwegian fiction, pure and wholesome. German literature provides us with some of our most attractive and most popular novels. The delightful home life they depict, the warmth and tenderness displayed in their characters appeal irresistibly to young American readers. Two of Mrs. A. L. Wister's adaptations from the German met with ready appreciation. They were: "The Owl's Nest," by E. Marlitt, and "Picked Up in the Streets," by H. Shoberl. Of similar character was "Her Only Brother," translated from the German of W. Heimbürg by Jean W. Wylie. "For the Right," also from a German source, created quite a little ripple of talk. The author is Karl Emil Franzos, and the scene of his novel Galicia. The favoritism of fortune was felt even in this far-away province, and we were again treated to a painful picture of the apparent hopelessness of struggling against the "might" which so often makes "right." Among the more important French translations were Zola's novels, "The Dream" (Le Rêve) and "The Soil" (La Terre). The one is as pure in tone as the other is objectionable. They are both in Zola's favorite line of study in heredity. The latter work delineating the most sordid, degraded side of French peasant life. "The Jolly Parisiennes," a volume of short stories, is likewise from Emile Zola. Louis Ulbach wrote a clever detective story, "The Steel Hammer," and its sequel, "For Fifteen Years," which were turned into English by E. W. Latimer. Pretty French love-tales are represented by "The Story of Colette," "An Iceland Fisherman," by Pierre Loti, and a little volume called "Jettatura," which contains not only this story by Théophile Gautier, but others by Féval and Sardou. Miss Katherine Prescott Wormeley's fine translation of Balzac went on, the new volumes being "The Magic Skin," "Modeste Mignon," and "Cousin Bette." Three new editions with new translations of the novels of Victor Hugo call attention to the revived interest in this great writer. Alexander Dumas and Eugene Sue were also paid the compliment of new translations and new editions.

THEOLOGY AND RELIGION.

The contributions to religious thought are from American writers extremely rich in numbers. Under this department we gather the more important theological works, church histories, practical manuals for pastors and students, and speculative literature. Henry C. Lea's "History of the Inquisition of the Middle Ages" was completed by the issue of the second and third volumes. The volumes treat of the Inquisition in the several lands of Christendom, and of special fields of inquisitorial activity. The scholarly care so characteristic of the opening volume was carried through to the end. Dr. Philip Schaff's "History of the Christian Church" received a new volume, the 6th, whose subject is "Modern Christianity, the German Reformation, 1517-1530." He also made a little contribution to American church history in "Church and State in the United States," a discussion of that part of the Constitution which protects us against the despotism of a state church, from the standpoint of a church historian and theologian. "A Select Library of the Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers of the Christian Church," of which Dr. Schaff is editor, was increased by four volumes (7-10).

The desire to reconcile the discoveries of science with the systems of revealed religion is unabated. Josiah Parsons Cooke prepared at the invitation of the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, a series of lectures on the evidences of Christianity, which are issued in book-form under the title, "The Credentials of Science, the Warrant of Faith." "Evolution and its Relation to Religious Thought," by Joseph Le Conte, and "The Religious Aspect of Evolution" both seem to prove that "evolution is not inconsistent with religion." Of the same order of thought is Dr. C. W. Shields' new revised and abridged edition of his important work, "Philosophia Ultima, or, Science of the Sciences." The first volume only was issued in its new form last year. It will be found more adapted than formerly to the needs of the general reader. Modern research is applied as a test to the divine inspiration of the Scriptures in Dr. G. T. Ladd's "What Is the Bible?" The reverend author's conclusion is that nothing has been discovered which need disturb the use of the Bible "as the believer's rule of faith and life." The doctrine of the punishment of the wicked after death also received critical examination in the Rev. Roswell D. Hitchcock's "Eternal Atonement," and the Rev. Cameron Mann's "Five Discourses on Future Punishment." Neither writer wavers in the orthodox belief of a place of ceaseless torture for the unregenerate. Another little book to fortify the doubter is "Man a Revelation of God," by Dr. G. E. Ackerman.

A number of sermons, all strictly orthodox, were published by ministers of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Bishop Hugh Miller Thompson's "The World and the Kingdom" are the Bishop Paddock Lectures for 1888; Rev. Arthur Wentworth Eaton, a clergyman of Boston, embodied under the title of "The Heart of the Creeds" the essential principles which are considered the foundation of the creeds; "The Heath in the Wilderness" represents a selection of twenty sermons taken from the fifteen hundred sermons found upon the death of the late Dr. Richard Newton; Rev. Morgan Dix's "The Seven Deadly Sins" contains his six Lenten sermons against the vices of society, which created so much discussion last winter. The Baldwin Lectures for 1887 were delivered by the Rev. William Clark. They are a contribution to Christian apologetics, and are called "Witnesses to Christ."

The "Sermons on the International Sunday-School Lessons," by the Monday Club, are widely known among ministers and Sunday-school teachers. The volumes for 1888 and 1889 were both issued during the past year. "The Transfiguration of Life," by Dr. E. S. Atwood, and "Spirit and Life Thoughts for To-Day," by Dr. Amory H. Bradford, are sermons by prominent Congregationalists. Rev. James McCosh published "Gospel Sermons" and four volumes of Henry Ward Beecher's sermons were issued as the "Plymouth Pulpit" Popular lectures, essays, and sermons are embraced under the following titles: "Martin Luther, and other essays," by F. H. Hedge; "Philosophy and Religion," by the Rev. A. Hopkins Strong; "Missouri Christian Lectures," selected from the courses of 1886, 1887, and 1889; "The Inspired Word," a series of papers and addresses edited by Arthur T. Pierson and delivered at the Bible Inspiration Conference, Phila., 1887; "Christian Thought," edited by the Rev. C. F. Deems; and "Yale Lectures on Preaching," by Dr. Nathaniel J. Burton, the pastor of the Park Church, Hartford, Conn.

The Rabbi Solomon Schindler delivered a series of lectures at the Temple Adath Israel, of Boston, which are specially graphic in illustration. "Dissolving Views in the History of Judaism" is the title they have been published under. The "views" are entirely from an orthodox Jewish standpoint. The same may be said of "Some Chapters on Judaism and the Science of Religion," by the Rabbi Louis Grossmann, of Detroit. From an Unitarian and a Universalist standpoint the character of Jesus was discussed in "Jesus Brought Back," by Joseph H. Crooker, and "Jesus and the Men About Him," by Charles F. Dole. Minot J. Savage, another Unitarian, attempts to answer many earnest questions regarding Jesus, and other matters of faith in "Religious Reconstruction." "Jesus in Modern Life" is from the pen of Algernon Sydney Logan, and is a study on the lines of Rénan and Strauss, in which all that seems supernatural in the life of Jesus is rejected. "The Field-Ingersoll Discussion—Faith or Agnosticism?" which attracted so much attention in the North American Review, came out in pamphlet form.

Practical volumes on church work and fresh methods of evangelization are offered in "The Sunday-School," by H. Clay Trumbull, the talented editor of the Sunday-School Times, and the author of "Kadesh Barnea, the Blood Covenant." He details in ten lectures the origin, mission, methods, and auxiliaries of the Sunday-school from his own experience of over a quarter of a century. The Missionary Bishop of Colorado, Rev. J. F. Spalding, indicates "The Best Method of Working a Parish," through some practical sermons, and the Rev. C. F. Thwing takes up the same subject in "The Working Church;" "Coöperation in Christian Work" is a kindred work. Church government and church history in the Methodist Church are treated in two works, "The Relation of the Episcopacy to the General Conference," by Bishop W. L. Harris, and "The Evolution of Episcopacy and Original Methodism," by the Rev. T. B. Neely. "The People's History of Presbyterianism in

All Ages," by Robert P. Kerr, is an outline history for general readers. "Christianity in the United States, from the first settlement down to the present time," by the Rev. Daniel Dorchester, tells its own story. Dr. Dorchester also discussed an interesting political and religious question in "Romanism versus the Public School System." Contemporary problems of labor, wealth, and legislation are discussed in their relation to Christianity by David J. Hill in "The Social Influence of Christianity," by H. W. Cadman in "The Christian Unity of Capital and Labor," and by Francis N. Zabriskie in "The Bible a Workingman's Book." Spiritual food is provided for the little ones by Lucia T. Ames and the Rev. W. Wilberforce Newton. "Great Thoughts for Little Thinkers" is the title of the first author's book; "A Father's Blessing, and other sermons for children," that of the second. "Keystones of Faith," by Dr. Wolcott Calkins; "College Students at Northfield," "Christianity in the Daily Life," "The Sunrise, Noonday, and Sunset of the Day of Grace," by the Rev. Henry M. Booth; "The Bible Doctrine of Inspiration Explained and Vindicated," by Dr. Basil Manly; "Biblical Antiquities," by Dr. Edwin Cone Bissell, and the "Manual of Christian Evidences," by Rev. G. Park Fisher, are practical, useful manuals for theological students and busy people. Aids to Bible study are embraced in the following groups: "Studies in the Book of Acts," by the Rev. J. Williams; "Sacred History from the Creation to the Giving of the Law," by the Rev. E. P. Humphrey, and "The Peerless Prophet; or, the Life and Times of John the Baptist," by Dr. Archibald McCullagh; "Rest Awhile," by Rose Porter, contains comforting words for tired spirits "Reincarnation" is a highly spiritual study of the theory of the transmigration of souls, written by E. D. Walker. A most comprehensive study in bibliography is to be found in "Fifteenth Century Bibles," by Wendell Prime. The few other religious works of importance are "The Cross," by W. W. Blake; "Our Celestial Home," by Jermain G. Porter; "A New Rendering of the Hebrew Psalms into English Verse," by Dr. Abraham Coles; "Christ in the Camp," by the Rev. J. W. Jones, and "What Are We to Believe?" by Rev. J. Urquhart. "Physical Proofs of Another Life," by Francis J. Lippitt, is another outcome of the Seybert Commission, appointed by the University of Pennsylvania to investigate spiritualism. The letters in this work purport to refute the report of the commission which found all the manifestations presented to them frauds of the grossest kind.

The THEOLOGICAL works from the English, made known to us during the year through importations and reprints, were chiefly of an expository nature. Several new series were started, furnishing fresh aid and suggestions to ministers and students, in the way of popular lectures and outlines of sermons from the foremost English theologians and preachers, embracing the latest results of scholarship. "The Expositor's Bible," one of the more important series, has already sent out six volumes, namely, the Rev. W. G. Blaikie's studies on "The First Book of Samuel" and on "The Second Book of Samuel;" Dr. G. A. Chadwick's "The Gospel According to St. Mark;" Dr. Thomas C. Edwards' "The Epistle to the Hebrews;" and the Rev. Alexander Maclaren's lectures on "The Epistles of St. Paul to the Colossians and Philemon." "The Sermon Bible," a series to embrace twelve volumes, containing the essence of the best homiletic literature of this generation, on the books of the Old and New Testament, will find a place in every clergyman's library. The first volume only has so far been published. It runs from "Genesis to II. Samuel," and is extremely rich in references and practical helps. Other parts of the Scriptures which received special study were: "The Book of Psalms," by the Rev. T. K. Cheyne; "The Book of Genesis," by Dr. Marcus Dods; and "The Gospel of St. John," by the Rev. Thomas Whitelaw. "The Golden Alphabet of the Praises of Holy Scripture," by the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, is a devotional commentary upon the 119th Psalm. Belonging to the same group are the issues of Nisbet's Theological Library: "Non-Biblical Systems of Religion," a symposium by Canon Farrar and others; "Christianity and Evolution," modern problems of the faith, by Dr. G. Matheson and others; and "Christianity According to Christ," a series of papers, by Dr. J. Munro Gibson. To the Epochs of Church History three new works were added: "The English Church of the Middle Ages," by William Hunt; "The Popes and the Hohenstaufen," by Ugo Balzani; and the "History of the University of Cambridge," by J. Bass Mullinger. Dr. Joseph Parker's great work in this line, "The People's Bible," was increased by three new volumes, and Spence, Exell, and Neil's "Thirty Thousand Thoughts," a lasting monument to the indefatigable industry of its editors, was concluded with the sixth volume.

Sermons from numerous English divines appealed to new circles of thinkers and inquirers. Canon Farrar's topic was "Every-Day Christian Life." Rev. Robert E. Bartlett's "The Letter and the Spirit," was the Bampton Lectures for 1888. The witty author of "How To Be Happy Though Married," Mr. Edward J. Hardy, who was once a chaplain in the English army, collected a number of his practical discourses to soldiers under the title, "Faint, Yet Pursuing, and other sermons." Dr. H. P. Liddon, Rev. Samuel Cox, Dr. Richard C. Trench, and the Rev. James Baldwin Brown are all responsible for volumes of sermons. The Hibberd Lectures for 1888 are on "The Origin and Growth of Religion as Illustrated by Celtic Heathendom," and are from the pen of Mr. John Rhys. "Daily Truth," by H. Bickersteth Cook, and "The Cheque-Book of the Bank of Faith," by Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, contain helpful spiritual food for daily use. "Love the Fulfilling of the Law" is a selection of brief extracts from the writings of the late Norman Macleod, D.D. Some of the inspiration of one of London's greatest preachers may be caught from two of E. Paxton Hood's works, "The Throne of Eloquence" and "The Vocation of the Preacher." "The Dawn of the Modern Mission" was discussed by Dr. William Fleming Stevenson. "Scotland's Strength in the Past, and Scotland's Hope in the Future," by Dr. James W. Taylor; "The Names of God in Holy Scripture," by Andrew Jukes; and "The Mental Characteristics of the Lord Jesus Christ," by the Rev. Henry Norris Bernard.

Ernest Rénan's "History of the People of Israel till the Time of King David" is the only important work from the French. It is the first volume of a comprehensive history of the origin of Christianity which he hopes to live to finish. It is in line with his "Life of Jesus," which will come in as a volume of his scheme in its chronological order. "The Ancient World and Christianity" was excellently translated from the French of Dr. E. de Pressensé by Annie Harwood Holmden. "Under French Skies" is partly didactic and partly fiction. It is one of Madame de Gasparin's volumes of poetical religious reflections. From the German were taken Rothe's "Still Hours" and Bernhard Punjer's "History of the Christian Philosophy of Religion from the Reformation to Kant."

BIOGRAPHY.

One of the most interesting and prolific departments is that of BIOGRAPHY, MEMOIRS, AND CORRESPONDENCE. In comparison with its numbers, its richness in works of intrinsic value is quite remarkable. To the already vast field of American reminiscent literature of the late war was added Hugh McCulloch's "Men and Measures of Half a Century." Mr. McCulloch's high official position as Secretary of the Treasury under Lincoln, Johnson, and Arthur gave him unusual opportunities for studying the great men of his day. His impressions are embraced in this volume. They are at all times broad and impartial, and will greatly aid the future historian in arriving at a just estimate of the much-discussed characters of such men as Chase, Stanton, McClellan, and Grant. Another work characterized by a refreshing manliness and independence is the "Life and Letters of George Perkins Marsh," compiled by his daughter. He, too, was a prominent figure in the political field up to 1882, and one of our most distinguished philologists. The account of his literary achievements, and of his career as Senator and diplomat, includes many historical and biographical details of the events and men of his time that are of the greatest value. Going back to the first years of the Republic no name is better known, especially in New York history, than that of Gouverneur Morris. His "Diary and Letters" betray the marked influence his personality had in the counsels which finally crystallized in the Constitution. They afford also a graphic picture of France in the Reign of Terror, during which time he was the United States Minister. Theodore Roosevelt wrote a life of this distinguished man for the American Statesmen series. "Gouverneur Morris," as the biography is simply called, should be read in connection with the diary and letters. The only other work this series received during the year was the careful, scholarly study of Edward M. Shepard of "Martin Van Buren." Antedating any of these characters is the subject of Prof. J. K. Hosmer's volume, "Young Sir Henry Vane." His life belongs to the period of early colonial history in Massachusetts. He was Governor of Massachusetts Bay, and leader of the Long Parliament in England—his story being of equal interest to Americans and Englishmen. "The Life of La Fayette," from the pen of Lydia Hoyt Farmer, is considered one of the best yet written of the French General, whose name is so intimately connected with our war of independence. The name of Rev. Manasseh Cutler is found in the history of the early settlement of the Ohio Valley; his "Life, Journals, and Correspondence," published by his grandchildren, is an important link in pioneer life. A typical American business man of the early part of the century is eulogized in "The Life of Amos A. Lawrence." "Harvard Reminiscences," by Dr. Andrew P. Peabody, offer biographical sketches of Harvard students who were the professors' contemporaries. "Life of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet," by his son, is a tribute to the unselfish efforts of the founder of deaf-mute instruction in America. The late proprietor of the New York Observer, S. Irenæus Prime, had his interesting "Autobiography and Memorials" given to the world by his son, Wendell Prime, and the Rev. Asa Bullard, known for over a half a century in connection with the Sunday-schools, told his story in "Incidents in a Busy Life." The well-known missionary, Dr. William G. Schauffler, also wrote his "Autobiography," as did "Private Dalzell." The gallant Col. Mapleson, of Italian opera fame, gave, through an American publisher, an amusing account of his experience as impresario, in two thick volumes—"The Mapleson Memoirs, 1848-1888." The valuable art biography of "Henry Hobart Richardson and His Works" was at last finished by Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer and sent out in exceptionally elegant form.

The Great French Writers series which found its inception in 1888, though taken from the French, secured translation here—Melville B. Anderson's excellent English adding much to the success of the volumes. The works so far issued of a most instructive series are "George Sand," by E. Caro; "Madame de Sévigné," by Gaston Boissier; "Montesquieu," by Albert Sorel; "Turgot," by Léon Say; and "Victor Cousin," by Jules Simon. Other literary biographies are E. E. Brown's "Life of James Russell Lowell," "Robert Southey," by John Dennis, and a brief sketch of "Louisa May Alcott," by Ednah D. Cheney. Numerous women craved sympathy and appreciation, and others had their joys and sorrows related by loving friends. "The Nun of Kenmare" lays bare the dissensions of Sister Mary Frances Clare Cusack with her superiors in the Catholic Church. "The Life of Dr. Anandabai Joshee" is dedicated to the memory of a heroic, high-caste Hindu woman who studied medicine in Philadelphia, by her friend Mrs. Caroline Healey Dall. "Della Bacon" is the woman so daring who cast doubt upon the authorship of the plays attributed to Shakespeare; and "Sarah Pugh," a Philadelphia Friend and anti-slavery woman, whose career was worthy of a "memorial." The ladies of the White House, "From Lady Washington to Mrs. Cleveland," had their graces and weaknesses photographed by the witty pen of Lydia L. Gordon, and "Successful Women," to the number of twelve in various walks and professions, were written up by Sarah K. Bolton. She also produced an eulogistic work on "Famous American Statesmen."

"John B. Finch," the great champion of temperance, was the subject of a volume, as was "Clinton Bowen Fisk," the Presidential nominee of the Prohibition Party. Other campaign biographies worth recording were "Lives of Harrison and Morton," by Rev. Gilbert L. Harney; "Life of General Ben. Harrison," by Lew. Wallace; "Life of Grover Cleveland and Thurman," by Hensel and Parker; and "The President and his Cabinet," by C. B. Norton. In William O. Stoddard's Lives of the President series "Grover Cleveland" occupied a volume, as did "William Henry Harrison, Tyler, and Polk" another, "Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson" a third volume, and "Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce, and Buchanan" a fourth. We would here call attention to Noah Brooks' excellent biography of "Abraham Lincoln" for young people. Works that cannot be left out of this review are the following: "Ben Hardin," by Lucius P. Little; "Life and Times of the Rev. John Carroll, Bishop of Baltimore," by John Gilmary Shea; "The Life and Letters of Dr. S. Wells Williams;" "Life of Walter Harriman," by Amos Hadley; "The Master of the Gunnery," a memorial of Frederick William Gunn; "Personal Memoirs of General Phillip H. Sheridan;" "The Life of General Sheridan," by Frank A. Barr and R. J. Hinton; "A Biography of Henry Ward Beecher," by his son, W. C. Beecher, his son-in-law, Rev. S. Scoville, and Mrs. H. W. Beecher; and "Emperor William I.," by Herrmann Lieb. Two new volumes were issued of "Appletons' Cyclopaedia of American Biography," and the first volume of an important new work, to be concluded in three volumes, under the title "Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians," edited by John Denison Champlin, Jr., and W. F. Apthorp.

The English reprints and importations in this classification are generally works of permanent interest. The additions to The Famous Women series, bear the names of "Adelaide Ristori," the gifted artist, "Hannah More," and "Elizabeth Barrett Browning," the first biography of the world-renowned poet ever written. The honor of accomplishing this feat belongs to Mr. John H. Ingram. A new biographical series reprinted from the English, the International Statesmen series depicts for popular reading the methods and surroundings of the greatest European diplomats. So far the volumes are: "Life of Lord Beaconsfield," by T. E. Kebbel; "Life of Daniel O'Connell," by J. A. Hamilton; "Life of Prince Metternich," by G. B. Malleon; "Life of Viscount Palmerston," by Lloyd C. Sanders. In Philosophical Classics for English Readers we had John Caird's "Spinoza" and John Nichol's "Francis Bacon."

English literary life extending back to the beginning of the century is celebrated in T. Adolphus Trollope's "What I Remember." Charming details abound of writers whose names are household words. "The Early Life of Samuel Rogers," by P. W. Clayden, is also delightfully reminiscent of a period even earlier than that covered by Mr. Trollope. The "Letters of Charles Lamb," newly arranged, with notes and introduction, by Alfred Ainger, follow naturally here. The immortal humor of "Elia" lightens somewhat the tragical story this new arrangement of his correspondence sets forth. Robert L. Stevenson sketches the character of a favorite professor of the University of Edinburgh in the "Memoir of Fleeming Jenkin;" Lear's "Henri Dominique Lacordaire" is an enthusiastic Protestant estimate of a popular French Catholic preacher. "The Life of Mrs. Godolphin," by John Evelyn, a new issue of a famous book, relates to one who was celebrated for her "extraordinary virtues" in the corrupt reign of Charles II. Maria V. G. Havergal's "Autobiography" and Ewart's "Leaders Upward and Onward" appealed to numerous readers. G. Barnett Smith's "William I." and Archibald Forbes' "William of Germany" give, besides the facts of the old Kaiser's life, a dramatic account of the consolidation of the German Empire. His noble son is the hero of Rennell Rodd's "Frederick, Crown Prince and Emperor." "Monarchs I have Met" gives in a gossipy and popular way sketches of the recent Emperors of Germany, and other European potentates, some living and some dead. It is the work of a journalist, W. Beatty Kingston. Ferdinand De Lessep's "Recollections of Forty Years" was taken from the French; also, Felix Rabbe's sympathetic study of "Shelley." From the German "Solomon Maimon," an autobiography; "The Life of Raphael," by Herman Grimm; the "Correspondence between Wagner and Liszt, 1841-1861;" "The Correspondence Between the Margravine of Baireuth and Voltaire," and "Mendelssohn's Letters to Ignaz and Charlotte Moscheles." The autobiographical sketches of "Vassili Verestchagin," the celebrated Russian artist, were culled from both the French and German. Importations in limited editions were made of the following valuable biographical works: "The Life and Adventures of Edmund Kean," by J. Fitzgerald Malloy; "The Fighting Veres," by Clements R. Markham; "Letters of General C. G. Gordon to his Sisters;" "The Life of the Right Hon. Stratford Canning," by Stanley Lane-Poole; "The Life of the Right Hon. W. E. Forster," by T. Wemyss Reid; "Correspondence of Daniel O'Connell, the Liberator;" "Thomas Poole and his Friends," by Mrs. Sandford; "The Life of Principal Tulloch, D.D., St. Andrew's," by M. O. W. Oliphant, and several volumes of Leslie Stephen's comprehensive "Dictionary of National Biography," and volume third of Joseph Gillow's "Literary and Biographical History," being a bibliographical dictionary of the English Catholics from the breach with Rome in 1534 to the present time.

HISTORY.

In HISTORY the majority of the contributions are American in author and subject. Although the whole number is very small, there are few works that are not worthy of some mention. Among the more important are Moncure D. Conway's "Omitted Chapters of History Disclosed in the Life and Papers of Edmund Randolph, Governor of Virginia," and part 2 of "Franklin in France," edited by Edward E. Hale. Both these works, especially the latter, border on biography, but their importance is derived from the new light they shed upon historical points, that time had apparently settled—hence we include them here. They both belong to our first years as a nation and are rich in new facts that will delight all students of this period. Between the close of the Revolutionary War and the adoption of the Constitution there was an obscure period in our history that historians had neglected. Mr. John Fiske has made it the subject of minute research, his important studies being embraced in a work called "The Critical Period of American History, 1783-1789." Correlative studies are found in "Seven Conventions," by A. W. Clason, and "The Old Northwest," by B. A. Hinsdale, giving a view of the thirteen colonies as constituted by the royal charters. The "History of the Pacific States of North America" from their earliest days was continued by the tireless worker, Hubert Howe Bancroft. The four volumes issued in 1888 were: volume sixth of "History of Mexico," volume sixth of "California, 1848-1859," "California Pastoral," and "California Inter-Pocula." The two last-named volumes appeal more directly to popular taste than either of the preceding, being picturesque narratives of the crimes and Bohemianism which belong to the early days of the land of gold.

The civil war is a yet unexhausted subject. Rossiter Johnson offers a rapid résumé of the events of 1861-1865 in "A Short History of the War of Secession." General De Trobriand's "Four Years with the Army of the Potomac," though published in France directly after the war, has only recently been given to English readers. Aside from its brilliant sketches of camp-life and adventures in the field, it adds new material to the oft-discussed question of McClellan's ability, of whom De Trobriand was not an admirer. No chapter of the history of these times is more thrilling than that of "The Loyal Mountaineers of Tennessee." Their devotion to the Union through innumerable hardships is well told by the Rev. T. W. Humes. In connection with this work we would mention the issue of the fourth volume of the Comte de Paris' valuable "History of the Civil War," this special volume treating of the war in Eastern Tennessee. The double part Napoleon the Third played in our late war, though often suspected, was not sustained by proof, till Mr. John Bigelow gave the world the valuable correspondence between the South and France, to be found in "France and the Confederate Navy, 1862-1868." Other "Reminiscences and Documents Relating to the Civil War during the year 1865," from John A. Campbell, Assistant Secretary of War under Jefferson Davis, will be of incalculable value in future history. Belonging to this group are, also, "History of the Corn Exchange Regiment, 118th Penn. Vols.," from their first engagement at Antietam to Apomattox; S. Millett Thompson's diary of the "Thirteenth Regiment of New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, covering 1861-1865;" Alvin C. Voris' "Charleston in the Rebellion;" and the new volume of Johnson's and Buel's "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War." The lighter side of war, telling of the noble work of our devoted women, was described by John D. Billings in "Hard Tack and Coffee," by Mrs. Mary A. Hedricks in "Incidents of the Civil War," by Mary A. Livermore in "My Story of the War," and by Katharine Prescott Wormeley, the accomplished translator of Balzac, in "The Other Side of War." This volume consists of letters written from the Headquarters of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, with the Army of the Potomac, during the Virginia Campaign of 1862. General John A. Logan's valuable monograph, "The Volunteer Soldier in America," was published, and Joseph T. Wilson gave in "The Black Phalanx" a history of the negro soldiers of the United States in the wars of 1775-1812, 1861-5. A chapter of reconstruction in the Southern States is embraced in "Governor Chamberlain's Administration in South Carolina," written by Walter Allen.

The settlement of the Southwest was a favorite topic of investigation. "The Advance-Guard of Western Civilization," devoted to the settlement of middle Tennessee, is as rich in romance and adventure as the former volumes of Mr. Gilmore's series, "The Rear-Guard of the Revolution," and "John Sevier as a Commonwealth Builder." James Phelan's "History of Tennessee, the Making of a State," follows naturally here. To the American Commonwealth series, the additions were "Indiana," by J. P. Dunn, Jr.; "Missouri," by Lucien Carr; and "Ohio," by Rufus King, all thoughtful, scholarly works. "A History of Ohio" came also from the pen of Daniel J. Ryan, and "A Story of Ohio," from Alexander Black. The latter was the second volume of a new series, the Story of the States, edited by Mr. E. S. Brooks, of which his own graphic narrative, "The Story of New York," was the opening volume. "The Story of the City of New York" was the subject of the first volume of another series, Great Cities of the Republic, planned for younger readers. It is the work of Charles Burr Todd. "Colonial Times on Buzzard's Bay," by W. Root Bliss, and "The Puritan Age and Rule," by George E. Ellis, relate to first settlements in New England. "The British Invasion from the North" is Lieut. W. Digby's journal describing the campaigns of Generals Carleton and Burgoyne from Canada, 1776-7. Hunnewell's "Century of Town Life," Hurd's "History of Essex County," Dawson's "Westchester County, N. Y., During the American Revolution," Blake's "History of the Town of Hampden, Ct.," and Rev. J. H. Temple's "History of North Brookfield, Mass.," are valuable local histories. Ireland's "Republic" was completed in 18 volumes, and Justin Winsor's extensive "Narrative and Critical History of America" finished its fifth and sixth volumes. Eggleston's "Household History of the United States," a fresh, unconventional setting to an old subject, is a notable effort in this line. In its attractive style and handsome "get-up," it appeals strongly to the popular taste.

The Story of the Nations series has grown to be considered an American enterprise through the partnership work of American writers evident in the majority of the volumes. The issues of the year were: "The Story of Turkey," by Stanley Lane-Poole, assisted by E. J. W. Gibb and Arthur Gilman; "The Story of Holland," by James E. Thorold Rogers; "The Story of Mediæval France," by Gustave Masson; "The Story of Media, Babylon, and Persia," by Zénalde A. Ragozin; and "The Story of the Goths," by Henry Bradley. Roman history before Christ is almost reconstructed through Prof. Rodolfo Lanciani's great work, "Ancient Rome in the Light of Recent Discoveries." It describes the extensive excavations made in Rome by the Italian Government since 1871, at first under Prof. Lanciani's observation and recently under his direction. It is to American capital and American enterprise we owe the existence of this handsome work.

Prof. Herbert Tuttle's exhaustive study of the reign of the third King of Prussia was continued in "History of Prussia under Frederick the Great, 1740-1756." The two volumes bring his narrative to the end of the first half. Two more will complete the work, ending with the death of Frederick. "The Causes of the French Revolution" was the subject of nine lectures delivered by Prof. R. Heath Dabney before the faculty and students of the Washington and Lee University. "The Aryan Race" had its history cleverly epitomized by Charles Morris. "The Soul of the Far East" is a review of family life and religion of the people of Eastern Asia, Japan, and Corea, by Percival Lowell.

From English sources we had the concluding volumes (5 and 6) of Kinglake's "Invasion of the Crimea," which sustained its thrilling interest to the end; a new revised edition by Mrs. Green of her husband's popular "Short History of the English People"; Arthur Penrhyn Stanley's "Historical Memorials of Canterbury," reprinted from the 11th London edition; in the English History from Contemporary Writers series, "Strongbow's Conquest of Ireland," by Francis Pierrepont Barnard, and "Simon de Montford," by Rev. W. H. Hutton, two little manuals for students. Dr. Mombert's "History of Charles the Great (Charlemagne)," a work of exceptional value, evincing new research upon the history of the Middle Ages; Sidney Whitman's "Imperial Germany," and "The Fall of New France," by Gerald E. Hart. An Englishman, William Watson, published his observations and experiences in the South during the late war under the title, "Life in the Confederate Army." From the French was translated "The History of Nicolas Muss." The hero belonged to the household of Admiral Colligny. He paints with a graphic pen the thrilling scenes of the massacre of St. Bartholomew. Tolstol was again the favorite in Russian literature. His two works, "The Physiology of War" and "Power and Liberty," were translated from the French by Huntington Smith. The first work reviews Napoleon's campaign in Russia. The second elaborates some novel views expressed in the first. Alexander Verestchagin is the brother of the Russian artist of the same name. His reminiscences of the Russo-Turkish war, and other campaigns under General Skobelev are embodied in "At Home and in War."

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

American writers have left few places in America and Europe undescribed. The Rev. W. H. H. Murray made a journey through Canada from Montreal to Vancouver City on the Pacific, whose incidents are exploited in his usually graphic manner in "Daylight Land." The two enterprising ladies who enjoyed "A Vacation in a Buggy," in 1887, pitched their tent last year on the Cape Cod coast. Marie Louisa Pool narrates their experience with much humor in "Tenting at Stony Beach." T. Wentworth Higginson's "Travellers and Outlaws" delineates salient figures and scenes in early New England life. "Old Concord" was visited by "Margaret Sidney" (Mrs. H. M. Lothrop) and its literary reminiscences recorded. Catherine B. Yale told the "Story of the Old Willard House of Deerfield, Mass.," and Chipman P. Turner dwelt upon "The Pioneer Period of Western New York." Two novel tours were made on horseback—"Winter Sketches from the Saddle," by John Codman, a septuagenarian, gives vivid descriptions of a ride through the finest New York and New England scenery during the cold season, Charles Dudley Warner's "On Horseback" relates with a quaint humor the adventures of himself and a friend in a tour through Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee—there are also some notes of travel in Mexico and California. The unusual experience of two Southern women during the late war found expression in "A Blockaded Family," and "From Flag to Flag." Parthenia Antoinette Hague lays the scene of her narrative in Southern Alabama, Mrs. Eliza McHatton Ripley lived on a large plantation in Louisiana. "A Winter's Picnic" was made to Nassau, the leading port of the Bahama Islands. Its fun and novel features are described by J. and E. Dickinson and S. E. Dowd in a series of letters. "The Capitals of Spanish America" is the subject of a profusely illustrated work by W. E. Curtis. Mexico called forth several works: "Six Months in Mexico," by Nellie Bly; "Mexico, Our Neighbor," by John H. Rice; "Mexico Picturesque," by Mary E. Blake and Margaret F. Sullivan, rich in information and the most delightful descriptions; and "Face to Face with the Mexicans," by Fanny Chambers Gooch, a special study of the life, the social and business ways, literature, and history of the Mexican people.

"Narrative of a Journey Down the Ohio and Mississippi in 1789-90," by Major S. S. Forman, gives permanent form to almost forgotten conditions in our past history. "Historic Waterways" is of the West in our own time. Reuben Gold Thwaites so calls the history of his canoeing experiences on the Rock, Fox, and Wisconsin Rivers, in 1887. W. H. Harrison, Jr.'s, "How to Get Rich in the South" and Dr. W. Barrow's "The United States of Yesterday and To-Morrow" are works of statistics and information for the prospective emigrant. "Shoshone and Other Western Wonders" are described by Edwards Roberts; "Peninsular California," by Charles Nordhoff; "Ranch Life and the Hunting-Trail," by Theodore Roosevelt; the resources and people of "South Dakota," by Frank S. Child; "Early Days of Mormonism," by J. H. Kennedy, which includes an account of the first struggle of the Mormons to get a foothold in Palmyra, Kirtland, and Nauvoo; "Down the Great River," by Willard Glazier. Mrs. E. B. Custer's "Tenting on the Plains" also belongs to American adventure in the far west.

Americans who crossed the water were numerous. Curtis Guild in a volume called "Britons and Muscovites," full of keen observation and intelligent comparison, gave us the result of his investigations in two empires. "Rambling Reminiscences of a Residence Abroad," represents Col. J. L. Peyton's letters to the Valley Virginian some nine years ago. W. E. Curtis invaded "The Land of the Nihilist—Russia;" Edwin Coolidge Kimball, the land of the Norseman—what he saw there is within the covers of "Midnight Sunbeams." Dr. Warren, of the Christian Observer, made a pilgrimage "In the Footsteps of Arminius" to the shrines in Holland associated with the great theologian's memory. "Our Sentimental Journey Through France and Italy" is a delightful summer trip in the footsteps of Laurence Sterne, by our friends of cycling fame, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pennell. The Rev. Henry

M. Field discoursed with a delightful freshness and frankness of the contrasts of "Old Spain and New Spain," and of the picturesque and historical features of "Gibraltar." The Rev. H. F. Fairbanks made "A Visit to Europe and the Holy Land" to supply a book of travels, by a Catholic American for Catholic Americans, and Dr. O. W. Wight tells something of almost every country on the globe in "People and Countries Visited in a Winding Journey Around the World."

China and Japan are described in Pierre Loti's "From Lands of Exile," taken from the French; also in "Jottings of Travel in China and Japan," by Simon Adler Stern; "Western China," by Rev. Virgil C. Hart, and "Nine Years in Nippon," by Henry Faulds. Mrs. Helen H. Holcomb wrote some "Bits About India." Maturin M. Ballou, the great traveller, made an unconventional tour "Under the Southern Cross" to Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, Samoa, and other Pacific Islands. Annie R. Butler in "Glimpses of Maori-Land" also adds to the literatures on New Zealand. "Yankee Girls in Zululand" treats with cleverness and humor of life in South Africa. The author, is Louise Vescelius Sheldon.

The reprints from the English were exceedingly limited. Emily De Laszowska Gerard's "The Land Beyond the Forest" was the most important. It is most fascinating reading, describing minutely the characteristics of the people of Transylvania, in the southeastern part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Walter Besant's "Fifty Years Ago" is rich in pictures of life, manners, and society in London when Queen Victoria ascended the throne. "Society in Rome under the Cæsars," by William Ralph Inge, obtained the "Hare Prize" at Cambridge, in 1886. "Memoirs of an Arabian Princess," by Emily Ruete, is the autobiography of the daughter of the Sultan of Zanzibar. It gives such a minute and authentic account of Oriental life that we have grouped it in this department.

Valuable importations of this class are included in the succeeding titles: "Irish Pictures," by Richard Lovett; "India, Pictorial and Descriptive;" Hare's "Days Near Paris," and "Walks in Paris;" Count Gleichen's "With the Camel Corps up the Nile;" Henry Drummond's "Tropical Africa;" "The Inns of Old Southwark," by William Rendle and Philip Norman; "B. C. 1887, a Ramble in British Columbia," by J. A. Lees and W. J. Clutterbuck; "Leaves from an Egyptian Note-Book," by Isaac Taylor; "Old Chelsea," by B. Ellis Martin; "A Season in Sutherland," by J. E. Edwards Moss; "The Long White Mountain," a journey in Manchuria, by H. E. James; "Picturesque New Guinea," by J. W. Lindt; "Travels in Arabia Deserta," by C. M. Doughty; "Life in Corea," by W. R. Carles; "Early Adventures in Persia," by Sir Henry Layard, and "A Trip Round the World in 1887-8," by W. S. Caine.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

With the exception of a half-dozen books, the works of this department are from the pens of American writers. The widespread interest excited during the recent Presidential campaign, in questions of tariff reform and civil service reform, protection and free trade, and the disposal of the surplus, is reflected in its literature. Mr. Richard T. Ely discussed protective tariffs, taxation, and monopolies in "Problems of To-Day," addressing himself to "all sorts and conditions of men." In collaboration with John H. Finley he produced a work on "Taxation in American States and Cities," likewise popular in treatment. "The National Revenues," edited by Albert Shaw, is a collection of papers by American economists upon the various phases of the tariff question. They are, of course, not unanimous, representing as many opinions as men. Prof. Edward Taylor asked "Is Protection a Benefit?" and answered his own question negatively. "Twenty-Two Years of Protection," by Henry V. Poor, aims to show the advantages derived from the system in that period. "The History of Protective Tariff Laws," designed for reference, is by R. W. Thompson, a protectionist historian. "The Tariff History of the United States," by F. W. Taussig, is written from the free trade side. That excellent series, Questions of the Day, received a number of notable contributions. In it appeared Theodore Roosevelt's "Essays on Practical Politics;" "The President's Message, 1887," with annotations by R. R. Bowker; J. S. Moore's "Friendly Letters to American Farmers and Others;" "The Tariff and Its Evils," by John H. Allen; and "Relation of the Tariff to Wages," by David A. Wells. The latter is a little book of questions and answers, giving a fund of information in a small compass, and in a broad dispassionate style. "What Shall We Do With It? (meaning the surplus)" contains the President's tariff message, and the suggestions of Messrs. Blaine, Watterson, and Edmunds. "Civil Service Law," by W. Harrison Clarke, claims that its only object is "to defend the principles of the law." "Tenure and Toil," by John Gibbons, offers a new land theory and criticises the theories of Henry George. An important work for students of political economy, written in a very attractive manner, will be found in Van Buren Denslow's "Principles of the Economic Philosophy of Society, Government, and Industry."

Valuable compilations of facts and figures are comprised in the "Campaign Text-Book of the Democratic Party for 1888" and the "Republican Campaign Text-Book for 1888." Fletcher W. Hewes' "Citizen's Atlas of American Politics, 1789-1888," illustrates facts and figures with the aid of colored maps. "The Republican Party," edited by John D. Long, was a timely issue, giving the history, principles, and policies of this party. The reprint of "The Federalist," from the original text of Hamilton, Jay, and Madison, is an important addition to the literature of this class, calling attention again to these celebrated essays on the Constitution. A handsome volume of "Pamphlets on the Constitution of the United States," edited by Paul Leicester Ford, brought together a number of rare papers. "History of Coöperation in the United States" was a binding together of six papers issued separately in the series of Johns Hopkins University Studies. Judge Tourgée's "Letters to a King" points out to young men their duties and responsibilities as citizens. James Russell Lowell's "Political Essays" and the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's "Patriotic Addresses in America and England from 1850 to 1885" are fine specimens of impassioned eloquence and true patriotism. "The Messages of President Buchanan" belong to history. The handsome edition of Benjamin Franklin's "Complete Works," begun in 1887, was enriched by three additional volumes, 6, 7, and 8.

Foreign political subjects attracted the attention of our authors. "A Sketch of the Germanic Constitution," by Samuel Epes Turner, is very thorough, though brief. Ireland's unhappy condition invited investigation. William Henry Hurlbert, a once prominent New York journalist, published a rose-colored view of its present government under the title, "Ireland Under Coercion." Justin McCarthy, though not an American, wrote a work especially for Americans—"Ireland's Cause in England's Parliament"—with the endeavor to make clear to them the distinct national cause which the Irish party represents in the English Parliament. Home rule was the only remedy Mrs. J. Ellen Foster found for Irish grievances. Her studies of the Irish question are entitled "The Crime Against Ireland." George Pellew gathered statistics during the summer of 1887, "In Castle and Cabin," as to the opinions for and against home rule in Ireland, but they are so contradictory that they offer no settlement of the question. "Gladstone and the Great Irish Struggle," by T. Powers O'Conner and Robert McWade, is another weighty volume on this engrossing theme.

Experiments in economic living are successfully illustrated in "How She Did It," by Mary Cruger, showing how a young lady lived comfortably on $150 a year, and in Edward Everett Hale's "How They Lived at Hampton." This is a study of practical Christianity, applied in the manufacture of woollens. The problem of intemperance was studied by H. W. Blair in "The Temperance Movement," by George Faber Clark in "History of the Temperance Reform in Massachusetts, 1813-1883," and by Dr. Franklin D. Clum in "Inebriety." "National Perils and Opportunities" discusses the saloon, the social evil, and other perils of a great city. "The Ethics of Marriage," by Dr. H. S. Pomeroy, sounds a word of warning to married people.

A number of little manuals on social ethics and popular financial methods, are necessarily gathered under this heading. The latest are: "The Correct Thing," by Florence Howe Hall; "Success in Society," by Lydia E. White; "Manners," a handbook of social customs, and "Good Form in England." "Success in Speculation" and "The Art of Investing" are tempting little books for those having money to invest or to lose. "Twenty-Eight Years in Wall Street," by Henry Clews, should be graphic and instructive. "Recollections of a New York Chief of Police" gives an inside view of some of the great crimes committed in the metropolis. George W. Walling is the writer. "Uncle Sam at Home," by Harold Brydges, is both satirical and serious, and depicts us socially and politically as seen through an Englishman's eyes—one who has long lived in America.

One of the few sensations of the year belongs to this classification. James Bryce's "American Commonwealth," long looked for, excited all the interest anticipated on its issue in the last weeks of 1888. This and James Anthony Froude's "The English in the West Indies" are the only noteworthy reprints that were made from English sources. Prof. Bryce's work takes a place that no other work has aimed to occupy since De Tocqueville wrote his study of "Democracy." With the penetration and exhaustiveness of the French author, he describes the new conditions which the changes of the last twenty-five years have brought about in the government of this country. Mr. Froude's work is a continuation of the studies begun in "Oceana." He again advocates his scheme of an imperial confederation, criticising England severely for her indifference to her colonies' best interests. James E. Thorold Rogers' "Economic Interpretation of History" is a series of lectures on land, labor, taxation, English wealth and English pauperism, and other kindred subjects. Wilfrid Richmond's "Christian Economics" enforces the principle "that economic conduct is matter of duty." Bonham's "Industrial Liberty" suggests practical remedies for many political and industrial evils of the day. Books of social ethics, full of wisdom and practical suggestions, are found in Dr. J. Thain Davidson's "Sure to Succeed," Smiles' "Life and Labor," and "Tempted London." A new and complete edition from the unabridged Russian ms. was made of Tolstoi's "What To Do?"—thoughts evoked by the census of Moscow; a translation was also made of "Life" by Isabel F. Hapgood, a thoughtful study of Tolstoi on human life, its aims, needs, etc. Also from the Russian comes Stepniack's "Russian Peasantry," describing their agrarian condition, social life, and religion. From the Italian of Dr. Luigi Cossa we received "Taxation, Its Principles and Methods." Horace White furnished an introduction and notes. The comprehensive bibliography of the science which this volume includes gives it an unusual value to students.

LITERARY MISCELLANY.

LITERARY HISTORY AND MISCELLANY, which also includes collected works, is richer in numbers than in important issues. From American writers, Charles F. Richardson's second volume of his careful studies of "American Literature, 1607-1885," deservedly takes the first place. It completes a work indispensable to the reference library. The subject of this volume is "American Poetry and Fiction," treated sympathetically and fairly. Henry James published two literary studies: "Partial Portraits" and "The Aspern Papers." They sustain his reputation as one of our most finished essayists. Graceful papers on the beauties of nature are embraced in Olive Thorne Miller's "In Nesting-Time," Herbert Milton Sylvester's "Homestead Highways," and Maurice Thompson's "Byways and Bird-Notes" and "Sylvan Secrets." The "war correspondent" has justice done his daring deeds in the late war by one of the fraternity, Franc B. Wilkie ("Polito") in "Pen and Powder." Under a somewhat similar title, "Pen and Ink," Brander Matthews discourses on a variety of subjects "of more or less importance." Two well-known Philadelphia littérateurs are represented in Agnes Repplier's "Books and Men" and William S. Walsh's "Paradoxes of a Philistine." A pleasant vein of humor and a graceful literary style are characteristics of both. "Books that Have Helped Me" is a reprint of twelve papers from the Forum; other essays, rich in illustration and anecdote, are: William Mathew's "Wit and Humor"; Dr. C. C. Everett's "Poetry, Comedy, and Duty," and the late Edwin Percy Whipple's "Outlooks on Society."

Shakespeare's immortality receives its strongest proof in the number of works his dramas yearly inspire. Those that made an impression on readers were: "William Shakespeare, Portrayed by Himself," by Robert Waters; "Bacon and Shakespeare in the Sonnets," by H. L. Homer; "Shakespeare and the Bible," by G. Q. Colton; and Martin W. Cooke's "The Human Mystery in Hamlet." "The Great Cryptogram," by Ignatius Donnelly, may be quoted here, though not quite of a literary character. Its so-called revelations did not prove so convincing as the author's industry seemed to deserve. The "Longfellow Remembrance-Book" is a graceful tribute to the poet. "Flower and Fruit" is a compilation of striking passages from the writings of Harriet Beecher Stowe. "Master Virgil," by J. S. Tunison, is a study of the author of "Æneid" as he seemed in the Middle Ages. McAnally's "Irish Wonders," rich in Irish legendary law, and in Irish wit, completes the list of original American essays, studies, and literary works: "Bibliotheca Jeffersoniana" is a valuable list of books written by or relating to Thomas Jefferson, that Hamilton B. Tompkins compiled for special students. The second series of Cushing's "Initials and Pseudonyms" belongs to works of reference. In the same line is Edmund Clarence Stedman's and Ellen Mackay Hutchinson's extensive compilation, "A Library of American Literature from the Earliest Settlement to the Present Time." During the year it was completed with volumes 7 to 10. "The Writings of John G. Whittier" is one of the few fine library editions of American writers, issued during the year.

Crossing the water, we derived from the English W. A. Clouston's "Book of Noodles," Blades' "Enemies of Books," the "Book-Worm," and Dowling's "Ignorant Essays;" "The Coming of the Friars," and other historic essays, by Rev. A. Jessopp; Matthew Arnold's "Civilization in the United States," his critical essays which created so much discussion on this side of the water; "The Five Talents of Women," a book for girls and women, revealing to them many truths in the witty style of "How To Be Happy Though Married." Interesting compilations made in America from English authors are in the following group: "The Pilgrim's Scrip," from George Meredith; "Half-Hours with the Best Foreign Authors" (4 v.), compiled by Charles Morris; "British Letters Illustrative of Character and Social Life" (3 v.), edited by E. D. Mason; and "How Men Propose," love scenes from popular works of fiction, both American and English, compiled by Agnes Stevens. Richard Wagner's poem, "The Ring of the Nibelung," was explained and in part translated from the German by George Theodore Dippold.

ART BOOKS.

While many fine examples of book-making were offered during the holiday season of 1888, the showing as a whole fell far behind that of two years previous. This was chiefly in the matter of original illustrations, which were fewer and less notable. The more expensive works were those enriched with etchings. "Important New Etchings by American Artists" and "Twenty American Etchings" are representative American art works in this line. Other elegant volumes similar in design made in this country are "Etchings by French Artists," "European Etchings," "Celebrated Artists," Goethe's "Hermann and Dorothea" with Faber's etchings, and Goldsmith's "Traveller," interpreted by M. M. Taylor's series of etchings. To the photogravure and other processes, we are indebted for a number of illustrated volumes of American manufacture. "Living New England Artists," compiled under the careful supervision of Frank T. Robinson, is an excellent example, both of photogravure and etching. It illustrates the progress of twenty-seven New England artists. "Rembrandt's Etchings" is a beautiful collection of Rembrandt's choicest works, finely reproduced by photogravure. By the same process were made "Recent Italian Art," "Madonnas, by Old Masters," "The Story of Mary, the Mother," "Goupil Gallery," "Longfellow's Poem of Nuremberg," Bryant's "An Autumn Pastoral" from original designs by C. E. Phillips; Mrs. Stranahan's "History of French Painting" with full-page reproduction of the masterpieces of modern French painters. "The Courtship of Miles Standish," with illustrations reproduced from the designs of Boughton, Merrill, and other leading American artists. "Faust," illustrated by Frank M. Gregory, has some striking designs made in water-colors, and reproduced by the new photo-aquarelle process. "Endymion," one of the loveliest books of the season, contains some of the most poetical and finished work ever done by W. St. John Harper. Here the photogravure work is exquisite. Minor works in this line are Eichendorff's "Leaves from the Life of a Good-for-Nothing;" Lew Wallace's "Boyhood of Christ," "Favorite Folk-Ballads," and "Warwick Brookes' Pencil Pictures of Child-Life." "Favorite Birds," from Fidelia Bridges' graceful pencil, is a charming illustration of fine color printing.

The only artistic specimens of wood-engraving are included in the following: "Old Songs," with Abbey's characteristic drawings; "The Man without a Country," graphically retold in Frank T. Merrill's illustrations; George Wharton Edwards' "Sundry Rhymes;" Mrs. Pullman's "Days Serene," and Charles Copeland's designs to three old ballads, "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," "Nelly was a Lady," and "Marching Through Georgia." American humor and American art are excellently well represented together in Welch's capital "Tailor-Made Girl" and the fifth series of "The Good Things of Life."

Illustrated works from the French, which were imported in limited editions, were "Vingt-Cinq Eaux-fortes," 25 etchings by modern French artists, another illustrated edition of Sterne's "Sentimental Journey," an exquisite édition de luxe of "The Abbé Constantin," with some rarely beautiful designs by Madame Madeleine Lemaire, and most artistically illustrated editions of Loti's "Madame Chrysanthème;" Feuille's "Romance of a Poor Young Man," George Sand's "Francis the Waif," Daudet's "Robert Helmont" and "Thirty Years of Paris," and Victor Hugo's "Nôtre-Dame de Paris." English art had few representatives on this side of the water. Chief were Kate Greenaway's "Pied Piper of Hamelin," Caldecott's "Gleanings from the Graphic," "The Witches' Frolic," one of the Ingoldby's legends, pictured by Ernest M. Jessop, and "Echoes of Hellas," illustrations of the tale of Troy and the story of Orestes, by Walter Crane.

Books on art grouped in this department are from the English—Whistler's "Ten O'clock," and Margaret Stokes' "Early Christian Art in Ireland;" from the French came Mayeux' "Manual of Decorative Composition," and from our own writers Van Dyke's "How to Judge of a Picture;" all four books are capital aids to the literary side of the fine arts. In English dramatic art "Our Recent Actors," by Westland Marston, embodies criticisms of English artists, from Ellen Tree to Adelakle Neilson. In American dramatic art "The Standard Symphonies," critically descriptive of the works of the masters, is by George P. Upton, the author of "Standard Operas, and other works in this line.

POETRY.

The additions to POETRY are in many cases so worthless, that the department, as usual, makes a poor showing in our review, although the figures denote that production was unstinted. The friends of Mr. Lowell were delighted with a new volume he gave them during the year. It contained many old favorites and some new poems. Its title, "Heartsease and Rue," is a reminiscence of Shakespeare. James Russell Lowell, with Oliver Wendell Holmes and Walt Whitman, were the only ones of the few remaining members of the old school of American poets that were heard from. "Before the Curfew" contains all Dr. Holmes has written during the past eight years. The wit, pathos, and other charming qualities which have so endeared him to several generations of readers are still to be found in his latest verses. The aged author of "November Boughs" betrays the same originality and individuality that distinguished "Leaves of Grass." "The poems of Emma Lazarus," sent out in two thick volumes, excited considerable interest. Her recent death and attractive personality, and her undoubted genius, all united in gaining for them a wide circle of readers. Irwin Russell collected his "Poems" in the negro dialect, which had appeared under the department of "Bric-à-Brac" in the Century, into a pretty volume; "Befo' de War," also poems in negro dialect, are from A. C. Gordon and T. Nelson Page. "Josiah Allen's Wife"—Marietta Holley—gave the world her poems, as did Waldo Messaros, the well-known poet-preacher of Philadelphia, and Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the famous doctor of the same city. The "Poems of Frank Forrester" were for the first time collected. An elegant illustrated edition was published, showing the place their author still holds in the hearts of the reading public. "The Viking," by Elwyn A. Barron, is a drama by a Western author which receives the warm commendation of Lawrence Barrett. "A Sea Change" is a little burlesque on light opera from W. D. Howells' versatile genius. "The Book of Latter-Day Ballads," a graceful compilation by Henry F. Randolph, is designed to show the growth and extent of English and American ballad literature during the last thirty years. Other graceful metrical volumes belonging to the year's history are "The Inn of Rest," by May Riley Smith; "Joy, and Other Poems," by Danske Dandridge; "Ten Years of Song," by Horatio Nelson Powers; "The Witch in the Glass," by Mrs. S. M. B. Platt; "Wanderers," poems by William Winter; "Old and New World Lyrics," by Clinton Scollard; "Vagrom Verses," by C. H. Webb; "Maurine, and Other Poems," by Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox; "Wood Blooms," by John Vance Cheney; "Beyond the Shadow," by Stuart Sterne; "Along the Shore," by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, and Harry Lyman Koopman's "Orestes" and "Woman's Will."

Two dainty little volumes of selections from the Brownings are American compilations—"Good and True Thoughts from Robert Browning" and "Romances, Lyrics, and Sonnets," from the poetic works of Elizabeth Barrett Browning. A little selection of George Macdonald's "Poems" is an American book, and also the "Complete Poems" of George Eliot issued in a new and beautiful edition. Notable anthologies with American imprints are Ashton's "A Century of Ballads," "Ballads and Rondeaux," compiled by Gleeson White, and Child's "English and Scottish Popular Ballads." The latter is almost completed—five parts of the eight in which it is comprised having been issued. "Sigurd Slembe" belongs with translations made in this country. It is a famous dramatic Norwegian trilogy—a tragic tale of the twelfth century often performed in Norway. William Morton Payne's English rendition finely represents the author, Björnsterne Björnson. The national epic poem of Finland, "The Kalevala," was translated into English verse by John Martin Crawford. "A Selection from the Poems of Pushkin," by Ivan Panin, gives a glimpse of Russian fervor and pas-

Mrs. Annis Lee Wister, the translator of "E. Marlitt," and Frederick H. Hedge, widely known as an accomplished German student, brought together in a tasteful little volume "Metrical Translations and Poems" made by by them from the German. Also from the German may be mentioned the pathetic "Songs of Toil," by Sylva Carmen, Queen of Rumania, translated by John Eliot Bowen.

The only important poetical works reprinted from the English were Sir Edwin Arnold's "With Sa'di in the Garden," and Margaret Veley's "Marriage of Shadows." These, with the following importations, represent the cream of English poetical literature of 1888: "The Gold of Fairnilee" and "Grass of Parnassus," by Andrew Lang; "Leaves of Life," by E. Nesbit, and "Dreams to Sell," by May Kendall.

SPORTS AND AMUSEMENTS.

Athletics, the favorite amusement at present with young Americans, has inspired several writers. The following are from American authors: John Boyle O'Reilly's "Ethics of Boxing and Manly Sport" treats of the high moral and intellectual value connected with these exercises. Janssen's "History of American Amateur Athletics and Aquatics" and Hurd's "History of Yale Athletics" are interesting records of sport for sporting men. Little manuals giving practical directions for exercise are Dick's "Dumb-Bell and Indian-Club Exercises;" Dick's "Art of Wrestling;" "Billy Edwards' Art of Boxing," and MacLaren's "Training in Theory and Practice." "Base-Ball" was the subject of a volume by John Montgomery Ward, the champion player. He tells how to become a player, and also the origin, history, and explanation of the game. "Lawn-Tennis in America," by Valentine G. Hall, gives a record of the tennis tournaments since 1884. Advice to young yachtsmen and many amusing nautical anecdotes are offered in T. Robinson Warren's "On Deck." Thomas Stevens' trip "Around the World on a Bicycle" came to an end during the year, and a record of it was published in a second volume called "From Teheran to Yokohama." Like the first volume this is a treasure-house of sporting experience and adventures. "Tips for Tricyclists," by Prof. Hoffmann, from the English, is useful and practical. Aspiring Isaac Waltons should consult Goode's "American Fishes," a popular treatise upon the game and food fishes of North America, with directions how to capture them. Shooting men are provided for in Leffingwell's "Wild Fowl Shooting," Trumbull's "Names and Portraits of Birds which Interest Gunners," and in Greener's "Modern Shot-Guns," an English reprint. The additions to the Badminton Library is a volume on "Cricket," by A. G. Stee and R. H. Lyttelton, and another on "Boating," by W. B. Woodgate. Both works are English importations.

H. C. Leeds and James Dwight's "Laws of Euchre as Adopted by the Somerset Club of Boston, March 1, 1888," a miniature book of "The Game of Solo-Sixty," and De Bebian's tiny hand-books of "Draw Poker," "American Whist," and "The Game of Euchre" comprise the literature of cards, being with the work which follows American books. "Fagots for the Fireside," by Lucretia Peabody Hale, is a collection of more than one hundred entertaining games for evenings at home and social parties.

SCIENCE.

Not even by including with SCIENCE proper works on physical and mathematical science and on mental and moral philosophy can we increase the importance of this department. Never before have the contributions been so small. The American harvest is indeed meagre. The additions to popular science are comprised in three works: General Greely's "American Weather," Serviss' "Astronomy with an Opera-Glass," and Finley's "Tornadoes," all written for the general reader, and both entertaining and instructive if not profound.

The issues of the International Scientific series which come from abroad are mostly this year fresh investigations in physical and natural sciences. The titles are an index to the subjects. They are Lubbock's "On the Senses, Instincts, and Intelligence of Animals," Henslow's "The Origin of Floral Structures through the Insect and Other Agencies," Sir J. W. Dawson's "Geological History of Plants," and Binet's and Féré's "Animal Magnetism." The International Education series had one contribution, David Kay's "Memory," an able monograph on mnemonics.

American works on natural science are Jacob Harris Patton's "Natural Resources of the United States," a concise and useful book of reference; Hellprin's "Animal Life of Our Seashore," referring principally to the New Jersey coast and the Southern shore of Long Island; Holder's "A Strange Company;" Edwards' "Butterflies of North America," in its third series, and the "Riverside Natural History," in six volumes.

The literature of philosophy was increased by Dr. Stuckenbergs "Introduction to the Study of Philosophy" and Nathaniel Holmes' "Realistic Idealism in Philosophy Itself." Moral philosophy by one work, Edward Payson's "Law of Equivalents in its Relation to Political and Social Ethics." "The Secret Doctrine," by Madame Blavatsky, "the synthesis of science, religion, and philosophy," may find a place here. The four works included in this paragraph are American copyright books.

"In presenting our annual summary and analysis of the titles of books issued during the year that has just gone by," says the editor of the Circular, "we find ourselves summing up a period of great activity in production. Religious books, both new works and new editions, show a considerable advance in numbers. School-books—which class, in our table, includes editions of the classics and treatises on the science of language—show a similarly large increase. Juvenile works appear to have been produced in less number than in the preceding year, but this may be only an apparent decrease. For, nowadays, books addressed to young people in the shape of stories are so admirably written and illustrated that grown-up persons are glad to read them, and it is often difficult for one who has a book of this kind before him to determine whether it should be classed as 'juvenile' or as a work of fiction—which most young people's books are. In saying this, we help to account for the large figure which stands against new novels, and the still larger increase in the number of new editions. The quantity of books published on social and political economy, trade, finance, etc., is almost exactly the same as that of last year. 'Illustrated works, arts, etc.,' which includes all kinds of 'practical' books, is a department in which the increase of production is no less than fifty per cent. In new books of voyages and travels, the number is almost identical with that of last year. This section includes guides for travellers. As an example of the vagaries of statistics, we may point to the class 'poetry and the drama' as showing a production in 1888 twice as great as that of 1887. Of books which we have found it impossible to relegate to any particular class, we observe that the past year has brought us just fifty per cent. more than its predecessor. Belles lettres, essays, etc., and the section 'year books and serials in volumes' are nearly the same in number as they were last year. The same may be said of 'medicine and surgery.'"

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT HANGING FIRE.

As was feared, the friends of the International Copyright Bill were unable to obtain a hearing in the House on the 4th inst., in order that a day might have been set for its consideration. Diligent inquiry among the members had made it reasonably clear that it would be possible to suspend the rules and pass the bill at once by the requisite two-thirds vote. To avoid the appearance of attempting to push the bill through without affording its opponents a chance to be heard, it has been decided not to press it to an immediate vote, but to ask only for a day on which it could be discussed. There was an admitted opposition, stimulated by the publishers of what are known as "boiler plate" books and papers.

The plans of the advocates of the Copyright Bill failed, it is supposed, because of the fear of the opponents of the Pacific Railroad Funding Bill to permit the order of suspension of the rules to be taken up.

At the outset Mr. Payson, of Illinois, introduced a long bill and asked for its reading for reference. The reading of bill was interrupted by a conference report on the bill amending the Inter-State Commerce Law. The discussion of the conference report occupied most of the day and after the points of agreement had received the approval of the House and the points of disagreement had been referred to another conference committee, the House took up the conference report on the bill incorporating the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua and consumed the rest of the day upon it. There will be another Monday for the consideration of business under suspension of the rules, but it is set apart for motions from committees, and the turn of the Judiciary Committee is not likely to be reached.

The last six days of the session are all days on which the rules may be suspended. While the supporters of the Copyright Bill are strong enough to pass it under that order, they would much prefer to have the measure discussed, and it will only be from necessity that they will consent to insist upon the privilege of suspension without discussion. The attitude of the opponents of the Pacific Railroad Funding Bill makes it evident that little or no business will be transacted under suspension order during the session.

There seem now to be only two ways by which the International Copyright Bill can obtain a hearing. One is on one of the last six days of the Congress, when motions to suspend the rules are always in order, to be made by individual members. All motions then made must, however, be carried by a two-thirds vote. The other method is to secure a rule from the Committee on Rules which will make the Copyright Bill in order for a certain day. The Democratic members of that committee have hitherto refused to permit the reporting of a special rule, as it could be amended by adding objectionable measures.—N. Y. Times Washington despatch.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. announce that hereafter they will publish a new volume in their popular twenty-five cent editions every two weeks. # The Literary News.

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS will become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, will begin in January and run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work." Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Stowe will be among the first given.

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," will enliven each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specially intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

Address THE LITERARY NEWS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL ST.),

(P. O. Box 943),

NEW YORK.

NEW ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We beg to call the attention of the TRADE to the following list of announcements of forthcoming publications which we will issue shortly. As they are by authors who have already made their reputation, and will have a large sale, the trade would do well to send us their orders at the earliest moment.

THE ROMANCE OF AN ALTER EGO. By Gen. Lloyd Bryce, author of "Paradise," etc. Paper, 50 cents. The Romance of an Alter Ego is destined to create a great sensation among the best classes of novel-readers. An uncommonly absorbing plot, full of rapid movement and life, is carried to an artistic conclusion through a series of well-depicted scenes, written in graceful, yet sturdy English. The pages of the novel sparkle with pointed epigrams and brilliant wit. Undoubtedly the most readable book published in years.

FREDERICK STRUTHER'S ROMANCE. A novel. By Albert Ulmann. Paper, 50 cents.

An ingenious love-story, in which scenes of New York life, never before touched upon in fiction, are gracefully introduced. The tale is full of quiet pathos and delicate touches.

WHERE THE TROUT HIDE. By Kit Clarke. Illustrated. Containing also a detailed description, of a newly opened, easily accessible and beautiful country, whose waters teem with brook trout, black bass, and land-locked salmon. 16mo, cloth, $1.00; Paper, 50 cents.

The American Angler of Dec. 31 says: "Kit Clarke," than whom no greater angling enthusiast exists, is about to issue a little work entitled "Where the Trout Hide," the title and preface pages of which he has kindly sent us. As specimens of typography they are unequalled by anything of the kind we have seen. The preface will be appreciated for its brevity and terseness of illustration. We quote in full:

"When Marc Antonio discovered his friend Raphael engaged upon the Sistine picture, he exclaimed: 'Cospetto! Another Madonna.'"

"Raphael gravely replied: 'Amico mio, my friend, were all artists to paint her portrait forever, they could not exhaust her beauty.'"

The exclamation applies with full cogency to the valorous brook trout, than which God never created a more beautiful object.

Mr. Clarke's literary efforts are quite familiar to the brethren of the angle, being much admired for their sapience and vigor, as also for the unique reason that he invariably has something to say, and says it in robust English.

THE SELDENS IN CHICAGO. A Domestic Tale. By S. D. Paper, 50 cents.

An ingenious love-story, in which scenes of New York life never before touched upon in fiction, are gracefully introduced. The tale is full of quiet pathos and delicate touches.

BRENTANO'S ROMANTIC LIBRARY. Vol. 11. "The Musset Volume," containing: three novelettes, "Margot," "The Beauty Spot," and "Croisilles," and a two-act comedy, "Valentin's Wager." By Alfred de Musset. Transferred into English by E. de V. Vermont. With a portrait of the poet by Marie Moulin. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

The novelettes contained in this volume are among the best productions of the French writer. The comedy is one of those delicate poems in prose which are so much better enjoyed in the quiet of the study than on the stage, for which they are but seldom written. The introduction by Mr. de Vermont gives a masterly study of Alfred de Musset.

MENTAL EVOLUTION IN MAN:

ORIGIN OF THE HUMAN FACULTY. By GEORGE JOHN ROMANES, F.R.S., author of "Mental Evolution in Animals," etc. One vol., 8vo, cloth. Price, $3.00.

This work, which follows "Mental Evolution in Animals," by the same author, considers the probable mode of genesis of the human mind from the mind of lower animals, and attempts to show that there is no distinction of kind between man and brute. It is likely to provoke no little discussion in the religious and literary as well as the scientific world.

II.

THE FOLK-LORE OF PLANTS.

By T. F. THISELTON DYER, M.A. 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50.

THE FOLK-LORE OF PLANTS traces the superstitions and fancies connected with plants in fairy-lore, in witchcraft and demonology, in religion, in charms, in medicine, and other branches. The author is an eminent English botanist, and Superintendent of the gardens at Kew.

III.

ARIUS THE LIBYAN:

A ROMANCE OF THE PRIMITIVE CHURCH. A new cheap edition. Appletons' Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper. Price, 50 cents.

"Portrays the life and character of the primitive Christians with great force and vividness of imagination."—Harper's Magazine.

NEW BOOKS OF THE SEASON.

[Lent, 1889.]

THE CHIEF THINGS;

Or, Church Doctrine for the People. By REV. A. W. SNYDER. 12mo, neat cloth binding, $1.00.

We are confident that this book will supply a long-felt want, and find a large sale. It discusses questions constantly encountered by the clergy in parochial work. It teaches "Church Doctrine and Bible Truth" in the most unmistakable way, and yet the spirit of the book is not controversial. It is written for instruction and edification.

A LENT IN EARNEST;

Or, Sober Thoughts for Solemn Days. By LUCY ELLEN GUERNSEY. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

Miss Guernsey's new Lent Manual is a series of meditations for each day of the season. These meditations are simple in their method, practical in the application, and in the best sense spiritual. The book will make an excellent daily companion and popular help to a Holy Lent.

CANON HOLLAND'S NEW BOOK.

ON BEHALF OF BELIEF.

Sermons Preached in St. Paul's Cathedral. By the Rev. H. SCOTT HOLLAND, M.A., author of "Logic and Life," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

The sermons in this volume are divided into three classes: I. Concerning the Resurrection. II. Concerning the Church. III. Concerning Human Nature.

"His sermons are as powerful as any preached in this generation, and, indeed, full of genius, original thought and spiritual veracity."—Spectator.

SERMON STUFF.

By S. D. MCCONNELL, D.D., Rector of St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

Frank, straightforward, never stopping at a half-way house because the road before is rugged, above all freshly original, full of mental and spiritual force, throbbing with the life-blood of that message that has gone to the ends of the world, we welcome this stuff as on the whole the best published work of the American pulpit, to be compared with the fragments of Robertson, which it in more ways than one closely resembles."—The Church of To-day.

THE POPULAR "ELSMERE" ANTIDOTE.

SEVENTH EDITION.

BRYAN MAURICE;

Or, The Seeker. By WALTER MITCHELL. 12mo, paper covers, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"Bryan Maurice" is an excellent antidote to "Robert Elsmere."

"The logic of Mr. Mitchell is much better than the logic of Mrs. Ward."—The Churchman.

"As 'Robert Elsmere' proceeded from orthodoxy and definite doctrine to 'vast vagueness,' so 'Bryan Maurice' recedes from 'liberal Christianity' to the safe territory of the historic faith."—The Christian Union.

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just received proof of some of their illustrated holiday books. Judging by these the trade may look forward to some exceptionally fine volumes.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS have just issued a new edition of Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth's "The Hidden Hand, or, Capitola, the madcap." The story has been three times reprinted in the New York Ledger and is now brought out in a neat edition bound in attractive cloth covers. The trade will be supplied by the American News Company.

BRENTANO'S announce that they will publish shortly "The Romance of an Alter Ego," by Gen. Lloyd Bryce, which is promised to be witty, full of rapid movement and life, an altogether readable book; Albert Ullmann's novel, "Frederick Struther's Romance," already referred to in these columns; "The Seldens in Chicago," an ingenious love-story, by an anonymous writer; and a little volume with the tempting title, "Where the Trout Hide," giving a detailed description of a newly-opened, easily accessible, and beautiful country whose waters team with brook trout, black bass, and land-locked salmon, by Kit Clarke, an angling enthusiast.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "French Traits," by W. C. Brownell, a subtle and extremely entertaining analysis of French character and French society. The method of criticism is comparative throughout, the social customs, intellectual habits, art instincts, and moral standards of the French being brought into juxtaposition with those that prevail in the United States. They have also just ready a treatise on metaphysics, by Dr. James McCosh, entitled "First and Fundamental Truths," which is regarded by the author as the keystone of what he has been able to do in philosophy, and in which he formulates and explains the fundamental law governing the associated mental exercises. Finally, they have a new and revised edition for 1889 of Thos. A. Janvier's helpful "Mexican Guide."

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have just published three important works on the Asiatic continent: "Through the Heart of Asia over the Pamir to India," by Gabriel Bonvalot, has been translated from the French by C. B. Pitman, and is published in two volumes, with 250 illustrations by Albert Pepin; "The Industries of Japan," by Prof. J. J. Rehn, of the University of Bonn, gives an account of the agriculture, mining, forestry, arts, and commerce, from travels and researches in Japan, undertaken at the cost of the Prussian Government; and a second edition of the same author's work on "Japan, Travels and Researches," which, by verdict of the London Spectator, will be "the standard authority in such matters" for a long time to come. The new volume in the Book-Lovers' Library is "Foreign Visitors in England, and what they have thought of us," which makes the ninth arrival in this well-liked series.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS have just published "The Ingoldsby Legends," complete in one volume in cloth and paper, also in three parts bound in paper, and again in their Pocket Library edition, in which thus far the first series only is ready. Uniform with their exquisite edition of Daudet, they have now ready Guy de Maupassant's "Sur l'Eau," translated by Laura Essor and titled "Afloat," comprising fifty-nine illustrations by Riou. Daudet's "Recollections of a man of Letters" is now in preparation, with eighty-nine illustrations by the artists of the "Tartarin" books, "Thirty Years of Paris," etc.; and also Swift's "The Tale of a Tub," and other works, edited by John Morley, to form the initial volume of the new Carisbrooke Library, a continuation and development of the Universal Library. New editions of Mrs. Edwards' "One Thousand Miles up the Nile" and Bartholomew's "Handy Reference Atlas of the World" are also ready.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); TT. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

The first volume of this useful compilation was issued in 1886. It told in the words of the Old Testament the Hebrew story from the creation to the exile. The story is taken up here and carried to and through the time of Ezra. This occupies Pt. 1 of the present volume, and is a welding together of various parts of the books of the Old Testament, so that a continuous story is obtained without repetitions and also without much unnecessary matter not needful to put before young students, for whom the series is prepared. The other parts of this volume, arranged in the same way, are devoted to the following subjects: Hebrew legislature; Hebrew tales—comprising the stories of Ruth, Elijah, Jonah, Daniel, and Esther; Hebrew prophecy; Hebrew poetry; and Hebrew wisdom.

*Biblical things not generally known: a collection of facts, notes, and information concerning much that is rare, quaint, curious, obscure, and little known in relation to Biblical subjects. V. 2. N. Y., Dick & Fitzgerald, 1889. D. cl., $1.50.

Carpenter, W. B. Nature and man: essays scientific and philosophical; with an introductory memoir by J. Estlin Carpenter. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 4+483 p. por. D. cl., $2.25.

These essays of the late famous English physiologist display both his versatile powers and his great scientific knowledge. They are fifteen in number, and have appeared in various periodical publications. The more notable ones are "Psychology of belief," "The fallacies of testimony in relation to the supernatural," "The doctrine of human automatism," "The deep sea and its contents," "The force behind nature," "Nature and law," "The doctrine of evolution in its relations to theism," and "The argument from design in the organic world." The memorial is exhaustive and extremely interesting. A bibliography of his works covering seventeen pages testifies to his indefatigable industry. Dr. Carpenter was b. at Exeter, England, 1813, d. 1885. His larger works are "Mesmerism, spiritualism, historically and scientifically considered," and "Principles of mental physiology."

Cooke, Rose Terry. Steadfast: the story of a saint and a sinner. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889. c. 5-426 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The action of the story takes place in Trumbull, supposed to be a country village on the ocean shore of Connecticut. The events narrated took place nearly one hundred years ago, when questions of religion and church discipline were matters of life and death in that region. "Steadfast" is the baptismal name given the infant son of Philemon Hall, the pastor of a Congregational church, who incurred the displeasure of the "Conso-ciation" and steadfastly suffered for his convictions. Two sad heart-histories form the connecting link in a picture of life founded on strictly historical facts.

Courtney, W. L. Life of John Stuart Mill. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. 194+12 p. D. (Great writers ser.) cl., 40 c.

Largely based upon Mill's "Autobiography" and Dr. Bain's two works, "James Mill, a biography," and "J. S. Mill, a criticism." Contains a valuable bibliography by J. P. Anderson.

Orabbe, G. Poetical works; selected, with prefatory notice, biographical and critical, by E. Lamplough. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1888. 21+255 p. T. (The Canterbury poets) cl., 40 c.

The learned author has collated many interesting facts—new to many and important to all—relating to the Old Testament Church, so strangely started, so miraculously preserved, and so full of mingled romance and practical life. The book closes with two significant sentences: "The Christian Church has no more guarantee of security than had the Jewish Church. Worldliness, if cherished, will be its destruction, and in godliness only is its pledge of life."

Farjeon, B. L. Toilers of Babylon: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 304 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 638.) pap., 40 c. Among the poor and lowly of London this story takes place. The pretty heroine, "Nansie," marries a man far above her in station, much to the displeasure of her own father and her husband's father. Her husband, Kingsley Manners, is disowned by his father, an extremely wealthy, self-made man—on his refusal to desert "Nansie." Then come their troubles—fought out amidst the poorest of the London poor. Kingsley loses his memory through a railroad accident, and is never able to help care for his wife and child. The child grows to womanhood before any change comes in their condition, when Mr. Manners is reconciled to his son, and the schemes of his nephew, who had hoped to be his heir, are laid bare.

G., C. J. In palace and Faubourg: a story of the French revolution. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1889. 5-462 p. 1 il. O. cl., $1.50.

The terrors of the French Revolution are vividly pictured in the alternate journals of Mamon Beaupré, one of the people, and Marguerite de Clairac, an aristocrat. Fact and fiction are cleverly combined, and the result is a book in which the actors are Comte d'Artois, Louis XVI., Marie Antoinette, Danton, Marat, Charlotte Corday, and other famous characters in French history. The historical features of the story appeal especially to the reader; and the recital of Marguerite de Clairac's escape from La Force and Henri Beaupré's martyrdom add to the interest.

Harper's first reader. N. Y., Harper, [1889.] c. '88. 144 p. il. D. (Harper's educational ser.) cl., 24 c.

The publishers' note claims that some of the features which distinguish the books of this series from others are as follows: 1. They have been prepared with special reference to the practical work of the school-room. The pages are not encumbered with useless matter. 2. They contain a larger amount of reading-matter than the corresponding numbers of any other series in general use; in the variety and interest of their lessons they are unsurpassed; their gradation is perfect. 3. The reading-lessons have been prepared with a view towards cultivating a taste for the best style of literature, towards inculcating moral truths, an appreciation of the beautiful in nature, and introducing the pupil to a knowledge of the achievements of science and art. The illustrations, which, like the reading-lessons, are graded, are of unusual merit. These readers are no hap-hazard compilations, but the outgrowth of the experience of practical teachers, understanding the present demands and needs of the schools.

Hassall, Arthur. Life of Viscount Bolingbroke. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. 13+237 p. D. (International statesmen ser.) cl., 75 c.

Though many biographies of Henry St. John, Lord Bolingbroke, exist, none were quite adapted to the scope of this series. This one is succinct and popular and based upon a long list of voluminous works cited in the preface. Bolingbroke was so closely connected with all the political, literary, philosophical, and social movements of his day, that the history of his life is to a great extent that of the first half of the eighteenth century.

Holst, Hermann v. John Brown; ed. by Frank Preston Stearns. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, 1889. c. '88. 3-232 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

A sympathetic essay on the life and death of John Brown, of Harper's Ferry fame. Mr. Stearns contributes an introduction, which considers the social and ethical problem John Brown attempted to solve, and depicts the mental attitude of Prof. Von Holst toward him through some account of his "Political and constitutional history of the U. S." An appendix contains remarks on the John Brown bust by Brackett, of which a photograph is given; remarks on the John Brown medal; an account of a visit to the grave of John Brown, and a criticism upon unfriendly criticism of John Brown.

In a pretty cream color and gold binding are enshrined many pleasing selections in prose and verse from this favorite author's works. Her portrait adds to the interest of the volume. The usual facing blank pages offer spaces for autographs.

- Epimenides, the Greek poet who, 600 years a.c., fell asleep in a cave, and fifty years after awoke, out of perspective with his surroundings, but with much increased wisdom and inspiration, is the prototype of the hero. He is a dreamy, poetic nature, although descended from a long line of rough, common-sense sailors. He lives in an old castle, full of traditions, and his first love is for a portrait of a beautiful girl. Poverty turns him into a book-agent. On his trips as canvasser he meets his fate. The civil war finally awakens the strength of his character. As physician in the army he comes upon the secret of his family.

- Lawlace, W. M. The Japanese wedding: a representation of the wedding ceremony in Japanese high life. N. Y., Harold Roorbach, [1889.] c. '88. 22 p. D. pap., 25 c.
- A representation, in pantomime, of the wedding ceremony in Japanese high life, arranged for public exhibition in churches, schools, etc., by a company consisting of the bride and groom, their parents, six bridesmaids, and an officiating personage appropriately called the "Go-between." There are various formalities, like salaams, tea-drinking, eating rice-cakes, and giving presents, but no words are spoken. The book explains clearly how to make the costumes of inexpensive fabrics, the stage arrangements are shown at a glance by a diagram, and the various steps of the "wedding" itself—a purely civil form, not a religious ceremony, in Japan—are plainly set forth. An introductory chapter describing the nuptial customs of the Japanese aristocracy contains abundant material for a preliminary address.

- This work is not an abridgment of any larger work, nor is it a dictionary of the Latin language. It is designed to explain every word or phrase in Latin books commonly read in schools, including the entire works of Terence, Caesar, Cicero, Livy, Nepos, Vergil, Horace, Ovid, Juvenal, Phædrus, and Cælius, the Catiline and Jurgurtha of Sallust, and the Germania and Agricola of Tacitus. A few words, found in such extracts of Florus, Eutropius, and Justinus, as are sometimes included in elementary readers, have been added. The more rarely-read authors are omitted. For the Latin of the writers named above the work is an exhaustive explanation. The quotations are given in full and arranged in logical order.

- London literary society is cleverly satirized by Mr. Murray in "The weaker vessel." His bright text is illustrated by several of De Maurier's pictures. The little sham enthusiasms of authors and readers, artists and disciples, are shown up through many realistic characters. The story turns upon a love affair. A worthless wife, long believed dead, turns up to mar a second marriage, which promises to be a perfectly happy one. A long period of misery and uncertainty is borne nobly by "the weaker vessel," who is the heroine.

This was the last work Laurence Oliphant wrote. His second wife, the daughter of Robert Dale Owen, furnishes a preface to the American edition, her husband being too ill in November, when the edition was projected, to put pen to paper; he died shortly afterwards. In this preface she answers some criticisms regarding the title, saying her husband had given it, not because he claimed to have fully discovered and formulated a new science, but because he considered that he had sufficient data upon which a religion might be founded, resting not merely on ephemeral emotion, or on blindly dogmatic faith, "but on an experimental series of spiritual developments, which may by degrees be reduced to law." The work was written in the solitudes of Mount Carmel, through an irresistible impulse which impelled him. The theories he describes belong to the realm of so-called "occult science." They are so involved that it is impossible in our space to intelligently explain them.

Roy, Gordon. For her sake: a tale of life in Ireland. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1889. 4-395 p. 2 il. O. cl., $1.50.

Val Stamford, a young Englishman, married a Scotch girl and took her to Cariden to live. Her first impressions of Ireland were unfavorable, but she rapidly gained the love which the surrounding tenantry withheld from her husband, because of his English birth, and one of the number, thinking to serve her, commits a terrible crime, which implicates Captain Stamford, until the same motive that led Mick O'Brien to do the deed induces him to make a confession before his death. He tells that he did both "For her sake." The plot involves a serious misunderstanding, a murder, and two love affairs. The story portrays some of the characteristics and the present condition of the Irish peasantry.

A simple little love-tale of France. The old château of Vaudelnay, with its aged aristocratic inhabitants, is well described. Here the hero grows up, the only young person in the whole place, till his little cousin Rosamonde is brought there a mere baby from Italy, where her mother and father had died. As Rosamonde is a Protestant and poor, she is neglected and treated sometimes coldly. Hence the name of "Miss Cinderella," which Gaston bestows upon her. But the neglected Cinderella blossoms into a beautiful, gifted woman, who finally wins her cousin's love.

In an interesting historical introduction the author refers to the birth of the system and the causes which were responsible for it, and then shows what has been its effect wherever adopted, and gives a list of the countries and states in which it is now in operation, together with those in which steps have already been taken to incorporate the law upon the statute-books. Following the introduction is given the law as it exists in this state, together with an illustration showing the polling arrangement under the act; following this are printed in full the election or ballot laws of South Australia, Queensland, Great Britain and Ireland, Belgium, Italy, Kentucky, and other countries and states. The act passed by the New York Legislature and vetoed by Governor Hill is also given. Appended to the text is a model of a ballot such as will in form be presented to the voters at the state election.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 16, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

THE BLOCKING OF THE COPYRIGHT MEASURE.

THE failure of the plan to move, on the first Monday of February, "Suspension Day," for the suspension of the rules and the fixing of a day for the consideration of the Chace-Breckenridge Copyright Bill, has been a serious blow to the international copyright movement. It had been arranged that Mr. Randall should obtain the recognition of the Speaker for a motion to that effect, which would undoubtedly have received the necessary vote, but no sooner was the legislative day opened than the filibusters obtained the floor and made it impossible to obtain action on this or on any other question. The nominal purposes of the filibusters were connected with other bills, but the opponents of the Copyright Bill have not been unwilling to take advantage of any means, however questionable, to block it, and it is quite possible that the filibusters were somewhat reinforced from this direction. At any rate, the plan failed, and the day was not fixed.

There remain two methods by which the bill may still have a chance. The first is by the action of the Committee on Rules, which may report a special rule enabling the Copyright Bill, and that only, to be brought up at a stated date. But some of the members of the Committee on Rules are opposed to this action, fearing that it might open the gates, despite all possible precaution, to objectionable measures. Such a rule would be an anomaly, but not altogether without precedents, for the famous Conference Tariff Bill of 1883 was passed under an extraordinary rule, which enabled the Conference Committee to get a vote not only on one particular bill, but on one side of it and not on the other. It is a sad comment on our national legislature that the best men in the House practically confess that it is better to do nothing at all than to open the way to bills which might be successfully rushed through in case any loophole were made.

The other alternative is the passage of the bill during the last six days of the session, when the order of business may be suspended and any bills put on passage by a two-thirds vote. More than once the most important measures both in Congress and in State legislatures have been rushed through in this way. It is a pity indeed that the conditions of legislation should be as they are, yet such opportunities should be taken advantage of by the friends of good bills as well as the promoters of bad ones, and we trust, therefore, that the friends of international copyright will be on the alert to do what can be done then.

THE COPYRIGHT MOVEMENT IN CANADA.

THE Privy Council of Canada, on the 23d ult., received at Ottawa an influential deputation representing the Copyright Association of Canada, consisting of the President, Mr. J. Ross Robertson; the Secretary, R. T. Lancefield; and Messrs. W. Bryce, A. W. Coil, D. A. Rose, A. S. Irving, and C. H. Suckling, of Toronto; and Messrs. John Lovell, John Macfarlane, J. D. Rolland, and P. A. Crosby, of Montreal. The Ministers present were, Hon. Messrs. Bowell (Acting President in the absence of Sir John Macdonald), Pope, Foster, Sir John Thompson, Costigan, Tupper, Haggart, Carling, and Dewdney.

Mr. Robertson addressing the Council said: "We appear with your permission to ask for legislation relating to copyright, and for that purpose to have brought with us a memorial, which I consider one of the most important documents ever presented to the Government. With your permission the Secretary will now read it."

Mr. Lancefield then read the petition to the Governor-in-Council, which is as follows:

"To His Excellency the Governor-General in Council:

"This petition respectfully sheweth: That your memorialists are deeply interested in copyright as authors, or in publishing, manufacturing, or vending of literary, artistic, and musical works.

"That your memorialists believe that the amending of our present Copyright Act, being Chapter 62 of the Consolidated Statutes of Canada, so as to place Canada under the operation of the Berne International Copyright Convention as embodied in the act proposed at last session of Parliament, would result in the most disastrous consequences to the printing and other branches of the manufacturing interests, as also to the publishers and booksellers of the Dominion, for the reasons amongst others that under the present law a book must be manufactured in Canada in order to secure exclusive Canadian copyright, whereas there is no such stipulation in the proposed bill, but on the contrary, every British copyright book is made an exclusive copyright in Canada, and the importation of all unauthorized foreign reprints of the same is prohibited. The Canadian book-trade and the Canadian reading public would be thus deprived of the privilege of importing or printing cheap reprints of British copyright books, such as they now enjoy, and in their place they would be forced to buy the high-priced copyright books manufactured in Great Britain and the United States.

"That your Memorialists believe that the present Copyright Act is defective in certain respects, in that amongst other things it allows (1) a United States author to secure copyright in Canada indirectly through first publication in Great Britain, while the Government of the United States refuses to grant a copyright to the British and Canadian author; and (2) that under its provisions the British author or the British publisher may and actually does sell books to United States publishers under an agreement which specially states that the right of the publisher is to include the Canadian market, thereby placing the Canadian market in the hands of foreign publishers, and also compelling the Canadian people to buy those special books manufactured in the United States, thereby depriving our composers, our pressmen, our paper-makers, our bookbinders, our stereotypers, and others engaged in kindred industries, of an enormous amount of work which would be done by them under the operation of a fair copyright act.

"That your petitioners would therefore pray that the present Copyright Act of Canada be amended, by making the necessary changes and alterations in it, so that the following clauses will be incorporated in the same:"

"That your memorialists believe that when this has been done, the Copyright Act of Canada will then secure justice not only to the British or foreign author, but to the printing, publishing, and bookselling interests of the Dominion, interests which, when taken in the aggregate, will be found to be among the most important in the Dominion, with many millions of dollars capital invested, and with many thousands of people engaged therein."

Mr. Robertson then resumed his address, saying: "This petition or memorial, gentlemen, is signed by over 2000 persons, comprising representatives from all the Provinces, including over 300 booksellers, 300 publishers and manufacturers, and over 1500 type-setters, stereotypers, bookbinders, paper-makers, and others engaged in industries which pertain to the art of book-making in Canada. The memorial carries with it its own story, and no words of mine can impress more thoroughly than it does, on the minds of you gentlemen who have control in matters of legislation in Canada, and who can aid us to secure the rights to which we are entitled. The Association that I have the honor, together with the other members of the deputation present, to represent, is comprised of manufacturers, publishers, and others interested in the trade of book-making, and involving capital to the extent of many millions of dollars, representing interests that are of such a large and varied character that we fancy when you have read over our memorial carefully you will give it fair consideration, and agree that what we ask for shall be granted us. This Association was formed about twelve months ago, at the time the Berne Copyright Bill was first introduced into the Canadian Parliament. The Association felt that such a bill would be detrimental to the best interests of Canadian publishers, and we waited upon the Government, and you were good enough to hold over at that time any contemplated legislation in the matter, so that we might bring before you in a more comprehensive manner the views of the publishers of the Dominion. What we ask in this memorial is based strictly on the lines of the national policy—a policy that to-day is the plank on which this Government controls the country—a policy which was adopted, as far as copyright is concerned, in 1870, reiterated in 1872, and again in 1875, when it was distinctly provided that copyright in Canada could only be secured when the book was printed and published in this country. We felt that the effects of the Berne Bill would be to practically emasculate the entire trade in this Dominion in connection with books, and that the publishers would be ruined.

"If the Berne Bill were adopted in Canada booksellers would be placed at a great disadvantage because in the event of the Canadian publisher being unable to secure a Canadian copyright, booksellers in the Dominion would not have Canadian books at their disposal. Further, by the Berne Bill no one could import from the United States reprints of English copyright works which are to-day furnished to the Canadian public at prices ranging from 15 to 75 cents. The publication of educational works containing extracts from copyrighted books would also be stopped, and what is most important is that this Berne Act would be retroactive and would apply to all books copyrighted years ago in England, the importation of which in Canada would be prohibited. To-day the Canadian reader can secure for 50 cents the reprint of an English book, which, under the Berne Act, he would only be able to obtain from across the sea and import at a cost of $7. The Canadian public would be utterly unable to pay such a price, and the result would be that they would have to go without the works. Take the case of one book which is well known, 'In Far Lochaber,' by William Black. That work is not published in Canada, and the English publisher declined to allow it to be reprinted in Canada. What follows? The price of a British edition is thirty-one shillings and six pence. By going to the United States we are enabled to get a copy in paper for 50 cents and in cloth for $1.25. In the case of that celebrated work, which commands the attention of the reading world to-day (I mean 'Robert Elsmere'), the same thing applies. The English publisher declined to sell the Canadian copyright to a Canadian publisher. He says, 'No, I won't sell to you. You must either buy the American edition or go without it.' The result is that some 20,000 copies of this book have been imported from New York into this country and sold at 50 cents. The publication of 'Robert Elsmere' is a strong justification of the ground we take. Had that work been published in this country it would have involved an expenditure of from six to seven thousand dollars, and if the act which we have framed were law to-day, Mrs. Ward, the authoress, on this edition of 20,000 copies, would have obtained a royalty of $1000, whereas it is a question if she will now receive one dollar, and the bookbinders, stereotypers, paper-makers, and typefounders would all feel its beneficial influences.

"Here in Canada we are in a peculiar position.

We have 3000 miles of border. The American publisher imports an English copyright work and reprints it, but we cannot reprint it in Canada, and the Canadian publisher, with his types and machinery, cannot get the privilege of republication even if he were to pay the 27½ per cent. duty, as a royalty to the English publisher. This we claim to be unjust, and say that we should be placed on as good a footing as the United States publishers. A very large amount of money is sunk in the printing offices in the Dominion, but the English publisher, with that keen eye to business which has always characterized him, has persistently refused to sell the Canadian market to the Canadian publisher, and says that the American publisher shall have the entire American continent as his preserve. He literally farms out Canada as a publishing ground, and says to us, 'If you want books you must go to the markets of New York and Boston for them.' So it is to-day, the English publisher declining to sell to any one in Canada. Take the case of Blackwood, that can now be bought in Canada for 30 or 40 cents. Under the Berne Act Blackwood would cost 75 cents and Littell's Living Age, which contains extracts from all copyright works, could not be imported at all. To-day the Americans can obtain copyright in Canada through English publishers, where the Canadian, with his machinery, types, energy, and enterprise, cannot obtain it. In fact, the American author can obtain a British copyright by assigning his copyright to an English publisher, and this copyright covers Canada. No Canadian can obtain a copyright from the United States under any system, although the American can secure protection under the system of simultaneous copyright—whatever that means. I had a conversation with a prominent member of the American Copyright League, the other day, and he admitted that although decisions had been given in favor of simultaneous copyright, yet it was a question with him whether it was good law or not. By a copyright being issued at Washington at high noon, and in London at the same hour on the same day, these books would be copyrighted in both countries. The Canadian publisher is absolutely powerless and has had to pay £25 and £50 for inadvertent infringement, but still his American rival does as he pleases. We therefore ask the Government to remedy these evils. We think that by this memorial we can convince you that the remedy is in your hands. We in Canada have power to make laws in regard to patents. We say to a patentee, 'If you manufacture in this country within two years we will give you protection, but if you do not manufacture we cannot give you any privilege.' The man who makes the carpet, the gasoller, the various articles of furniture in this room is protected, but the printer gets no protection whatever, and it is only in regard to books that England retains special control over us. All our Copyright Acts, you will recollect, gentlemen, or at least a great many of them, have been submitted to England, and the consequence was that the Act of 1872 was sent back to us and we were told it would clash with Imperial interests, or rather with the interests of the selfish English publishers, and therefore it could not be allowed to become law. Dearlly as we love the old flag, and the connection with the mother country, as nine tenths of the Canadian people I believe do, we maintain that our fealty to the old land brings with it no obligation to sacrifice the interests of the Canadian to the English publisher and, for that matter, the English author. We feel we should have justice. We feel that the English publishers, so far, have taken every means in their power, directly and indirectly, to force on the Canadian people an act repugnant to them, and have endeavored to use the people of this country to attain that end. We think that patriotic considerations should not deter us from doing that which is to the advantage of the Canadian, as opposed to the British, publisher. The policy we advocate is the logical development of the policy which is making this a great nation, a policy that is fostering the young industries of this country into life and prosperity; a policy which we think would give relief to at least half a dozen great interests in connection with the trade of book-making—more interests than the honorable gentlemen around this table have any idea of. I have no doubt that you, sir (addressing Hon. Mr. Bowell), from your knowledge of the business, will readily comprehend the large interests involved. The question affects the entire book-trade of Canada, the printer, the binder, the stereotyper, and others directly engaged in the business of book production, and above all it affects the reader. We ask that the Government will not allow the people in this country to be imposed upon, but that we should be placed on a footing to enable us to compete with our American rivals. We are perfectly willing to give to others what we ask for ourselves. The main point in this Act, which we propose, is the payment of a royalty, which although repugnant to some, was popular at one time in England. I understand that a bill was drafted which conceded the principle of royalty. Mr. Gladstone, himself, in an able paper, illustrated and showed the advantage of a royalty collected by means of a stamp duty. In connection with this, by the payment of a royalty, we are not pirating.

"We have been accused in Canada of pirating, and I dare say some works have been pirated and republished in this country by Canadian publishers, but as one who in the last few years has printed over a million books, I say that if we could get any sort of protection at all we would pay for what we take, and give the English publisher what is right—a return for the book that he first publishes. In this matter of royalty we would point out that Mrs. Ward would have received ten per cent. on the retail price of her book, which would have been a magnificent profit to the English authoress and publisher. And we believe that if the matter were properly placed before the English authorities they would accede to our request. The Government will, we have no doubt, take this matter into its consideration, and give, as it has always done, a careful consideration to the memorial representing the views of such large and varied interests. We trust that what we have said will commend itself to the members of the Government, and that they will either accept the bill we have presented or frame one themselves that will meet the requirements of the case, so that the printing interests may be fully protected. We look to the Government for this, because it lies in your power, gentlemen, by any action you may take in connection with this matter, to either make or unmake, to either aid or irretrievably emasculate and practically annihilate interests that most vitally effect the publishers of the Dominion of Canada. I have to thank you, gentlemen, for kindly listening to me."

Mr. Lovell then remarked: "I went to England in 1872 on a mission similar to that we are now engaged in. The English publishers would not yield an inch. They said they would not allow any colonial to publish one of their books. Their ignorance of Canada was profound. They treated Canada as if it was part and parcel with the United States."

Mr. Robertson pointed out that the New York Sunday World had published the whole of Max O'Rell's book, "Brother Jonathan," in one issue, that a Canadian publisher had offered a handsome sum for the exclusive right of publishing the work in Canada, and then asked, "How could such a publisher compete with a paper which sold for four cents?"

To which the Hon. Mr. Bowell replied, "The paper could be stopped at the border by Customs officers."

Mr. Bryce (the publisher alluded to by Mr. Robertson) explained that the Customs officers not only did not prevent the importation of the newspaper containing the story, for which they were perhaps not to blame, but they even refused to assist in preventing the importation of bound volumes for which he had the exclusive copy-right.

Hon. Mr. Bowell called Mr. Bryce's attention to the fact that tons of books have been seized for infringement of copyright.

To this Mr. Bryce responded: "I have letters from your department, which say in effect that my only remedy is to bring an action against those importing the books. I even offered to defray the cost of furnishing customs collectors with a list of copyrighted books. In order to protect myself, I have had to publish my works in New York, thus robbing Canadians of all the work of getting them up except the bookbinding."

Mr. Bowell ended the interview, saying: "I have to apologize to you, gentlemen, for Sir John Macdonald's absence. He would gladly have been present this afternoon had he not had to go to Montreal. I think I am but expressing the opinion of every one of my colleagues when I say that we are very much obliged for the clear, lucid, and forcible manner in which your President has laid the whole subject before the Council, and I safely promise that it will receive the most serious consideration of every one of us. Speaking for myself I realize, and if I were in business now probably I would realize it the more, the great importance of the industries in which you are engaged. Mr. Robertson has made a strong national policy speech, and personally I thank him for it. I think he is in the right direction anyway. I would say to Mr. Bryce if he will put into writing the statement he has made in reference to the difficulties he has encountered in enforcing the Copyright Law through the Customs, if I find the difficulty lies with my department, that matter will have my personal attention at once."

Earlier in the day some members of the deputation had an interview with the Postmaster General, and pointed out to him that the fact of the American postage on books being only one cent a pound, while the Canadian rate is four cents, enables the New York publishers to send a book to any part of Canada for three cents less than it can be sent from Toronto, thus more than nullifying the duty on the book. This matter will also be looked into.

RAND, McNALLY & CO.'S NEW QUARTERS.

WORK will be commenced shortly on one of the most complete and substantial printing and publishing houses in the world. It will be erected by Rand, McNally & Co., in Chicago. It will be nine stories high, and will be built on Adams Street, between La Salle and Fifth Avenue, having a frontage of 150 feet on Adams, and extending back 165 feet to Quincy. The outer walls will be of red brick and red terra-cotta. It will be absolutely fire-proof, no steelwork in the building being exposed. All the steel will have an air chamber next it surrounded by fire-clay, making it impossible for fire in the building to heat the steel. The stairs will be of iron throughout. There will be five swiftly running passenger elevators. The seventh floor will be made with twenty-inch deep steel joists and arranged to carry the heaviest printing presses. There will be a court, 60 x 66 feet, in the centre of the building, with a skylight at the top of the first floor, the rest of the light shaft being open to the outer air. The light court will be finished with white china tiles and terra-cotta. Rand, McNally & Co. will occupy the space beneath the skylight on the first floor for their offices. The frontages on Quincy and Adams Streets will be level with the sidewalk and will be rented as stores. Two floors will be rented for offices and the remaining part of the building will be occupied by Rand, McNally & Co. It will be heated by steam and lighted by incandescent light. It will cost $500,000, and about one year will be required to complete it.

This building, it is claimed, will be the largest in the world devoted entirely to the business of printing and publishing; and learning from past experience to provide for future expansion, the company has decided to make the foundations, beams, and posts adequate to sustain an additional burden of six stories, so that the building can be increased at any time, if necessary, to sixteen stories in height. The framework will be of steel, firmly bolted and riveted together, so that, as in a truss bridge, all stresses will be equally distributed.

This house started in 1856, since which date the growth of its business has necessitated several removals and enlargements of quarters. But it has always been cramped for room, notwithstanding the ample provisions thought to have been made when the present building on Monroe Street was built for it. The growth of its map and book publishing departments has been remarkable, and it is believed that in the new building, the occupation of which is projected for next year, ample provisions have been made for future expansion.

THE BRESSA PRIZE.

THE Royal Academy of Sciences in Turin, in accordance with the last will and testament of Dr. Cesare Alessandro Bressa, and in conformity with the programme published December 7, 1876, announces that the term for competition for scientific works and discoveries made in the four previous years 1885-88, to which only Italian authors and inventors were entitled, was closed on December 31, 1888.

The Academy now gives notice that from the 1st of January, 1887, the new term for competition for the seventh Bressa Prize has begun, to which, according to the testator's will, scientific men and inventors of all nations will be admitted. A prize will therefore be given to the scientific author or inventor, whatever be his nationality, who during the years 1887-90, "according to the judgment of the Royal Academy of Sciences of Turin, shall have made the most important and useful discovery, or published the most valuable work on physical and experimental science, natural history, mathematics, chemistry, physiology, and pathology, as well as geology, history, geography, and statistics."

The term will be closed at the end of December, 1890. The value of the prize amounts to 12,000 Italian lire. The prize will in no case be given to any of the National Members of the Academy of Turin, resident or non-resident.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Germania, a quarto fortnightly journal for the study of the German language and literature, edited by A. W. Spanhoofd, has just been published at Manchester, N. H.

Leif Erikson is the title of a new journal to be published weekly at Chicago, under the editorial management of Miss Marie A. Brown, to prove among other things that the Norsemen discovered America, and that Columbus was an impostor.

A NEW magazine for the blind in raised Braille type will shortly make its appearance in London under distinguished patronage. It will contain original articles and reprints of literary matter of a high class, by the best authors of the day, politics being excluded.

Shakespeareiana will begin at an early date a Teachers' Supplement, designed as an exchange among teachers for suggestions, opinions, and experiences in imparting instruction in English literature by means of the works of Shakespeare as a text book.

THE Fortnightly Review for February contains a paper by Mrs. Lynn Linton on "Characteristics of English Women." It is the first of a series which begins historically. Mrs. Linton's papers on Women in Greece and Rome were a marked feature of the Fortnightly last year.

EDGAR S. WERNER, the editor and proprietor of the Voice, a journal of expression, vocal and physical, has changed the name of the paper to Werner's Voice Magazine, in order to avoid the confusion resulting from the organ of the Prohibitionists having the same name. Mr. Werner's periodical is the older of the two, and, morally, he has the exclusive right to the name of the Voice. But as his right was only a moral one he preferred not to enforce it in the courts.

THE February number of the Studio contains full-page productions of two of Rembrandt's canvases, the purchase of which by Mr. H. O. Havemeyer, and their exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, has created a sensation in art circles. In addition to the above portraits, the number also contains a photo-etching reproduction of an important terra-cotta group recently received from Cyprus, and forms a valuable addition to the number of groups reproduced direct, and published as full page supplements in previous issues of the Studio. In the text are given timely and interesting articles and the latest news of the art world, etc.

THE Critic's ninth year and eleventh volume (new series) began when 1889 dispossessed the old year. Among the more notable articles contained in the two volumes, covering the year 1888, are essays from the pens of John Burroughs, E. C. Stedman, Dr. E. E. Hale, George P. Lathrop, W. J. Stillman, Prof. J. A. Harrison, Miss Anna L. Dawes, and others; while in the way of poetry the familiar names of Walt Whitman, Richard Watson Gilder, Clinton Scollard, Robert Burns Wilson, Edith M. Thomas, and Helen Grey Cone will be found repeated in the indices. Three of the "Authors at Home" papers are included—"John Hay in Washington," "George H. Boker in Philadelphia" and "Richard H. Stoddard in New York."

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Mr. John Bartlett has retired from the firm of Little, Brown & Co., and Mr. Chas. W. Allen is admitted as a partner.

BOSTON, MASS.—The firm of Loughton, Macdonald & Co., has been dissolved, Mr. A. T. Loughton retiring. The business will be continued by W. N. Macdonald & Co.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—Leech & Martin, booksellers, have dissolved partnership. W. W. Martin continues the business.

COLUMBUS, O.—Randall & Smyth, booksellers, have sold out.

COLUMBUS, O.—Oliver Davie, dealer in second hand books, has been succeeded by Oliver Davie & Co.

DETROIT, MICH.—J. A. Roys & Co., wholesale and retail booksellers have been succeeded by a corporation of the same name with a capital stock reported as $25,000.

DENVER, COL.—Mr. W. G. M. Stone, of the firm of Stone & Co., Denver, and Edgar R. and William I. Locke, of the firm of Locke Bros., Denver, have formed a stock company under the title of The Stone & Locke Book and Stationery Co. The merchandise of the two concerns will be united, and a new store on a somewhat extensive scale will be opened on Sixteenth Street, Denver, on or before the 1st of May next.

GRIFFIN, GA.—The firm of Brawner, Deane & Co. has been dissolved by mutual consent, Jas. M. Brawner retiring. R. J. Deane and J. H. Huff have formed a copartnership under the name of Deane & Huff, to continue the book, music, and stationery business at the old stand.

HARBOR SPRINGS, MICH.—C. R. Summers, bookseller and stationer, has removed from that town.

HOOPER, NEB.—Peyton Brothers, booksellers and stationers, have sold out.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA.—Cooper & Lovett, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We regret to announce the death, on January 30, at Louisville, Ky., of W. Scott Glore, one of the most popular and best-known booksellers in that city. Death was due to brain congestion brought on by the exposure incident to a trip to the far West, whither Mr. Glore had gone in the endeavor to build up his shattered health. He leaves a widow and one son.

MADISON, NEB.—Wilberger & Bordwell, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

MARION, ILL.—P. H. Goertz, bookseller and stationer, has removed to Freeman.

MAYSVILLE, KY.—A. J. McDougale, bookseller, has sold out.

NEW YORK CITY.—Ward & Drummond will remove on May 1 to 711 Broadway and occupy the store and basement of same.

NEW YORK CITY.—McHale, Rohde & Co., on the 5th inst., dissolved the copartnership heretofore existing between them. Mr. Frank McHale and Mr. William Rohde, on the same day, formed a copartnership for the purpose of continuing and carrying on the business lately conducted by the old concern, under the firm-name of McHale & Rohde, No. 9 Cortlandt Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—At a meeting of the creditors of the firm of Knight, Loomis & Co., which was held at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, New York, February 6, more than seven-eighths of the creditors (in amount) were represented. Mr. Pease, of the Shoe and Leather Bank, acted as chairman of the meeting. After listening to a plain and straightforward statement by Mr. Loomis of the history of the firm and the transactions which caused its suspension, a committee of five, consisting of Messrs. Pease, of the S. and L. Bank, McElwain, of the Valley Paper Co., Vernon, of Vernon Bros., Giles, of Giles Lithog. Co., and Jewett, the assignee of the suspended firm, was appointed and authorized to consult with A. S. Barnes & Co., the firm's principal creditors, who are largely secured by liens on their plates, and to effect such a settlement as shall appear best for all parties concerned. All the creditors seemed to be in sympathy with Messrs. Knight & Loomis and anxious to effect some arrangement which will enable them to continue their business.

NIAGARA, N. Y.—The copartnership of Rhodes & Babcock has been dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be hereafter conducted by Edward O. Babcock, in his own name. All accounts of the late firm will be settled by Benjamin Rhodes.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The fixtures, stock, etc., of Charles H. Edson & Co., Nos. 52 and 54 North Sixth Street, formerly of Boston, and publishers of the American Law Series, were sold on the 7th inst. by the sheriff.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.—J. C. Hassinger, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Hassinger & McPhail.

SELMA, CAL.—W. A. Simons, bookseller, has been succeeded by H. Putnam.

SENECA, NEB.—Demster & Hazlett, booksellers, have sold out.

SIoux CITY, IA.—Webster & Welch, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

SIoux FALLS, D. T.—W. W. Clark & Co., booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Ross & Warwick.

WATERTOWN, WIS.—The book, stationery, and news business heretofore conducted by M. J. Carroll, owing to his death, will hereafter be controlled by his father, Michael Carroll, with Wm. Schoppe as manager. Mr. Carroll will settle all accounts against his son and collect all moneys due him.

WINONA, MINN.—William Roessner, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Roessner & Luehmann.

WINTERSSET, IA.—M. D. Hutchinson, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

A GOSSIP ON CATALOGUES.

J. W. BOUTON has published a fine catalogue of the Rare and Valuable Books now in his stock. It forms No. 12 of his new series of catalogues and is the eighty-fourth issued by him during a business career of over thirty years. In an interesting introduction to this catalogue, Mr. Bouton refers to the fact that thirty years ago the old booksellers of New York could be counted on one's fingers and that since then they have multiplied exceedingly. Bartlett & Welford, then under the Astor House, which was not so far down-town as it is now, both men unrivalled in their knowledge of books; the indefatigable Joseph Sabin; William Gowans, familiarly known as "Old Gowans," who will long be remembered for his eccentricities; Timothy Reeves; Calvin Blanchard, a disciple of Free Love, an exponent of Positivism, also known as the compiler of the only complete translation of Rousseau's "Confessions" and Voltaire's "Candide"; John Doyle, who christened his establishment the "Moral Centre of the Intellectual World," a most eccentric character, at whose store Mr. Bouton used often to drop in while an errand-boy in the employ of the old firm of Daniel Appleton & Co., with whom, he says, his business life began at a salary of $2 a week; and John Bradburn were the shining lights of their day—and they have all passed from the scene of their activity except the last, who still carries on his business. And with them have gone many of the old collectors of that time—William Menzies, James Lenox, George Brinley, Andrew Wight, John Allan, John A. Rice, John Carter Brown, Samuel J. Tilden, and many others.

Mr. Bouton, however, takes comfort in the fact that as fast as one book collector retires or dies, two new ones spring up in his place. The complaint that old books are not so generally prized as formerly he thinks is ill-founded, and what apparently justifies it arises from the fact that the book business in common with nearly every other has been overdone of late years. There are more collectors of rare books to-day in proportion to the population than there ever were before.

Mr. Bouton gives in a title-page a reproduction in miniature of the covers of some of his old catalogues. These relate the history of his business to some extent, and, incidentally, some of that of the country. He first started his business at No. 87 Walker St., a fine old dwelling-house which, when originally built, was looked upon as up-town. Nos. 12, 20, 29, mark successive removals uptownward. His first removal was to No. 481 Broadway, next door to Brougham's Theatre, afterwards Wallack's Theatre. The next move was to No. 416 Broome St., in which house formerly lived Thos. Hamblin and Mrs. Shaw, lessees of the Bowery Theatre—the former a famous actor and fine tragedian, and the latter equally well known to fame as an accomplished tragic actress. No. 32 alludes to the abolition of duty on books printed over thirty years ago, and No. 40 to the panic in 1873.

The present catalogue contains the titles of many rare volumes, the bibliographical descriptions of which and the fac-simile illustrations will be found valuable and interesting to the bookseller as well as to the collector. It has been tastefully printed by the De Vinne Press. (8+132 p., 12°, cl., 25c.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE new Atlantic Index is rapidly approaching completion.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will soon publish "The Story of Hamlet and Ophelia," by Fredericka Beardsley Gilchrist.

WE are glad to hear that Mr. W. Cushing has succeeded in making arrangements for the publication of his "Anonyms," and that the printers have already commenced work upon it.

C. W. BARDEEN, Syracuse, at the recent Rand, Avery & Co. sale, purchased the plates of the two Chautauqua books—"Life of Michael Angelo" and "Roger Ascham." He will probably issue new editions presently.

THE OPEN COURT PUB. CO., Chicago, announce an important work by Alfred Binet, the eminent French scientist, entitled "The Psychic Life of Micro-Organisms." The author has furnished a preface especially for the American edition.

IT is said that Mr. Du Chaillu's book on the Norsemen has practically been reset for the sixth time, the author having made discoveries and revisions which involve important changes and additions. The whole work, which has 1200 beautiful illustrations, will probably appear next month.

BRENTANO's have opened a branch at No. 430 Strand, London, which they intend to make "the headquarters of Americans in Europe, as is already the case with their house in Paris, by offering them all possible facilities for keeping fully informed of the doings of American authors and publishers."

THE D. Lothrop Company has just published "Glimpses of Great Fields," by Rev. J. A. Hall, a defence of the old faith in the established beliefs of Christianity; "A Brave Battle," by Lucia E. F. Kimball, a life story of a successful Western business man, in which the wonderful growth of the W. C. T. U. is graphically described.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just issued an interesting volume of more than local historical value in Henry S. Dana's "History of Woodstock, Vermont." Woodstock has always had a character essentially its own, and even up to the present day has more of the New England thrift of the old days than any of the other towns in the State.

THE NORMAL PUBLISHING CO., which has recently removed its business from Lancaster, Pa., to 1124 Arch Street, Philadelphia, announces the following reduction on the retail price of the following books: "Normal Methods of Teaching," from $1.75 to $1.50; "Mental Science and Culture," from $1.75 to $1.50; and "Philosophy of Arithmetic," from $2.25 to $2.00.

CHARLES C. COLLINS, receiver in the action of Alfred C. Barnes and others against John L. Jewett as assignee of the late firm of Knight, Loomis & Co., announces that he will sell at public auction, at the salesrooms of Bangs & Co., the engraved and electrotype plates, copyrights, and publishing contracts of the Messrs Knight, Loomis & Co., of fifteen and more books, as advertised elsewhere in this issue.

LEE & SHEPARD have just published a volume of rare interest in "Essays, Religious, Social, Political," by David Atwood Wasson. The book includes an autobiographic sketch, written in vigorous and interesting language, and a biography of Mr. Wasson, by his friend and contemporary, O. B. Frothingham. Mr. Wasson was one of the most profound men of his day, and his essays and poems will find a more than temporary place in literature.

By an error we gave in our "Weekly Record of New Books," February 2, (page 88), the price of "Jonathan and His Continent" as 50 cents in paper and $1 in cloth. The book as yet has been published only in cloth, and the price is $1.50. The trade will please make a note of this. The success of this book, we understand, has been greater than the publishers, Messrs. Cassell & Co., anticipated, for the first edition of the book was exhausted before they had the second under way.

"FRANKLIN'S WORKS," published by subscription at $5 a volume, are now quoted at $10 each, or $100 for the set. Remarking on this the Critic says: "What a pity it is, by the way, that the Putnams issued so small an edition. To think that only 600 out of 60,000,000 of free-born anti-monopoly Americans can own a copy of Franklin's complete works!" We trust some day Messrs. Putnam will see their way clear to publish an abridged edition for the people, say in five volumes, for about a dollar a volume, or less. Thousands of Americans are waiting for such an edition.

THE copyright, plates, and material on hand of the family "Biography of Henry Ward Beecher" have been purchased from Charles L. Webster & Co. by Bromfield & Co., publishers, 658 Broadway, New York, and the book will henceforth be sold through the trade instead of by subscription. Messrs. Bromfield & Co. have also contracted with the Beecher trustees to bring out the celebrated "Life of Christ" in a completed form, either by issuing the second volume to match Vol. I., which was published in 1872, by J. B. Ford & Co., or by bringing out the entire work in one volume.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation a translation, by Miss Ruth Putnam and Mr. Alexander Arbuthnot, of the "Histoire de la Participation de la France à l'Établissement des États-Unis d'Amérique," by Henri Doniol. The edition will probably be a limited one. They have also in press a work by Theodore Roosevelt, on the early history of our Western territory, entitled "The Winning of the West and Southwest, from the Alleghenies to the Mississippi." This is expected to be complete in two volumes, the first of which will cover the period 1769-1783, that is to the close of the Revolution.

WM. WOOD & Co. have recently inaugurated a new and original plan for furnishing the most recent, the most advanced, and the most authoritative writings of prominent instructors and practitioners of medical science throughout the world. They have issued the first of Wood's Medical and Surgical Monographs, containing three articles: "The Pedigree of Disease," by Jonathan Hutchison; "Common Diseases of the Skin," by Robert M. Simon; and "Varieties and Treatment of Bronchitis," by Dr. Ferrand. They propose to issue one of these monographs per month, covering the details of experiments and methods which have led to the latest discoveries and newest practice. The translations from foreign languages will be entrusted to experts on the subject as well as good linguists. All that is being learned and done throughout the world will thus month by month be reported in the best manner. The first issue is one of 259 pages, and this will be the average size.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will soon publish "Home Gymnastics for the Well and the Sick," containing directions how to preserve and increase health, also how to overcome conditions of ill-health by simple movements of the body, adapted to all ages and both sexes, edited by Dr. E. Angerstein, Superintendent of the Gymnasiums of the city of Berlin, and G. Eckler, head teacher of the Royal Institution for educating teachers of Gymnastics, translated from the eighth German edition by Mr. Berthold Schlesinger, a well-known business man of Boston, and amply furnished with illustrations; "A Quaker Girl of Nantucket," by Mary Catherine Lee, which is likely to attract interest both for the story itself and for the peculiar fascination of the island which gives the story its name; "The Immanent God, and other sermons," by Rev. A. W. Jackson; the works of the late Rowland G. Hazard, of Providence, edited by his granddaughter, Caroline Hazard; and "The American Book of Church Services," prepared by Rev. Edward Hungerford, which is intended for use by Protestant churches which desire a fuller share in the services, and contains a variety of selections which promise to be generally acceptable.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish immediately a new work by George John Romanes, entitled "Mental Evolution in Man: the origin of the human faculty." This work, which follows "Mental Evolution in Animals," by the same author, considers the probable mode of genesis of the human mind from the mind of lower animals, and attempts to show that there is no distinction of kind between man and brute. Other books nearly ready are: "The Folk-Lore of Plants," by T. F. Thimelton Dyer, the eminent English botanist, which traces the superstitions and fancies connected with plants in fairy-lore, in witchcraft and demonology, in religion, in charms, in medicine, and other branches; also an English version of Ducourdray's "Histoire Sommaire de la Civilization," a recent French work that has been highly commended by European critics. It will appear in two parts, one entitled "The History of Ancient Civilization," the other "The History of Modern Civilization." The first volume will be published in the course of a few weeks. The work has been not merely translated, but edited and revised, and care taken to be as authentic as possible. "Arius the Libyan: a romance of the primitive church," will be included in Appletons' Town and Country Library. Two tales by Julian Hawthorne, "Constance" and "Calbot's Rival," will form the number of this library for March 1.

NEW EDITION OF

THE HIDDEN HAND;

OR

Capitola, the Madcap.

By Mrs. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH.

HANDSOMELY BOUND IN CLOTH.*Retail Price, $1.50.*Liberal Discount to the Trade.

"The most valuable and popular story ever published in the New York Ledger was Mrs. Southworth's 'HIDDEN HAND.' So great was the demand for it that it was republished in the Ledger three times! The cry came from everywhere: 'Publish this great story in book-form!' And now it is published in book-form, and is eagerly read by tens of thousands of admirers."—Passaic City Herald.

"'THE HIDDEN HAND' is the one story which stands out in our memory with perfect distinctness of detail. We read it in the New York Ledger when we were seventeen years old, and now that it is published in book-form we shall read it again, and have our children read it also."—Springfield Courier.

PUBLISHED TO-DAY:*French Traits:

An Essay in Comparative Criticism. By W. C. BROWNELL. 12mo, $1.50.

A subtle and extremely entertaining analysis of French character and French society. The method of criticism is comparative throughout, the social customs, intellectual habits, art instincts, and moral standards of the French being brought into juxtaposition with those that prevail in the United States.

First and Fundamental Truths.

Being a Treatise on Metaphysics. By JAMES MCCOSH, D.D., LL.D., ex-President of Princeton College. 12mo, $2.00.

In this work, which the author regards as the keystone of what he has been able to do in philosophy, Dr. McCosh formulates and explains the fundamental laws governing the associated mental exercises. He defines Metaphysics as The Science of First and Fundamental Truths; and his aim is to make this science as clear as is the Science of Logic.

RECENT BOOKS.

Crabb's Handy Cyclopedia; or, An Explanation of Words and Things Connected with the Arts and Sciences. By George Crabb, A.M., author of "English Synonyms," "Technological Dictionary," and "Historical Dictionary." Illustrated with numerous engravings. 12mo, cloth, roan back, $1.25.

This is a valuable book, supplying in a handy volume a clear description of almost any and every thing or object that any person wants to know. It is alphabetically arranged, and for people who have not the means to purchase great, many-volumed encyclopedias, and yet wish to be thoroughly posted, this is just the work for them.

This book is the best arranged and the most complete work of its kind, having the words carefully classified according to their specific and distinctive meanings clearly indicating the varied shades of distinction in words of similar import, or having the same extent and range of meaning and usage—a feature of this work not to be found in any other book of synonyms, and greatly adding to its usefulness and value as book of reference.

Zahner's German Dictionary. 18mo, cloth, 60 cents.

Carl Zahner's Dictionary is the equal of any, and the superior of most lexicons in either language. To complete it the highest authorities in both languages have been consulted. To students and teachers Zahner's German-English and English-German Dictionary will be eminently useful: every spelling, pronunciation, and definition has been closely scanned and sifted.

New Illustrated German Dictionary. A complete English-German and German-English Dictionary. By CARL ZAHNER. 12mo, cloth, roan back, $1.25.

New Pronouncing Dictionary of the French and English Languages. Exhibiting the pronunciation of the French words in English sounds and giving the parts of speech, and gender of French nouns. By GUSTAVE MESNIER, member of the University of Paris. 16mo, cloth gilt, 80 cents.

Hurst's New Nuttall's Dictionary of the English Language, based on the labors of the most eminent lexicographers and other authorities of America and Europe, to which is added a DICTIONARY OF SYNONYMS and a comprehensive GRAMMAR of the universal language, VOLAPÜK. New edition, revised, extended, and improved. By the Rev. JAMES WOOD and THOMAS P. PEABODY. 8vo, cloth gilt, $1.50.

A Happy Find.

From the French of Madame GAGNEBIN. 12mo, $1.25.

A sweet and yet dramatic love-story; the moral, always prominent but subordinated to the action, teaches simple and childlike trust in God. It is healthful and interesting, and its perfect freedom from anything like cant is reinforced by its charming French vivacity and humor.

Red Carl.

By J. J. MESSMER. 12mo, $1.25.

"Red Carl," in simple but exquisite style, pictures the eventful lives of a colony of German emigrants in one of our large manufacturing cities. The descriptions of the "labor movement," the strike and the settlement of it, are written from life, while the characters introduced are such as to attract the interest of all readers.

Cecil's Knight.

By E. B. HOLLIS, author of "Cecil's Cousins," "Cecil's Summer," etc. 12mo, $1.25.

"Cecil's Knight" is a story of a manly boy who, through perseverance, good sense, and genuine courage, fought his way from poverty and trial to success and fame. It teaches a useful lesson in a clear and attractive way.

Polished Stones and Sharpened Arrows.

By C. W. BIBB. With an introduction by Rev. A. J. GORDON, D.D. 12mo, $1.25.

A handy volume and admirable manual for Christian workers, thinkers, and teachers, embracing some four or five hundred Scripture texts, giving under each one or more apposite and appropriate illustrative anecdotes enforcing the moral truth conveyed in each heading. The style is fresh and vigorous, and the work will meet a genuine want.

By AMELIA B. EDWARDS. With upwards of 70 illustrations engraved on wood by G. Pearson, after finished drawings executed on the spot by the author. 2d edition, revised by the author. 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

"Her trip up the Nile is charming for its bright, gossip style, but is also a serious work whenever the topic happens to be architecture or Egyptology."—N. Y. Times.

"She is as much at home among the temples and pyramids of Egypt as in the cathedral towns of England, and to read her vivid pages is to see again the glory and the greatness of the land of the Pharaohs."—Mail and Express.

HANDY REFERENCE ATLAS OF THE WORLD.

By JOHN BARTHOLOMEW. With 100 maps and plans, full geographical statistics, and a complete index. 12mo, cloth, $3.00; half morocco, $4.00; Persian morocco, $5.00.

George Routledge & Sons,

SINCE writing a brief editorial notice, two weeks ago, of Bagster's Comprehensive Teacher's Bible, several inquiries have been made concerning the book, and we have received several orders for it. In the meantime we have continued the use and examination of the book, and have become confirmed in the opinion that it is not only the best Bible for all interested in the study of the Word, but that it will not be superseded as a Teacher's Bible for many years to come.

To the working pastor the "Helps" will be invaluable. To pastors and Christian workers who are interested in giving Bible readings to their people it will prove, when known, to be well nigh indispensable. The writer has tested it on that line and testifies intelligently to its worth.

We are glad to be able to add to this personal testimony that of some of our leading pastors who have received the book and given it a thorough examination.

As was said in these columns nearly four years ago, when reviewing Dr. Geikie's "Hours with the Bible," "It is in the interest of Bible study, and not of the publishers" that we commend the "New Bagster."—Buffalo Christian Advocate, Nov. 29, 1888.

SUPPLEMENTARY HISTORICAL READING.

Children's Stories in American History.

By HENRIETTA CHRISTIAN WRIGHT. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

The former of these volumes deals with the remote and partially legendary episodes of our earlier history, while the latter contains pictures of events of the first half of the present century.

Miss Wright displays a remarkable talent for vivid and picturesque narration, and a child fond of story-telling will gain from these books an amount of information which may far exceed that which is usually acquired from the rigid instruction of the school-room.

"A most delightful and instructive collection of historical events, told in a simple and pleasant manner. Almost every occurrence in the gradual development of our country is woven into an attractive story for young people."—San Francisco Evening Post.

Children's Stories of American Progress.

By HENRIETTA CHRISTIAN WRIGHT. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

"They are told in a singularly free and colloquial way, and each chapter is made more valuable by being opened with a swift and graphic glance over the antecedent time and events which led up to the particular points described."—The Chicago Times.

CHILDREN'S STORIES OF THE GREAT SCIENTISTS.

By HENRIETTA CHRISTIAN WRIGHT. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Equal in interest and value to Miss Wright's two previous books, which have attained such popularity as supplementary readers. It deals, in a simple, entertaining manner, with sixteen of the great men of science, giving a brief, readable account of their lives and of what discoveries they made.

These short biographical chapters contain a large amount of information on almost every branch of science, which, while thoroughly accurate and reliable, is conveyed in a form to be of interest and profit to the young.

"A capital book for young and old. We do not know of a better compendium of the progress of scientific knowledge during the last three centuries. The portrait illustrations are of a high degree of excellence."—Buffalo Express.

"Of inestimable value to the young and no better work can be put into their hands. The volume is both entertaining and educational."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

IMPORTANT TO SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS.

These books have been selected by some of the most prominent educators of this country for their course of Supplementary Reading. Attention is called to them, as giving the most gratifying results for this purpose. Correspondence is solicited concerning copies for examination and terms of introduction.

NOTES IN SEASON.

JOHN DELAY, New York, calls attention to the fact that the volumes in his new library of Gleanings from Foreign Authors are to be published at 30 cents instead of 50 cents as previously advertised. The first issue contains Halévy's "A Love Match," translated by H. de Veer and V. Foster; and Victor Cherbuliez' "King Apepi."

S. C. GRIGGS will publish next week "Shall We Teach Geology?" by Dr. Alexander Winchell of the University of Michigan. This treatise is a special plea for teaching geology in public schools, but is also intended to cover the ground of the contest, now waging among educators, as to the greater practical value during school years of the classics or the sciences. The book will be of value not only to teachers but to all interested in the vital questions of modern education.

DODD, MEAD & Co. announce "The Diary of Philip Hone," which will be of especial interest to New York readers. Mr. Hone, a member of an old Knickerbocker family, was a well-known figure in political and industrial circles in this country fifty years ago. He held the office of Mayor of New York, and for many years was a leader of the Whig party. He was one of the founders of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Co., and of many similar enterprises when canals and railways were still experiments; a Vestryman of Trinity Church, Trustee of Columbia College and the Bloomingdale Asylum, President of the Bank for Savings and of the Clinton Hall Association, and a trusted officer of many other institutions. His diary extends from 1828 to 1845, and abounds in names and bright sayings. The work has been edited by Mr. Bayard Tuckerman, author of "English Prose Fiction."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day a bright and engaging story by Mary Catherine Lee, entitled "A Quaker Girl of Nantucket," the scene of which shifts from Nantucket to an ocean yacht and to New York; "The American Book of Church Services, with selections for responsive reading, and full orders of service for the celebration of matrimony, and for funerals and other occasional ministrations, also, an ample list of selections of sacred music, with references for the guidance of pastors and choristers," arranged by Rev. Edward Hungerford, which is intended to serve for churches which now use no liturgy the purpose served in the Episcopal Church by the Book of Common Prayer. A new edition in the Riverside Classics series of X. B. Santine's "Picciola;" and in the Riverside Literature series, No. 40, "Tales of the White Hills, and other sketches," by Nathaniel Hawthorne are also ready.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (32mo: 15 cm.); TT. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

A handy volume and admirable manual for Christian workers, thinkers, and teachers, embracing some four or five hundred Scripture texts, giving under each one or more apposite and appropriate illustrative anecdotes enforcing the moral truth conveyed in each heading. The style is fresh and vigorous, and the work will meet a genuine want.

Brassey, Lady Annie. The last voyage to India and Australia in the Sunbeam by the late Lady Brassey; il. by R. T. Pritchett and from photographs. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 22+490 p. il. and map. O. cl., $6.

A graphic picture of travel through the countries covered by the title, with many interesting details of life on the Sunbeam. Lady Brassey is already known as an interesting and sympathetic writer through her "Voyage of the Sunbeam," and other works of travel. This voyage finishing with her death in Sept., 1887, possesses a melancholy interest for those knowing her personally. Her brave struggle with sickness, her death and burial at sea, are full of romance. Her husband prefaces her diary with a loving memoir of her life, written for their children. Richly illustrated.

Bryce, Ja. The American commonwealth. N. Y., Macmillan, 1888. 2 v. 16+750; 5+743 p. map, D. cl., $6.

The outline of the work is simple. After an interesting introduction, the national government is considered in Pt. 1. and here the American reader will find much that is new and informing in the views of the President, the Cabinet, the Senate, and the House, especially in such chapters as "Why great men are not chosen President" and "The House at work." Pt. 2 covers the state and municipal governments. This portion includes a chapter by Hon. Seth Low, ex-Mayor of Brooklyn, on municipal government, and another by Mr. Frank Goodnow. Pt. 3 is a study of the party system, in extraordinary detail. In Pt. 4 public opinion here is analyzed and emphasized. Pt. 5 consists of illustrations and reflections on specific features of our system, and Pt. 6 takes up the social incidents of the country, such as railroads, Wall Street, the Universities, the position of women, etc., as illustrative of our general status. The notes and appendices are very full and very valuable, including, for instance, as a typical state constitution that of California in full, and presenting also other data which an American could not easily put his hand upon elsewhere.

Darling, Annie. Message for the king's daughters; or, the manners of the court. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., 1889. 4-56 p. S. cl., 35 c.

The idea of the little book is a very happy one, that of presenting the duties, privileges, and blessings of the Christian life to the children, the Daughters of the king, of Christ, the King of kings. The work is specially commended to those who allied themselves to the society which has taken the name of the King's Daughters.

Davis, Eben H. The beginner's reading-book. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., [1889.] c. 24+7-128 p. il. D. (Lippincott's popular ser.) cl., 42 c.

Contains a large number of very easy lessons, carefully graded, and so arranged as to aid young children in the use of their sight and memory. The style is simple and natural, avoiding as far as possible all childish expressions which conflict with good English. May be used both as a primer and as a first reader. Good print and paper and nice illustrations.

Miriam Balestier is a beautiful woman and a gifted artist. To keep together a worthless family she goes upon the stage, and obtains some fame as a singer in comic opera. Her life is chiefly influenced by her manager, who loves her, and by a rival singer, a bewitching blonde, who loves the manager and hates Miriam. An attempted murder, a railroad accident, and an unhappy love affair are among the many incidents.

Field, Rev. H. M. Gibraltar. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 8+139 p. il. O. cl., $2.

Gibraltar being out of the way of the ordinary tourist has not often been described in books of travel. It is well worth the volume, however, that Dr. Field has devoted to it. Its unique position, its picturesqueness, and its history all make it rich in an interest he has done full justice to. Text and pictures describe graphically the traveler's impressions on entering the straits, and climbing the rocks; the fortifications, the sights of the town, a parade on the Alameda, and presentation of colors to the South Staffordshire Regiment; the society of Gibraltar; the history of the great siege, etc., etc.

"The object kept in view by the writers of this work has been to make it useful to all who take an interest in educational questions, and especially to those engaged in the work of teaching, whether in elementary, secondary, or the higher schools. Within the limits of a small cyclopædia an exhaustive treatment of the great variety of subjects dealt with is not to be expected. It has therefore been the aim of the contributors to give a telescopic rather than a microscopic view of the educational facts and questions discussed, and to bring their purely pedagogic features into clear outline. References to authorities have been given at the conclusion of the more important articles only, as a carefully compiled bibliography of pedagogy is given as an appendix to the book."—Preface.

Fletcher, Julia, ["George Fleming." pseud.] The truth about Clement Ker; being an account of some curious circumstances connected with the life and death of the late Sir Clement Ker, Bart., of Brae House, Peeblesshire; told by his second cousin, Geoffrey Ker, of London. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. c. '87. 317 p. S. cl., 75 c.

By the author of "Kismet" and "Miriage." A singular story of the Ker family living in an old ancestral castle in Scotland. There is a strong element of supernaturalism pervading the story, which is full of surprises and strange incidents. Sir Clement Ker is a most uncanny character, being an opium-eater in connection with other peculiarities. There is a love affair between his wife and her cousin, Richard Ker, and a very dramatic ending.

Gagnebin, Mme. A happy find; from the French by Miss E. V. Lee. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., 1889. c. 256 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The "happy find" is a little girl baby, found lying among the daisies by a little boy seven years old. He carries it to a lonely unmarried woman living in an old abbey. She is delighted to adopt it, after trying in vain to discover its parentage. Many years pass, during which "Aimee" has lived a quiet, happy life with "Aunt Martha," she has learned to call her protector. Aunt Martha's death sends her into the world as a governess. She is loved and after some adventures discovers her family. The story is French in scene and characters.

Garrison, Gertrude. The wrong man: a novel. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 58 p. D. (The household lib., v. 4, no. 5.) pap., 25 c.

Gilder, J. L., and J. B., eds. Authors at home; personal and biographical sketches of well-known American writers. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 3+354 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The charming series of sketches which appeared in The Critic, a fact that adds to their interest and value is that they were all written with the approval of the authors whom they portray. They embrace twenty-seven names, of as many American writers; the sketches being written by our foremost American journalists. The persons described include Aldrich, George Bancroft, George Boker, Burroughs, Cable, Mark Twain, Howells, Stedman, Stoddard, Leland, Whittier, and others equally famous.

*Haines, Elijah M. The American Indian. Chic., The Mas-sin-na'-gan Co., 78 Fifth Av., 1888. 800 p. il. O. cl., subs., $5; lib., $6; hf. mor., $7.

Hale, Susan. The story of Mexico. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. '88. 16+428 p. maps and il. D. (Story of the nations ser.) cl., $1.50.

The opening chapters are devoted to an account of the wandering tribes which first occupied Mexico, with their traditions, etc. A great deal of information is given of the Aztecs, the last of the Montezumas, Cortés, and other characters connected with the early history of Mexico. Its many revolutions, its society, literature, scenery, etc., come in for many agreeable descriptive chapters.

Harding, Marie Virginia. The soul of Lady Agnes. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1889. c. 204 p. D. pap., 50 c.

A sensational story of a murder, and of a young girl who takes what she believes to be a false oath to save her lover. Scene mostly laid in New York.

Harland, H., ["Sidney Luska." pseud.] A Latin-Quarter courtship, and other stories. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 3+269 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., v. 1, no. 20.) pap., 50 c.

Contents: A Latin-Quarter courtship; Mr. Sonnenschein's inheritance; Lilith; Mrs. Ormiston's dinner-party. The first story covers over 190 pages, and is a charmingly-told tale of life and love in Paris, in which the actors are an American woman-doctor, her friend, a young French girl, and an American author. The two latter, of course, fall in love with each other.

Harland, Marion, [pseud. for Mrs. M. V. H. Terhune.] Alone. [New cheaper ed.] N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, [1889.] 348 p. D. (Madison sq. ser., no. 1.) pap., 25 c.

King, H. T. Essays. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. '88. 273 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.

Short essays on all sorts of topics. Mr. King is the author of "The Egotist," and is also a lawyer. These bright, helpful paragraphs were thrown off in the odd moments snatched from professional pursuits. They are unconventional and original, and extremely good reading.

Larremore, Wilbur. Mother Carey's chickens: a book of verse. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 6+90 p. S. cl., $1.

This little collection of poems is beyond the average. They are brief and referring to many topics; they are, as a general thing, musical and graceful. A number of sonnets complete the volume.

Le Cato, N. J. W. Annt Sally's boy Jack: a novel. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 70 p. D. (The household lib., v. 4, no. 7.) pap., 25 c.

Miller, Annie Jenness. 'Twixt love and law: a novel. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 270 p. D. (The household lib., v. 3, no. 9.) $1; pap., 50 c.

An American novel advocating divorce. The hero is unhappily married to a commonplace woman, who has no other fault than her commonplaceness and lack of sympathy with her husband's intellectual needs. After some years of married life they drift apart, the man falling in love with a young unmarried woman, who returns his love. After many agonizing incidents a divorce is obtained by the husband and he marries again. All the author's arguments justify his course. By the editor of the new magazine called Dress.

Mills, C. De B. The tree of mythology, its growth and fruitage: genesis of the nursery tale, saws of folk-lore, etc.: a study. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1889. c. '88. 2-288 p. O. cl., $3.

A comprehensive essay on the origin, the nature, and growth of myth—what it primarily was and what has come of it. The subject is divided under twelve chapters having the following headings: Source; Myths of explanation; Myths arising from metaphor; Heroic legends; Nursery tales; Proverbs, folk-lore, etc.; Survivals and reminiscences; Shadow and signification; Didactic, ethical; Symbolism; Excelsior.

Montague, F. C. Life of Sir Robert Peel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. 9+225 p. D. (International statesmen ser.) cl., 75 c.

Sir Robert Peel was one of the most distinguished English statesmen of this century (b. 1788, d. 1850). He is prominently connected with two of the greatest English agitations of the century—to each of which he was in opposition—Catholic emancipation and the repeal of the corn laws. The present sketch is simply a summary of facts already ascertained about Sir Robert Peel, no new sources of research being yet opened to the biographer.

Morley, H. English writers: an attempt towards a history of English literature. V. 4. Book 1. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1889. 6+362 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The subject of this volume is the literature of the fourteenth century. Another book will be needed to conclude it. The chapters given here relate to: The romance of the rose; Petrarch and Boccaccio; Richard of Bury and some learned men; Miracle plays; Northern homilies and southern legends; John Gower; Gower's "vox clamantis" and "confessio amantis"; War and religion; Maundeville's travels; William Langland and his "Vision of Piers-Plowman."

Morris, L. The epic of Hades; in three books. 26th ed. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. 5+284 p. S. cl., $1.25.

*Our national cathedrals (the richest architectural heritage of the British nation); their history and architecture from their foundation to modern times; with special accounts of modern restorations; comp. and rev. with the aid of dignitaries of the Anglican Church. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1889. 3 v., 729 p. il. O. cl., ea. $4.

Pellico, Silvio. My prisons: memoirs of Silvio Pellico; with an introduction by Epes Sargent; 50 ll. by Billings. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. c. tr. '67. 26+307 p. S. (Handy lib., no. 10.) cl., 75 c.

*Pennsylvania. Supreme court. Reports. V. 121; by Boyd Crumrine, st. rep.; v. 6, Oct. term, 1888. N. Y. and Alb., Banks Bros., 1889. c. 29+700 p. O. shp., $3.50.

Perez, Bernard. The first three years of childhood; ed. and tr. by Alice M. Christie; with an introduction by Ja. Sully. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1889. 28+294 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The peculiarity of this record of the first three years of the child is, that it is not a biographical sketch. M. Perez, so far as we can judge, has made special note of the progress of one or two favorites, but his record is a wide and comparative one. This gives it its peculiar utility. The author is well known as a writer of pedagogic literature.

*Raymond, Walter M. Citronaloes: a novel. Richmond, Va., J. M. Randolph & English, 1889. 158 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Ringwalt, J. L. Development of transportation systems in the United States; with illustrations of hundreds of typical objects. Phil., Railway World Office, 420 Liberty St., 1888. 398 p. il. F. cl., $5; hf. mor., $7.50.

Comprises a comprehensive description of the leading features of advancement, from the colonial era to the present time, in water channels, roads, turnpikes, canals, railways, vessels, vehicles, cars and locomotives; the cost of transportation at various periods and places; by the different methods; the financial, engineering, mechanical, governmental, and popular questions that have arisen; and notable incidents in railway history, construction, and operation. The author is the editor of the Railway World.

Robinson, Rowland E. Sam Lovel's camp: Uncle Lisha's friends under bark and canvas; a sequel to "Uncle Lisha's shop." N. Y., Forest and Stream Pub. Co., 1889. c. 253 p. D. cl., $1. Racy sketches of hunting and fishing adventures around Lake Champlain; they are mostly in the Canadian or "Yankee" dialect, and very amusing.

This martyr of the Church of Rome lived in the 4th century; he was a noted preacher and unusually gifted with eloquence. His great zeal, his strictly ascetic life, and his studies of the Christian religion place him among the great fathers of the church. These selections are taken from his numerous commentaries on the Scriptures and his many homilies on questions of ethics.

Thou shalt not. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1889. c. 3-366 p. D. pap., 50 c.

The author claims to be a moralist, his novel having been written, he says, to expose the wide-spread violation he believes exists in American social life, both high and low, of the seventh commandment. The book is written in very plain English—the illustrations being found in the horrible career of a young man, so fascinating that no woman can resist him.

Ullathorne, W. B., [Archbishop.] Characteristics from the writings of Archbishop Ullathorne; with bibliographical introduction; arr. by Rev. Michael F. Glancey. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1889. 33+342 p. D. cl., $1.60.

Archbishop Ullathorne has been a leading figure in the Catholic Church for over fifty years in England and Australia. Among the multitude of questions affecting the well-being of the Catholic Church, there is scarcely one of importance, with which he has not grappled. These "characteristics" explain many Catholic doctrines and practices, and offer suggestive thoughts on many kindred themes. The bibliography covers about thirty pages.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 23, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE NEW EDUCATIONAL LITERATURE.

THE extensive list of books supplementary to the ordinary text-books which we present herewith has a double significance in respect to what is often, and quite rightly, called the new education. The old education was too often a rote-knowledge of regulation books, in which the teacher had only to keep a lesson or so ahead of the pupil, in which the pupil had only the perfunctory interest of duty done. The new education demands more on both sides; a teacher interesting because equipped; a pupil interested because delighted with the variety and charm of knowledge well presented.

A new educational literature has developed within the past generation to supply this new demand. Text-books are admirable alike for their wise presentation of well-worked knowledge and their artistic excellence. The wisest scientist, the most skilled artist, are none too good for the service of the smallest child. The best for the least—that is the end at which school-book publishers in these days must aim.

Outside this admirable body of text-books, educational literature has made equally notable progress in two directions. Teachers must be taught. They must master education as a science, and avail themselves of the experience of other educators in applying education as an art. The thousands of teachers who have not enjoyed the training of Normal Schools must find a substitute in "the university of books." The Normal graduate must keep up with the times. Hence the wealth of teachers' aids which we catalogue in this issue. The modern teacher must study his profession—he must know how the child's mind opens and develops, what is the relation of one study to another, what method is best in this study and what in that. He must himself be the most studious of students. Only thus can he fulfil his duty to his class, as the new education defines his duty.

On the other side, the pupil must be led out from the school-room into the world of knowledge—by something beyond the text-books. The most notable example of the means is seen in the great variety and wealth of books offered distinctively for "supplementary reading." Under the guidance of a wise teacher, these become an open door to literature, history, science, and thus the school-room opens into the public library.

It is an embarrassment of riches which offers itself in both directions in the titles of THE TEACHERS' CATALOGUE. But it is worth a great deal of trouble to get the right thing, and the right book saves all the time and trouble spent in getting it. We trust, therefore, that this catalogue itself will be a teacher's aid of a very useful sort.

THE METHODIST BOOK CONCERN.

AT the session of the Book Committee of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which was held in this city, February 13, the Rev. Dr. Homer Eaton, who was elected Book Agent to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John M. Phillips, was warmly welcomed in an address by Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, and he met with a cordial reception by the Bishops and members present.

Dr. Homer Eaton, we learn from the Christian Advocate, is fifty-four years of age, the son of the late Rev. Bennett Eaton, of the Troy Conference, descended from good old Vermont stock, being a relative of the justly celebrated Governor Eaton of that State. He pursued his preparatory studies at the academy in Bakersfield, Vt., and afterward attended the Biblical Institute at Concord, N. H. The Syracuse University conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1878. He has filled many important charges in the Troy Conference, having served two terms as Presiding Elder, and is just closing his third year in the church at Burlington, Vt., and had been invited to return for the fourth year when chosen to his new field. He was elected delegate to the General Conference of 1872, also in 1880, 1884, and 1888. The General Conference of 1872 appointed him one of the fraternal delegates to the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada, and in 1881 he was a delegate to the Ecumenical Conference, held in London. For eight years he was a member of the Book Committee, and its chairman for four years, and at the present time he is a member of the Building Committee, having in charge the erection of the new Methodist Book Concern structure on Fifth Avenue.

The long-continued relations of Dr. Eaton with the Book Concern have afforded him opportunity to become somewhat familiar with the line of work to which his new position will introduce him. Having had some experience in business affairs in early manhood, he will bring to the office qualifications which warrant the hope of eminent success. Dr. Eaton, we have no doubt, will prove a worthy successor to the noble man whom all delighted to honor. The firm-name of the New York house will hereafter be Hunt & Eaton.

Ex-Gov. Lounsbury, of Connecticut, reported that the book depositories of the church were in a very satisfactory condition, and Dr. Whitlock, of Ohio, submitted the draft of an address of the Book Committee to the Annual Conference.

It was reported that the aggregate sales of books by the concern for the past year amounted to nearly $1,100,000, and the net gain for the past fiscal year was $221,975.65. The circulation of the New York Christian Advocate was 145,000, of the Sunday-School Advocate 322,000, of the Sunday-School Journal 170,000, and of the Berean Seal, 1,400,000.

This is the centennial year of the Methodist printing business founded by Bishop Coke, and the committee recommended that the event be appropriately celebrated by the various Annual-Conferences and congregations.

EMBROIDERED BOOK COVERS.

From the Mail and Express.

Book embroidery is a fad which may attain the dimensions of a mania. There were days when it had the dignity of an art, and missals of the seventeenth century, volumes once belonging to queens and to monasteries and preserved in the collections of connoisseurs or unearthed by the antiquarian, form the models on which the new embroidery of books is based. A young girl who admires Whittier is embroidering a cover for a copy of his poems which she hopes may be accepted by the Quaker singer in his hoar but kindly age. A thick-piled green velvet is the material, and the design is a monogram of the poet's initials in gold and silver threads, with a conventional border. An amateur photographer has filled a portfolio with fine large prints of Hudson River and Catskill scenery. His pretty sister, who figures as "human interest" in many of the pictures, has designed for the volume which is to contain them a cover of soft drab velvet, against which background she has embroidered the old bridge in Sleepy Hollow with the headless horseman hard on the heels of Ichabod Crane, a fitting reminder of the legends of the Western Rhine. A dainty prayer-book belonging to a devotional little maid is cased in black velvet, adorned with lily sprays. Some one sent Mrs. Langtry a superb volume of historical costumes finely illustrated. This Mrs. Langtry has had bound in a cover of pale greenish-blue silk, over which wanders a design of golden dragons, winged and with wonderfully wreathed tails, which assault each other ferociously with teeth and claws. Book embroidery is not a difficult art if the artist adopts conventionalized designs for small covers, and subjects which can be treated in mass without fine detail for all work. It is not worth undertaking except for volumes of permanent value, but as applied to well-chosen books it is likely to prove a profitable field for the needle-women who enter the market while it is a novelty.

A GENTLEMAN in Paris sent to a bookbinder two volumes of the French edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The title in French is "L' Oncle Tom," and the two volumes were returned to him marked on their backs :

L'Oncle,
Tome I.

L'Oncle,
Tome II.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

EDNA D. CHENEY is writing the official biography of the late Louisa M. Alcott.

THE authorized "Life of Laurence Oliphant" will be written under his wife's direction. His letters are asked for, and may be sent to Messrs. Blackwood, the publishers, at Edinburgh.

APPROPOS of the arrival in the American market of his "Souvenirs d'un Homme de Lettres," it is said that Daudet is suffering from a hopeless nervous malady of the kind which wrecked Heine's life, and it is feared he may not be able to accomplish much more work.

MR. IVAN PANIN, Wellesley, Mass., will print his lectures on Russian Literature delivered before the Lowell Institute, Boston, in a style uniform with his translations from Pushkin, as soon as he procures enough subscribers at $2 per volume. Names should be sent to the above address before April 1.

PHILIP JAMES BAILEY has been preparing a new edition of his "Festus," with additions, for the jubilee edition. May 1 is the fiftieth anniversary of its publication. The author was only twenty-three years of age when it appeared, and was hailed as a poetic genius of the first order. The book had an enormous sale for a time, especially in this country, but it and its author have been nearly forgotten by the present generation of readers.

MR. SAMUEL C. EASTMAN, of Concord, N. H., while spending the summer in Denmark translated under the author's encouragement and supervision Dr. George Brandes' "Impressions of Russia." Dr. Brandes was invited to deliver a course of lectures in French before the Literary Clubs of St. Petersburg and Moscow, and while there he was given remarkable facilities for studying the people and institutions of the country. His views are extremely lively and entertaining and his frankness of criticism is so pronounced that the book was placed on the black list by the Censor. The chapters on Russian literature are fresh and full of information, and the work is a decided addition to our knowledge of an extraordinary country. Mr. Eastman's translation will be shortly published by T. Y. Crowell & Co.

RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, the poet, critic, and editor, has been almost totally blind for the past three months. Since last June he has been afflicted with cataract on both eyes. Last month he went to the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital and Dr. Daniel B. St. John Roosa removed one of the cataracts, and the operation was attended with so much success that the chances are in favor of Mr. Stoddard's sight being at least partially restored. He is still at the hospital under treatment, and will probably have to remain in a darkened room for two weeks. Later on another operation will be performed to remove the other cataract. Mrs. Stoddard, we are glad to learn, has received encouraging reports as to her husband's condition. During the three months in which he was not able to leave the house he never relaxed his literary work. He dictated poems and prose while lying on his bed with a heavy shade over his eyes. His reminiscences of Poe and of Hawthorne, recently published in Lippincott's, as well as letters in the Independent and editorials, were so written.

THE portrait of Miss Olive Schreiner, the author of "The Story of an African Farm," in the February number of the Book Buyer, is the first that has been printed. Miss Schreiner contributes some interesting autobiographical notes which we reprint: "My father was a German born in Württemberg. He studied at Basel, and went to South Africa as a missionary. My mother is English, the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, and for generations my ancestors have been strict Puritans. I was born in the heart of South Africa, on a solitary mission station. I was many years old before I saw a town. My father died many years ago. My mother has become a Roman Catholic and is living in a convent in South Africa. I came to England for the first time seven years ago, and then published the 'African Farm,' which I had written in Africa. The first English edition was published in 1882. I have made stories ever since I could remember; long before I could write I used to scribble on sheets of paper, imagining that I was writing them. I began 'An African Farm' when I was almost a child, but left it for some years before I finished it."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Forum for March begins its new volume with an article by Cardinal Manning showing the evils of compulsory education and opposing the reading of the Bible in the public schools. Dr. George P. Fisher, of Yale University, will write a refutation of Cardinal Manning's conclusion. A paper by Prof. W. S. Scarborough, a negro, will explain the aspirations and hindrances of the negro in the South.

Once a Week shows enterprise and attracts talent. Frank Stockton's new $10,000 serial, "Ardis Claverden," begins in the issue for March 9, and is profusely illustrated. Edgar Saltus contributes "The Girl with the Naked Eye," a complete illustrated novel; the editorials are by Mayo W. Hazeltine and Blakely Hall. The London letter, Society, and the Book Review departments are always full of life and up to date.

Paper and Press in its issue for January fairly outdoes itself and its rivals. It is an excellent number of 98 quarto pages, handsomely printed in a variety of inks, showing all manner of processes and artistic printing. In its text and advertisements, which in a trade journal may well be regarded as an integral part of the text, will be found a wealth of information relating to the latest pertaining to paper and printing and the field of supplies for printers and publishers rarely found in so compact a form.

A BALLAD OF OLDE BOOKES.

Edward Heron Allen, in Lies.

THEY sing of the shadow lands far away,
The meads and the valleys of Arcadie;
Of haunts where the satyr and wood-nymph play,
And of Pillars and Gates of Ivorie;
But none of these plesaunces seems to me
A haven of joy, for I'm growing old,
And crave of Dame Fortune that I may be
Where the second-hand books are bought and sold.
My pulses beat high and my heart is gay
At finding a date that begins MD—,
On a sweet old ransome whose leaves are gray
With booky patina of anticlerie;
And I kneel to the sage come o'er the sea
That vandals may sell him for Yankee gold,
And gladly I part with my hard-earned V.
Where the second-hand books are bought and sold.

ENVOI.

Ah, Princess! these glories shall live when we
Are dead, and our lifeblood has long run cold;
For they are immortal, as you may see
Where the second-hand books are bought and sold

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish at once a new manual by Lucy Ellen Guernsey, entitled, "A Lent in Earnest."

PETER PAUL & BRO., Buffalo, will publish immediately "The Champions of Agrarian Socialism, and their Teaching," from the German of the Rev. V. Cathrein, S.J.

THE sale of the plates, copyrights, and publishing contracts of the late firm of Knight, Loomis & Co. has been delayed until February 26. Catalogues may now be obtained at Bangs & Co., 739 Broadway. The sale will be one of the most important that has taken place in years.

CASPAR'S DIRECTORY has now been printed through page 448, ending with the firm-name of Ryland. The printing is progressing encouragingly, and, at the rate the work is being turned out now, it ought to be in the hands of the subscribers about the middle of April. Arrangements have been made to have the book bound in half black cowhide, with cloth sides.

E. P. DUTTON & Co.'s Easter line embraces some twenty numbers, all of them dainty in execution and original in design. The "Birthday" booklets, a new departure, comprise a dozen numbers, many of which are of odd and appropriate shapes which make them especially attractive. In the line of general booklets there is, first, "Gifts and Graces," a packet of twelve booklets, and second, "Floral Tokens," a packet of three booklets, all of which are very enticing.

It will be remembered that two prizes, one of $700 and the other of $300, were offered by the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society for the two mss. best suited for Sunday-school books. As can readily be inferred, the offers enlisted a large number of competitors. The committee of award has but recently completed its difficult and taxing labors. The first prize has been awarded to "Rose and Thorn," by Katharine Lee Bates, of Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass., and the second to "A Titled Maiden," by Mrs. Caroline A. Mason, of Brockport, New York.

IN the autumn of last year the Provost and Dean of the University of Pennsylvania requested the Rev. George Dana Boardman, D.D., to deliver before the students "A Series of Sunday Afternoon Addresses upon Religious Topics." He acceded to the request, and "believing the Ten Commandments to be the foundation stones of authoritative morality of true society," he selected them for the theme of his lectures. Most of the lectures have been delivered, and the American Baptist Publication Society has made arrangements by which they hope to be able to issue the lectures in a handsome volume early in March.

GEORGE F. CRAM, 19 Park Place, N. Y., has just issued "The Standard American Atlas," a volume of 370 pages. The maps are accompanied by an index of this country, showing the location of all railways, towns, villages, and post-offices, giving the population of the places, the number of banks in each, as well as designating those which have telegraph offices and express offices. The foreign maps in the publication were chiefly compiled from charts of the Royal Geographical Society and are claimed to be geographically correct. There are maps of all the important cities in this country as well as an extensive table of interesting statistics.

THE move made by the D. Lothrop Co. to make a final edition of Margaret Sidney's "Five Little Peppers"—limited to one hundred thousand copies—and then to destroy the plates, is destined, in time, to make that delightful story a real "classic." When people know that they can buy no more copies they will begin to understand how much they really want it. It would be hazardous to state just how many copies of "Five Little Peppers" have been sold. The number is legion and the book really deserves its popularity. It is the brightest, breeziest, most natural and most enjoyable of the portraiture of children's home-life in America—the paradise of childhood.

A VOLUME which promises to be of interest to Scotsmen and their descendants in this country will shortly be issued from the office of the Scottish American, New York. It contains a series of essays illustrative of Scottish life, history, and character, gathered together under the title of "Scotland and the Scots." The author, Mr. Peter Ross, has long been a diligent student of the history of the Scottish race on this side of the Atlantic, and in the opening essay, "The Scot in America," is given a succinct account of how the people of that nationality have aided in all the religious, military, educational, national, political, and other movements which make up the history of North America. Among the other essays are "The Scot Abroad," "Scottish Characteristics," "Scottish Sports," "Scottish Superstitions," and "Freemasonry and Robert Burns."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have in press the third revised and rewritten volume of "Chambers' Encyclopædia," which will be complete in ten volumes; a "Life of Henry M. Stanley," by Rev. H. W. Little; "Examples, Rules, Tables, and References" for engineers, etc., by John Richards (subscription); and two new novels, "A Demoralizing Marriage," by Edgar Fawcett, and a still unnamed story by Mrs. H. Lovett Cameron. They will also add to their medical list a "Cyclopædia of Diseases of Children," edited by Dr. J. M. Keating, to be in four volumes, sold by subscription; a new edition of the "Elementary Treatise on Human Anatomy," by Prof. Joseph Leidy; "The Clinical Diagnosis of Non-Surgical Diseases," by Dr. Rudolf von Jaksch, of Vienna, translated by Dr. Cagney, of London; and a fifth volume in their "Practical Lessons in Nursing," devoted to "Diseases and Injuries of the Ear."

A. FLANAGAN, 185 Wabash Ave., Chicago, has issued a game of cards entitled "Literary Whist, or, games of great men," prepared by N. O. Wilhelm. In playing the dozen or more games that may be played with these cards, it is expected that one may soon become acquainted with the lives, the works and the characteristics of the world's greatest poets, prose writers, statesmen, warriors, scientists. Most of the games are simple enough for a child or may be made abstruse enough for the learned. The set consists of 100 cards,  $3\frac{1}{4} \times 2\frac{1}{4}$  inches. There are 26 "books" to be made or obtained. These are of Poets, indicated by key-word P.; Prose Writers, key-word P. W.; Soldiers, So.; Statesmen, St.; Scientists, Sc. Contemporaries of the same class are in the same book. Prominent traits and works are given with each name, so that in playing these games one acquires valuable knowledge while passing away a pleasant hour.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co. have purchased from Henry A. Young & Co. all the stock and plates of the following works, and will supply all orders for them in the future: "The Children's Hour," by Mrs. Mary B. C. Slade, dialogues, tableaux, etc., for primary schools and entertainments; "Exhibition Days," by the same author, containing dialogues, charades, recitations, etc., suitable for grammar and high schools; "Pleasant Times," by Marion Wayland, songs, dialogues, and recitations; "Young's New Juvenile Speaker," by Henry A. Young, adapted to the youngest scholars; "The New Dialogues," by C. M. Barrows, especially adapted for grammar, intermediate, and high schools; "Manual of Gymnastic Exercises for Schools and Families," by Samuel W. Mason, Supervisor of Boston schools; "Charades and Pantomimes," for school and home entertainment, with additions by Oliver Optic; "Popular Amusements for School and Home," with additions by the same author; "The American Checker-Player," by Charles Francis Barker, champion checker-player of the world, with numerous games and openings; "National Kindergarten Songs and Plays," by Mrs. Louise Pollock, Principal Kindergarten Normal School, Washington; "National Kindergarten Manual," an entirely new work by Mrs. Pollock, an indispensable volume for teachers; and "Cheerful Echoes," a new music-book for primary schools, by Mrs. Pollock, for children from three to ten years of age.

CUPPLES & HURD, Boston, have arranged with W. H. H. Murray, the author of "Daylight Land," to issue a series of six volumes of Adirondack Tales, which will be for the Adirondacks what Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales were for the State of New York. "John Norton, the Trapper," will be the central figure in the new series. The short story, "How John Norton Spent His Christmas," has already had a circulation, it is claimed, of over 100,000 copies, and the new illustrated edition will be issued in the fall. The first volume of the new series will be published in the spring, and two volumes will follow in the fall. They will publish immediately a third edition of "Life's Problems—here and hereafter," to which the author's name, the Rev. George Truesdale Flanders, will be affixed. "The Romance of a Shop," by Amy Levy, a story of four sisters, three of them very young and very pretty, who were suddenly bereft of parents and fortune, and left to solve the problem of life with their own brains and their own gentle hands; and "Pleasant Hours in Sunny Lands," a handsomely printed, artistically illustrated, story of travel round the world, by Isaac N. Lewis, illustrated by full-page photographic views of scenes that came under the author's observation. They have just issued the first of a series of medical monographs, which are likely to become extremely popular among medical men, entitled "The Diagnosis and Medical Treatment of Acute Intestinal Obstruction," by R. H. Fitz, M.D.

JOHN WILEY & Sons, have in preparation "A Manual of the Steam-Engine," a companion volume to the "Manual of Steam-Boilers," by Prof. Robert H. Thurston; "Steam-Engine Design," for the use of mechanical engineers, students, and draughtsmen, by Prof. J. M. Witham; "A Laboratory Guide in Chemical Analysis," second edition, entirely rewritten and revised by Prof. David O'Brine of Colorado State Agricultural College; "A Technical Dictionary," defining as an authority all the terms of art and industry, by Park Benjamin; "The Guide to Piece Dyeing," containing 100 samples of the author's own coloring, each sample accompanied with a recipe, by F. W. Reisig, practical dyer and chemist; "A Treatise on Linear Differential Equations," by Prof. Craig, of Johns Hopkins University; "A Treatise on Masonry Construction"—containing materials and method of testing strength, etc., combinations of materials, composition, etc., foundations, testing the bearing-power of soils, etc., masonry structure, stability against sliding, overturning, crushing, etc.—with 125 illustrations and eight or ten folding plates, by Ira O. Baker, C. E.; "An Elementary Text-Book of Chemistry," by William G. Mxter, Professor of Chemistry, Sheffield Scientific School, Yale College; "Notes in Thermo-Dynamics and Steam-Engine Experiments," by Prof. C. H. Peabody, Mass. Inst. of Technology; "A Treatise on Hydraulics," designated as a text-book for technical schools, and for the use of engineers, by Prof. Mansfield Merriman; "Brackett's Elementary Treatise on Physics," abridged from Anthony and Brackett's "Text-Book of Physics;" "Differential Equations," a mathematical treatise, specially prepared with reference to a post-graduate course, by Prof. W. W. Johnson; "Kinematics; or, Practical Mechanism," Part II.—a treatise on the transmission and modification of motion and the construction of mechanical movements, for the use of draughtsmen, machinists, and students of mechanical engineering, in which the laws governing the motions and various parts of mechanics, as affected by their forms and modes of connection, are reduced by simple geometrical reasoning and their application is illustrated by accurately constructed diagrams of the different mechanical combinations discussed—by Prof. Charles W. MacCord, Stevens Inst. of Technology; "Preparation of Organic Compounds," introduction to the preparation of organic compounds, by Dr. S. Levy of the University of Geneva, translated and revised by Prof. P. T. Austen, New Jersey State Scientific School; "Flow of Waters in Rivers and Other Channels," by Ganguillet and Kutter, translated, revised, and extended by Rudolph Hering and J. C. Trautwine, Jr.; and "A Grammar of the Hebrew Language," greatly enlarged, and for the most part rewritten, by Prof. W. H. Green, D.D., Princeton Theological Seminary.

EDUARD VON HARTMANN will shortly issue a politico-historical work under the title of "Zwei Jahrzehnte Deutscher Politik und die Gegenwärtige Weltlage."

ACCORDING to the Nieuwsblad voor den Boekhandel, last year 107 books were published in Constantinople in the Turkish language, 49 in Greek, 41 in Armenian, 8 in French, 3 in English, 4 in Bulgarian, 3 in Hebrew, and 1 in Volapük. Many of these were translations, mostly from the French. Constantinople possesses 40 printing and as many lithographic establishments for a population of about 700,000.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. CHARLES SCRIBNER, the publisher, sailed for Europe on the 23d inst., and will remain abroad till the middle of June. He will spend the greater part of his holiday in southern Italy.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

Arithmetic in Two Books.

WARREN COLBURN'S FIRST LESSONS, 35 CENTS.

N. H. WHEELER'S SECOND LESSONS, 60 CENTS.

FIRST LESSONS. A Revised and Enlarged Edition of WARREN COLBURN'S First Lessons (Intellectual Arithmetic upon the Inductive Method of Instruction) was published in 1884; descriptive circulars containing sample pages and recommendations—from which the following have been selected—will be sent to any address on application.

"It is the only English text-book upon arithmetic that I can unhesitatingly recommend."—COL. F. W. PARKER.

"It has never had a superior, and we think not an equal. . . ."—WILLIAM H. PAINE, A.M., Professor of the Science and Art of Teaching, University of Michigan.

"The alterations and additions in this edition are improvements in what was previously the best, and by far the best manual of mental arithmetic that I have ever seen."—THOMAS HILL, ex-President of Harvard University.

SECOND LESSONS. By H. N. WHEELER. Forming, with Warren Colburn's First Lessons, a complete, brief, practical course in Arithmetic. Characterized throughout by a careful application of the inductive method of instruction, by the aid of which the pupil is led to regard a new word as a labor-saving device for the expression of an idea, a definition as a brief statement of the net result of personal observation and thought, and a rule as a brief statement of how he has done something.

The SECOND LESSONS, by its methods of presentation, by the emphasis that it places on fundamental principles and their applications, and by the omission of useless subjects, will give a boy in a short time a working knowledge of the useful part of written arithmetic that will last him not merely until the examination day, but as long as he lives.

We will send a descriptive circular, including sample pages, to any address on application.

A PRIMER OF AMERICAN LITERATURE.

By CHARLES F. RICHARDSON, Professor of English Literature at Dartmouth College. A new and revised edition, with full index, and portraits of twelve of the most prominent authors. Fifty-third thousand. 18mo, 30 cents, net.

"The multum in parvo principle has rarely been better realized than in this book."—Boston Journal.

ANDREWS AND STODDARD'S LATIN GRAMMAR.

A new edition, thoroughly revised by HENRY PREBLE, Assistant Professor of Greek and Latin in Harvard University. 12mo, $1.12, net.

The favor with which Professor Preble's revision (in manuscript) has been received warrants the belief that it will be found in many important respects superior to any Latin Grammar now in use.

CHARACTERISTIC FEATURES: The Grammar is characterized throughout by a combination of scientific accuracy, clearness, and simplicity.

The following are some of the subjects in the treatment of which the greatest improvement has been made:

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| 1. Order of Words in the Latin Sentence.                           | 6. The Regular Verb. (The four conjugations treated so far as possible as varieties of one conjugation.) |
| 2. Word-Formation. (Formative Suffixes, Processes of Growth, etc.) | 7. The Third Declension.   |
| 3. Clauses with cum .                                       | 8. Metres. (A full but brief treatment with English parallels.)  |
| 4. Relative Clauses.   | 9. A complete and very valuable Index.   |
| 5. Conditional Clauses.  |  |

SUPPLEMENTARY READING FOR SCHOOLS.

RIVERSIDE LITERATURE SERIES. Containing many of the masterpieces of Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, Hawthorne, Lowell, and other prominent writers. 39 numbers averaging about 80 pages. 16mo, paper covers, each number 15 cents.

MODERN CLASSICS. A library of thirty-three beautiful volumes containing many of the best Stories, Essays, Sketches, and Poems in modern literature, including selections from the most celebrated authors of England and America, and translations from continental writers. 32mo, cloth, 40 cents a volume.

A descriptive circular of the thirty-nine numbers of the Riverside Literature Series thus far published, including a prospectus of the six new numbers for the school year 1888-9 (subscription price, 50 cents); and also a pamphlet containing the table of contents of each of the thirty-three volumes of our Modern Classics will be sent to any address on application.

LIBRARY CHART OF THE WORLD, on MERCATOR'S PROJECTION.

Size, 58 x 41 Inches.

In the preparation of this map we have endeavored to meet all the requirements that our experience teaches us is desirable in such a publication. It embodies many valuable and convenient features. The coloring distinguishes political divisions—a distinction which is extended to coaling stations, ports, and islands belonging to the various great States—and is at once clear and delicate, so as not to obscure the other features of the map. All important places are shown, and as much detail has been introduced as is consistent with clearness, so that the map, without being in the least crowded, contains more geographical information than most charts of the kind. Another feature that will be appreciated is the position of North America and the United States, which are placed near the centre of the map, thus bringing Australia, a large part of China and of the Russian Empire upon the left side of the map. In the Arctic Ocean all the discoveries of recent explorers are accurately located; the various ocean currents are shown in detail; and in every respect the map is trustworthy and superior.

In addition to the general chart, the sheet contains small inset maps of the British Isles, Germany, and Sweden and Norway; and colored diagrams showing the comparative heights of the principal mountains and the comparative lengths of the principal rivers of the world.

Price, full mounted, . . . . . $5.00.

CHOICE BOOKS FOR SUPPLEMENTARY READING, AND REGULAR CLASS RECITATIONS.

LOCKWOOD'S READINGS IN NATURAL HISTORY.

Animal Memoirs.—Part I. Mammals. 12mo, cloth, 317 pp.

Price for introduction, 60 cents.

Animal Memoirs.—Part II. Birds. 12mo, cloth, 397 pp. Price for introduction, 60 cents.

"Dr. Samuel Lockwood has written in 'Animal Memoirs' a really fascinating book. His stories of the animals he has known are told with tenderness and humor; his description of the characters, the idiosyncracies of his friends, are full of sweet, attractive feeling as well as of scientific accuracy. It is a book which will not only delight children, but will teach the most valuable lessons of loving kindness."—New York Tribune, Sept. 13, 1888.

CATHCART'S LITERARY READER.

Typical Selections from the best British and American Authors, from Shakspeare to the present time, chronologically arranged; to which are added Biographical and Critical Sketches and numerous Notes, a Glossary of the difficult words in the text, and a Dictionary of some of the most familiar of British and American Authors. Intended for the use of schools, academies, and seminaries, as also for the home. By GEORGE R. CATHCART, M.A. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, leather backs, 438 pp.

Price for introduction, $1.15.

SWINTON'S ADVANCED READERS.

In four numbers. By Professor WILLIAM SWINTON.

These books are put forth in answer to a very general demand for additional reading matter of similar grading to that in the regular series of readers by the same author, and prepared with the same care as to literary character of the subject matter, and containing language training as valuable as that which forms a part of the former popular series.

Swinton's Advanced First Reader. On the same plan as Swinton's Primer and First Reader; developing and extending the language-work of that book. 120 pp.

Price for introduction, 25 cents.

Swinton's Advanced Second Reader. On the plan of the Second Reader, with similar exercises in great variety. 176 pp.

Price for introduction, 35 cents.

Swinton's Advanced Third Reader. With exercises in reading and language-work similar to those of the Third Reader. 240 pp.

Price for introduction, 50 cents.

Swinton's Advanced Fourth Reader. Composed (like the Fourth Reader) of new and interesting matter, largely original for this important grade of school work. 384 pp.

Price for introduction, 65 cents.

SWINTON'S PRIMARY HISTORY OF UNITED STATES.

First Lessons in our Country's History, bringing out the salient points, and aiming to combine simplicity with sense. An excellent book for supplementary reading. 1 vol., square, fully illustrated, cloth.

Price for introduction, 48 cents.

THE GEOGRAPHICAL READER AND PRIMER.

A Series of Journeys Round the World, based on Guyot's Introduction, with primary lessons. Richly illustrated with over 130 engravings. 14 maps. 12mo, cloth, red edges, 282 pp.

Price for introduction, 60 cents.

Shall We Teach Geology?

A Discussion of the Proper Place of Geology in Modern Education. By Alexander Winchell, A.M., LL.D., Professor of Geology and Paleontology in the University of Michigan. 1 vol., 12mo, 227 pp., $1.00.

The author, whose many works on Geology have made him well known to the science-loving portion of the American public, presents here a strong plea for the wider recognition of the study of Geology. The work promises to be of great interest, not only to teachers, but to all who are interested in observing the tendencies of modern education.

New Edition Just Issued.

Viking Tales of the North.

From the Icelandic. By Prof. R. B. Anderson, author of "Norse Mythology," etc., and George Stephens, the great Runic scholar. 1 vol., 12mo, $2.00.

A book of singular interest, containing the Swedish poet Tegner's famous poem, "Fridthjof's Saga," and also the poems of the two prose sagas upon which that North-ern epic was based. A kind of "Arabian Nights" of the North, intensely interesting.

New Edition. Price Reduced.

Get the Best! Get the Best!

We desire to call the attention of the trade to our line of SCHOOL SPEAKERS, SCHOOL DIALOGUES, and CHOICE READINGS and SELECT RECITATIONS, embracing about thirty different numbers, retailing at Ten Cents each, as being the very best of their class; having been compiled with great care, and containing nearly all the acknowledged masterpieces for reading and speaking in public, together with a great variety of the most approved and effective dialogues; suited to the capacity of pupils of different ages and attainments.

We challenge comparison with any similar line as to variety and excellence of contents, quality of paper, typographical execution, attractiveness of cover, and general appearance, and withal, cheapness of price.

We will furnish attractive show-bills to dealers, to call public attention to their merits; and will also furnish catalogues giving a list of contents of the different books, for distribution among their customers.

We also have an excellent line of SCHOOL SPEAKERS and SCHOOL DIALOGUES, bound in boards; retailing at fifty cents each, to which we invite attention.

HARPER'S READERS.

MESSRS. HARPER & BROTHERS take pleasure in announcing that they are publishing a new series of School Readers. In the preparation of these books every care has been taken to make them of the highest practical value to the schools, and it is believed that they possess qualities and distinctive features which will commend them at once to all progressive teachers and school-officers who examine them.

I. They are Reading-Books.

1. They contain more reading-matter than the corresponding books of any other series. 2. Whatever would detract from their value as practical Reading-Books has been excluded. 3. The lesson pages are free from all extraneous matter that would tend to divert the pupil's attention from the main object in view—learning to read. 4. The reading matter is fresh and entertaining, and has been chosen with reference not only to its adaptability to the purpose intended, but also for its genuine literary value.

II. They are Thoroughly Graded.

1. Only a limited number of new words are introduced with each lesson. 2. The lessons gradually increase in difficulty as the pupils advance in knowledge and the ability to read. 3. There are no gaps between the different numbers requiring to be filled up by "Supplementary" Readers.

III. The Study of Words is a Prominent Feature.

1. Every new word is made the subject of study. 2. Each Reader is supplemented by a Word-Book and a Dictionary, complete so far as the vocabulary of that Reader extends. 3. The use of the dictionary is learned, practically and naturally, in connection with the reading lessons.

IV. Language Lessons Receive Due Attention.

1. Model lessons in language, with brief directions and suggestions to teachers, are presented in such manner as not to detract from the value of the books as reading-books. 2. The instruction in language and composition is centred round the Reading Lessons. 3. The script exercises in the lower numbers are simple, suggestive, and of practical value.

V. The Books are Illustrated.

1. The illustrations are graded and have an educational value distinct from their use as mere pictures. 2. These illustrations are the work of the best artists and engravers in this country, and are superior to any hitherto contained in any school-book.

VI. The Books Possess Many Other Valuable Features.

1. Pieces to be memorized are inserted in each Reader. 2. The clearness of the type and the beauty of the printed page are qualities which will commend themselves to every eye. 3. The books are bound in linen—the neatest and most durable binding for school-books. 4. They are sold at prices which make them the cheapest School Readers in existence.

NOTES IN SEASON.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will soon publish a new edition of "A Modern Mephistopheles," which first appeared in the No Name series. The author's name, Louisa M. Alcott, is now printed on the title-page for the first time. It was one of the famous No Names, the authorship of which was never guessed by any one. The story resembled Hawthorne's style so much that at its publication many attributed it to him. Appended to the volume is another story called "A Whisper in the Dark," a story written many years ago, but which never appeared in book-form.

tion," by W. H. Huston, of Toronto, which contains 400 practical exercises in composition, and is the sixth volume in their library of Teachers' Help Manuals. It will shortly be followed by "Manual of Rhymes, Selections, and Phrases," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Forty Friday Afternoons," by forty prominent masters, each giving what he considered his best exercises for a Friday afternoon; and "Common-Sense Exercises in Geography," a book of exercises—not questions—adapted to all grades and to the best American text-books. They have also just ready "School Music," by W. S. Tilden, of the State Normal School, Framingham, Mass., a series of papers from the American Teacher.

HARPER & BROS. have just ready "The Correspondence of John Lothrop Motley," edited by George William Curtis. Mr. Motley's daughters have collected these letters, chiefly addressed to the writer's family and to Oliver Wendell Holmes. They contain the autobiography of one of the most striking figures in American literary history. The author of "The Rise of the Dutch Republic," "History of the United Netherlands," and "The Life and Death of John of Barneveld" studied the history of liberty in an essentially American spirit. Wendell Phillips was his school chum, Bismarck his fellow-student at Göttingen, and as United States Minister to London, Holland, and Austria he made personal friends of all the literary and political celebrities of his day. Few lives have been so full of incident of universal interest. The work is in two volumes and has a portrait.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

EMIN PASHA, the "mystery" of mid-Africa, and an altogether remarkable character, forms the subject of an entertaining paper by Elbridge S. Brooks in the February Wide Awake.

THE Critic observed the seventieth anniversary of the birth of Mr. Lowell, which occurred on Feb. 22, by printing 70 letters and poems from American and English men and women of letters, among whom are Tennyson, Whittier, Gladstone, Holmes, and Stedman.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE has sold to W. J. Arkell, of Judge, her Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, both English and German, the transfers to be made May 1. Mrs. Leslie will retain and personally direct her other publications. Mr. Arkell says the policy of the Weekly will remain the same—independent in politics—and that the present force will be retained and new skill added.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); O. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 30 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tv. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fc. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Ap Richard, [pseud.] Marriage and divorce: an inquiry into the moral, the practical, the political, and the religious aspects of the question; by Ap Richard; with appendices by Prof. D. Swing and others. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. 15+208 p. D. (The illustrated ser., no. 8.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

This volume, published five years ago in England, is in line with the recent discussion started in the Westminster Review, by Mrs. Mona Caird's paper, "Is marriage a failure?" The author urgently advocates a reform in the laws of English marriage and divorce, showing that they are not truly in accordance with that authority on which they are professedly based, namely, the teaching of scripture. A careful study of the Bible on the subject has proved to him, he says, that neither divorce nor polygamy is forbidden by it, although he does not advocate any general adoption of the latter practice, "especially among Englishmen." The appendix contains an article by J. R. Davidson, "The laws of England and of Scotland as regards marriage and divorce, their assimilation and reform," also a review of this book from the Westminster Review.

Armstrong, W. H. National internal revenue taxation in its relations to temperance and prohibition. N. Y., National Temperance Soc. and Pub. House, 1889. c. 62 p. D. pap., 10 c.

A comprehensive presentation of the subject of internal revenue liquor taxation. It considers the question of the repeal, the importance of continuing the system, discusses its relation to prohibition, shows how it lessens the amount of liquor drank, and gives numerous reasons for the continuance of the system.

Baird, W: Index to the general orders amending duty of the U. S. army regulations; together with index to the circulars, rulings, and decisions of the war department to Jan. 1, '89. Wash., D. C., James J. Chapman, agt., 1889. 104 p. S. flex. cl., $1.

This edition is interleaved, so that future changes can readily be noted. The edition of 1886 and addenda of 1887 have been carefully rearranged, condensed, and corrected. Orders or decisions since 1881, which have subsequently been further and further modified so as to be obsolete, do not appear. Hence extensive subjects, such as ammunition, extra duty, mileage, target practice, uniform, etc., have been much condensed, and present only the rulings now in force.

Balfour, Arthur J. The religion of humanity: an address delivered at the church congress, Manchester, Eng., Oct., 1888. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1889.] 30 p. D. pap., 15 c.

Beet, Jos. Agar. Holiness as understood by the writers of the Bible: a Bible study. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. 70 p. D. cl., 35 c.

A little work designed both for students of the original scriptures and for readers of the English Bible. It was first published in 1880, the author's conception of holiness, which is not conventional, calling forth some criticism.

Brown, Mrs. Helen E. A hungry little lamb. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1889.] c. '88. 336 p. il. S. cl., $1.15.

This is a simplicity simply told. Without any perfunctory preaching in it, it preaches through all its pages by its tender and elevated spirit and by the beautiful exemplifications of the mind of Christ in its incidents. The book is one which will interest quite young children, as it is written in plain and easy words, and its story is natural and true to life.

Brownell, W. C. French traits: an essay in comparative criticism. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. '88, '89. 4+411 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mr. Brownell writes evidently from careful observation here and abroad. In 10 chapters entitled "The social instinct," "Morality," "Intelligence," "Sense and sentiment," "Manners," "Women," "The art instinct," "The provincial spirit," "Democracy," and "New York after Paris"—he compares the French people with a corresponding class in England and America. The book is a testimony to the French character, without being disagreeably critical to the American. He seeks to show however that we might learn something from the ever-present French courtesy and sympathy. The essays were first published in Scribner's Magazine.

Bruce, Philip A. The plantation negro as a freeman; observations on his character, condition, and prospects in Virginia. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 8+262 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 57.) cl., $1.25.

The picture the author paints of the present moral and mental condition of the southern negro is not flattering. His moral degradation is especially dwelt upon, and his general decadence prophesied. He looks upon the fact, that he was made a voter, as a great mistake, which will grow more alarming as the race rapidly increases with time. He does not think that either the education of the church or school greatly improves the race, hence their future seems to him without hope. When a struggle comes for his whole political rights—he thinks it must come—the white race he believes will mercilessly push him to the wall.

Bulwer-Lytton, Sir E. G. E. L. [Lord Lytton.] Rienzi, the last of the tribunes. In 2 pts. Pt. 1. N. Y., G. Munro, [1889.] 215 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1144.) pap., 20 c.

Bunner, H. C. A woman of honor. 5th ed. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889. c. '81, '83. 336 p. S. (Ticknor's pap. ser., no. 52.) pap., 50 c.

Chadwick, J. W. Charles Robert Darwin. Bost., The New Ideal Pub. Co., 1889. c. 51 p. D. (The modern science essayist, v. 1, no. 2.) pap., 10 c.

Davis, Rev. J. A. The flaw in the iron; or, the weak place in the character that failed in temptation. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1889.] c. '88. 384 p. il. S. cl., $1.25.

The only way to be safe in all life's testings is to make the character perfectly honest and good throughout. This story illustrates this vital truth, and also shows well how such character may be formed.

De Mille, Ja. A strange manuscript found in a copper cylinder; il. by Gilbert Gaul. [Anon.] N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. '88. 6+291 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 639.) pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., June 2, '88, [853.]

Deems, C. F., D.D., comp. Sunshine for dark hours: a book for invalids. N. Y., Wilbur B.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

- Ketcham, 1889. c. '88. 96 p. D. pap., net, 25 c.
Brief selections in prose and verse for daily readings.
- Dykes, J. Oswald, D.D. The gospel according to St. Paul: studies in the first eight chapters of his epistle to the Romans. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1888. 6+280 p. D. (Nisbet's theological lib.) cl., $1.75.
This is "neither a commentary nor a treatise in theology. It is neither addressed to scholars nor to divines. Nor does it set forth any novel interpretation of the apostle's teaching." The writer has simply attempted "to restate in plain—that is, not technical—language, the course of the argument and the development of thought through these famous chapters, in such a way as may prove of assistance to readers who possess an intelligent interest in evangelical truth."
- Easter bells. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., [1889.] 30 p. il. sq. D. pap., 75 c.
An Easter souvenir; poems and pictures in monotype.
- Foster, Mrs. J. Ellen. The saloon must go. N. Y., National Temp. Soc. and Pub. House, 1889. c. 36 p. D. pap., 10 c.
An argument against license, and in favor of prohibition by statutory enactment and constitutional amendment, state and national, of the liquor traffic.
- General Christian Conference. Vital questions: the discussions of the General Christian Conference held in Montreal, Canada, Oct. 22 to 25, 1888, under the auspices and direction of the Montreal branch of the Evangelical Alliance. Montreal, W. Drysdale & Co., 1889. 6+293 p. O. cl., $1.25; pap., 75 c.
The topics discussed are: Current unbelief; Capital and labor; National perils; Roman Catholicism in Canada; Romanism in relation to education; Romish dogma a source of religious, social, and national peril; Coöperation in Christian work; The Dominion Evangelical Alliance; The church in its relation to the evangelization of the world.
- Gilchrist, Fredericka Beardsley. The true story of Hamlet and Ophelia. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1889. c. 3+339 p. D. cl., $1.50.
"It is a keen analysis of the characters and situations of the famous play. . . . The book is plainly but forcibly written, without any attempt at a display of subtlety, even when the point of view differs the most from accepted conclusions. Hamlet is regarded as a very young man, and the pathos and beauty of the play are, in the author's view, increased by the fact that he is despoiled in his youth of the hopes and illusions that usually glorify that age. The madness of the prince is held to be feigned, for the purpose of profiting by the license madness takes to mock and abuse its interlocutors. The author's view of the character of Ophelia is novel, and will provoke criticism; but in this, as in other parts of the book, her acuteness and independence are noticeable, and will insure a careful consideration of her work."—Alexander Young, in The Critic. Appended to the work is a reprint of the story on which Shakespeare founded the play, "The history of Hamlet."
- Guernsey, Lucy Ellen. A Lent in earnest; or, sober thoughts for solemn days. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. c. 198 p. D. cl., $1.
Meditations on confession, forgiveness, fasting, our enemies, etc., for each day in Lent. Written for those, "who, by reason of infirmity or other reasons, are shut out from the services of the church at this season."
- *Haskell, T. Hawes. Reports of judgments of Hon. E. Fox, U. S. district judge for Maine dist., 1st circuit. V. 2 [1876-1882.] Portland, Loring, Short & Harmon, 1888. c. '89. 14+16-598 p. O. shp., $6.
- Hayes, H. [pseud.] A daughter of Eve. [Anon.] Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889. c. 6-447 p. D. cl., $1.50.
David Litchfield is old, deaf, and a millionaire. Olive Barrymore gives up the man she loves and marries him, because her mother wants his money to save the family honor. Olive is not without a conscience, and is deeply humiliated at her family's money demands upon the old man, who is a good husband to her. She resigns her right of dower in his estate, and begs him to use his money to carry out his own desires. He dies suddenly, and it is found the bulk of his money is given to a humanitarian scheme, though Olive is abundantly provided for. The man she had once loved returns to her, and tries to sustain her resolution to carry out her husband's wishes. But carried away by the importunities of her impetuous family she at last agrees to break the will. James Merion, her former lover, tries to prevent this, and makes it the test of her love for him. The scene is laid in New York. Olive's family are all cleverly drawn and very real.

Halmburg, W., [pseud. for Bertha Behrens.] Gertrude's marriage; from the German by Mrs. J. W. Davis. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1889. c. tr. 2+307 p. il. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 75 c.

There is scarcely any plot to this novel: it deals entirely with the marriage of a rich young lady to a poor young man. Gertrude, who believes she has been married for herself alone, thinks she discovers, after marriage, some facts which cast doubts upon her husband's professions of disinterested love. She leaves him, only to come back to him penitent on finding she has made a mistake, and after many unnecessary unhappy hours for both of them. Illustrated in photo-gravure from designs by W. de Meza. The paper has wide margins and uncut edges.

Holland, Rev. H. S. On behalf of belief: sermons preached in St. Paul's Cathedral. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. 10+285 p. D. cl., $1.75.

Twelve sermons, "concerning the resurrection, concerning the church, concerning human nature. The reverend author is canon and precentor of St. Paul's, London.

Hollis, E. B. Cecil's knight. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1889.] c. 349 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Louis Thorne is Cecil's knight; and "Cecil" is Miss Cecil Huntington, who figured in "Cecil's summer" and "Cecil's cousins." Her brave teachings first inspired Louis to be a knight. She showed him how even a poor little friendless boy as he was could do knightly deeds of love and kindness to the people of his own little world. The book is strong in aim and moral. Louis' life, though full of poverty and misfortunes, has its bright side at last—his goodness finding its reward.

Holmes, H. E., ed. Miscellaneous readings and recitations: humor, pathos, and eloquence; designed for public and social entertainment and for use in schools and colleges. Phil., The National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 508 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Miss Holmes is a successful teacher of elocution, as well as a popular reader and speaker, and with a full acquaintance with the practical wants of the profession has produced an admirable collection of recitals, embracing all the different qualities of voice, including a large number of impersonations.

*Iowa. Supreme court. Reports of cases. E. C. Ebersole, rep. V. 16, being v. 74 of the series. Columbia, Mo., E. W. Stephens, 1889. c. 859 p. O. shp., $2.50.

*Janvier, T. A. The Mexican guide. New rev. ed. for 1889. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. il. and map, D. cl., net, $2.50.

Kirkland, Miss E. S., comp. What shall we write about? One thousand composition subjects for the use of teachers and pupils. Chic., Fergus Printing Co., 1889. c. '88. 63 p. S. pap., 15 c.

Lee, Mary Catherine. A Quaker girl of Nantucket. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 4+320 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The little "Quaker girl" is a new figure in fiction. Her quaint speech and quaint ways are very charming. Her early life is a picture of Nantucket in days gone by, evidently taken from a real experience. The plot turns upon the identity of two baby boys saved from a wreck. The "Quaker girl" plays a large part in the lives of each. The story is unusually fresh and readable.

Lester, H. F. Hartas Maturin. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1889.] 404 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 2.) pap., 50 c.

Lyall, Edna [pseud. for Ada Ellen Bayly.] We two. In 2 pts. Pt. I. N. Y., G. Munro, 1889.

200 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1160. pap., 20 c.

McCosh, Ja., D.D. First and fundamental truths: being a treatise on metaphysics. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. 9+360 p. D. cl., $2.

This volume embodies the results of Dr. McCosh's teaching at Queen's College, Belfast, Ireland, and Princeton College, N. J., and is considered by him "the cope stone of what he has been able to do in philosophy." He has undertaken to inquire into the nature of first principles, and to classify and arrange them into a science in pursuing which end he has reached a realistic philosophy opposed alike to the skeptical philosophy of Hume and idealistic philosophy of Kant. In this is embraced his conception of metaphysics, which he defines as the science of first and fundamental truths.

McNutt, Cyrus F. Broken lives. Chic., T. S. Denison, [1889.] c. '88. 188 p. D. (Denison's ser., v. 1, no. 11.) pap., 25 c.

Macquoid, Katharine S. Miss Eyon, of Eyon Court. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1889.] 184 p. D. (Lovell's International ser., no. 1.) pap., 30 c.

Matthews, W. B. Matthews' guide for settlers upon the public lands, land attorneys, land agents, clerks of courts, notaries, bankers, brokers, and all persons interested in the public lands of the United States and having business before the District Land Office, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior. Wash., D. C., W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., 1889. c. 234 p. O. hf. shp., $2; pap., $1.50.

Prefaced by a historical map of U. S. showing the thirteen original states, with the territory subsequently acquired giving the dates and sources of acquisition; followed by a complete and exhaustive statistical history of each of the land states and territories; the various state and territorial laws affecting real property after title is acquired from the United States, the various laws of the United States under which title to the public land can be acquired, viz.: The Homestead, Desert Land, Pre-emption, Mining, Townsite, and Timber and Stone acts, with the rulings of the department under each, notes on railroad grants, concluding with the rules of practice before the United States district land offices, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior, with amendments to date.

Messmer, J. J. Red Carl; from the German; by Mary E. Ireland. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1889.] c. tr. '88. 295 p. ll. D. cl., $1.25.

The scenes of this story are laid, for the most part, in a New England manufacturing town; variety is found, however, by the migration of a part of the family to the far west. The chief characters are a German family, the Neumanns, who come to America to better their fortunes. They are finely delineated and are all noble types of men and women. There is a strike, very well described, of which "Red Carl" is the leader, and other dramatic incidents. A good healthy story for young readers. Originally written and published in German under the title Im Strom der Zeit, by Walden & Stowe, Cin.

Middlemass, Jean. The Maddoxes. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. 243 p. D. (Globe lib., no. 89.) pap., 25 c.

Moore, Homer H. Sickness as a profession; how practiced by an expert and why abandoned. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. c. 2-291 p. D. cl., $1.

The moral of this story is pointed against the men and women who imagine themselves ill, and make themselves "the plagues of their neighborhood and a burden to their friends." The chief character is a farmer's wife, who considers herself a hopeless invalid, and has for years been an expense and a trouble to her husband. The husband finally gets desperate, frankly expresses his mind to his wife, quarrels with the doctor, who has been feeding the invalid with bread pills and colored water, and sends both the doctor and the servant girl out of the house. The "sick" woman, thrown on her own resources, comes finally to her senses. The moral is that intense selfishness is the guiding motive of all such characters.

Murray, D. A. and H. A dangerous cat-paw.

N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. 189 p. D. (Globe lib., no. 86.) pap. 25 c.

*New York. Court of appeals. Reports; rev. ed. by Irving Browne and J: T. Cook. Bk. 8, comp. v. 36-40, of the orig. series, viz., Tiffany's reports, v. 9-12; Hand's reports, v. 1. Alb., Weed, Parsons & Co., 1889. c. 30+965 p. O. shp., $5.

Norris, Mary Harriott. A damsel of the eighteenth century; or, Cicely's choice. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. c. 275 p. D. cl., $1.

The one who tells the story is "Miss Cicely Mill-cent Hunter," a fashionable young girl of the period. The author's motives in writing the story were to imitate the colloquial English of the upper classes in London in the latter half of the eighteenth century; to give a faithful picture of the fashions in dress, manners, and social usages of this period; to present, as simply as possible, facts connected with the rise of Methodism, and especially the lives and characters of the Wesleys, socially as well as religiously considered; and to introduce contemporary historical characters.

Our legacy. Bost., American Unitarian Assoc., 1889. c. 65 p. T. pap., 15 c.; cl., 30 c. Little homilies on the Lord's prayer.

Pearse, Mark Guy. Simon Jasper. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, [1889.] 5-251 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Simon Jasper is an old man of seventy; he relates his own story, going back to the day of his birth; the story is told in an English country dialect, and is full of a quaint wisdom. It illustrates a cheerful and thankful spirit, showing how, in spite of a life-long grinding poverty, Simon Jasper found life well worth living.

Pratt, Mara L. Primary writing: an ingenious method of teaching the elements of penmanship to young children. Bost., Eastern Educational Bureau, [1889.] c. '87. 20 p. S. pap., 15 c.

Purves, G. T., D.D. The testimony of Justin Martyr to early Christianity: lectures delivered on the L. P. Stone foundation at Princeton Theological Seminary, in March, 1888. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1889.] c. 9+302 p. O. cl., $1.75.

Dr. Purves is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, Pa. He hopes that his lectures may stimulate more of our Presbyterian ministers to cultivate the field of early patristic literature. He further says, "with the utmost desire to deal fairly with the evidence and to follow the facts, he has obtained, by his excursions into patristic literature, renewed assurance both of the divine origin of Christianity and of the correctness of the orthodox Protestant estimate of the New Testament."

Savonarola, Fra Girolamo. An exposition of the Psalm miserere mei deus, by Fra G. Savonarola, written during the imprisonment which preceded his martyrdom, 1498; from the Latin by Rev. F. C. Cowper. Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., 1889. c. '87. 77 p. S. cl., net, 50 c. An exposition of Psalm LI.

Shinn, G. Wolfe, D.D. King's handbook of notable Episcopal churches in the United States. Bost., Moses King Corporation, 87 Boylston St., 1889. c. 286 p. ll. O. cl., $1.

There are four classes of churches represented in this book: 1, Old colonial buildings erected before the American revolution. 2, Buildings illustrating the period of recuperation and growth in the early part of this century. 3, Parish churches in cities and towns, in many cases with chapels and parish buildings attached. 4, The cathedrals. The handbook is useful in several ways—as illustrating the progress which has been made by the Episcopal Church in this country during the past century; as a book for tourists in the United States wishing to see church buildings, and finally, as a volume rich in suggestion to parishes and individuals contemplating building churches. Each picture is accompanied by an interesting text giving the history of the church and its parish.

Smith, E.: Foreign visitors in England, and what they have thought of us : being some notes on their books and their opinions during the last three centuries. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1889. 17+221 p. S. (Book lovers' lib.) cl., $1.25.

A picture of English life and character, its palaces, sovereigns, drama, sports, literature, etc., drawn from the writings of foreigners. A bibliography of the works from which extracts were made, covers nine pages.

Stapleton, Patience. Kady. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 403 p. D. (The household lib., v. 3, no. 24) cl., $1; pap., 50 cents.

The grandeur of the Rocky Mountains, the low life of Denver and the surrounding cities, with the peculiar characteristics of the people of this region, make a striking background for a striking story. "Kady" was the daughter of Diamond Ab, a former card sharper, and Winona, an Indian squaw; she lived contentedly the primitive life of a mountaineer, until the arrival of Morris Randolph; this seems to be the event of the story, as separations, quarrels, and murders rapidly succeed each other, before peace again descends on the mountains and a pretty love story is finished. Not the least pleasing feature of the book is the humorous side. Mary Jane Pinkham, her mother, and "Louisy" are all real, and their effectual method of guarding their property is worthy of example.

Storey, Moorfield. Politics as a duty and as a career. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. '88. 33 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 53.) pap., 25 c.

Points out briefly the duty of young college men in politics; the influence they may exert for good by an earnest and honest interest in the questions of the day is strongly dwelt upon.

Winchell, Alex. Shall we teach geology? A discussion of the proper place of geology in modern education. Chic., S. C. Griggs & Co., 1889. c. 8+217 p. D. cl., $1.

A contest has long been waged among educators as to which is of greater practical value in education, the classics or the sciences. For many years the friends of the classics had it pretty much their own way, but of late the scientists have been putting in some strong pleas in behalf of their side of the case. The latest of these is by the well-known author and scientist, Dr. Alexander Winchell, of the University of Michigan. Few, if any, American writers are better qualified for discussing this question than Dr. Winchell. While his treatise is a special plea for teaching geology in the public schools, it is intended to cover the whole ground of contest between the sciences and the classics, and hence is of great interest, not only to teachers, but to all who are interested in observing the tendencies of modern education.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 2, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

GERMAN REMEDIES FOR UNDERSELLING.

To those aware of the difficulties in the way of overcoming the evil of underselling it will not be a surprise to learn that the struggle of the association of the book-trade in Germany with this difficulty has not yet resulted in success. Indeed it has suffered within a short time two defeats which may in the end tend to the collapse of the whole movement. Strong as the Börsenverein is, and excellent as its organization may be, in this matter it has left out of its calculations one important factor, namely, human nature. Men in assemblies may be carried away by the eloquence and enthusiasm of others, and be led to indorse measures which on sober second thought they may have cause to ignore or to repudiate entirely. We have known this to happen in our own midst not so many years ago. Then there are others who, with "an eye to the main chance," vote with the crowd, to remain popular, mentally reserving to themselves the privilege of doing as they please after all. Again there is a large body of respectable people who have one law for the Medes and another for the Persians, and who, according to their lights, mean to do right, but—there is always something in the way. One really cannot blame these people. It is human nature, and the pity of it is there is a surplus of it all over the world—too much of it, at any rate, for good fellowship. And so it is that when the smoke of the battle clears away only a small band will be found who have remained true to the colors from beginning to the end.

At the meeting of the Börsenverein at Frankfurt two years ago the Berlin element showed unrest when the measure for restricting discounts came up. The strongest possible arguments were brought to bear, and it finally became a law. Dealers from that time forward were to be allowed to give a discount to the public of only five per cent. for cash sales or for quantities. No discounts were to be allowed on periodicals. In case any firm should break this rule they were to be shut off entirely from all the privileges of the Börsenverein, the Börsenblatt was to be withheld—in short, they were to be excommunicated, boycotted, ruined, if need be. What effect this dire threat had upon the members of the association may be judged from the fact that placards very soon were inserted in the official journal notifying the trade that until further notice the firms mentioned were not to be served by the trade. The contumacious members hailed from every part of Germany—from Berlin, Hamburg, Magdeburg, and, hard to believe, from the very cradle of the movement—Leipzig itself.

Late last year the Berlin trade represented to the local committee of the Börsenverein that for very good and sufficient reasons they were to be accorded the privilege of giving an extra five per cent. to their patrons. After considerable discussion the petition was granted, but on the condition that this privilege should be exercised only within the limits of the city of Berlin. This injunction proved vain. Not long ago a circular, dated Berlin, 1889, was sent to a large number of educational institutions in Leipzig, and presumably in other university towns, calling attention to the fact that as the Berlin book-trade were privileged to give a larger percentage than the book-trade elsewhere it might easily be seen to be to the advantage of the learned fraternity to place their orders for books with the Berlin firms. "Purchases may be made in person or an acquaintance can be entrusted with the orders. The larger the order the greater the saving," continues the circular, "hence clubbing orders would prove desirable and advantageous. Every Berlin bookseller will forward the books bought in his establishment to any given address, and will in most cases pay the carriage." Commentary on this construction of "local" trade is unnecessary.

Of course the Leipzig book-trade were not left very long in ignorance of this move on the part of their Berlin rivals, and at once a resolution was presented to the Börsenverein that Leipzig should enjoy the same advantages that were afforded to the Berlin book-trade. The motion was passed at a meeting of the Association January 21, 105 voting for the measure and 81 against it. The committee of the Börsenverein, in the official announcement of this event, takes comfort in the fact that, unfortunate and unwise as it deems this proceeding, it nevertheless indicates progress, as formerly the discounts were fifteen to twenty per cent. It also announces its intention to rigorously restrict Berlin and Leipzig to their own localities and to afford every protection possible to the trade elsewhere. How far it will be able to do this we are curious to see.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PHILADELPHIA BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATION.

The Philadelphia Book-Trade Association, composed of the leading Philadelphia printers, stationers, paper men, and bookbinders, whose object is to look after Congressional legislation affecting the interests of the trade, held its annual meeting on the 19th inst., F. W. McDowell, one of the managers, presiding.

Among other business it endorsed a series of resolutions presented by the Associated Wholesale Grocers of St. Louis in favor of a National Bankrupt law, which state that "the frauds perpetrated and the unjust preferences made under the State insolvent laws have created a mercantile necessity for the passage of such a law, and that, as commerce is non-sectional, it should be fostered and promoted by a non-sectional law, by which its multifarious transactions may be construed and enforced, and its devotees probated or punished, according to their deserts." It also states that the enactment and enforcement of a national bankrupt law is "the only practical method available to the community of stemming the tide of fraudulent and dishonest repudiation of honest indebtedness which has overwhelmed the country in years past." A national collection law is also urged, which shall guarantee to producers, middlemen, and consumers "fair dealing when prosperous, and a square divide in the event of misfortune." The secretary was instructed to communicate with the members of Congress representing Philadelphia districts and urge their support of such a measure.

Before adjourning the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Thomas Mackellar; Vice-Presidents, H. C. Baird, H. F. Coates; Secretary and Treasurer, A. G. Elliot; Managers, F. W. McDowell, George S. Ferguson, J. R. Jones, E. S. Talmage, Clayton McMichael, W. W. Harding, John Sinclair, George S. Harris, E. P. Restein, R. Hastings, A. J. Holman.

THOMAS KIRK: A PIONEER PUBLISHER AND BOOKSELLER.

THOMAS H. PEASE, of the firm of Thos. H. Pease & Son, New Haven, Ct., contributed on January 31, to the Columbian Weekly Register, of that city, an interesting bibliographical sketch of eleven pamphlets, containing descriptions of the ceremonies in memory of George Washington and the funeral eulogies delivered directly after the death of the great general. In reply to the query, "Who can give the history of Thomas Kirk?" the printer of two of the pamphlets noticed, Mr. C. C. Leigh, of Brooklyn, N. Y., gives the following record of one of the first printers and publishers of this century:

Thomas Kirk, class leader in Sands Street church, and trustee in 1807, pioneer editor, publisher, bookseller, and printer, one of the foremost among the enterprising contributors to the early growth and prosperity of Brooklyn, born in Cork, Ireland, in 1772, became a printer in his youth, was converted and joined the Wesleyans at 17, came to America prior to 1790, established a printing, bookselling, and publishing business in New York; thence came to Brooklyn, where, in 1799, he commenced the publication of the Long Island Advertiser, the second paper established on Long Island. The Long Island was started by him in 1809. Some time after this he sold out his paper and all his publishing interests, confining himself to his job printing office, but subsequently we find him a publisher in New York, conducting the largest establishment of that kind in the city. By this house was issued the first edition of Clarke's Commentary published in this country.

Commercial reverses interfered with his amassing a fortune, as his success in business promised. Having again returned to Brooklyn, he became closely identified with the interest of the growing town, and for some time occupied the position of one of the associate judges of the county. His name is pleasantly connected with the origin of Sunday schools in Brooklyn, the first gatherings having been in a house provided by him. He was the first vice-president of the Apprentices' Library in Brooklyn in 1823 and one of the first officers of the Brooklyn City Bible Society in 1840. He became an official member in the Washington Street M. E. church, subsequently one of the chief founders of the Pacific Street church and its first class leader. On the evening of his death, his class, hearing of his illness, met at his home. There, surrounded by the family and all the members of his class but one, while the pastor and class were bowed in prayer, and at the very hour in which he was accustomed to close his class, he ceased at once to work and live, Thursday evening, October 9, 1851. This noble, honored Christian died at the age of 79.

Mr. Kirk was a man of uncommon culture, serenity, and piety, and was profoundly respected by all. A vast concourse of people attended his funeral, embracing, it is said, all the public functionaries of the city.

OBITUARY.

JOHN CASPAR KOCH.

JOHN CASPAR KOCH, probably the oldest and best-known member of the stationery trade of this country, died at Berlin on February 7. He was born at Oberrad, near Frankfurt on the Main in Germany, in 1817. His father was a cabinet-maker, and though an excellent workman, remained always in most moderate circumstances. He died when his son John was but seven years old, and his wife died eight years after, leaving five children, two sons and three daughters. One of the latter was engaged to be married to a man who had gone to seek his fortune in America. She decided to follow him to Baltimore, and took her young brother John with her. By his brother-in-law's efforts he soon secured a situation in the book-binding of a Mr. Bell. He was apprenticed for six years, but finding that Mrs. Bell required his services as child's nurse as much as her husband did in the shop, he did not stay long but wandered up to Philadelphia and entered the book-binding of Mr. Snyder. In 1837 Mr. Snyder failed and the young apprentice was transferred to the shop of Robert Desilver, where he finished his apprenticeship in 1838. During these years in Philadelphia the young man studied hard and cultivated his mind and manners untiringly. In 1839 he went to France to perfect himself in the art of book finishing. He returned to America and found employment at the Bible House in New York. In 1848 he started in business for himself, but failed in the panic of 1857. Later he started again in Nassau Street, N. Y. City, under the style of John C. Koch, and his excellent goods soon built him up a large business. He was the first manufacturer of music-paper in this country and one of the first to manufacture blank books on a large scale. Two of his sons were taken into the business, and later on two nephews named Horn were also admitted. The business increased steadily and moved from larger to still larger quarters until the building now occupied by Koch Sons & Co. on Pearl Street is probably the finest establishment of its kind in the United States. Several years ago the demands of the business made it necessary for the senior member of the firm to reside permanently in Berlin, where he owned a charming villa in Friedenau, one of the pretty suburbs of that great capital. He was twice married and leaves a large family, to which he was thoroughly devoted. The interment was at Friedenau.

JUSTIN JONES.

JUSTIN JONES, the veteran Boston editor and publisher, died February 23, at Cromwell, Conn., aged seventy-four. He was born in Brunswick, Maine. He was very young when his father died and was obliged to leave school early to become a printer's apprentice. He "set up" several of Longfellow's earlier writings when the poet was professor in Bowdoin College. At seventeen he came to Boston and in time became proprietor of the Boston Pearl and Literary Gazette, a semi-monthly literary paper, which was afterwards transferred to Hartford. In 1836 Mr. Jones went to Cleveland, Ohio, then the far West, and established a book business and later a printing office in which the Cleveland Daily Herald was printed during its early days. After three or four years Mr. Jones drifted back to Boston and became connected as printer, writer, and proprietor with such publications as the Flag of Our Union, The Hesperus, The Yankee Privateer, and The Yankee Blade. His nom de plume, over which he wrote chiefly fiction, was "Harry Hazel." In 1851 he was elected to the State Legislature of Massachusetts and there refused to join in the coalition by which Charles Sumner was elected United States Senator. He was a member of the board of directors for many institutions and was a man of public spirit and earnest patriotism. In 1865 Mr. Jones removed to Brookline, Mass., where he has since lived as a most active citizen. Socially he was delightful and his home life was unusually happy. He leaves a widow, five sons and two daughters. Charles J. Jones of the New York Times is one of these sons.

REV. ALBERT ZABRISKIE GRAY, author of "The Land and the Life, or Sketches and Studies in Palestine," "Mexico as It Is," "Words of the Cross," and "Jesus Only" and other sacred songs, died in Chicago, February 23, aged 49 years.

PHILIP H. WELCH, the author of bright sayings and jokes, who wrote at various times for the Rochester Post-Express, Philadelphia Call, and more recently for the New York Sun, Epoch, Judge, Life, Puck, and other periodicals, died in Brooklyn, February 25. He was born at Angelica, N. Y., in 1849. About a year ago he brought out a volume of bright dialogues, reprinted from the weekly papers, under the title "The Tailor-Made Girl" (Charles Scribner's Sons), exploiting the fashions and foibles of the period. It was clever throughout, and was very favorably received.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—Delbridge & Orr, booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Orr & Glover.

BRONSON, MICH.—We regret to hear that the valuable bookstore of J. Francis Ruggles, the "Bibliopole," was destroyed by fire, on February 20. He writes quite cheerfully, however: "Although my literary accumulations of a lifetime have been swept away, yet I expect to resume business in safer quarters; and, having no liabilities, shall soon be ready to again lay in a new stock, to be purchased for cash, as usual."

MONTAGUE, TEX.—J. F. Clark & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Andrews Mfg Company have removed to 76 Fifth Avenue, near 14th Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—It gives us pleasure to note that Robert H. Dodd has been admitted as a member of the firm of Dodd, Mead & Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—The firm of Liebenroth, Von Auw & Co., having been dissolved by the death of Adolph Liebenroth, the business is now carried on under the same style by a firm composed of Iwan Von Auw, Hermann Schleicher, and Alwin Von Auw.

NEW YORK CITY.—The American Tract Society will open a branch store in New York City, May 1, 1889, with a full assortment of their publications. They will use the premises now occupied by the N. Y. Sunday-School Association 304 Fourth Ave., near 23d St.

PITTSBURG, PA.—J. R. Weldin & Co., 427 and 429 Wood Street, ask that as all their catalogues were destroyed in the wreck, publishers and others will please send them one each of their catalogues.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—On January 24, John W. Roberts & Co. sold their interest in the book, stationery and art departments of their business to Coleman & Gruninger, both of whom have been associated with Roberts & Co. for the past three and four years respectively. Coleman & Gruninger will continue business at the old address, giving their entire attention to and vigorously pushing the departments they have purchased. Messrs. Roberts & Co. will confine themselves hereafter to the sale of Advertising cards and novelties, commercial stationery, and the further increase of their printing department, same address, 10 Post Street.

TOPEKA, KAN.—On February 22, about 6 o'clock in the morning, the George W. Crane Printing House, the largest publishing company in the State, was destroyed by fire. The fire was the most destructive that has ever visited Topeka. It was discovered by the engineer, but by the time the Fire Department arrived the central portion of the building was ablaze from the basement to the third floor. In less than an hour the building was burned to the ground. The burned building, which was owned by Wilson Keith, was erected about a year ago, and was the finest block in the city. The total loss is estimated to be about $400,000.

TRENTON, N. J.—Brearley & Stoll, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Each will continue in business alone.

PARCEL SALE OF NEW BOOKS.—The following circular has been just issued to Publishers, Importers, and Dealers, by Rzeziel & Bernheim, Auctioneers, No. 134 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.:

Spring Season, 1889.—First large combination Parcel Sale of New Books, Stationery, Library and Office Goods, at Auction, by order of Publishers, Manufacturers and Importers, in lots to suit Dealers or Consumers, Monday, March 25, 1889, commencing at 10 o'clock, A.M., precisely, in the second floor of our Salesrooms, upon the following terms and conditions:

1. All Invoices containing printed or written description of each sample lot with Publishers' or Manufacturers' Prices must be in our hands on or before Monday, March 11, 1889.

2. Instructions for selling duplicates with quantities in reserve must be sent to us on or before Monday, March 18, 1889.

3. Our charges for selling are ten (10) per cent. Commission, and two dollars ($2.00) per page of Catalogue and Advertising.

4. Reports of prices will be mailed immediately after the conclusion of sale.

5. Accounts of Sales with proceeds rendered within thirty (30) days after sales.

Liberal Cash Advances made upon receipt of consignments or immediately after conclusion of sales.

Extraordinary advantages! This Sale will be largely advertised in Literary and Book Trade Journals throughout the United States. Catalogues of the sale will be sent to over 2000 Dealers, Collectors, and Libraries. Our system for receiving and executing bids from a distance is thoroughly perfected. Three-fourths of the books sold by us during the past year have gone into the hands of private parties living at a distance, for much better prices than what could be obtained for them in any other market. At our Parcel Sales we give buyers the privilege of purchasing one or more copies, thereby inciting competition between Consumers and Dealers. Publishers will find it much more to their advantage if they will have their contributions sold under their own rather than fictitious names, as the descriptions in the catalogues are then more explanatory to out-of-town buyers. Publishers will find this sale an excellent medium for disposing of small or large lots that they wish to close out. All consignments intrusted to our care will have our best attention.

A MODERN MEPHISTOPHELES.

A Novel. By LOUISA M. ALCOTT. "A Modern Mephistopheles" was originally published anonymously in the "No Name Series," and is now for the first time issued with the acknowledged name of its author and with the addition of a new story (60 pp.), now first published, called

A WHISPER IN THE DARK.

Both together make a volume of 350 pp., 16mo, uniform in size with "Moods" and "Work." $1.50.

II.

ROMANCES OF REAL LIFE.

First and Second Series (sold separately). Selected and annotated by LEIGH HUNT, author of "The Book of the Sonnet," "The Seer," "A Day by the Fire," etc. 2 vols., 16mo, 75 cents each.

There are one hundred "Romances" in these two volumes, all true, and over the greater portion of them hangs the greatest of all interests—domestic interest; and they illustrate how true it is that "Truth is stranger than fiction."

III.

DEIRDRE.

A Romance in Verse. By ROBERT D. JOYCE, author of "Blamid." A new edition of a work which created a sensation in the "No Name Series." 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

"A remarkable poem. The fault of the poem is an excess of its beauties."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

IV.

WILD LIFE IN A SOUTHERN COUNTY.

By RICHARD JEFFERIES, author of "The Gamekeeper at Home," "The Amateur Poacher," "Round About a Great Estate," "The Story of My Heart." With vignette title-page. A new and cheap edition of a work which has been long out of print, but for which the recent death of the author has renewed the demand. 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

Lester Wallack's Reminiscences.

MEMORIES OF FIFTY YEARS

BY LESTER WALLACK.

With an Introduction by Laurence Hutton. With Numerous Portraits, Views, Fac-simile Reproductions, Etc.

LIMITED EDITION, SMALL 4TO, $10.00 NET.

---

This limited edition of Lester Wallack's reminiscences is a beautiful specimen of book-making, the illustrations, in particular, being numerous and of the greatest interest. They include many portraits of theatrical celebrities contemporary with Wallack, views of the various Wallack theatres, a reproduction of a drawing by Harlowe of the comedian's mother, a reproduction of a drawing by Sir John Millais of the elder Wallack in costume, and, among others, several fac-simile reproductions of letters from "Ned" Kean, Stanfield, Douglas Jerrold, Sir David Wilkie, etc. In the reproduction of these letters, etc., the colors of the paper and ink of the originals are imitated. Each of the portraits has a page to itself, the back of the page being left blank.

---

As this edition is limited to 500 copies (a considerable number of which are intended for Great Britain) and a large portion is already taken, early application for copies is strongly advised.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have just ready the first volume of "The Book of Isaiah," by George Adam Smith, in their edition of the valuable Expositor's Bible.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just ready a collection of twenty new sermons by Archdeacon Farrar, which form the third volume in the Contemporary Pulpit Library.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish shortly Marion Crawford's new story, "The Greifenstein;" "Natural Inheritance," by Francis Galton; a second series of Sir John Lubbock's "Pleasures of Life;" and A. R. Wallace's work on Darwinism.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. announce for speedy publication a translation of W. Heimbürg's "Story of a Clergyman's Daughter, or, reminiscences of my old friend," by Miss Jean W. Wylie, whose version of "Her Only Brother" has been received with so much favor.

HARPER & BROS. will publish this month the second volume of W. P. Frith's "Autobiography and Reminiscences," a new and revised edition of the "Manual of Historical Literature," by President C. K. Adams, of Cornell; also, "The Mouse-Trap, and other farces," by W. D. Howells.

F. A. STOKES & BROTHER have in preparation a collection of the smaller pictures from Life, under the title of "Fun from Life;" also, a satire entitled "The Last American," by J. A. Mitchell, of Life, who gives the experiences of a band of Persian explorers who are supposed to visit this country at the end of the twentieth century, when they find the cities in ruins and only one American alive.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. publish shortly the "Life of Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Oxford and Winchester," by his son Reginald, revised with additions; a unique edition of the "Imitation of Christ," "for the first time faithfully rendered in rhythm;" "The Spirit of Christ," by Andrew Murray; "The Counter-Reformation," by Adolphus William Ward; and "Thomas Hard, Priest," a clever skit, by Barton Lee.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation a handsome popular library edition, in four 12mo volumes, of Bourrienne's well-known "Memoirs of Napoleon," a standard work of which many hundreds of imported sets have been sold every year. This new edition will be an exact reprint of the latest English edition, and will contain the thirty-eight portraits of the original together with all the other features that give distinction to the work. The price will be sufficiently low to bring these volumes within reach of all would-be readers.

ROBERTS BROS. have now ready "A Modern Mephistopheles," the novel by Louise M. Alcott, originally published anonymously in the No Name series, to which is added "A Whisper in the Dark," a new story of 60 pages. The volume will be uniform with "Moods" and "Work." They have also just ready "Romances of Real Life," by Leigh Hunt, in two volumes; "Deirdré," a romance in verse, by Robert Dwyer Joyce, author of "Bland," originally issued in No Name series; and a new and cheaper edition of "Wild Life in a Southern County," by Richard Jefferies, author of "The Gamekeeper at Home."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press, as their own commemoration of the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of Washington, a unique limited edition of Irving's "Life of Washington," a work for which Bryant predicted "a deathless renown." The set will be issued in five volumes, handsomely printed in large quarto form, and will contain 200 illustrations, comprising 100 steel plates and 70 wood-cuts printed on India paper and inlaid in the text. The plates include portraits of all the noteworthy generals and statesmen of the American Revolution. But 300 sets will be issued, and the type will be distributed as printed from. The price to subscribers has been fixed at $50.

"The narrative is sprightly and interesting, and contains much new information about a part of the central Asia region which, though plentifully written about, cannot as yet be said to be at all thoroughly known. The volumes are illustrated profusely, and a considerable proportion of the engravings are spirited and carefully executed. An index adds to the permanent value of the book, and it is also furnished with a good route map."—N. Y. Tribune.

Buck, J. D., M.D. A study of man and the way to health. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1889. c. 17+302 p. O. hf. mor., $2.50.

The work opens with a chapter on the nature of evidence, and aims to discover the criterion of truth. Then follow sections on the relations of matter and force, the universal ether, the character of phenomena, polarity, the matter of life, the forms of life, and the functions of organisms; or a brief outline of the principles of biology. An important chapter is devoted to a concise outline of the structure and functions of the human body, from which is deduced the philosophy of physiology, and upon which is laid the foundations of the science of psychology. Then follows a section on consciousness and psychic phenomena in general; a chapter on health and disease; a section on sanity and insanity; and the work closes with a section on the higher self, the archetypal man. The discussion thus proceeds from a physiological basis, by scientific methods, to the highest problems in the life of man.

Burgwyn, Collinson Pierrepont Edwards. The Huguenot lovers: a tale of the Old Dominion.

Richmond, Va., Randolph & English, 1889. c. 5+219 p. D. pap., 50 c.

The story takes its title from the scene where the little love drama is enacted, the Huguenot Springs, a fashionable watering-place in Virginia. The hero is an ex-Confederate officer, and the heroine a young northern girl. The author's sympathies are apparently with the South.

Cobb, Sylvanus, jr. The painter of Parma; or, the magic of a masterpiece: an Italian story. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 4+249 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., v. 1, no. 21.) pap., 50 c.

The scene is laid in Parma; the time is the beginning of the 18th century, when Antonio Farnese held the Duchy of Parma; the history of the Farnese family furnishes material for a very pretty story. Isabel, ward of the Duke of Parma, becomes violently attached to "the painter of Parma," Juan Zanoni; this sets in motion some very exciting scenes, and the interest never flags until Zanoni's identity is proven, and Bojario's villainy is attested. Besides the interest felt in a pretty romance the author has given an additional charm in selecting his characters from the annals of Italian history.

Conklin, G. W., comp. Conklin's handy manual of useful information and world's atlas: a universal hand-book for ready reference. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1889. c. '88, '89. 440 p. map, T. cl., 50 c.; flex. cl., 25 c.

Adapted to the use of the business man, the professional man, the farmer, or the mechanic. In the political information given are the following facts of especial interest at this time: the party that carried each state, and by what majority from the time the state began to vote; the popular and electoral votes for President from Washington to Harrison; the naturalization laws of each of the states; the officers of the United States Government and salaries paid them. Aside from the historical, political, and geographical departments, there is a great deal of miscellaneous information, from "The laws of every state and territory in the Union" to "Correct and certain antidotes in case of poison."

Conklin, Mrs. Nathaniel, [Jennie M. Drinkwater.] Fourfold. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1889. c. 466 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story for young girls. The heroines are "Tanzy" and "Marigold" Henderson, two rich young American girls who have travelled the world over, with their mother and invalid father. When the story opens they are at Daisy Fields, a country place in the United States owned by their father. The story slowly unravels itself here, with the aid of a great deal of dialogue. The girls are discontented with their lives, and have aspirations to something better. Then it is discovered the father is an opium-eater, and has proved unfaithful to a trust. His death, the girl's restitution, and a little love history fill out the volume.

Dannenburg, G.; ["Golo Raimund," pseud.] Sought and found; from the German; by Adelaide S. Buckley. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls, 1888. c. tr. 171 p. D. cl., $1.

The scene is laid in Germany—after the hero has spent fifteen years in America. The night of his coming back to his native land there is a fire in his hotel, and the house and its contents are thrown into great confusion. In reclaiming his baggage he finds a diary among his effects, placed there by accident, which no one claims. Its contents are given in the book. They reveal the heart history and noble character of the writer, who is apparently a young German girl. The hero devotes himself to her discovery, and with much success. The story aims to show of how much greater value is beauty of character than mere physical loveliness.

Daudet, Alphonse. The immortal; or, one of the forty; from the French by A. W. Verrall and Margaret de G. Verrall. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. 307 p. por. and il. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Chiefly a satire upon the Académie Française, though in the form of a novel. Léonard Astier-Réhu is a member of the Académie, and he, his wife and son are the principal characters. The "immortal" is dull and narrow, and has only attained his position through the intrigues of his wife. Of this he is quite unconscious, his thoughts seldom straying from his dusty tomes. The wife, when introduced, is sacrificing happiness and honor for their worthless son, who spends upon his vicious companions the money he wrings from his parents. The book is in its entirety a strong picture of the heartless, unscrupulous life of fashionable Paris.

Duff, Mary Graham, comp. Some noted sculptures and their homes. Bost., Soule Photograph Co., 1889. c. '88. 2 v. 255; 256-441 p. O. cl.

These two volumes are intended to afford an instructive amusement. They are made up of blank leaves and pages of text; the text is taken from well-known authorities, and describes the most noted European sculptures, and the buildings in which they are to be found. The blank pages are for unmounted photographs illustrating the reading-matter. The photographs are sold by the firm selling the volumes.

Dyer, T. F. Thiselton. The folk-lore of plants. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 4+328 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author, who is an eminent English botanist, writes of the fancies and superstitions which have been connected with plants in primitive and savage life, in witchcraft, in demonology, fairy-lore, in medicine, etc. There are also chapters on love-charms, dream-plants, plants and the weather, plants proverb, plants and their ceremonial use, plant names, plant language, sacred plants, mystic plants, etc., etc.

Fix, H. G. Manual of strategy, with maps and plans; from the French by H. Rowan Lemly. Wash., D. C., Ja. J. Chapman, 1889. c. '86. 137 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Treats, clearly and concisely, of the principles of strategy, or the art of war. Many noted battles and campaigns are used to illustrate the principles set forth. The book has been purchased by the War Department for distribution to the army.

Ganguillet, E., and Kutter, W. R. A general formula for the uniform flow of water in rivers and other channels; from the German with numerous additions, including tables, diagrams, and the elements of over 1200 gaugings of rivers, small channels, and pipes, in English measure, by Rudolph Hering and J. C. Trautwine, Jr. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1889. c. tr. 21+240 p. O. cl., $4.

"The first part of the present work is devoted chiefly to historical matter, and to a glance at the status of our knowledge concerning the laws of flowing water. The second part treats of the establishment of the new formula, and shows its close agreement with a large number of experimental results obtained under widely different conditions. In a supplement the authors add a more direct method of deriving their formula 'to satisfy those who prefer mathematical brevity,' and sketch the development of a second general formula, which assumes that the effect of slope upon the coefficient  $c$  is the same in small channels as in large streams, but which they consider inferior to the first one."—Translator's Preface.

Halévy, Ludovic. A love match; tr. by H. de Veer and V. Foster; [also,] King Apepi, by Victor Cherbuliez. N. Y., J. Delany, 816 Broadway, 1889. c. tr. 175 p. D. (Gleanings from foreign authors, no. 1.) pap., 30 c.

The first story is simply a little love tale. The second was noticed in "Weekly Record," P. W., March 27, '80 [428] under the title "A stroke of diplomacy"—as it was published by D. Appleton & Co., though the correct title is Le Roi Apepi.

Hall, Rev. J. A. Glimpses of great fields. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1889.] c. '88. 3-239 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The title of this volume, although suggestive, fails to convey an idea of its character. The German philosopher Schelling once declared his belief that "a thoroughly rational perception of a personal being as the author and ruler of the world would be the ultimate fruit of a thorough and comprehensive speculation." The author indorses this belief, the present volume presenting the train of reasoning by which he has arrived at that conclusion. The work consists of five chapters. The first is devoted to "Force;" the others to "Mind," "Life," "The brain," "The spiritual body," each one a link in the chain of argument.

The story of a young Scotchman, who is haunted by the spirit of a young woman, "French Janet," who meets her death through her infatuation for him. The story takes place a century and a half ago, partly in Paris partly in Scotland. The hero, young Allan Windygates, of noble birth, is sent to Paris by his parents to acquire some additional polish. He has letters to a French Duke, and soon becomes an intimate friend of the family. He falls sick and is tenderly nursed by a cousin of the Duchess, a scheming widow, older than Allan, and not troubled with much conscience. She meets her death in attempting to follow Allan back to Scotland—her spirit making life a burden to him ever afterwards—till his young cousin and promised wife finally lays the spirit at rest, her love and faith winning the victory.

Robinson, Edith. Forced acquaintances. 4th ed. Bost., Ticknor & Co., [1889.] c. '87. 394 p. S. (Ticknor's pap. ser., no. 53.) pap., 50 c.

Roche, J: A. D.D. The life of John Price Durbin, D.D.; with an analysis of his homiletic skill and sacred oratory; with an introduction by Randolph S. Foster, D.D. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. c. 16+369 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

John Price Durbin belongs to the early history of Methodism in Kentucky. He was born, 1800, in that State, and first began work in 1821 as a circuit preacher. He afterwards became widely known for his breadth of views, his eloquence, and his earnestness. He died in 1876. The second part of the work, an "analysis of his power," offers hints and rules as to the use of time and habits of study and methods of preparing sermons which cannot fail to be educating in a high degree to young ministers.

Romanes, G: J: Mental evolution in man: origin of human faculty. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 8+452 p. O. cl., $3.

This is the first instalment of a work to be known under the general title "Mental evolution in man." The investigation is here confined entirely to the "origin of human faculty." Future instalments will deal with the intellect, emotions, volition, morals, and religion. The author aims to prove that the mind of man has been derived from mind as we meet with it in the lower animals. His argument is developed in a number of interesting chapters, such as "Man and brute," "Ideas," "Logic of receipts," "Logic of concepts," "Language," "Tone and gesture," "Articulation," "Relation of tone and gesture to words," "Speech," "Self-consciousness," "The transition in the individual," "Comparative philology," "Roots of language," "The witness of philology," and "The transition in the race."

Spurgeon, C. H. The Lord and the leper, and other sermons preached in 1888. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1889.] 390 p. D. cl., $1.

Opens with Spurgeon, and reaching the people, by Arthur T. Pierson, D. D. Following are 16 sermons by Mr. Spurgeon under these titles: The Lord and the leper; Holding fast the faith; Abram's call; Nathanael; Cured at last; She was not hid; David's spoil; The wedding was furnished with guests; What is the wedding garment; Let him deliver him now; The charge of the angel; Plain directions to those who who would be saved from sin; Peter's restoration; The blood of the lamb; All at it; No compromise; A paradox.

Stockton, Frank R. The great war syndicate. N. Y., P. F. Collier, 104-110 Attorney St., 1889. c. 111 p. il. D. pap., 25 c.

"Mr. Stockton's clever skit—though it deserves a better term than this—deals with a naval war between the States and the mother country. Nothing occurs that is outside of reasonable possibility; and from the first page to the last the air of verisimilitude is skillfully maintained. Finally, the two nations (Great Britain, however, is first completely outwitted by the syndicate which has undertaken the management of the war) agree to a peace and the formation of an offensive and defensive league that shall control the destinies of the civilized world. Every one, but naval men in particular, will enjoy the spirited and humorous account of the adventures of the huge British ironclad Adamant and 'Crab C.'"—London Academy.

Stowell, C. H., M. D. A healthy body: a text-book on anatomy, physiology, hygiene, alcohol, and narcotics; for use in intermediate grades in public and private schools. Chic., J. C. Buckbee & Co., 1889. c. '88. 223 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

The aim of this work is to present physiological laws in such a manner that the pupils in intermediate grades may become familiar with, and know how to care for, the various organs and tissues of the body. Great care has been taken to have every statement in strict accord with the latest scientific researches, while, at the same time, the language is both simple and easily comprehended.

Thorpe, Francis Newton. The government of the people of the United States. Phil., Eldredge & Bro., 1889. c. 308 p. il. and map, D. cl., 90 c.

Divided into four parts, "The foundations of government," "Local government," "The nation," and "State papers." 1 is devoted to the story of political rights in England Colonial America and the Constitution. 2 describes the people and their home affairs. 3 gives accounts of the making of the nation, the people and the land, the powers of Congress, the President, etc., etc. 4 contains the Mayflower compact, the first declaration of rights, the declaration of independence, articles of confederation, the constitution, and the emancipation proclamation.

Todd, C. Burr. The story of Washington, the national capital. N. Y., G. & P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 15+416 p. il. D. (Great cities of the republic.) cl., $1.75.

The narrative begins with an account of the legislative measures which in 1790 secured the present site of Washington as the national capital. The chapters which follow are devoted to the taking possession, the city's sponsors, its early days, its destruction by the British in 1811, its occupation and the retreat of the British, "the battle of the giants" relate to the debates of Webster, Clay, Hayne, John Randolph, and other great orators, the events of the late war which occurred in Washington are the subject of another chapter, and also the "marching home and into history" of our victorious army. The "modern city" forms the second part of the volume, and includes descriptions of the capitol, the executive mansion, the departments, the churches, public schools, public institutions, monuments, newspapers, suburban Washington, and social life 1800-1888.

Wood, H. F. The Englishman of the Rue Cain. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. 2+336 p. S. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels, no. 94.) pap., 25 c.

"In Mr. Wood's story one Allan Garth, heir to a large property in England, having been crossed in love, develops the symptoms of religious fanaticism, and buries himself in Paris, where he performs many acts of benevolence. His friend Herbert, member of the firm of family solicitors, goes to Paris in search of him. Both these men had been in love with the same woman, who had married a third admirer, and who very inopportunistically appears on the scene in Paris. Then there is a murder in the Rue Cain, and the author has a plot to unravel. He does it with a great deal of mystery, employing an English and a French detective, and giving ample evidence of a fervid imagination as well as of a fair acquaintance with French character, manners, and books."—London Athenaeum.

Wray, J. Jackson. Jonas Haggerley. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. 209 p. D. cl., 80 c.

Jonas Haggerley, Esq., of Haggerley Hall, is a wicked old man, who has grown rich through evil deeds. He cheats his brother out of his inheritance, enriches himself by stealing the product of another man's mine, and commits various other unscrupulous acts. His beautiful daughter alone saves him from final exposure. She is loved by a young man who is her cousin, though neither knows of the relationship. Jonas Haggerley's persecution of this young man finally recoils on himself—the young man's love for his daughter alone saving him from paying the full penalty of his crime.

BUSINESS NOTES.

DETROIT, MICH.—John Hanley, bookseller and stationer, has removed to Jackson, Mich.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—George M. White, wholesale dealer in paper-hangings, etc., has sold out.

LA GRANGE, IND.—Dryer & Robe, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

LAREDO, TEX.—McNeil & Page, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

LEWISTON, ILL.—Ed. Hull, bookseller, has sold out.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The firm of R. F. Leask & Co., St. Paul, Minn., assigned some time ago, and the stock has been sold to C. D. Raymer, of Minneapolis, Minn., who has moved the sale to his store in Minneapolis. The stock consisted of some rare and out-of-print books on Minnesota and Northwest history, school and college text-books, MSS., etc.

MOUND CITY, KAN.—W. D. Warden, bookseller, is closing out his business.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—The firm of Garcia & Fanche, stationers and newsdealers, has been dissolved by the death of W. A. Fanche.

N. Y. CITY.—Howard Challen will remove from 150 Nassau Street to No. 10 Spruce Street.

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.—Mr. J. R. Stratton, proprietor of the Peterborough Daily Examiner, as well as of the large and growing book and stationery business which bears his name, has secured a lease of the whole block heretofore occupied by the Peterborough Book-store (late A. L.
Davis & Co.), and has also purchased this business and added it to his own. The whole of this block, three stories in height, and also the second story through of the block next south has been refitted and renewed with the special requirements of the several departments in view, and Mr. J. R.
Stratton finds himself possessor of some of the largest premises, for business within the city of Ontario.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—John M. Philan, bookseller and stationer, has completed his settlements.

SHELL CITY, MO.—M. W. King, bookseller, has sold out.

TOPEKA, KAN.—The book-store of Mr. Mc-
Clintock has been damaged by fire.

YORK, NEB.—C. S. Hesser, bookseller, has sold out.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 9, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

REMEDIES FOR UNDERSELLING.

THE remarks on the German book-trade which we made last week again lead us to point out how futile must be all measures looking to the support of fictitious prices. So long as a trade handles goods on which the manufacturers allow a discount which provides for excessive profit over and above legitimate expenses and reimbursement for doing business, so long will that trade experience the mortification of seeing some take advantage of that fact to regulate the retail price of the goods in question to the disadvantage of those who maintain full prices. That is, if the retail price enables the manufacturer to give his constituents discounts ranging from a third to fifty and ten, those who live in the delusion of getting the full retail price must be prepared to see others, who are satisfied with making from ten to twenty per cent. for themselves, give the rest away. Every wide-awake bookseller in this country has by this time awakened to this fact and acts accordingly.

The only thing lacking now is the determination on the part of the publishers to recognize the evil effects of this system and to take measures individually or concertedly to reduce the retail prices of their publications, and with them the discounts, to a legitimate standard. That, in our opinion, would regulate the matter in a very short time. Nothing else, certainly no violent measures like those inaugurated by our German brethren, will effect this. We admit it is easily assumed that means can be found to force certain people to dispose of their wares at a fixed price. In a very few restricted lines of trade this may be possible, but not generally. A man's right in his property, in this country at least, is undisputed. No one can prevent his giving it away if he be so disposed. But no rational business man will in the long run adopt such a policy. He will not even feel disposed to sell his goods for what he gave for them. His business is to make money—the more the better. He may find it profitable to use at given times certain goods as "leaders;" but, from our knowledge of this mode of doing business, even that is carried on in moderation. In the case of books unfortunately more than in any other line of goods, the crazy discount system has afforded the bazaars a rich run of bait. As has been proven again and again, good books are on the whole not sold much cheaper at these places than they can be bought at bona fide book-stores. But how can the public be made to understand this? They are confronted with the inevitable and undeniable "publishers' prices" and "our prices," and the difference in many cases is, to the uninitiated mind, considerable. A set of books for which the publisher asks $14, to be had at Mr. Moneymaker's establishment for $7. The public at once recognizes the philanthropy of this merchant, and to him they bring their patronage, never stopping to ask their next door bookseller whether he can meet this competition, but taking it for granted that he cannot. How can he, keeping only a bookstore and one ever so much smaller than his more enterprising rival? So they say to themselves.

But, were it universally known that this next-door bookseller can sell almost at Mr. Moneymaker's prices; that the difference would be a mere trifle; that, in fact, it would mean simply a matter of car fare, need it be pointed out where the public would buy its books? At the quiet, orderly, well-appointed intelligently officered bookstore, where not only the literature of the day but of all time could be had, and information as to the kind and quality most to be desired; or in the hurly-burly of the big shop, where every purchaser must know beforehand what he wants or put up with what is handed to him?

And yet the publishers of this country seem to be unable to recognize this, and in many ways play directly into the hands of the bazaars. Not only do they sell them the goods on this fictitious basis, but they go still further and help the bazaars to keep up the delusion by consenting to advertise over their firm names, in the literary mediums issued by the bazaars, the retail prices which are being undersold in these very establishments. It is a humiliating spectacle to read in the reading-matter columns of one of these journals, which lately has been advertised broadcast in all the leading papers in the United States, "our price" for a book as 64 cents, which elsewhere in that issue is advertised by the publisher for $1. Who will blame the public for having lost its faith in the book-stores, and why wonder that the book business is not as prosperous as it might be? We ask a few moments of sober consideration of this matter.

It will be impossible to get united action to begin with a reform like the one hinted at. But enough large houses we think could now be found ready to fall into line to insure the success of such a measure if only some senior will take the initiative. The rest will follow in good time, and the smaller concerns must noles volens.

It is natural, however, that bad methods in business should breed other bad methods, and we do not wonder that a correspondent elsewhere proposes a Retail Booksellers' Syndicate, through which they might bring to bear upon publishers the same pressure which the syndicate of the dry-goods houses is said to do. The above article indicates sufficiently that we do believe in artificial combines as the true remedy for trade evils. On the plan proposed somebody would have to pay the agent for his work, and the payments to him would necessarily be in proportion to the business done, so that we doubt if the retailers concerned would in the long run do any better if as well as under the present system of competition among jobbers. Indeed it is not so important that retailers should have big discounts, which are almost sure, as we have pointed out, to demoralize the selling price of books, but that the prices should be made sufficiently low to permit only small discounts, which the booksellers would actually save as their margin of profit. One of the chief objections of the publishers all along has been that the moment prices were lowered, booksellers would again begin to press for increased discounts. We should deprecate, therefore, very strongly any such combination or syndicate as our friends suggest.

AN IMPORTANT CUSTOMS DECISION.

AN important decision concerning the importation of magazines in sheet or unbound form has just been rendered by the Treasury Department on an appeal made by the Leonard Scott Publication Company of New York. The text of the decision is as follows, and is addressed to the Collector of Customs at New York:

The Department is in receipt of your letter of the 26th ultimo, reporting in the matter of the communication of the Leonard Scott Publication Company of the 6th idem respecting the assessment of duty on their importations of periodicals.

It appears from the statements of the parties and the report of the Appraiser which accompanied your letter that the periodicals referred to are The Nineteenth Century, The Quarterly Review, The Edinburgh Review, The Contemporary Review, The Fortnightly Review, and The Scottish Review, the circulation of which in this country is controlled by the Leonard Scott Publication Company; that in order to secure the prompt delivery of the said periodicals to their subscribers in this country, the printed sheets are imported flat in the condition in which they come direct from the press, without folding or binding, but with the title printed on the first page.

Duty appears to have been assessed on these sheets as printed matter under Department's decision of April 7, 1887 (S. 8165).

The decision cited was not intended to be applied to cases of this character where well-known periodicals bearing evidence of their character as such are imported at or near the date of their issue, and you will please cause the practice at your port to be changed accordingly, and hereafter cause these and all other periodicals, which can be identified as such on examination, to be admitted free of duty when arriving at or near the date of their issuance, whether bound or unbound, or with or without covers.

Respectfully yours,

I. H. MAYNARD,
Assistant Secretary.

EASTER EXHIBITION OF THE MIDDLE GERMAN PAPER UNION OF LEIPSIK.

MR. G. HEDELER, the editor of the Export Journal, of Leipzig, writes to us that the Easter Exhibition of the Middle German Paper Union, which we mentioned in a previous issue, to be held from May 2 to 5, promises to be a great success. Among the novelties to be exhibited are Brehmer's new leather paring machine and Schopper's new instrument for testing the quality of paper. The German Book Trades Museum and the Leipzig Typographical Society will also contribute. Each exhibition will have a representative in attendance, and an Enquiry Office will be opened where visitors will be put on the track of any trade or business information they require. Mr. Hedeler, who is himself a member of the committee, adds that all manufacturers and dealers who have anything to show that is new and interesting to the paper, stationery, printing, and publishing trades will find this an excellent opportunity to place their productions among new clients. The cost of a stand is $1.25. Applications for space should be sent to Otto Winkler, Uferstr. 8, Leipzig, or Paul Hungar, Markt 8, Leipzig.

BALL OF THE EMPLOYÉS OF HARPER & BROS.

THE employés of Harper & Bros. gave their inaugural ball at the Lexington Avenue Opera House, N. Y., on the evening of the 4th inst. The hall was gayly festooned, and about two hundred couples danced and made merry, stopping at one o'clock for supper. After that, festivities were kept up three hours longer, when all went home with the feeling that they had a royal time and that the whole undertaking was a great success. It is intended to make the affair annual. Among the guests present were Mr. J. Henry Harper, of the firm, Messrs. William A. Harper, John Foord, Jasper, Marsh, Rosenquest, Sawyer, and Col. Ammon, of the Harper & Bros. editorial and executive staffs. Delegates were present from the Nonpareil Boat Club, Friendship Boat Club, Harlem Yacht Club, and Typographical Union No. 6. Much of the success of the occasion was due to the officers and the chairmen of the various committees, which consisted of the following gentlemen: Luke T. Donegan, President; James F. Coffey, Vice-President; Frank Miller, Rec. and Cor. Secretary; Joseph A. McGarr, Fin. Secretary; Charles Michel, Treasurer; James Sheridan, Captain; Robert Zimmer, Sergeant-at-Arms; Edward F. Fitzgerald, Floor Manager, assisted by James Sheridan and C. W. Mendenhall and an excellent staff; Everett Glackin, Chairman of the Reception Committee; and J. M. Florsheim, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A SUGGESTION IN TRADE BIBLIOGRAPHY.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Feb. 8, 1889.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: The inconvenience of finding a book in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, by the title alone, independent of author or publisher, has suggested to me the advantage of having the order list with the name of the book leading, instead of the author's name—thus giving three modes of reference instead of two, as follows: The author, as now, leading in the Weekly Record of New Publications, the publisher indicated as in the order list, and the name of the book leading in the order list, instead of the name of the author as it is now arranged. To have the name of the book or publication LEAD in the order list would be a great improvement—but to have the name of publications LEAD in the Weekly, or even monthly, Alphabetical Record of New Publications, would double the popularity of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

S. A. DOANE.

[Our friendly correspondent has apparently overlooked the fact that all books of the month are entered by title as well as by author and by subject in our monthly lists. Books are entered by author in our weekly record, the foundation of our entire bibliographical system, because that is by universal consent the one practical basis of bibliography, and the name of author is put first in entry under publishers in the order list so as to refer the reader more directly to the main entry. If, however, the trade at large would find it more convenient if we put the name of the book before the name of the author in our order list, we shall be perfectly willing to do so.—ED. P. W.]

PROPOSAL FOR A BOOKSELLERS' SYNDICATE.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., February 15, 1889.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: Why cannot the booksellers learn a lesson from the dry-goods book-butchers? They form a syndicate and appoint one man to do the buying for a number of houses. I would suggest to the retail booksellers of the United States that they unite and do all their buying through one man as purchasing agent for "The Retail Booksellers' Syndicate."

If any publisher refused to give said agent his bottom figures, there will be an opportunity for the retailers' syndicate to refuse to handle any more of said publisher's publications.

If the retail dealers will unite in this manner and refuse to handle any publications from any publisher who sells to the dry-goods book-butchers, the publishers will learn that they cannot afford to sell to the dry-goods man and lose the entire trade of the booksellers of the United States.

There is much truth in the old proverb, "In union there is strength," and if the booksellers will unite as suggested they will soon see the beneficial result.

Say a new book is announced for early publication; let the representative of the retail dealers go to the publisher and say, "I purchase for so many booksellers; what is your lowest price to me?"

When he gets the price let him mail to each member of the syndicate a circular letter stating the price of the books and request them to send in their orders at once, and when the orders reach him let him buy and ship to each party.

I know several attempts have been made to unite the booksellers, but each attempt has failed, yet there never has been a time when circumstances make it so imperative and so easy to accomplish a union as the present, if it is brought to the attention of the trade. If they, the booksellers, will reflect but a moment they will readily understand the necessity of uniting and acting as one man, and will at once proceed to take steps to accomplish the required result.

Yours respectfully,

D. P. HENDERSON.

OBITUARY.

MARY L. BOOTH.

MARY LOUISE BOOTH, late editor of Harper's Bazar, and for more than twenty-five years one of the leading literary women of this country, died at her residence in New York on the evening of the 5th inst. Miss Booth was born April 19, 1831, at Yaphank, Long Island. At quite an early age Miss Booth displayed unusual literary tendencies. She read the Bible through at the age of 5, and Racine in the original at 7, at which age she was also studying Latin with her father, William Chatfield, who established the first public school opened in the Eastern District of Brooklyn. She was a thorough enough master of French and German, by the time she was twenty, to begin the translation of works by Mery, Victor Cousin, Marmier, Edmond About, and others. She won quite a reputation for her translations, which up to the outbreak of the Rebellion aggregated over forty volumes. While she was thus occupied she found time to write an original "History of the City of New York." The first edition of this work was published in 1859, by Clark & Meeker, New York. The reception of the book everywhere was cordial. Second and third editions were printed, enlarged, and illustrated. The last edition, brought down to date, was published in 1880 by E. P. Dutton & Co.

The war broke out shortly after the publication of the history, and Miss Booth became an ardent sympathizer with the anti-slavery party, and took an active part in the anti-slavery agitation. She secured an advance copy of Count Agénor de Gasparin's "Uprising of a Great People," and made a translation of it for the Scribners in a week's time. The book made a profound sensation in the North, and won from Charles Sumner the encomium that it was "worth a whole phalanx in the cause of human freedom."

After the war she continued her translations, the most important being six volumes of Henri Martin's "Unabridged History of France."

In 1867 she was called to the editorial chair of Harper's Bazar. She held that position when the first copy was issued, and has held it ever since, seldom leaving her duties except for a brief vacation. She was the most constant and hard working of the many celebrated contributors to that paper to the day of her death.

The following resolutions are a tribute to the memory of the late Mary L. Booth from her Franklin Square associates :

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to take to Himself the soul of our beloved sister, Mary L. Booth :

Resolved, That we, her friends and associates in Franklin Square, desire to express our grief for the loss of one endeared to us by years of pleasant association, the memories of which remain her living monument in our hearts, exalting her to the highest places of noble friendship and true womanhood. To us her loss is a personal bereavement. But in the sudden termination of her work on earth Christian society has suffered a deeper loss. Giving up for herself the delights and duties of domestic life, she devoted her energies to a literary career, which in her youth was of important service to her country, and which in the editorial work of her later years has enriched and blessed thousands of American homes.

Resolved, That we tender to her surviving relatives, and to her adopted sister and household companion, Mrs. Anna M. Wright, our sincere sympathy in their hour of deep affliction.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. AMÉLIE RIVES CHANLER is said to have under way a novel, to be called "The White Slave," a study of child-life in factories and tenements.

MRS. STOWE has been able to revise the biography of herself, written by the Rev. Charles Stowe and Mr. Kirk Munroe. It will be published at an early day by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

MR. ARCHIBALD FORBES, Mr. George Henty, and Mr. Charles Williams, three of the best-known war correspondents, have joined forces in an annual of military stories, to be published in London this spring under the title "Camps and Quarters." The stories are all true, or with truth for their foundation.

BARON GRANCY will shortly issue, in Paris, a volume on American customs. It is to be in the shape of a novel to be entitled "A French Ranch in Dakota," and will treat wholly of Dakota affairs. The author, according to a despatch to the N. Y. World, is the original founder of the Fleur de Lys settlement of French horsebreeders, whose life in Dakota this book is meant to describe.

MARGARET WOODS, the wife of the President of Trinity, Oxford, whose privately printed poems have been so enthusiastically reviewed by Frederic Harrison, and the author of "A Village Tragedy," is a daughter of Dr. Bradley, the Dean of Westminster. "She is small," writes Mr. Smalley to the Tribune, "but distinguished looking, and has æsthetic tastes, which cause her to be much admired and respected at Oxford."

GERTRUDE FRANKLIN ATHERTON, the latest of the sensational school of authoresses, lives modestly in Fifty-ninth Street, New York City, with her maid. She is in the neighborhood of her thirtieth year and is a widow. She is beautiful, with the plump face and slender figure of a school-girl. Having made her own way with two books, having means of her own to live upon, and owing nothing to the machinery by which so many feeble lights gather oil for their wicks, she has not attached herself to any of the so-called literary coteries in town and is not to be seen on exhibition in any of their parlors. She is a descendant of Ben. Franklin, and her first nom de plume was a copy of his signature divided so as to read Frank Lin.—B. B., in the Epoch.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

WILLIAM BLACK has begun in the number of Harper's Bazar issued March 1, a new novelette entitled "A Snow Idyl." The story describes the experience of a party of English people in the Highlands.

THE February Book Lover is filled with original matter relating to Washington, the titles of the leading articles being: "Had Washington a Favorite Author?" "Autograph Letters of Washington: their interest and value," "Engraved Portraits of Washington," "Washington's Library and its Restoration," "The Bible on which Washington took his First Oath of Office," "Touching Memento of Martha Washington," and "The Dead Hero." Most of the articles are illustrated with portraits, book-plates, fac-similes of letters and of signatures, of a page of Irving's ms. of his "Life of Washington" and of the first page of a book once the property of Martha Washington, etc.

TWENTY-FOUR years ago the late Mr. N. Trübner, under the title of the American and Oriental Record, began supplying periodically lists of books published in the East and throughout the American Continent, as well as lists of European works bearing on those countries. The original design of this useful Record is now to be expanded, and literary and scientific articles on subjects within its scope are to be assigned ample space. Dr. Rost, of the India Office, will undertake the editorial management of the Oriental section. In addition to personal notes, obituaries, and literary notes, the publishers intend to cover periodical statements as to the advance made in the various fields of Oriental research, so as to make the Record a depository of information concerning current Eastern literature in all its branches. At first the periodical will appear once in two months, but it is hoped success will necessitate its becoming a monthly.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just issued a new life-size portrait of Dr. Holmes, which is even better than the earlier one.

GEORGE S. BLANCHARD, a well-known book dealer in Cincinnati, died at that city February 21 from the effect of the amputation of one of his arms.

"THE JUDGE" PUBLISHING Co. will publish about the 15th inst. two novels—an authorized edition of "Lady Car, the Sequel of a Life," by Mrs. Oliphant; and "Jack of Hearts," by H. T. Johnson.

WOLCOTT & WEST, Syracuse, N. Y., have just issued a pamphlet by the Right Rev. F. D. Huntington, D.D., Bishop of Central New York, entitled "Gospel and Judgment." They will publish shortly a book entitled "Theories of Knowledge," by Rev. W. D. Wilson, D.D., Professor Emeritus in Cornell University.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just ready in their series of Guides for Science Teaching, "Hints for Teachers of Physiology," by Dr. Henry P. Bowditch, of the Harvard Medical School. It will show how a teacher may supplement his text-book instruction by simple observations and by experiments on living bodies or on organic material.

ACCORDING to a report in a number of Philadelphia journals, "a number of Pennsylvania publishers and editors met at Harrisburg recently and adopted a libel law, which they intend presenting to the Legislature." At the present writing we have been unable to discover who the publishers interested were or what the movement amounts to.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation the letters and diaries of Emin Pasha, which, besides containing matter of interest as biography, relate largely to the author's scientific investigations. The volume has for an introduction a biographical sketch of Emin, with two portraits, one of them recent. They have also in press Bayard Tuckerman's biography of Lafayette, to be issued in two volumes.

WE regret to learn that "Bob" Wright, a well-known clerk at Robert Clarke's book-store, met with a frightful accident while stepping from a train at his home, in Maplewood, a week ago. In some manner Wright slipped, and his left foot got under the wheels. The member was fearfully mangled, and it was found necessary to amputate the limb at the knee in order to save his life. The accident will incapacitate him for duty for several months.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. are about to publish a volume of poems by Col. T. W. Higginson, which will be dedicated to J. R. Lowell, "School-mate and Fellow-Townsmen." The volume is called "The Afternoon Landscape," for the morning of the poet's life is now passed. The poems include the sonnet "Duty" and the lighter stanzas on "A Jar of Rose-Leaves." Among the translations are Sappho's "Ode to Aphrodite" and a dozen sonnets from Petrarch and Camoens.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co., in connection with the announcement of a cheaper cloth and a paper edition of Tolstoj's great work, "Anna Karénina," translated by Nathan Haskell Dole, state that Mr. Dole's translations have been received with great favor by the Tolstoj family. In a recent letter to Mr. Dole, the Countess Tatiana Lyovna Tolstoj says: "My father has read your translations and is much pleased with them. They are to his mind very carefully and accurately done."

A. J. HOLMAN & Co., of Philadelphia, we learn, have received a contract from a number of Indianapolis citizens to get up the finest Bible that can be made for presentation to President Harrison. The book will be an imperial quarto, printed in great primer type on paper of extra fine quality, and bound with heavily padded covers in a rich brown shade of genuine sealskin, ornamented with heavy silver work. A silver plate will bear the inscription: "Presented to General Harrison by the citizens of Indianapolis."

LOCKWOOD & COOMBS have secured the American market for a beautiful 12" edition of Richard de Bury's "Philobiblion." The Latin text has been edited with considerable care and translated by Ernest C. Thomas, who also furnishes most interesting and valuable biographical and bibliographical introductions. The volume is printed from clear type on hand-made paper and has in a frontispiece an engraved copy of De Bury's seal. They have also just ready "By-ways in Bookland," essays on literary subjects, by W. Davenport Adams. They will publish shortly "The Brotherhood of Letters, being chapters on notable meetings of literary men," by J. Rogers Rees.

THE sale of the plates, copyrights, and publishing contracts of Knight, Loomis & Co. took place at Bangs & Co.'s rooms on February 26. The property was offered "in a lump," with the proviso that the bidding was started at $25,000. William M. Scribner, one of the authors of the copy-book series, bid $25,000, and the amount was carried up to $27,500 in advances of $1000 each, and to $39,000 by advances of $500 each. It then rose slowly up to $40,100 in $100 bids, and was finally knocked down to Alexander Agar, of Agar, Hamblin & Co., for that sum. The stock of books already made up and in possession of the receiver will be sold to the purchaser of the plates at cost.

ULRIC BLICKENSDERFER, Chicago, Ill., has just issued "Blackstone's Elements of Law, etc.," with analytical, charts, tables, and legal definitions, arranged and displayed by a systematic and attractive method. Mr. Blickensderfer is an attorney at law and claims that these charts will be found time-saving helps to his colleagues. Sample copies may be had on application. He also has published a chart of the "Historical and Genealogical Descent of the Crown of England," which by an ingenious arrangement of types brings the history of England on one side of a sheet of paper six inches wide and eighteen inches long, which folds up like an ordinary legal document. The succession covers from A.D. 827 to the ascent of Queen Victoria in 1837.

LEE & SHEPARD have in press Samuel Adams Drake's "Decisive Events in American History, Burgoyne's Invasion of 1777, with an outline sketch of the American Invasion of Canada, 1775-6." It will be an admirable historic narrative, intended to be used as a text-book, or as a supplementary reader in schools, as well as for general reading. A valuable book, arranged especially for young people, yet by no means unsuited to any time of life, entitled "Every-day Business: Notes on its Practical Details," by M. S. Emery, will be published soon by this house. It gives careful instruction regarding many matters closely connected with business transactions. The book will be a valuable companion for young people, and its pages will contain instructions on business subjects, being designed for ready reference, and also as a text-book for use in schools.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co., Chicago, will publish shortly "The Dignity of Man," a volume of select sermons preached by the late Bishop Harris, in successive Advent seasons, during the years of his episcopate in the diocese of Michigan. These Advent sermons were the special messages of Bishop Harris to his people about their every-day life, the conditions of which he perfectly understood, and present the mature convictions which his strong, vigorous, and manly mind gathered respecting their spiritual needs and dangers. While they are essentially sermons for the times and also applicable to all Christians, they will appeal with unusual force to all who heard and loved him as their pastor or their bishop. Bishop Potter, of New York, contributes a Memorial Address, and Judge Campbell, of Detroit, an introduction which sketches the life and work of Bishop Harris in Michigan.

THE SPELLBINDERS' SOUVENIR.—In response to many requests for copies of Mr. Depew's address and of other speeches delivered at the "Spellbinders" dinner in New York City on November 14, the organization has decided to publish the entire proceedings in handsome book-form. The volume will contain a full-page portrait of General Harrison, Vice-President-elect Morton; also portraits of the speakers of the evening, Mr. Depew, Warner Miller, Colonel S. V. R. Cruger, ex-Congressman John S. Wise, Colonel Elliott F. Shepard, General George A. Sheridan, William Chassius Goodloe, Robert P. Porter, W. D. Guthrie and Professor J. H. Adams. A special edition of the work will contain a full-page photogravure of Senator Quay. Copies of the book can be seen at the office of C. T. Johnson, Fifth Avenue Hotel, or at No. 1401 Massachusetts Ave., Washington.—N. Y. Tribune.

FREDERICK A. STOKES & BRO. have made ready some Easter souvenirs which show the usual careful taste of the house in this kind of publications. Amongst new editions of many old favorites the new-comers show to advantage. "From Snow to Sunshine," a poem of Alice Wellington Rollins, is illustrated by Susan Barstow Skelding, butterflies serving principally in her decorations; "Heaven and Earth" is a new poem by Edith M. Thomas, written especially for the publishers and illustrated by W. St. John Harper, who also illustrates the hymn "Hark, Hark, My Soul!" In more pretentious gifts there will be "Four Madonnas by Raphael," and "Madonnas by Correggio, Reni Murillo, and Holbein," in photogravure. Each set is enclosed in heavy "seal" paper, bearing raised lettering in silver, and tied with ribbons. Five favorite Easter books, "Bethlehem to Jerusalem," "Easter Flowers," "Easter Bells," "Easter Messenger," and "Heralds of Easter," have been put into a new illuminated binding with decorations by Susie Barstow and Fidelia Bridges.

BELFORD, CLARKE & Co. will publish at once a volume that will interest a large number in the book and stationery trades, as well as those who aspire to take to "the road" for a living, in Charles S. Plummer's "Leaves from a Drummer's Diary." The information it contains is clear, practical, and of obvious importance, touching as it does every fibre of the drummer's duty, whether as to his customers or his employers. This information is from the pen of a commercial traveller who has himself been twenty-five years on the road, and is offered in a very pleasant and attractive manner. The book can be read with profit and pleasure by any person. Other books to be issued shortly are "Janus," a romance built upon a musical theme, by Edward Irenæus Stevenson, author of "The White Cockade," "An American Vendetta," by T. C. Crawford, of the N. Y. World, which describes the atrocious deeds performed by the Hatfield-McCoy fiends in the West Virginian mountains; "Her Strange Fate," a dramatic story by Celia Logan; "A Blue-Grass Thoroughbred," a novel of Kentucky life, by "Tom Johnson"; "His Fatal Success," a novel founded upon the occult, by Malcolm Bell; and "Among the Tramps," a volume of common sense on political economy, religion, and various other subjects, presented in an attractive form by "Uncle Tim." On the 19th inst. they will publish the new story by Edgar Saltus, entitled "A Transaction in Hearts."

AN édition de luxe of F. C. Phillips' "As in a Looking-Glass" will be published in London, with illustrations by Mr. du Maurier.

KERR & RICHARDSON, Glasgow, announce "A Complete Concordance to the Poems and Songs of Robert Burns," compiled and edited by J. B. Reid. The words of the concordance number 9000, and the quotations illustrating their application and employment number 42,000.

THE delay in the publication of Sir Monier Williams' book on Buddhism has been caused by difficulties which have arisen in connection with the illustrations. A certain number of copies will be in Mr. Murray's hands at once. The work will be published in America by Macmillan & Co.

OWING to the recent rapid development of their business, according to the London Academy, Messrs. Griffith, Farran, Okeden & Welsh are obliged to build larger premises. They have secured a prominent site in Charing Cross Road, close to Covent Garden, where building operations will begin at once. They hope that their new premises, which will bear the name of "Newbery House," in memory of the founder of the business, will be ready for their occupation in June or July next. Thus, after 150 years, the old business at the corner of Saint Paul's Churchyard will follow the example of so many others and migrate to the west of London, and another ancient landmark of the city will disappear.

TRÜBNER & Co., London, propose publishing a limited number of volumes per annum, which they believe will appeal to a large class of readers under the general title of The Lotus Series. The publishers aim to keep this a "Pantheon of literature" which shall contain only gems of rarest quality. They limit themselves to no period of literature, no special branch or country. The price is fixed at 3s. 6d. per volume, and from four to six volumes will appear every year. In addition to the ordinary issue, volumes of 4½ × 6½ inches in size, bound in cloth or half parchment, the publishers will print for book-lovers a limited number of large-paper copies on Dutch hand-made paper. The first volume in the series will be "Travels and Surprising Adventures of Baron Munchausen," and the second will take Leland's famous "Hans Breitmann Ballads." The Trübners also announce a volume of poems by Alexander Hay Japp ("H. A. Page"), entitled "The Great Khalif's Confession, and Other Poems," most of which have already appeared in Good Words and other magazines, and are full of broad human interest for children and people of larger growth, and a work by Mr. S. Alexander, Fellow of Lincoln College, Oxford, entitled "Moral Order and Progress: an Analysis of Ethical Conceptions." This latter will be in three books: Book I., Preliminary—dealing with Conduct and Character; Book II., Static-Moral Order; Book III., Dynamical-Moral Growth and Progress. It treats ethics independently of biology; but the result is to confirm the theory of evolution by showing that the characteristic differences of moral action are such as should be expected if that theory were true. In particular, Book III. aims at proving that moral ideals follow in their origin and development the same law as natural species.

PERSONAL NOTES.

CHARLES W. BURROWS, President, and Harris B. Burrows, General Manager of the Burrows Brothers Co., Cleveland, are in the city for a few days, making the Murray Hill Hotel their headquarters.

The Literary News.

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS has become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, began in January and will run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work." Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Stowe are among the first given.

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," enlivens each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specialty intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

Address THE LITERARY NEWS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL ST.),

(P. O. Box 943).

READY MARCH 18.

Annual Catalogues.

1888.

The Annual American Catalogue for 1888 will be ready in a week. It will contain:

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1888.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author-alphabet, of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY 1888.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1888.

The edition is limited, and to secure copies orders should be sent at once. The price is $3.00 sheets, $3.50 half leather; if ordered before publication, the price will be $2.50 in sheets, $3.00 half leather.

The Annual Catalogue for 1886 is now out of print. But few copies of the Annual Catalogue for 1887 are on hand.

The English Catalogue for 1888 is also expected shortly, price $1.50, paper; the Annual American and English Catalogues, 1888, can be had in one volume, half leather, $5 00.

Early orders for both Catalogues are solicited.

 Remember, the price will be raised after the 25th of March.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish immediately a treatise, by the Hon. Seymour Dexter, of Elmira, New York, on "Coöperative Savings and Loan Associations," which will include an examination of Building and Loan Associations, Mutual Savings and Loan Associations, Accumulating Fund Associations, Coöperative Banks, etc. The appendix will contain Laws of New York, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, Forms for Articles of Associations, By-Laws, Account-Books, and other useful information on the subject. The author, who is Judge Probate of Chemung County, has been President of "The Chemung Valley Mutual Association" for fourteen years, and is high authority on the subject of which he treats. They also announce "A Manual of Instruction in the Principles of Prompt Aid to the Injured," designed for military and civil use, by Dr. Alvah H. Doty; and a new book by Mr. O. B. Bunce entitled "The Story of Happinoland and other Legends," which is to be issued in the Gainsborough series. The latter consists of four slight sketches—"The Story of Happinoland" (which, being translated, is Happy-no-land). "A Millionaire's Millions," "The City Beautiful," and "John's Attic," all of which, the latter, however, only slightly, involve questions in social science.

HARPER & BROS. have ready this week a concise instructive work on "Constitutional Government in Spain," by J. L. M. Curry, LL.D., predecessor of Mr. Perry Belmont as Minister of the United States in Spain. It is the result of some years of close study of the subject and of actual observation of Spanish political and social life during the author's official residence in the country. Valuable appendices are added, summarizing the careers of aspirants to the Spanish throne—Fernando, Leopold, Duke of Montpensier, and Amadeo; giving sketches of Christina, Isabel, Alfonso XII., the Infantas, the Queen Regent, and Alfonso XIII.; describing the present condition of Spain in its political, social, and industrial aspects; and lastly, explaining briefly the acquisition of Florida by the United States. They have also just ready "Choice Cookery," by Catherine Owen, author of "Ten Dollars Enough," etc., the object of which is to help those who wish to know at a glance what is newest and best in modern cookery.

THE D. VAN NOSTRAND CO. have just ready a valuable work on "The Telephone," by Wm. Henry Preece and Julius Maier, containing a number of illustrations and plates. The work is devoted entirely to the scientific and practical questions arising from the invention, the authors having ignored all the questions of privacy, legal rights, etc., and confined themselves wholly to the principles and operation of the telephone.

DAVID MCKAY, Philadelphia, will shortly publish a new edition of Joel Cook's "Holiday Tour in Europe," formerly published by Porter & Coates. Several full-page illustrations.

G. W. DILLINGHAM will publish at once a new novel entitled "A Marriage Below Zero," by "Alan Dale," of the New York World.

COMPETITIVE ART PRIZE EXHIBITION.—Messrs. Raphael Tuck & Sons, the fine-art publishers, of Coleman Street, London, announce that they have arranged for an Art Students' and Amateurs' Competitive Prize Exhibition of copies from their studies and other art publications, to be held in January, 1890, at the galleries of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water-Colors, Piccadilly, London. Prizes amounting to 500 guineas and 100 diplomas (awards of merit) will be awarded by the judges—Sir John Millais, R.A., Messrs. Marcus Stone, R.A., G. H. Boughton, A.R.A., and Solomon J. Solomon, R.I. The announcements of rules, etc., may be obtained through Tuck & Sons' New York Agency, 298 Broadway.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tv. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adams, W: Davenport. By-ways in book-land: short essays on literary subjects. N. Y., Lockwood & Coombes, 275 Fifth Ave., 1889. 5+224 p. S. cl., $1.25.

Contents: Paper-knife pleasures; Ruskin as poet; Elections in literature; Familiar verse; Shakespeare's England; Heredity in song; Stings for the stingy; Dialogues of the dead; Sermons in flowers; Don Quixote in England; Beside books; The praise of Thames; Mocking at matrimony; The outsides of books; Non-sense verses; Single-speech Hamiltons.

*Adamson, D: The art of fretsawing and marquetry cutting: a complete guide for amateurs and professionals, containing full and practical instructions for producing and making up marquetry inlays and every description of fretwork. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1889. 160 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Alexander, W: J: An introduction to the poetry of Robert Browning. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889. c. 5+212 p. D. cl., $1.10.

The matter embraced in this work was originally delivered in the form of lectures to a class of advanced students. The writer is strongly averse to that study of literature which consists in reading about books rather than in reading the books themselves. Accordingly the present work consists largely of extracts, accompanied by careful analyses and a copious critical commentary.

Austin, Alfred. Love's widowhood, and other poems. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 6+142 p. D. cl., $2.

Baltzell, Rev. I., and Lorenz, Rev. E. S. Songs of the morning: a choice collection of songs and hymns for the Sunday-school and other social services. Dayton, O., W. J. Shuey, 1889. c. 2+160 p. obl. T. bds. 25 c.

This is an entirely new collection of Sabbath-school music, with new hymns and new arrangement; includes also a large number of standard hymns, making the book a suitable one for all occasions.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. History of the Pacific States of North America. V. 25. Oregon, v. 2, 1848-1888. San Francisco, The History Co., 1888. c. 10+808 p. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus., or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor., or tree cf., $10.

This volume is devoted to an account of the effect of the California gold discovery in Oregon; Lane's administration; the administration of Gaines; discovery of gold in Oregon; Indian affairs; surveys and town-making; land laws and land titles; politics and progress; the Rogue river war; legislation, mining, and settlement; government and general development; further Indian wars; extermination of the Indians; Oregon becomes a state; the Shoshone war; the Modoc war, etc., etc.

Bettamy, G. I. The world's inhabitants; or, mankind, animals and plants; being a popular account of the races and nations of mankind past and present, and the animals and plants inhabiting the great continents and principal islands. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1889. 950 p. il. O. cl., $3.

Braeme, Charlotte M., ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] Diana's discipline. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 254 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1331.) pap., 20 c.

Braeme, Charlotte M., ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] A thorn in her heart. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 247 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1198.) pap., 20 c.

Briggs, M. C., D.D. The Sabbath; what, why, how. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1888. c. 188 p. S. cl., 60 c.

Relates to the meaning of the name Sabbath; the exodus, the new Sabbath; the Sabbath law; a change of Sabbath foretold and foreshadowed; patristic testimony and usage; opinions of wise men; the grounds and claims of a civil Sabbath; prevalent abuses of the Sabbath; right uses of the Sabbath.

Bury, R: de. The philobiblon of Richard de Bury, Bishop of Durham, Treasurer and Chancellor of Edward III.; ed. and tr. by Ernest C. Thomas. N. Y., Lockwood & Coombes, 1889. 84+259 p. il. D. cl., $3.75.

Richard de Bury, Bishop of Durham, was born on the 24th of January, 1287, at Bury St. Edmunds (whence his name) and educated at Oxford. He was tutor to Edward III., by whom he was advanced to the episcopal dignity in 1333; in the following year he was made Lord High Chancellor. This learned and munificent prelate founded a public library at Oxford for the benefit of the students; having furnished it with the best collection of books then in England, he fixed it in the place where Durham (now Trinity) College was subsequently built, and wrote his Philobiblon, a treatise containing rules for the management of the library, how the books were to be preserved, and on what condition lent out to the scholars.

*Dods, Marcus, D.D. An introduction to the New Testament. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1889. 247 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Donnell, E. J. Outlines of a new science. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. '88. 2+68 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 56.) cl., $1.

"The animating spirit of the address is embodied in the sentences: 'It begins to be seen that this (the tariff controversy) is not a mere question of expediency. . . . Ethics are indeed supreme. It is only questions of justice—the right and the wrong—that take a deep hold upon the human heart . . . So long as the public mind is unconscious of the moral aspects of political questions affairs drift as if chaos were come again; and thoughtful observers are driven to despair—to pessimism. It is only when the public conscience is aroused that hope revives and we become at once convinced that there is more than hope for humanity.' The controversy, taken at once upon ground as noble as sure, is clearly and calmly treated, and the little book deserves, in the interests of truth, the widest dissemination."—Providence Sunday Journal.

*Gosse, Edmund. A history of eighteenth century literature, 1660–1780. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 8+415 p. D. cl., $2.25.

Green, T. Marshall. Historic families of Kentucky; with special reference to stocks immediately derived from the valley of Virginia; tracing in detail their various genealogical connections and illustrating from historic sources their influence upon the political and social development of Kentucky and the states of the south and west. 1st ser. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1889. c. 4+304 p. por. O. cl., net, $2.

Greenwell, Dora. Poems by Dora Greenwell, selected, with a biographical introduction by W. Dorling. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. 22+248 p. T. (The Canterbury poets.) cl., 40c.

Hailes, Theodore C. A manual of drawing to accompany Hailes' "Practical drawing series." N. Y., C. E. Merrill & Co., 1889. c. 2+50 p. D. bds., 50 c.

Hardy, Arthur Sherburne. Elements of analytic geometry. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889. c. '88. 13+229 p. O. cl., $1.10.

Designed for the student, not for the teacher. Particular attention has been given to those fundamental conceptions and processes which, in the author's experience, have been found to be sources of difficulty to the student in acquiring a grasp of the subject as a method of research. The limits of the work are fixed by the time usually devoted to analytic geometry in our college courses by those who are not to make a special study in mathematics.

*Hauff, Wilhelm. Das bild des kaisers: novelle; ed. with an introduction, English notes, etc., by K. Bruel. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 27+216 p. S. (Pitt Press ser.) cl., 75 c.

*Hodgkin, T. The dynasty of Theodosius; or, eighty years' struggle with the barbarians: a series of lectures delivered to the Durham Ladies' Educational Assoc. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 13+239 p. D. (Clarendon Press.) cl., $1.50.

Holder, C. F. All about Pasadena and its vicinity; its climate, missions, trails and cañons, fruits, flowers, and game. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889. c. '88. 6+141 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.; pap., 25 c.

Pasadena lies in the valley of San Gabriel, in Los Angeles Co., Southern California. It is a city of fifteen thousand inhabitants, the home of a wealthy and cultivated community, and an ideal health resort. The present volume is intended to give the tourist or general reader information regarding the conditions of life there and to indicate the points of greatest interest.

Houghton, Ross C., D.D. John the Baptist, the forerunner of our Lord; his life and work. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1889. c. 5-372 p. il. and map, D. cl., $1.50.

How to be successful on the road as a commercial traveller: by an old drummer. N. Y., Fowler & Wells Co., 1889. c. '88. 4+84 p. S. pap., 20 c.

A condensation of the experience and observation of an old and successful commercial traveller. Without assumption of that infallibility that gives rules of what to do and what to avoid in all cases, he puts a deal of common sense into his advice, and shows how a good knowledge of human nature is the potent instrumentality in dealing with business men and the road to success. In this connection he naturally dwells upon the influence of personal appearance, dress, language, manners, and tact generally.

For use in schools and colleges. The aim is to present the elements of chemistry logically, as far as possible, so that the student may grasp the fundamental principles of the science, and at the same time learn something of the chemistry of common things. With this aim in view the periodic classification has been adopted.

The hero, a clever London barrister, is tempted to steal some valuable unset diamonds belonging to a Scotch heiress, staying at his aunt's house. He is led into the crime by unfortunate financial difficulties, and by circumstances which make the act comparatively easy, and apparently impossible of detection. From the beginning he is the "cat-paw" of a burglar he has saved from conviction, and who takes advantage of his embarrassments. The story is cleverly told, and has two interesting heroines.

"The size and many obscurities of the Book of Isaiah have limited the common use of it in the English tongue to single, conspicuous passages, the very brilliance of which has cast their context and original circumstance into deeper shade. . . . Patiently to learn how these great prophecies were suggested by, and first met, the actual occasions of human life, is vividly to hear them speaking home to life still. . . . I have, therefore, designed an arrangement which embraces all the prophecies, but treats them in chronological order. I will endeavor to render their contents in terms which appeal to the modern conscience; but, in order to be successful, such an endeavor presupposes the exposition of them in relation to the history which gave them birth. In these volumes, therefore, narrative and historical exposition will take precedence of practical application."

Belongs to the series of volumes on the Old and New Testament begun under the editorial care of Dr. Daniel D. Whedon. The editor's death in a measure interrupted the work. Dr. Newhall's death also left unfinished his portion of the commentary on Genesis and Exodus. His manuscript covered Genesis from chapter v. to xii. and is here published substantially as he left it. Dr. Terry supplies omissions and furnishes an introduction to the Pentateuch.

This volume completes a series of lessons designed to enrich and enliven elementary education by glimpses of the interest and the order of animal life. Beginning with simple facts about the most familiar creatures, the lessons lead young readers on to understand the necessity for classification and the principles on which it is based. In this process a view is given of the animal world such as can hardly fail to have a considerable educational value.

"The writer of this work is thoroughly convinced that the Christian philosophy which recognizes a personal creator and the dualism of matter and spirit is the true interpreter of science, and that all real progress in knowledge is consistent with spiritual and eternal verities. An earlier effort to set this forth, in the volume entitled 'The agreement of science and revelation,' was well received in all evangelical denominations, and it is hoped that the present result of many years of biological study will also be useful."—Preface.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 16, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE AUTOMATIC BOOKSELLER.

THE difficulties of the book trade are at last solved, and to the wonders of the age is to be added an Automatic Bookseller by which books can be distributed throughout the country without the intervention of intelligence or other human aid. The wonderful idea has struck the Berlin Corporation for Automatic Sales, which supplies the German metropolis with the "drop-a-nickel-in-the-slot" apparatus for chocolates, chewing-gum, and other necessities of life. It is announced that this company is about to begin the publication of a 2½ cent (10-pfennig) library adapted to the purposes of the universal provider. The nickel will be dropped in the slot and out will pop a book warranted to contain at least an hour's reading and covering also a sufficient amount of advertising to give the "Aktien-Gesellschaft" that for which the bookseller has so long sighed—"a living profit."

It must be a serious mortification to the great Yankee nation that this useful patent automatic bookseller has been invented in one of the effete despotisms of Europe instead of in the land of the free and the home of the Trust. But the Yankee mind will have full swing in developing the invention to meet the conditions of our own favored land. The German system fails to provide, for instance, for the discount which is necessary to clergymen "and others," but Yankee invention will easily devise an attachment by which when a nickel is dropped in the slot not only will the book appear but one cent change will be dextrously jerked into the pocket of the customer.

In the case of juveniles and poets and other light-weight literature on which 60 per cent. is commonly expected by the bookbuyer, a patent cut-off valve should be devised to project a three-cent piece instead of a penny into the bookbuyer's pocket. The American company which holds the patent rights for this adaptation has been for some time quietly conducting an investigation as to the flavors of book most likely to meet the want of the book-chewing public, and has decided, we understand, to erect an octagonal stand about the size of the new police telephones in the larger cities, giving the several ages, sexes, and sizes of readers a reasonable range of choice. Among the first publications of the American company will be "The Pilgrim's Progress" and, by arrangement with the New York World, "A Servant of Satan;" "Red-Handed Dick, the Boomer of the Highway," a family Shakespeare, a Salvation Army hymnal, and a Webster's pocket dictionary will be among the other offerings to the eager public.

P. S.—Since writing the above, we regret to learn that the whole scheme has been blown into thin air not by dynamite but by the powerful lungs of the American small boy. A New York journal announces that a method has at last been discovered for "beating the machine," in which only a large mouth and a capacious pair of lungs are required. The small boy with the large mouth puts his lips to the slot and blows vigorously. At a certain period of the progressive blowing the pressure is exactly equal to the weight of the ordinary nickel, at which point the machine begins to work. By the continued co-operation of the small boy any number of persons may thus be weighed without the intervention of the nickel. This method can be applied of course not only to the weighing machine but to the various chocolate, chewing-gum, insurance policy and other lines of apparatus, and unfortunately to the new automatic bookseller. We regret that we have been able to make the above interesting announcement only to dash the hopes of our readers in this ruthless and reckless way. But so swift does one invention follow another in these days of world-wide gumption that this improvement on the automatic bookseller had no sooner come than it was doomed. The trade must still wait for the millennium.

AUTHORS' READINGS IN BOSTON.

THE Authors' Readings given in the hall of the Museum at Boston on the afternoon of the 7th inst., in aid of the International Copyright Association, proved a notable entertainment. The audience is spoken of as being one of the most brilliant gatherings of the literati of New England that have met together in many years in Boston. The Museum had been placed at the disposal of the Association, Mr. R. M. Field giving the free use of it for the entertainment. At the front of the stage stood two large vases full of beautiful red and white roses, and at the base of each lay a quantity of laurel. Just back of them stood a black walnut reading desk of the conventional style. The proscenium boxes were occupied by Mrs. James T. Field, Sarah Orne Jewett, Margaret Deland, and Mrs. Agassiz of the committee of authors, and Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton, Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Mrs. Mace A. Oliver, Miss Guiney, Mrs. Clara E. C. Waters, Mrs. Laura E. Richards. It was 3:15 o'clock when the green curtain rose, presenting to view the distinguished readers, officers of the Association, and the gentlemen of the committee of authors. At the centre of the front line was Mrs. Julia Ward Howe; at her left sat Mr. George W. Cable and Mr. Richard Malcolm Johnston, of Baltimore, while a little further on was Dr. O. W. Holmes, Prof. W. W. Goodwin, the chairman of the committee, and Mr. Dana Estes, Secretary of the Association. At the extreme left of the stage, upon a sofa, were Mark Twain and John Boyle O'Reilly, with Mr. C. C. Coffin close at hand. Charles Dudley Warner, with Col. Higginson and President Eliot, of Harvard College, formed a group in the centre of the stage. They were accompanied by Theodore A. Dodge, Collector Saltonstall, Mr. Curtis Guild, Rev. M. J. Savage, Mr. Warren F. Kellogg, Mr. F. J. Stimpson, Mr. M. F. Mansfield, Mr. A. S. Wheeler, Mr. D. P. Opdike, Mr. Frederick Law Olmsted, Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith, Rev. O. B. Frothingham, Mr. Alexander Young, Mr. H. W. Chaplin, Mr. S. J. Elder, Mr. Edward L. Bynner, Mr. T. B. Aldrich, Mr. J. W. Chandler, Mr. Edward Atkinson, Mr. James Parton, Prof. E. S. Morse, Mr. B. H. Ticknor, and President Hartwell, of the Senate. The scene set was that of a drawing-room.

The attention of the audience was first requested by Prof. Goodwin, who, stepping to the reading desk, said: "It is hardly to be supposed that any one has come to this assembly with any real doubts of the justice of our loud demand for international copyright. This demand is stated in such plain and simple terms, and it makes so straight an appeal to every one's sense of common honesty, that it is incredible that its justice should be questioned by any reasonable man, woman, or child. And yet the opposition to this movement, aided by an immense mass of stolid indifference, has prevented any measure for securing the recognition of a foreign author's rights by Congress during the past fifty years. This opposition, however, has little or no reference to our fundamental principle. Some of it comes from a fear that justice to the foreigner may prejudice certain vested rights at home. But still greater and more intelligent opposition to certain measures has been roused against the restrictions and conditions with which it has often been proposed to hamper the act of simple justice for which we ask. Many of these restrictions appear to recognize the author's rights in his work only in case he will recognize a right to interfere with his use of them—in other words, to grant him his rights with the understanding that he has really no right to them.

"But on the main question of giving the foreign author some ownership in the work of his brain there certainly can be no difference of opinion here; and the creed which we profess is extremely brief and simple. In fact, many people are innocently surprised when they learn that the plain proposition in which we state the claim of an author to his own work has actually been set at defiance by the laws of this great country. Some excellent people are grieved, and they tell us that we are not really thieves or pirates. And it must be granted that there is a grain of truth in this. We do not mean to be either thieves or pirates, the only trouble is, that we are apt to be a little confused in our ideas of what makes a thief or a pirate when a foreigner's rights are concerned, and the law refuses to protect him. We may as well admit that we show great respect for many of the rights of foreigners—even of foreign authors—and this removes us very far from barbarians who plunder or devour strangers whenever they can catch them. It must be said to our credit, in the face of all the world, that if Mr. Browning were to land to-morrow in Boston from a British steamer, and should walk up State Street with a new English ulster on, nobody would dream of taking away his ulster, even though it might be a model of comfort and elegance, and a much better one than could be bought here for what he gave for it at home. And if any misguided enthusiast should ever search his pockets for British gold, it is certain that Mr. Browning would be as fully protected by our police and our courts as if he were an American citizen. But if he happened to have in his pocket a new poem worth $10,000, and should innocently undertake to use this as his own property—like his coat or his gold—he would soon find out his fatal mistake. He would find that any publisher who printed his poem would be compelled by our laws to pay the printers, the paper-makers and the binders, and could legally collect all his bills for the sale of the poem; but that the one person connected with this book, to whom he would not be under the slightest obligation to pay a cent, would be Mr. Browning himself. If the poet asked for an explanation, he could have no answer but the simple truth, that he was a foreigner, and that a foreigner's writings are fair plunder by the laws of the United States. That is what he would hear if he were merely told his legal rights. But if Mr. Browning were so fortunate as to fall into the kindly hands of one of our vice-presidents, or into those of any other publisher of the same reputation, while he would be told the same story about his rights (unless shame for his country's honor induced the publisher to suppress the truth), he would also learn that honorable men would scorn to take advantage of his unprotected condition, and that he would be fully paid for his poem, in spite of the law, just as if he had been born an American.

"This moral necessity, which has caused a large and important part of our business men, of their own free will, to assume a heavy pecuniary burden, from which the law of the land especially exempts them, simply because they cannot, as honorable men, allow the unjust laws of the United States to be executed against foreign authors, is a fact of the greatest significance. While the highest honor is due to those who have made this custom the rule and no longer the exception, with honorable publishers both here and in England this state of things is an indignant protest against the iniquity of the present laws, and it calls in thunder tones upon Congress to wipe this stain from our country's honor, and to acknowledge the self-evident truth, that the man or woman who supplies the ideas for a book has as genuine a right of property in it as the one who sets the types or makes the paste-board for the covers."

Prof. Goodwin's address was warmly applauded. He then introduced Oliver Wendell Holmes, who read selections from "The Last Leaf," "Brother Jonathan's Lament," and other pieces in a remarkably clear voice and with delightful expression. He was followed by Mark Twain, whose "Speech on the New England Weather" brought down the house. Charles Dudley Warner extended the laugh by reading "The Yankee Philosopher." Mrs. Julia Ward Howe read "Balaklava," "Our Country," and "Battle Hymn of the Republic;" Richard Malcolm Johnston, "The Engagement of Miss Doolana Lines;" F. Hopkinton Smith, "Behind the Rialto;" John Boyle O'Reilly, "A Few Epigrams," "Ensign Ephs, the Color-Bearer," and "A Wonderful Country, Far Away in Bohemia;" George W. Cable, selections from "Au Large;" and Thomas Wentworth Higginson, "Heirs of Time," "Sixty and Six" (both unpublished).

The exercises were concluded by Mr. Dana Estes, Secretary of the Executive Committee, who said: "On behalf of the Executive Committee I congratulate all present on the result of the reading. I am unable to give an exact statement of the net proceeds, but from present data estimate them to be over $2000. The moral results are incalculable, but judging from the letters received from the officers of the Authors' and Publishers' Leagues, I can with certainty say that all the friends of the reform are greatly encouraged that we, in the teeth of our disappointment from the non-passage of our bill by Congress, have enthusiastically set to work for the future, with the determination to succeed the next time. [Applause.] On behalf of the Executive Committee, I thank you and the committee of authors who have aided in organizing this entertainment, and especially the ladies who have been so efficient on the Sub-committee of Arrangements. The authors who have taken such pains and shown so much interest in the cause cannot be too much appreciated and thanked, especially those who have travelled so far to assist us on this occasion. [Applause.] I wish also to make a public acknowledgment to Mr. Edwin Booth and Mr. Lawrence Barrett for their interest in the matter. It was hoped that the reading might have been organized during their engagement here, and that they might have taken part in it. Mr. Barrett kindly consented to do so, and Mr. Booth, finding himself unable to help us in this way, sent his check for $100 as a contribution to the cause."

"We all regret to-day the absence of one who has taken so prominent a part in the copyright movement as to seem to be a necessary part of it, but I have here a note from Mr. Lowell assuring me that he was prevented from being here by an engagement made previous to the invitation of the committee."

In the evening the gentlemen readers were entertained at supper by the St. Botolph Club.

COPYRIGHT IN CANADA.

A BILL amending the Copyright Law was introduced by Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, in the Canadian Parliament on the 11th inst. and passed its first reading. The bill provides that publication or republication in Canada is compulsory within three months of the first publication elsewhere, unless it is proved to the Minister of Agriculture that satisfactory progress has been made in publishing in Canada, when an extension of time may be granted.

GERMAN BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1888.

THE following table from the Börsenblatt, prepared by the Leipzig firm of J. C. Hinrichs, presents a view of the book production in Germany. It is well to remember, however, that these statistics present not only the output of books in the German Empire, but of Austria and Switzerland as well. In fact, all countries whose publishers are members of the Börsenverein are represented:

A "NEW WRINKLE" IN THE ENGLISH MERCHANDISE MARKS ACT.

THE following extract from The Photographic News (London) may interest the trade:

"We have several times noted the absurd fashion in which the English Custom-House officials interpret the Merchandise Marks Act in relation to photographic goods; a climax of absurdity has, however, been reached in the case of a consignment of Mr. Bellamy's now celebrated work, 'Looking Backward,' which was forwarded from Boston to Mr. Reeves, the well-known bookseller of Fleet Street. Although the book fairly bristled with evidence of its American origin, the price on the front page of the paper cover being stated as 50 cents, the annual subscription to Ticknor's paper series being there given as 12 dols., and the advertisements at the end referring almost exclusively to the United States, the Custom-House authorities actually detained the consignment because 'United States' did not follow the word Boston, and Mr. Reeves could not get possession till he had stamped 'U. S. A.' on the cover in large letters. The theory was that the purchaser might suppose they were printed at Boston in Lincolnshire. If the Americans reciprocate, all London literature that does not bear the words 'London, England,' will be stopped at entry into America, as there is a London (several, we think) in the United States."

The above may serve as a warning to all publishers whose books are likely to be exported in quantities either large or small, bound or unbound.

OBITUARY.

U. P. JAMES.

U. P. JAMES, the well-known publisher, bookseller, and geologist, of 131 West 7th Street, Cincinnati, died February 25, at his residence near Loveland, O. He was born at Goshen, N. Y., December 31, 1811, and was thus in his seventy-eighth year. He went to Cincinnati in 1831. Soon after he arrived there he went into the publishing business with his brother Joseph, and afterwards started in his own name in the publishing and bookselling trade on Pearl Street, where he remained until 1845, when he removed to 167 Walnut Street and entered into partnership with his brother, Joseph A. James, under the firm name of J. A. & U. P. James, as publishers, booksellers, and printers.

In 1853 Joseph A. retired from the business, and since then U. P. James has carried on the publishing and bookselling business in his own name, removing to Race Street as the city grew; but during the past few years the active management has been under the direction of his son, Davis L. James. Honest and upright in all his dealings, and accurate to a cent in every transaction, the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette truly says of him, his reputation was so high that persons doing business with him always considered his statement to be correct, no matter how intricate the account might be.

Mr. James' life was a busy one, but he found time to follow the one recreation that gave him most enjoyment. Geology and palæontology were so attractive to him that he studied and worked and soon began to accumulate specimens that were rare and beautiful, and now his collection is said to be one of the largest and finest in the country, and the books and articles he wrote on those subjects are considered "authorities."

In 1841 he was married to Miss Olivia H. Wood, who survives him, and gathered around her are two stalwart sons and three young lady daughters to comfort and care for her.

With the same modesty and unostentation that characterized his life and the avoidance of all show or parade, he left directions that his funeral should be simple, immediate relatives attending, and no services be held at the house. His last sickness was painless and peaceful, and the end came like the quiet going to sleep of one whose work was well done.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. HENRY W. GRADY, of The Atlanta Constitution, is beginning, says the New York Tribune, what promises, if it is carefully done, to be a valuable work—a history of the Southern portion of the Union. The editor is to be assisted by specialists and the work will be illustrated.

MISS LAURA DAINTRY is known in bookish circles as the author of "Eros," a novel on the Amélie Rives order. She is a most attractive-looking girl of about three-and-twenty, and is the picture of health, being rosy-cheeked and full of vigor and animation. She is an enthusiastic pedestrian, and belongs to a walking club that keeps its members tired. Her father is a junior partner in the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., N. Y.—B. B., in the Epoch.

MR. B. P. SHILLABER, better known as the irrepressible Mrs. Partington, now lives at Chelsea, one of Boston's many suburbs. He is 74 years of age, and crippled with rheumatism. He walks about the house with a cane and goes out of doors only in a carriage. He has not been to Boston for seven years. He began life as a printer, entering the Boston Post in 1838. He once gave two or three years of his life to a lecturing tour, and, though he was successful, he regretted it, feeling himself not cut out for that line of work. He travelled 6000 miles without an accident. Now, as he says, he goes nowhere. "With pen, paper, pipe and pills, I sit here, from year's end to year's end, patient as may be, receive my friends, and wait for the better life."—Commercial Advertiser.

MR. FROUDE has sent to the printers a novel, the scene of which is laid in Ireland in 1798. It is said that while the opening portions are unionist in tone, the later chapters show a change of feeling until the end is reached, which is all that an ardent Home Ruler could desire. In short, it is a map of Mr. Froude's mind during the progress of the Parnell inquiry which has made him a convert to home rule. It is almost forgotten now, says the N. Y. Times, that Mr. Froude wrote two stories 40 years ago called "The Shadow of the Clouds" and "The Nemesis of Faith," the former of which attracted attention, but both have long since been out of print. It is said that the author bought up all the copies he could soon after their publication. The circumstances under which Mr. Froude re-enters the field of fiction will create the liveliest demand for his book.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

MR. GEORGE GATFIELD, of the British Museum, proposes to publish a "Guide to Books Relating to Heraldry and Genealogy." The work will consist of upwards of 13,000 titles, and is intended to supplement such works as Sims' "Manual," and Marshall's "Genealogist's Guide." The price to subscribers will be one guinea.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just published a classified catalogue of their books by Western authors, by which it appears that nearly fifty of the authors whose works are published by their house reside in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, or some other Western State. It is illustrated with portraits of Joseph Kirtland, Bret Harte, and a few illustrations of recent books by the authors represented. (12 p., 16°.)

MAX HARRWITZ, Unter den Linden 68 a, Berlin, has begun the publication of a monthly bulletin entitled Mittheilungen aus dem Antiquariat und Verwandten Gebieten, which aims to become a means of communication between the book collector and the antiquarian bookseller. The first issue contains a scholarly review of the catalogue of Dr. Ledebor's collection sold at Leyden last year. Incidentally this review gives much information of value to bibliographers and bibliophiles.

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—Andrew Baxendie, Edinburgh, (No. 21) Clearance Catalogue. (16 p., 16mo.)—Carswell & Co., 26 Adelaide St., Toronto, a neat catalogue bound in flexible cloth of New Law-Books, Canadian, English, and American, with brief titles, arranged in alphabetical order of subjects, with alphabetical list of authors' names. Carswell & Co.'s own publications cover 29 pages. (132 p., 24°.)—W.

O. Davie & Co., Cincinnati, O., (No. 32) Theological Books. (60 p., 8").—E. Dufosse, 27 Rue Guénégand, Paris, (6th ser., No. 1) Americana, autographs, mss., and historical documents. (56 p., 12").—E. W. Johnson, 1336 Broadway, N. Y., (No. 8) Miscellaneous Books. (12 p., 8").—W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., Washington, D. C., Washington Book Chronicle and Bulletin of Government Publications, vol. 1, No. 1. (8 p., 8").—Jos. McDonough, 744 Broadway, (No. 57) Working library of an American genealogist and antiquarian, also a small select dramatic library, and some miscellaneous books. (34 p., 8").—Methodist Book Concern, 805 Broadway, N. Y., March catalogue of all their publications. (86 p., 8").—David Nutt, London, (No. 9) Standard Books; (No. 10) Select list of Standard Works in all Branches of Philosophy. (8").—W. B. Saunders, Philadelphia, (No. 8) Americana and Miscellaneous. (52 p., 8").—Henry Sotheran & Co., London, Sotheran's Price Current of Literature No. 481. (32 p., 8").—Jos. J. Taylor, Taunton, Mass., (No. 15) Miscellaneous. (6 p., 16").

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE property of the American Magazine, which has suspended publication since last December, has been put into the hands of a receiver.

The Index, published by E. R. Walker, Chicago, is a little four-page monthly paper that will attempt to take "a glance at the leading features of the forthcoming periodicals." We wish it joy.

Once a Week has been enlarged, and includes a greater variety of contents. The most noticeable thing in the current number is the first instalment of a Stockton story called after its heroine, "Ardis Claverden."

MRS. JAMES T. FIELDS will tell, in the April Scribner, of some remarkable literary treasures in her late husband's library—memorials of the Edinburgh circle. Scott, De Quincey, John Wilson, and Dr. John Brown.

The Advance Sheet, published by C. A. Watson, New York, will attempt to give a monthly survey of periodical literature, indexing the contents of the leading periodicals for the next month, with such comments as will make the announcements as attractive as possible.

Wide Awake for March has several features appropriate to the Inauguration month: a charming adventure story, "How Nat Saw the Inauguration," relating to what befel a little fellow who walked into town from Alexandria to see President Cleveland take the oath of office four years ago; a reminiscence of the Harrison campaign of 1840, and a pretty little tale about Mrs. Harrison when she was a school-girl—these last two are in the department of "Men and Things."

THE April number of The Century will be devoted largely to celebrating the Centennial of the Inauguration of Washington in New York, April 30, 1789. The contents of the number will include: "The Inauguration of Washington," by Clarence W. Bowen, illustrated with views of New York in 1789, the reception at Trenton, portraits, etc.; "Washington at Mt. Vernon After the Revolution," by Mrs. Burton N. Harrison, with a number of interesting illustrations, and "Washington in New York in 1789," by the same author; "Original Portraits of Washington," by Charles Henry Hart, and "A Century of Constitutional Interpretation," by Professor John Bach McMaster. Mrs. Harrison's articles are devoted to the social aspect of the subject, and she will describe New York society at the time of the first President. A hundred illustrations will appear in this number of The Century.

A NOVELTY is promised by the Leonard Scott Publication Company in the American edition of the Nineteenth Century for March, in the shape of an American Supplement, containing a series of papers by some of the foremost of our educators on the relation of examinations to education. This subject has attracted considerable attention in England of late, having been started by the "Signed Protest" in the November Nineteenth Century. The present papers, presenting the subject from an American standpoint, will be by Ex-President McCosh of Princeton, Presidents Gilman of Johns Hopkins, Angell of the University of Michigan, Carter of Williams, Pepper of Colby, Magill of Swathmore, Sharpless of Haverford, and Rhoades of Bryn Mawr, Chancellor John Hall and Dr. Howard Crosby of the University of the City of New York, Professor Thompson of the University of Pennsylvania, Harper of Yale, Cook of the University of California, Harris of Concord, David Swing of Chicago, and Rogers of Haverford, Dr. Burnham of Johns Hopkins, and Hamilton W. Mabie and Barr Ferree of New York. The symposium promises to form a most important contribution to the discussion of a very difficult question of educational methods.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ELIOT STOCK, London, has published an edition of Edgar Fawcett's poems, under the title of "Blooms and Brambles."

GRIFFITH, FARRAN & Co., London, will publish shortly a new book by Mrs. Molesworth, entitled "Story of a Pincushion." It will be illustrated. They are preparing a "Mrs. Browning Birthday-Book."

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just published a carefully prepared work on "American Constitutional Law," by J. I. Hare, LL.D., a prominent Pennsylvania jurist, who presents the subject from a strictly legal point of view; and "The English Law Reports for 1888."

GEN. ADAM BADEAU, determined to keep his name before the public, has brought suit for the sum of $22,500 against Charles L. Webster & Co., the publishers of General Grant's memoirs, because of their alleged failure to publish according to contract a book of his own entitled "Grant in Peace."

THE two new volumes of "Letters of Carlyle" which Prof. C. E. Norton has edited are mostly addressed to the various members of Carlyle's family, and afford a tolerably continuous account of his life from his marriage to the period when his fame was about to be established by the publication of his "French Revolution." Messrs. Macmillan are to publish them speedily.—Athenaeum.

TICKNOR & Co. will publish shortly "Dragons' Teeth," translated from the Portuguese of "Eça de Queiros," by Mrs. Mary J. Serrano, a vigorous and interesting novel by one of the foremost novelists of Portugal. In their paper series of novels they will issue "Forced Acquaintance."

by Edith Robinson, and "Under Green Apple Boughs," by Helen Campbell, with eight full-page illustrations by Howard Pyle.

A DINNER was given by the firm of Trübner & Co. to their employees at the Café de Paris, on the evening of February 27, the day of the marriage of Miss Lena Trübner, only daughter of the late N. Trübner, Esq., with Captain Arthur Chrystie, of the 12th Lancers. The chair was taken at about 7 o'clock by Mr. Child, the oldest employee in the firm, supported by Mr. F. Duffing, the chief acting partner. The evening was pleasantly passed by songs and recitations. On behalf of the American trade, we offer our congratulations to the bride and bridegroom.

THE "Complete Poems and Prose of Walt Whitman, 1855 to 1888. Authenticated and Personal Book (handled by W. W.) Portraits from Life. Autograph," has just been published in one royal octavo volume, three-fourths calf, gilt top, edges uncut. Price, $6.00. The edition is limited to 600 numbered copies, 100 of which are reserved by the author; and, as indicated on the title-page above quoted, each copy bears his signature, which is appended to an extract from his poem, "Come, Said my Soul." The book contains upwards of 900 pages, and includes, besides "Leaves of Grass," "Specimen Days and Collect," and "November Boughs," a supplementary chapter, written expressly for this edition and not previously published, from which the following characteristic words are taken: "The book might assume to be consider'd an autochthonic record and expression, freely render'd, of and out of these 30 or 35 years—the soul and evolution of America—and of course, by reflection, not ours only, but more or less of the common people of the world. . . ." The trade will be supplied by David McKay, Philadelphia.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just completed a sensible move in separating their publishing and manufacturing departments from their retail store by removing the former to the fifth floor of the building of which they already occupy the store and basement and the sixth floor. In their new quarters the head of the house, Mr. George Haven Putnam, and Mr. J. Bishop Putnam with Mr. Parks and the rest of his staff of proof-readers and clerks occupy the front of the floor facing Twenty-third Street. A large room is set apart for the working staff, and two to the left are set apart with a window in each room for Messrs. George Haven and J. Bishop Putnam. The offices are neatly fitted up with a view to comfort as well as business. The woodwork is stained a black walnut color and the carpets and wall decorations are all in subdued colors calculated to give the rooms a cheerful look. From the ample window space a fine outlook may be had over a good portion of the city and the Hudson River, though we imagine to such incorrigibly busy workers as the Putnams this feature will have little temptation. This move concentrates their work more effectually than before, bringing the manufacturing department within speaking distance of press-room and bindery, and gives their retail business the whole floor through from street to street. All this, of course, is owing to their steadily growing business, upon which the house is to be congratulated. It is always gratifying to learn that hard work and enterprise do meet with a proper reward, and these qualities have always distinguished the members of this house from the founder to the youngest of his successors.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

A Treatise on Co-operative Savings and Loan Associations.

Including Building and Loan Associations, Mutual Savings and Loan Associations, Accumulating Fund Associations, Co-operative Banks, etc. With Appendix containing Laws of New York, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, Forms for Articles of Associations, By-Laws, Account-Books, etc. By SKYMOUR DEXTER, President of "The Chemung Valley Mutual Association," and Vice-President of "The New York Co-operative Savings and Building Loan Association State League." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Playtime Naturalist.

By Dr. J. E. TAYLOR, F.L.S., Editor of "Science Gossip." With 366 illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"As the writer," says the author in his preface, "was once a boy himself, and vividly remembers the never-to-be-forgotten rambles and observations of the objects in the country, and, moreover, as he treasures up such reminiscences as the most pleasant and innocent of an active man's life, he thought he could not do better than enlist this younger generation in the same loves and the same pleasures."

"The work contains abundant evidence of the author's knowledge and enthusiasm. . . . The style is clear and lively, and there are many good illustrations."—Nature.

THROUGH THE HEART OF ASIA OVER THE PAMIR TO INDIA.

By GABRIEL BONVALOT. With 350 illustrations (many full-page engravings) by Albert Pepin. Translated from the French by C. B. Pitman. 2 vols., imperial 8vo, cloth, $10.50.

The London Spectator says: "The volumes, written throughout with French brightness, ARE A VALUABLE CONTRIBUTION TO OUR KNOWLEDGE OF CENTRAL ASIA."

"The narrative is sprightly and interesting, and contains much new information about a part of the central Asian region which, though plentifully written about, cannot as yet be said to be at all thoroughly known. The volumes are illustrated profusely, and a considerable proportion of the engravings are spirited and carefully executed. An index adds to the permanent value of the book, and it is also furnished with a good route map."—N. Y. Tribune.

THE INDUSTRIES OF JAPAN. Together with an Account of its Agriculture, Mining, Forestry, Arts, and Commerce. From Travels and Researches Undertaken at the Cost of the Prussian Government. By Prof. J. J. RAIN, University of Bonn. Illustrated by engravings, lithographs, and native fabrics, many full-page engravings, some beautifully colored, and three maps. Royal 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $10.00.

"There is a great deal, a vast deal of information packed into its pages, . . . with colored and uncolored photographs, woodcuts, maps, tables of statistics, everything of the kind that makes the 'average reader' grit his teeth, are paraded with the simple air of the German professor. . . . If the author has not produced a work which will lie on the parlor table—HE CAN BE CERTAIN OF A PLACE IN EVERY LIBRARY well stocked with works on the East, where it will be a capital work of reference, without having the dryness ordinarily meant by that term."—N. Y. Times.

SECOND EDITION BY SAME AUTHOR.

JAPAN: Travels and Researches Undertaken at the Cost of the German Government. With illustrations (many full-page), and two maps. Royal 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $7.50.

N. Y. Nation says: "We know of no other book in the Japanese Library containing so rich and orderly an arrangement of data, valuable alike to the man of science and the general student."

NEW VOLUME OF THE BOOK-LOVERS' LIBRARY.

FOREIGN VISITORS IN ENGLAND, AND WHAT THEY HAVE

THOUGHT OF US. Some Notes on their Books and Opinions during the last Three Centuries. By EDWARD SMITH. 12mo, antique paper, uncut edges, cloth, $1.25. Being the 9th vol. of this Library, including: I. "How to Form a Library;" II. "Old Cookery Books;" III. "Modern Methods of Illustrating Books;" IV. "Dedication of Books;" V. "Gleanings in Old Garden Literature;" VI. "Story of Some Famous Books;" VII. "Enemies of Books;" VIII. "Book of Noddies." Each vol. $1.25. Sold separately or in sets.

THE SECOND SERIES OF SIX VOLUMES OF

THE EXPOSITOR'S BIBLE. Edited by W. R. NICOL, Editor of The London Expositor.

$1.50 per vol. Three vols. now ready, viz.: "BOOK OF ISAIAH, VOL. I., by Rev. G. A. Smith. EPISTLE TO GALATIANS, by Rev. G. G. Findlay. THE PASTORAL EPISTLES, by Rev. Dr. A. A. Plummer. Nearly ready: EPISTLES OF ST. JOHN, by Bishop W. Alexander. FIRST EPISTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS, by Rev. Marcus Dods, D.D. BOOK OF REVELATION, by Prof. Wm. Milligan. Each volume complete in itself.

This series consists of EXPOSITORY LECTURES on the BIBLE by the foremost preachers and theologians of the day. While having regard to the latest results of scholarship, the volumes are essentially popular and ADAPTED TO GENERAL READERS quite as much as the clergy.

THE NEW (2d) VOLUME OF THE

SERMON BIBLE, containing Kings to Psalm LXXVI.; also a new edition of the 1st volume, containing Genesis to Samuel inclusive. Each volume containing upwards of 600 sermon outlines and several thousand references. Strongly bound, buckram back. Crown 8vo, 550 pages, with 24 blank pages additional for notes, cloth, $1.50 per vol.

THIS SERIES OF VOLUMES gives in convenient form the essence of the best homiletic literature of this generation. It takes account of the best and greatest preachers, and is compiled from manuscript reports and fugitive periodical sources as well as from books.

THE BEGINNINGS OF ETHICS. By Rev. CARROLL CUTLER, D.D., formerly President of Western Reserve College, Ohio. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.25, net.

The subject is handled throughout in its concrete and real nature. Facts and theories are stated in a straightforward and practical way. There is no special criticism of other views except in the chapters on "The Conscience and The Will." The style is plain and clear, and the subject-matter is everywhere fresh and interesting.

LECTURES ON THE HISTORY OF PREACHING.

By the late Rev. JOHN KERR, D.D. Edited by Rev. A. R. Macewen, Balliol B.D., Glasgow. With Introduction by the Rev. Wm. M. Taylor, D.D., LL.D. 1 vol., crown 8vo, $1.50.

DR. TAYLOR'S introduction says: "The author of these lectures stood in the very front rank of the preachers both of his country and his age. . . . For thoughtful preachers, this volume would prove more helpful than most helps for the pulpit. To the careful study of all such, we heartily commend the work."

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS:

"We have laughed with him at our neighbors, and now, if we are clever, we will laugh with him at ourselves."—Daily Graphic, N. Y.

"One reads the book with a perpetual smile on one's face, punctuated every now and then by a loud laugh, as one follows the brilliant Frenchman through his six months' tour of America. . . . He has glanced at things with the eye of a trained observer and commented upon them with originality and humor. . . . One lays down the book with a wish that one might know its author."—Chicago News.

Centennial Anniversary

Washington's Inauguration.

Square 8vo, stiff paper covers, 25 cents.

In view of the celebration of the Centennial of Washington's acceptance of the Presidency, to be universally commemorated on April 30 next, Messrs. White and Allen are preparing for issue, about April 6, an historical souvenir by Mrs. Martha J. Lamb, Editor of the Magazine of American History.

Mrs. Lamb ("America's leading historian") has carefully prepared this brochure, giving a vivid picture of Washington's Inauguration, a sketchy description of prominent incidents occurring during his occupancy of the chair, together with glimpses of Historic Homes and Landmarks now extant.

These articles will be issued by the Publishers in a style befitting the occasion, and will contain a series of illustrations consisting of upwards of forty reproductions of portraits, buildings, landmarks, etc., of the olden times, together with an official programme of exercises, etc., to take place throughout our country.

Bunce, Oliver Bell. The story of Happinolande, and other legends. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. c. 188 p. D. (The Gainsborough ser.), pap., 25 c.

"The story of Happinolande" pointedly illustrates the misfortune it would be to mankind generally if it were possible to equally distribute this world's goods. Happinolande had been a happy, contented valley till gold was discovered in the mountain-side. The find is so vast that the Council of the city decides to distribute it equally among the people without regard to sex or age. The result is most disastrous. With so much wealth, no one is willing to work, and a condition of affairs is brought about which is so demoralizing that all rejoice when a great flood washes the treasure-house away. "A millionaire's millions" shows that giving is not a remedy for poverty. "The city Beautiful" is a little allegory directed against the many imperfections of New York City. In "John's attic" young married people will find a lesson in economy, full of common-sense and practical suggestions.

Opening in Russia, the scene is rapidly transferred to Vienna, and thence to England. The motive is the hunting down of an English lord by his wife, "Bella-Demonia," to avenge a wrong. The Englishman, to satisfy a fancied insult, denounces a Russian prince as a Nihilist. The result is the death of the prince and of his wife and child. The story is most sensational, being unusually rich in crimes, intrigues, and unscrupulous men and women.

Doty, Alvah H., M.D. A manual of instruction in the principles of prompt aid to the injured; designed for military and civil use. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. c. 11+224 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The object of this manual is to instruct those who are desirous of knowing what course to pursue in emergencies, in order that sick or injured may be temporarily relieved. Special effort has been made to so arrange the matter and introduce such points as will be of use to the ambulance corps connected with the different military organizations. Considerable space has been devoted to anatomy and physiology, in order that the subject may be well understood by non-medical persons. Each topic is explained in a plain and simple manner, and when medical terms are used their lay synonyms are also given. The numerous illustrations aid materially in making the work more intelligible.

Saltus, Edgar. A transaction in hearts: an episode. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. 188 p. D. (The household lib. v. 4, no. 18.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Christopher Gonfalon is the rector of a New York Episcopal church. The story turns upon his base love for his wife's young sister, who lives under his roof, and for whom he is guardian. He schemes in every way to possess the young girl, who finally escapes him by marrying a wealthy young "snob," whom she despises, but who has saved her father's name from ignominy at the sacrifice of ten thousand dollars.

Sergeant, Adeline. Esther Denison: a novel. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1889. 4+521 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 224.) cl., $1; pap., 30 c. In "Esther Denison" we have a strong character study.

Esther is the daughter of a dissenting minister, who loses his pulpit because he cannot any longer preach conscientiously of eternal punishment for the wicked. He dies in great poverty, leaving his wife and little Esther to the cold mercy of the world. Esther is cared for and educated by a wealthy friend, who had long admired Mr. Denison's independent spirit, but never suspected his poverty. She becomes a governess in her benefactor's family, and learns to love his young nephew, Sebastian. The tragedy of this love, which is altogether out of the conventional line of novel-writing, is the heart of the book. Throughout Esther's character gains in strength and nobility through her sufferings.

Sergeant, Adeline. Under false pretences: a novel. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., 1889. 429 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 6.) pap., 50 c.

Sims, G. R. A missing husband and other tales. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, 1889. 162 p. D. (The red cover ser., no. 35.) pap., 25 c.

*Spurgeon, C. H. Twelve sermons on the resurrection, delivered at the Metropolitan Tabernacle. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell, 1889. 144 p. O. cl., 50 c.

Vincent, Jacques. Vaillante, ce que femme veut. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, 1889. 227 p. D. (Romans choisis, no. 12.) pap., 60 c.

This work has not only been crowned by the French Academy, but awarded the Montyon prize—for virtue. The heroine is a young girl, a donkey driver, who saves the life of another child from drowning, and in a transport of gratitude the impulsive mother adopts her. She proves worthy of the attention given to her, but as she develops into a strong, intelligent, beautiful maidenhood, envy and jealousy creep into the family relations, even to the point of estrangement, but when the benefactor's family is ruined by an earthquake and the death of her adopted father, she it is who valiantly undertakes to support the family, whose members, used to a life of luxury and indolence, lack energy and spirit to meet their misfortunes.

Warden, Florence. [pseud. for Florence Alice Price, now Mrs. G. E. James.] St. Cuthbert's tower. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1889.] 210 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 9.) pap., 30 c.

Wood's medical and surgical monographs; consisting of original treatises and of complete reproductions, in English, of books and monographs selected from the latest literature of foreign countries. V. 1, no. 3. N. Y., W: Wood & Co., 1889. 2+525-773 p. O. flex. cl., subs., $1; or for 12 nos., $10.

(See "Description.")

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 30, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE AMERICAN BOOK MARKET.

UNDERLYING all questions of the book trade in America is one great fact, that there are here over 60,000,000 of people, speaking one language, the most of them able to read, and on the average more able to buy books than the people of any other country. The trade in reading must be, and is, enormous. The newspaper press, the magazines and like periodicals, the lending libraries, public or other, and the book trade conjointly supply the literary food for these millions of consumers. The newspapers grow bigger and bigger, until their Sunday issues supply for three or four cents more than a day's reading, and they boast larger and larger circulations. For the time being, in the large cities, they monopolize a great part of the reading time of the week, and lessen in this manner the time available for books. "If you read this," says Ruskin, "you cannot read that." The quality varies from sensational stuff to the excellent literary matter of the syndicates, and while these dailies do a great deal of demoralization at the moment, they are developing the reading habit continuously. The magazines of the literary class have in some instances what are called enormous circulations, though all told they do not add up to a million copies. They are of the highest type and, we believe, directly encourage book-reading, although they also take time. The middle-class periodical press, such as the Youth's Companion, the Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia, Once a Week, the New York Ledger and its rivals, find a very much wider field in reaching the "un-literary class." The public libraries throughout the country of course supply reading in a great many centres, but the number is not so large proportionately as might be thought. The Government Report issued in 1887 registered 5338, with 20,622,076 volumes, and allowing for additions since, the present number of libraries would scarcely exceed 6000, or their books 24,000,000, not one-half book per head of population. Deducting all these sources of supply, remembering that in the thirty years since 1859 our population has more than doubled and that the proportion of illiteracy has much decreased, there ought to be a great market still left for the sale of books.

There is a great market, but it is not what it should be. What is more, it is not as high class in America as was the book market of a generation ago. Just before the war several of the existing houses and the predecessors of existing houses in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia were almost at the culmination of their prosperity; and besides these there were a number of other publishing houses of note or respectability whose names are honorable in the history of literature. It would be difficult to find now any publisher who would undertake at his own risk the issue of the many standard series of books which were so creditable to American book production of thirty years back. Publishers find in the present state of American literature little to encourage them; authors find in the present state of American literature little to encourage them. The largest houses are unwilling to take the risks which a generation ago their fathers in the business would have taken.

On the other hand, great quantities of books have no doubt been sold. The wide sale of the cheap quartos, mostly as foreign reprints; the sale, by the ton, almost, of the cheap ramos such as the Porter & Coates Alla series; the stacks of poets scattered far and wide in a measure through the regular book trade, but perhaps in larger proportions through the dry-goods bazaars and similar channels of distribution—all these add up a large volume of business. Meanwhile the book trade of the country, counting in jobbers and retailers, has probably not increased and has apparently decreased. Take for instance the city of Salem, Mass., the home of Hawthorne, Prescott, Bowditch, and of many others who have made American literature famous, a place whence some of the noted publishers in the American trade found their way to Boston and other places, a city of great intellectual activity. In old days it was well supplied with retail stores, some of which grew to be publishing houses. The book trade of Salem has not been displaced by a free public library. It is only within the last year or two that such an institution has been started. Yet only one bookstore of any importance remains in Salem, and that is largely devoted to the sale of wall papers, etc., and expects rather to take orders than to carry any considerable amount of standard books in stock. The live book trade has gone almost entirely into the hands of an enterprising dry-goods house, who are members of the Syndicate Trading Co., and who handle at Christmas time and throughout the year a considerable quantity of books, but could scarcely be relied upon to perform the functions of the old-fashioned bookstore, with its supply of standards on the shelves tempting a customer to increase his library with books that are books. It can scarcely be said that the retail trade has gone to Boston, for the trade of Boston is not so wonderfully larger than it was in old times, and this state of things is more or less true throughout the country. Bookselling and bookbuying have both suffered a decadence in quality as well as in quantity, except in the case of books of exceptional popularity. The size of editions is scarcely larger, if as large, as in the days when we had not a third of our present reading population.

These facts suggest a very interesting question. The trade is there, because our community is a book-reading people. It is peculiarly a trade, however, that needs development by solicitation; books need to be thrust before the eyes of people; they don't get hungry for them three times a day as they do for bread and butter, meat and groceries, tea and coffee. Doubtless the times have changed, and with them the methods of doing business, yet we cannot but believe that publishers and the book trade generally, with this immense possibility of a market before them, could do better than they now do. Are not these suggestions worth consideration by the heads of the trade? We do not believe the difficulty is so incurable but that a remedy can be found.

THESE suggestions are emphasized by the record of this Spring Announcement Number. It furnishes comparatively few books of importance, although there is as usual a fair supply of ingenious devices to tempt the trade. To be sure the trade this year, more than ever before, are putting over their best things and postponing their best efforts until Fall, but here again is a possible opportunity for bettering our conditions. A part of the demoralization of the trade comes from the fact that every one conspires to throw book buying into one or two months of the year. The ideal at which the trade and particularly the heads of the trade should aim is a renaissance of book-buying in which the American public will buy better books and buy them more steadily throughout the year.

THE ALDINE CLUB.

For some time a careful observer might have noticed that something was up in the circles of the book trade located about Astor Place. What that something was he never would have guessed. Yet slowly it grew and quietly it opened its little bud on Tuesday evening, March 19, at the Clarendon Hotel, New York City. So quiet had been the progress of the movement that none but the initiated were aware of it, and only by the merest chance did it become public.

On the evening above noted about fifty well-known book-makers—writers, publishers, and printers—among whom were Wm. W. Appleton, Henry C. Bunner, of Puck, Frank H. Scott, treasurer of the Century Co., John S. Wood, William D. Howells, James F. Ruggles, Charles E. Merrill, Arthur H. Scribner, Frederick A. Stokes, Gilman H. Tucker, Henry T. Thomas, George T. Stevens, George R. Carthcart, Charles A. Clapp, Alexander W. Drake, Effingham Maynard, Louis H. Blakeman, Joseph L. Blamire, George E. Brett, Edward L. Burlingame, editor of Scribner's Magazine, Bleecker Van Wagenen, Daniel Appleton, Salter S. Clark, Theodore L. De Vinne, Richard Watson Gilder, Clarence C. Rice, John D. Champlin, jr., Oscar M. Dunham, Orlando Leach, Joseph J. Little and A. D. F. Randolph—met to consider the question of a club organization for the encouragement of literature and art and social intercourse and enjoyment. Mr. James F. Ruggles was chosen to preside and an organization was quickly formed.

The incorporators of the club who were named and who have filed their certificates are W. W. Appleton, H. C. Bunner, George R. Carthcart, Charles E. Merrill, Frank H. Scott, Arthur H. Scribner, H. T. Thomas, J. F. Ruggles, and J. S. Wood. Officers were elected as follows: William W. Appleton, President; Henry C. Bunner, Vice-President; Frank H. Scott, Treasurer; and John S. Wood, Secretary.

Then the following Council was elected: Class of 1890, William D. Howells, James F. Ruggles, Frank H. Scott and John S. Wood; class of 1891, Charles E. Merrill, Arthur H. Scribner, Frederick A. Stokes, and Gilman H. Tucker; class of 1892, William W. Appleton, Henry C. Bunner, Henry T. Thomas, and George T. Stevens; class of 1893, George R. Carthcart, Charles A. Clapp, Alexander W. Drake, and Effingham Maynard.

The committees appointed were: House Committee—Henry T. Thomas, George R. Carthcart, and Charles E. Merrill. Auditing Committee—Effingham Maynard, George T. Stevens, and Gilman H. Tucker. Committee on Literature and Art—James F. Ruggles, Alexander W. Drake, and William D. Howells. Committee on Admissions—Class of 1890, Louis H. Blakeman, Joseph L. Blamire, George E. Brett, Edward L. Burlingame, and Bleecker Van Wagenen; class of 1891, Daniel Appleton, Salter S. Clark, Theodore L. De Vinne, Richard W. Gilder, and Clarence C. Rice; class of 1892, John D. Champlin, jr., Oscar M. Dunham, Orlando Leach, Joseph J. Little, and A. D. F. Randolph.

A constitution was adopted according to which publishers, authors, artists, and professional men who have an interest in literature and art are eligible to membership. The resident membership is limited to 200 and the non-resident membership to 150. Fifty members have already joined and applications are coming in rapidly enough to predict that the limit will shortly be reached.

The meeting was adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. The House Committee has leased for a term of years the house at No. 20 Lafayette Place. Decorators will be put to work at once to make the first two floors inhabitable so that they may be ready for occupancy about April 30, when the inauguration of the club will take place. The next meeting will take place April 13.

PROGRESS OF THE NEW COPYRIGHT LAW IN CANADA.

A DEPUTATION of Toronto publishers waited upon the Minister of Justice and Agriculture, March 17, in connection with Sir John Thompson's Copyright Bill. They desired the clause respecting registration in the proposed amendment to be made a little clearer. The deputation pointed out that under Section 6 of the present Act Chancellor Boyd has lately decided that English editions of books for which copyright has been secured in Canada prior to copyright in Great Britain cannot lawfully be imported into Canada. This decision they think will be offensive to the English publisher, as he will lose the sale of some copies of his expensive editions, and will also be objectionable to the Canadian consumer, who wishes a superior edition to the ordinary Canadian book. They would, therefore, suggest that in the proposed bill Section 6 be altered to read as follows: "Nothing in this act shall be held to prohibit the importation from the United Kingdom of copies of any work lawfully printed there. If any work is reprinted subsequently to this edition in the United Kingdom, any person who has previously to the date of entry of such work upon the registers of copyright imported any foreign reprints may dispose of such reprints by sale or otherwise, but the burden of proof of establishing the extent and regularity of the transaction shall in such case be upon such person." They also urged that it is all-important that registration of copyright or intention to publish should be made, as provided in Section 2 of the Copyright Association petition (as otherwise the Canadian market would be flooded with reprints from the United States), which reads as follows:

The conditions for obtaining such copyright shall be that the said literary, scientific, musical or artistic works shall be printed and published or reprinted and republished in Canada within two months after first publication elsewhere, but in no case shall the said exclusive right and liberty in Canada continue to exist after it has expired in the country of origin.

Any copyright work intended to be republished in Canada under this act shall, before publication elsewhere or simultaneously with its first publication elsewhere, be registered in the office of the Minister of Agriculture by the author or his legal representatives, which registration and compliance with the provisions of Section 2 shall secure the exclusive copyright to the author or his legal representative; and it is also desirable that provision should be made that any person or persons shall be at liberty to register any literary, scientific, musical or artistic work prior to or simultaneously with its publication elsewhere, such registration to prohibit the importation of foreign reprints or reproductions of the work so registered. Should the author or his legal representative of the work in question register in accordance with the terms mentioned above, then all former registrations of intention to publish or reproduce are to be void and the registration of the author or his legal representative entitles him to the exclusive Canadian copyright.

Sir John Thompson, in reply, emphatically stated that he desired to protect the Canadian publisher, and left the deputation under the impression that their amendments would be incorporated in the bill.

AN ENGLISH VIEW OF REPRINTING.

From the New York Tribune, March 25.

MR. WARNE's partner is quoted as saying, apropos of their dispute with Longmans over their respective editions of "John Ward, Preacher": "Though we have made up our disagreement we still maintain that we had a perfect right to publish the cheap edition. You see, my feeling on the point is this—Yankees steal every book we bring out till one is driven absolutely frantic, and when I get a chance to repay them in their own coin, of course I like to take it. It was more this feeling than any other that made us bring the book out at such a low price. We want to return New York publishers tit for tat; but fair's fair. We sent the authoress a check the day we brought out the first edition. Do we anticipate a good sale? Well, I hope so. We have sold out every copy of the first edition, and have orders for thousands more already. Theological and religious books have an enormous sale nowadays. There is an enormous set of readers who love a book of the goody-goody type—ladies read 'em after church; they don't call them novels—but there is a tremendous improvement in the taste of the reading public for books of the thoughtful order, like 'Robert Elsmere' and 'John Ward.' As these grow more popular Ouida and Miss Bradshaw's second-rate works will die out. Taste in books is higher now than it ever has been, and I think it will get better year by year."

OBITUARY.

CORNELIUS MATHEWS, dramatist, journalist, and publisher, died March 25 in New York City, aged 75 years. He was born in Port Chester, Westchester County, October 28, 1817. He was the founder of the first really popular comic journal in this city—Yankee Doodle. Fifty years ago Mr. Mathews began writing plays, and he may be said to have been the father of the American drama. His first play was "The Politicians," a satire. This was followed in rapid succession by many other pieces, which in their time aroused the enthusiasm of the audiences of Burton's Chambers Street Theatre and the Old Park. With the late Evert A. Duyckinck he was the originator of the Literary World, the pioneer literary and book-trade journal of this country, and he was the founder of Arcturus, a monthly magazine. Mr. Mathews was an active and enthusiastic worker in the cause of copyright, and that the old Copyright Club was founded was largely due to his efforts and those of William Cullen Bryant, who became in 1843 the first President of the club.

JOHN W. MOORE, an old-time publisher and author of musical works, died in Manchester, N. H., on March 23, aged 82 years. He was a native of Andover, Mass., and completed his apprenticeship at the printing business in Concord. Among the many journalistic enterprises in which Mr. Moore was engaged was Moore's Musical Record, which, however, like his other journals, had but a short existence. He was an ardent advocate of music and art and wrote and published a number of works on music.

JERROLD GRIFFIN, one of the representatives of Cassell & Company's Eastern subscription department, was thrown from a horse in Roxbury, Mass., on the 20th of March, and died from the effects of injuries received, in Boston, on the 22d inst.

DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY OF THE SPRING ANNOUNCEMENTS.

THE descriptive summary which here follows presents as usual, in its alphabetical arrangement by publishers, a survey of the entire field, so far as the necessary information is at hand. Other books, not yet fully determined upon, will find mention in subsequent issues. In our announcement lists proper, the books will be found arranged by classes, while the advertising pages will afford further detailed information as to prices, sizes, styles, etc.

ALLYN & BACON have in preparation "A German Reader," by H. C. G. Brant; Schiller's "Der Neffe als Onkel," with notes by C. F. Raddatz; and "Xenophon's Anabasis," by F. W. Kelsey.

D. APPLETON & Co. have planned their spring publications with discriminating taste. A new book by Mr. O. B. Bunce, entitled "The Story of Happinoland and other Legends," is just issued in the Gainsborough Series. It consists of four slight sketches—"The Story of Happinoland," (which, being translated, is Happy-no-land), "A Millionaire's Millions," "The City Beautiful," and "John's Attic," all of which, the latter, however, only slightly, involve questions in social science. Duondray's "Histoire Sommaire de la Civilization" has been translated, edited, and revised by Rev. J. Verschoyle and will appear in two parts, the "History of Ancient Civilization" being nearly ready, and the "History of Modern Civilization" to follow shortly. "The Primitive Family in its Origin and Development," by C. A. Starcke, will be added to their International Scientific Series; and "How to Study Geography," by Francis W. Parker, will be put in the International Education Series. "The Ice Age of North America and the Antiquity of Man," by Prof. G. Frederick Wright, will have numerous illustrations. The editor of "Science Gossip," Dr. J. Taylor, has prepared "The Playtime Naturalist," which will have upwards of three hundred illustrations. "A Treatise on Coöperative Savings and Loan Associations," by Seymour Dexter, will also be ready immediately. A new edition of Darwin's "Structure and Distribution of Coral Reefs" is also making ready. In fiction a treat is promised in a new story by Maxwell Grey, to be called "The Reproach of Annesley," said to be of equal merit with his fine novel, "The Silence of Dean Maitland;" Justin McCarthy and Mrs. Campbell-Praed have put together "The Ladies' Gallery;" "The Garden's Story" is by George H. Ellwanger; and "Grandfather's Stories," by the late James Johonnot, adds another pretty work to the series: cf Historic Reading Books.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON steadily carry on their "Sermon Bible," which is under the general supervision of the editor of the Clerical Library. The new series, to comprise 12 volumes, embracing all the books of the Old and New Testaments, will give in convenient form the essence of the best homiletic literature of this generation. The first issued, Genesis to II. Samuel, was a specimen of the plan of the whole work. Under each text is given: 1. Outlines of important sermons by eminent preachers existing only in manuscript or periodicals, and thus inaccessible. 2. Less full outlines of sermons which have appeared in volumes which are not well known or easily obtained. 3. References to or very brief outlines of sermons which appear in popular volumes such as are likely to be in a preacher's library. 4. Full references to theological treatises, commentaries, etc., where any help is given to the elucidation of the text. Each volume contains at the end 24 blank pages for memorandum notes. It will be published at the rate of two volumes a year. Three volumes of the second series of the "Expositor's Bible" are ready, and during March and April three more will appear. The Rt. Rev. W. Alexander, Lord Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, has treated "The Epistles of St. John;" Rev. Marcus Dods, "The First Epistle to the Corinthians;" and Rev. Prof. William Milligan, of the University of Aberdeen, the "Book of Revelation." Rev. W. Robertson Nicoll is the general editor. A valuable book for clerical libraries will be Dr. Charles Elliott's "Old Testament Prophecy," treating of the nature and connection of the prophecy with Old Testament history, Messianic prophecy, and New Testament fulfilment. Another announcement is the Rev. Carroll Cutter's book on "The Beginning of Ethics."

C. W. BARDEEN's announcements will be found in full under the heading of Education, Language, etc., in the classified list in this issue.

A. S. BARNES & Co. will bring out their long-promised "The Three Germanies," by Theo. S. Fay, in a handsome two-volume edition. Mr. Fay has devoted the last thirteen years to writing this history, and it will be a work of world-wide interest. "Songs of Praise for Social and Sabbath Worship," and "The People's Praise Book," a Baptist collection of hymns and tunes edited by Henry M. Sanders and George A. Lorimer, are two well-chosen collections of sacred music. The other announcements of this house will be found in full under the heading of Education, Language, etc., in the classified list in this issue.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & Co. announce several valuable works for spring publication, of which full titles will be found in our classified list in this issue, under Medical Science.

BRENTANO's announce the second volume in their Romantic Library. It will contain three novelettes by Alfred de Musset: "Margot," "The Beauty Spot," and "Croisilles," and also a two-act comedy called "Valentine's Wager." "The Romance of an Alter Ego," by Lloyd S. Bryce, is promised to be witty; and "Frederick Struthers's Romance," by Albert Ulmann, is to be an ingenious love-story which takes place in New York life. Readers of sporting tastes will look forward to a new book by Kit Clarke called "Where the Trout Hide," containing descriptions of an easily accessible and beautiful country whose waters teem with brook trout, black bass, and land-locked salmon.

A. L. BURT, New York, has in press additions to his Manhattan Series of popular American novels, the titles of which will be found in the department of Fiction in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

C. N. CASPAR, Milwaukee, Wis., is making satisfactory progress with his excellent "Directory of American Book, News, and Stationery Trade, and kindred branches." At this writing 816 pages have already been printed, completing the first two parts—Alphabetical list of the firms, and the Digest of the trade lists of the American Book Publishers, and carrying the Geographical classification through the State of Missouri. The rest of the work is in an advanced state, and in a very few weeks the whole work ought to be ready for subscribers.

CASSELL & COMPANY are not yet prepared to make announcement of spring publications beyond a number of novels, which will be found grouped under the heading of Fiction in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

THE CENTURY COMPANY expects to have ready in May the first section of "The Century Dictionary," which has already been fully described in our issue for January 19 of this year. Twenty-four sections (which are expected to appear monthly) will complete the work, which can afterward be bound into six volumes, four sections to a volume. The retail price of the sections will be $2.50 each, and the cost of binding volumes afterward in full sheep will be $5 each, that is $60 for the sections, and $30 for binding them. Subscriptions will be taken for the bound volumes in full cloth at $10 or $60 for the set, and in full sheep at $15 or $90 for the set. This work seems to us to afford a wide and paying field for booksellers to work up as agents.

CUPPLES & HURD announce quite a number of forthcoming books. In the department of description there will be a new volume by W. H. H. Murray, to be called "Adventures in the Wilderness; or, camp life in the Adirondacks;" "Glimpses of Norseland," by Hetta M. Hervey, with many illustrations; "Pleasant Hours in Sunny Lands in a Tour Around the World," by Isaac Newton Lewis; and "Jewish Portraits," by Lady Magnus. Fiction will be represented by "Cleopatra's Daughter," a romance of a bunch of roses, by William Armstrong; "The Sphinx in Aubrey Parish," by N. H. Chamberlain, a novel of religious tendency, the actors being chiefly members of the Anglican communion; "The Romance of a Shop," by Amy Levy, a story of four sisters who are left without parents or money and are obliged to work with heads and hands in their little shop to make ends meet; and "Silken Threads," a detective story, by the author of "Mr. and Mrs. Morton," which will appear in the Green Paper Series. Francis E. Cooke has written "The Story of Theodore Parker" and furnished it with a valuable bibliography; and Maria I. Dodge has prepared a book of poems under the name of "Echoes from Cape Ann." "Aunt Nabby, Her Rambles, Her Adventures, and Her Notions," is an amusing book by Miss Peleg Newsby full of quaint remarks and kindly lessons. Three medical works will be issued: "The Diagnosis and Medical Treatment of Acute Intestinal Obstruction" and "Acute Pancreatitis," both by Dr. Reginald H. Fitz, of Harvard University; and "Diet in Relation to Age and Activity," by Sir Henry Thompson. Prof. Charles Carroll Everett has written the "Science of Thought," in which he considers thought in its completeness, seeking to determine its problems and limits, a book calculated to stir up the reader's brains and make him do some quiet thinking.

JOHN DELAY has nearly ready another volume in his series of Gleanings from Foreign Authors entitled "The Grisette," by Viscount Valrose.

DR WOLFE, FISKE & Co. announce a "National Kindergarten Manual," by Mrs. Louise Pollock, consisting of practical model lessons, rules and lectures for kindergartens and nurseries, useful for parents and teachers.

DODD, MEAD & Co.'s announcements show the familiar names of Besant and Rice, Amelia E. Barr, and the lamented E. P. Roe. An edition of the famous novels produced in partnership by the late Mr. Rice and the still active Mr. Besant will be issued in a uniform paper edition at low price for summer loungers. A paper edition is also promised of Mrs. Barr's "John Vedder's Wife," and a cloth edition in a new size of "The Last of the Macallisters," and "Between Two Loves." Lovers of E. P. Roe and of gardening will rejoice in a new volume, chiefly from his Harper papers, called "The Home Acre," showing the possibilities to be obtained in the way of shrubs, lawns, trees, small fruit, kitchen vegetables, etc., from one acre around the home. This will be uniform with the Library edition of E. P. Roe's works; a paper edition of "Miss Lou" will also be made ready. A scholarly work by Bayard Tuckerman will be issued in "The Life of General Lafayette," giving a critical estimate of his character and public acts, of special interest in view of the historical reminiscences in this centennial year of Washington's inauguration. The work will be in two volumes with several portraits. Mrs. R. W. Felkin has translated "Emin Pasha in Central Africa," a collection of his letters and journals, edited and annotated by Prof. G. Schweinfurth, Prof. F. Ratzel, Dr. G. Hartlaub, and the translator's husband, Dr. R. W. Felkin; and Charles Somerville Latrobe Bateman, for some time in the gendarmerie of the Congo Free State, has written a record of service under the Lone Star, which will be issued as "The Ascent of Kasai."

WARREN F. DRAPER, Andover, Mass., will issue shortly two works of interest to theologians. The first is "A Critical and Grammatical Commentary on St. Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians," by Charles J. Ellcott, Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, England, and the second "A Defence of the Catholic Faith Concerning the Satisfaction of Christ Against Faustus Socinus," by Hugo Grotius, translated with notes and an historical introduction by Frank Hugh Foster, Professor of Church History in the Theological Seminary at Oberlin.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have a goodly list of monotint booklets sure of sale at Easter and for birthday gifts throughout the year. Eighteen of these pretty souvenirs are specially adapted to Easter and bear all the familiar titles and show all the pretty flowers of the joyous resurrection season. In birthday books there is a new departure; they are intended as a gift on birthdays, to be read and admired but not written in. They are gotten up in leaf shape, pansy shape, fan shape, and round and square embossed card covers. A packet of twelve booklets, to be used as general gifts on any social occasion, is called "Gifts and Graces," and a packet of three little beauties is called floral tokens. No one need be told in 1889 what pretty booklets this house furnishes, worthy little ornaments for their beautiful N. Y. City emporium.

ESTES & LAURIAT make several interesting announcements. For young people they will have "Queen Hildegard," by Laura E. Richards, author of "Four Feet, Two Feet, and No Feet," a helpful story for girls, written with taste and spirit, and a new edition of Fannie Belle Irving's ever charming "Six Girls," illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. Two pretty books that may be used as Easter souvenirs are "Glott's Sheep," by Mary E. Waller, a story of Florence, and "The Rosebush of Hildesheim," by the same author, a delightful story of an old German cathedral city, each illustrated with photo-etchings and daintily bound. "The Finger of Fortune" is a guide-book to palmistry by Eveline M. Farwell, a pocket manual to this interesting and fashionable science; and a "Dream of Love and Fire," by a dreamer, an interesting psychological study with five photo-etchings.

THE FERGUS PRINTING CO., Chicago, have issued No. 29 in their Historical Series, including the "Biographical Sketch of Joseph Duncan," fifth governor of Illinois, which was read before the Historical Society of Jacksonville, Ill., May 7, 1885, by Julia Duncan Kirby. The book is illustrated. They have also ready "The Goodrich Family in America," a genealogy of the descendants of the American representatives, together with a short historical account of the family in England, the origin of the name, a description of Goodrich Castle, etc., edited by Dr. Lafayette Wallace Case.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT, who have made some recent successes in volumes of sermons—especially A. H. Bradford's "Spirit and Life"—and the four new Beecher volumes (of 1873-5)—will issue in March "Living Questions: Studies in Nature and Grace," by Rev. Warren Hathaway, promising vigorous treatment of live topics of the day.

FUNK & WAGNALLS will issue "Latin Hymn-Writers and Their Hymns," by the late Rev. Samuel W. Duffield, edited and completed by Rev. Dr. R. E. Thompson, of the University of Pennsylvania, with copious index. This work is of that critical character that required for its production a combination of classical knowledge and exquisite poetic taste. The book will be much appreciated by ministers, teachers, authors, and editors, and all who are interested in hymnology and the biography of the hymn-writers, and by all lovers of poetry.

GEBBIE & Co., Philadelphia, announce a new edition of "The Imitation of Christ," by Thomas A' Kempis, newly translated, handsomely printed with artistic borders, and illustrated with twenty photogravure plates, of subjects chiefly from the old masters in the gallery of the Louvre; "The Laughing Philosopher in the Middle of the 19th Century," a volume of "rare fun and pleasant philosophy," treating of medicine, law, smoking, drinking, etc., edited by Alfred Crowquill, with 140 illustrations; and a political satire of modern times, entitled "Solid for Mulhooly," by Rufus E. Shapley, with ten full-page illustrations designed expressly for the work by Thomas Nast.

GINN & Co.'s list of spring announcements will be found under the heading of Education, Language, etc., in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. announce several new editions of old books, which is after all one of the most satisfactory forms of announcement. For every book that begins a second edition means a profit to the publisher as well as a pledge of intrinsic merit. "Shall We Teach Geology?" is one of the newest entries in their catalogue. In it Alexander Winchell makes a special plea for teaching geology in public schools, and also covers the ground of the relative value in education of the classics and the sciences.

HARPER & BROS. expect to publish in the near future the second volume of "My Autobiography and Reminiscences," by W. P. Frith, the well-known English artist and R. A., who confides to the world the many ups and downs of his life, his means and methods of study, together with much interesting matter arising from circumstances connecting him with men and things with whom and with which he came in contact in the progress of his life and work. The first volume appeared in December, 1887, and possessors will be glad to know they may soon expect the continuation. Next in importance is a third edition of Prof. C. K. Adams' "A Manual of Historical Literature," which has been revised and enlarged by the busy President of Cornell University and made even more valuable than before to students, general readers, and collectors of books. It comprises brief descriptions of the most important histories in English, French, and German, together with practical suggestions as to methods and courses of historical study, written from the standpoint of an experienced teacher devoted to his subject. The indefatigable editor, W. J. Rolfe, has prepared for the Series of English Classics for Home and School, "Fairy Tales in Prose and Verse," selected from the works of standard authors and supplied with valuable literary notes. Another story for which the Civil War furnishes the background has been written by the popular Capt. Charles King and is called "Between the Lines." Lee Meriwether, whose "Tramp Trip Through Europe" was so successful, now Special Agent of the U. S. Department of Labor, has studied the conditions of American laboring life and relates many incidents, amusing and otherwise, which befel him while gathering information for the Department, calling his book "The Tramp at Home." The several clever farces which Mr. W. D. Howells has published from time to time will be put into one volume, which will be entitled "The Mouse-Trap and Other Farces," and will contain besides the title story "The Garroters," "Five O'clock Tea," and "A Likely Story." Miss Henrietta C. Wright, who has made quite a success of her talent for making historical and scientific facts interesting to young minds in the form of stories, has now written some out-and-out fiction to be called "Princess Lilliwinks and Other Stories," and to be published with illustrations. The last announcement is a new volume in the Harper's Young People Series, by George B. Perry, telling of "Uncle Peter's Trust."

D. C. HEATH & Co.'s list of spring announcements will be found under the heading of Education, Language, etc., in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce a new novel by Mrs. Alexander, called "A Crooked Path;" "Esther Denison," a new novel, by Adeline Sergeant, and "Jerry," a new American novel. Francis A. Walker, President of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, has prepared "An Elementary Political Economy," with simple instruction on this inexhaustible subject. The house has a good long list of educational books forthcoming, dealing particularly with the acquiring of foreign languages. Full titles of these books may be found in our classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co.'s Spring list is distributed over many departments of literature, but does not number many titles in any single department. In Biography the promise is good, including Mr. Lodge's work on George Washington, in two volumes, in the Series of American Statesmen; the "Life and Correspondence of Richard H. Dana, Jr.," by Charles Francis Adams, also in two volumes; "Emerson in Concord," by Dr. Edward W. Emerson; and "The Story of William and Mary Smith," by Geo. S. Merriam. William Smith was the author of several books, the best known of which is "Thorndale, or, the conflict of opinions." In History there will be a new book by John Fiske, entitled "The Beginnings of New England, or, the Puritan theocracy in its relations to civil and religious liberty," some portions of which, if not all, have been given as lectures by Mr. Fiske in different parts of the country, but none of which have been printed; and "The Constitutional History and Government of the United States," by Mr. Justice J. S. Landon, of the Superior Court of New York. This last will form an octavo volume, and from the learning and eminence of the author can hardly fail to command attention among thoughtful people. In the department of Fiction "The Open Door," the new story by Miss Blanche Willis Howard, author of "Gucan," "One Summer," etc., is likely to be one of the most popular stories of the season. Its announcement has called forth a good deal of expectant interest, and as the author is now in the zenith of her powers the public has a right to anticipate work of no ordinary value. Prof. Hardy's "Passe Rose," which ends in the April Atlantic, and which has attracted much more than expected attention while appearing serially, promises to add to the reputation which the author gained by his previous stories, "But Yet a Woman" and "The Wind of Destiny." Two religious books are announced, "The Immanent God and Other Sermons," seven thoughtful, devout discourses preached by Rev. A. W. Jackson at Santa Barbara, California; and "The Way: the nature and means of revelation," a noteworthy book quite in the line of what is known as the "New Theology, or, progressive orthodoxy," by Prof. John F. Weir, of New Haven. Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith's "A White Umbrella in Mexico" is sure to be popular on account of his freshness and vivacity of narration, the curious and interesting nature of his observations, and the numerous pictures with which he has himself illustrated it. The "Satchel Guide for Vacation Tourists in Europe," which has had many years of prosperity, each year adding to its reputation as a reliable and trustworthy guide, is to be entirely remade, so that it will be more attractive than ever before. Other books are: "Profit Sharing Between Employer and Employee," a study in the evolution of the wages system, by Nicholas Paine Gilman, a work which has been very heartily commended by such authorities as President Walker, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Hon. Carroll D. Wright, of the National Bureau of Statistics, and others. "The Works of Rowland Gibson Hazard," of Rhode Island, in four volumes, edited by his grand-daughter, Miss Caroline Hazard, and containing a large variety of papers on philosophical, educational, political, and economic subjects—papers marked by great clearness and force of thought, and eminently worthy of the attention of students of the various topics to which they refer; "Reviews of Botanical Works of Fifty Years," by the late Prof. Asa Gray, who was unsurpassed in his specialty by any one of his time, edited by Prof. Chas. S. Sargent; "Prolegomena and Index to In Memoriam," by Thomas Davidson, well known as a profound and critical scholar, who has in this book furnished admirable introductory notes to Tennyson's greatest poem, and added to it an Index which will be found very serviceable; a book on "Home Gymnastics," by two eminent German experts, a work which has gone through eight editions in Germany, and is now translated by Mr. Barthold Schlesinger, a well-known business man of Boston; a "Holmes Birthday Book," containing selections from the prose and poetical works of Dr. Holmes, arranged on the same plan as the popular Longfellow, Whittier, and Lowell Birthday Books; and a new (fourth) edition of the standard work on "Mortgages of Real Property," by Leonard A. Jones.

H. P. HUBBARD, New Haven, Conn., will issue almost immediately a work comprising treatises on the law governing trade-marks, libel, patents and copyrights, containing more than 1000 illustrations of trade-marks, seals, brands, water-marks, heraldry, etc., besides lists of leading newspapers and periodicals and other important data for advertisers. It will be entitled "The Blue-Book of the Trade-Mark Law of All Countries."

THE INTERSTATE PUBLISHING CO. announces new editions of "Gilman's Historical Readers," first published in July, 1887. The books have met with approval in schools and libraries. The three volumes deal respectively with "The Discovery and Exploration of America," "The Colonization of America," and "The Making of the American Nation." The volumes are based on the latest and best authorities, and all have good indices. The publishers also announce the "Interstate Second Reader," to follow "The Interstate Primer and First Reader," edited by Kate L. Brown, whose work has given such satisfaction to teachers of primary departments; and call attention to their series about authors, now including "Favorite Authors for Little Folks," by Mrs. Frances A. Humphrey; "English Authors for Young Folks," and "American Authors for Young Folks," by Amanda B. Harris, three books providing school children with charming pictures of well-known writers.

JOHN IRELAND, N. Y., will issue shortly a brief sketch of the life of George Ainsley, one of the missionaries of the Home Board in the far West. The biography is penned by Anna Warner, who calls her little tribute "A Servant of the King."

WILLIAM R. JENKINS has under way several of his pretty French stories and novels suitable for class and home reading. To his Romans Choisis he will add "Vaillante," by Jacques Vincent, a story crowned by the Academie, which has also received the Montyon prize; and "Le Tour du Monde," by Jules Verne; to his Contes Choisis he will add "L'Attilage de la Marquise," an amusing story by Leon Tinséau. "Le Cid," by Corneille, and Molière's "Bourgeois Gentilhomme," annotated by Schele de Vere, will also be ready. A treatise on the gender of French nouns, by V. F. Bernard, will be found useful by students still struggling with feminine forks and masculine knives. It is in French, and entitled "Le Genre des Noms." "French Verbs at a Glance," by Mariot de Beauvoisin, has reached a second edition. "Notre Dame de Paris," with the illustrations of the édition de luxe, will also be brought out in two volumes. In Mr. Jenkins' other specialty, veterinary literature, he announces as almost ready "Roaring in Horses," by Dr. George Fleming.

JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, through its publication agency, will issue in April and May "The City Government of New Orleans," by Judge William W. Howe; "A New England Village Community," being a study of Wethersfield, Windsor, and Hartford, by Charles M. Andrews; "The Gilmer Letters," by William P. Trent, Professor of History and English in the University of the South, giving an account of the English professors obtained by Gilmer and Jefferson for the University of Virginia; and the "Local Constitutional History of the United States," by George E. Howard, Professor of History in the University of Nebraska, divided into two volumes, the first covering the development of the township, hundred, and shire, and the second the development of the city and the local magistrates. Particular attention has been given to a most valuable bibliography brought down to date.

T. & J. W. JOHNSON & Co., Philadelphia, have in press a number of law-books which will be found under the heading of Law, Government, etc., in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

THE ORANGE JUDD Co. will issue shortly a new, revised, and greatly enlarged illustrated edition of "Peach Culture," by James Alexander Fulton, of Dover, Del., and "The Family Horse: Its Stabling, Care, and Feeding," an illustrated practical manual for horsekeepers, by George A. Martin.

THE JUDGE PUBLISHING Co. promise two novels for the approaching season of douce far niente, one by Mrs. Oliphant, entitled "Lady Car: the sequel of a life," and the other by H. T. Johnson, devoted to "The Jack of Hearts."

CHARLES H. KERR & Co., Chicago, will have ready in June "A Study for a New View of Faith," by James Vila Blake, who has the courage to join the ranks of the many already discussing their various views of intellectual, emotional, absolute, and other faiths. He divides his work into three parts, to make about a hundred pages. The author has already published "Essays and Poems," and his appreciative readers will no doubt enjoy his exposition of a faith which, in common with all faiths, is the true one to the one who holds it.

LEA BROS. & Co.'s announcements will be found in full under the heading of Medical Science in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

LEE & SHEPARD will bring out several books that can be used with profit in high schools. "An Hour With Delsarte," by Anna Morgan, teacher of elocution in the Chicago Conservatory, presents in compact form the principles of the great French orator, and is furnished with full-page original drawings showing the graces and faults of gestures as helps to expression. "George Riddle's Readings" presents a choice selection of pieces for students at exhibitions and also for public readers, all having been used with great success by Mr. Riddle. An admirable historic narrative which can be used to good effect as a text-book will be Samuel Adams Drake's "Decisive Events in American History—Burgoyne's Invasion of 1777, with an Outline Sketch of the American Invasion of Canada, 1775-6." Also of value for business colleges especially will be "Every-Day Business," by M. S. Emery, giving careful instruction on business subjects, being designed for ready reference by young business men. "Observation Lessons in the Primary Schools," by Louisa P. Hopkins, is also forthcoming. Two excellent descriptive works are promised in "All about Pasadena," in which Charles Frederick Holder tells in his delightful way all about Los Angeles County in South California, supplying valuable information on climate, missions, trails, fruits, flowers, game, etc.; and "Incidents of a Collector's Rambles in Australia, New Zealand, and New Guinea," by Sherman F. Denton, artist to the United States Fish Commission, who has himself made the illustrations that make clear his interesting narrative. For the fast approaching Easter season this house, as always, provides tastefully and liberally. The old favorites have been freshened up and several new ones added. Miss Jerome's pretty volumes are in Easter dress, and among the new-comers sure of favor are "Arise, My Soul, Arise," "See the Land Her Easter Keeping," "Gladness of Easter," "Faith's Festivals," "Easter Carols, Roundels, etc., etc."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. will show the trade early in May specimen copies of a magnificent quarto edition of "Pierre and Jean," for which they have completed arrangements with Messrs. Boussod, Valadon & Co., of Paris. The book will be a fac-simile of the French edition, the illustrations by Ernest Duez and Albert Lynch, being printed by Boussod, Valadon & Co. for the copyrighted American translation. Early in April will be published the first volume of the "Cyclopaedia of Diseases of Children," by American, British, and Canadian authors, edited by John M. Keating. It will be in four imperial volumes and sold only by subscription. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, who like Dr. Hammond enjoys fame as novelist as well as physician, has written a new story of life in the lumber regions, entitled "Far in the Forest," which describes life among very interesting people. Among other works of fiction the house announces a new translation by Miss Wister from the German of E. Werner, which she calls "The Alpine Fay," and which is a story composed in the felicitous manner that marks all her adaptations from the German. "A Demoralizing Marriage," by Edgar Fawcett, will form No. 4 in the series of American Novels, and Amélie Rives, who owes her great popularity to the talk made by a story published in Lippincott's Magazine, has furnished another novel entitled "The Witness of the Sun," which will appear simultaneously as complete novel in the magazine and in book-form.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. announce several new works of law, full titles of which may be found in our classified list under Law, Government, etc.

LOCKWOOD & COOMBS (formerly George J. Coombs) have added to their literary treasures a new translation of "The Philobiblon" of Richard de Bury, by Ernest C. Thomas, of which only 750 copies are printed for England and America; and a new volume of essays on literary subjects by W. Davenport Adams, called "By-ways in Book-Land," in which the author leaves the great highways of English literature travelled by all, and wanders with kindred curious and studious spirits, beguiling the way with trifles about men and books, such as hereditry in song, sermons in flowers, paper-knife pleasures, postscripts, etc. Another tidbit for literary epicures will be J. Rogers Rees' new compilation which he calls "The Brotherhood of Letters," chapters on notable meetings of literary men, brought together with well-trying skill in Mr. Rees' quaint and happy way. Daintiness and fitness are well-known characteristics of the books of this firm.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. cover biography, description, education, domestic economy, history, politics, etc., in their literature for the coming season. Biography will be represented in the "Life of C. B. Vignolles," compiled by his son, O. J. Vignolles, giving an accurate account of the busy civil engineer who began work in South Carolina in 1817, surveyed and mapped Florida, served in the English army in the war of 1814, was engaged on the first English and Irish railways and as chief engineer of railways in Germany and other countries, was collaborator with Mr. Ericsson, and all his life has been at the head of great railroad systems. In description there will be "Notes of My Journey Round the World," by Evelyn Cecil, with full-page illustrations; in domestic economy there will be two cook-books by Mrs. de Salis, entitled "Puddings and Pastry à la mode" and "Cakes and Confections à la mode;" and education will have "Longmans' New Atlas;" a new volume of Prof. Witt's Classical Series for the Young devoted to "The Retreat of the Ten Thousand," being the story of Xenophon's "Anabasis," and Part VIII. of "Old and New Astronomy," by Richard A. Proctor, for some time delayed owing to Mr. Proctor's death, but now put into competent hands and to be finished in volumes appearing at intervals of two months. In history we are promised Vol. II. of Mr. Gardiner's "History of the Great Civil War," covering the years from 1644-1647. The literary works will be "Characters in Macbeth," extracted from "Studies of Shakespeare," by George Fletcher, published in 1847; and "Literary Workers, or, pilgrims to the temple of fame," by John George Hargreaves; and a translation in verse by James Adey Birds of the second part of Goethe's "Faust." Political announcements outnumber those in other fields and include "On Parliamentary Government in England," by Alpheus Todd; "Lord Randolph Churchill's Speeches," from 1880 to 1888; "Russia in Central Asia in 1888," by Hon. George Curzon; "Cardinal Lavigerie and Slavery in Africa," by the Cardinal himself; "The Theory of Credit," by Henry Dunning Macleod, and "War with Crime," by the late T. Barwick Baker, edited by Herbert Phillips and Edmund Verney. "The Diseases of Children," by Dr. Henry Ashby, will be suitable for practitioners and senior students, and "A Handbook of Cryptogamic Botany," by A. W. Bennett and George R. Milne Murray, will include all the recent discoveries and observations.

THE D. LOTHROP CO. have already in hand a large list of new publications for 1889. These include the names of such favorite authors as J. T. Trowbridge, Margaret Sidney, J. L. Alden, "Pansy," Willis Boyd Allen, H. H. Clark, E. E. Hale, Marion Harland, Elbridge S. Brooks, H. H. Boyesen, and Emma L. Connelly. The larger portion of this new list will be reserved for fall issue, but the spring announcements of the Company are interesting and attractive. Professor Boyesen's volume of short stories entitled "Vagabond Tales" will be one of these early issues, as will also Martha Livingston Moody's story, "Alan Thorne," written as an "antidote" to "Robert Elsmere," and said to be a strong book. Margaret Sidney's "Little Red Shop" is a capital story for "business boys," brim full of racy New England life. Mrs. Alden ("Pansy") and her choicest associates have a characteristic volume in "A Sevenfold Trouble;" "Tom's Street," by Mrs. S. R. Graham-Clarke, is a charming story of young endeavor, by the author of the popular "Yessie Walton" books. John L. Heaton has prepared a vivid and practical sketch of the Green Mountain State in his "Story of Vermont," the fourth in the excellent Story of the States Series which this house is issuing under the editorial supervision of Elbridge S. Brooks. The removal of the entire Lothrop establishment to larger quarters and the extensive alterations under way in their Washington Street salesrooms, have necessarily delayed some of the books underlined for spring issue, but the books here enumerated are already nearly prepared for the market, and will make a most attractive beginning of the extensive work marked out by the D. Lothrop Company for 1889.

FRANK F. LOVELL & CO., N. Y., have in press Mrs. Mona Caird's novel, "The Wing of Azrael." Mrs. Mona Caird, it will be remembered, started afresh a short time ago the question, "Is Marriage a Failure?" by her letters to the London Telegraph and later in the Westminster Review. This is her first novel and will embody her arguments on the subject of marriage and divorce.

MACMILLAN & Co. announce a new and cheaper edition of "The Journal Intime of Henri Frédéric Amiel," translated with introduction and notes by Mrs. Humphrey Ward. Other important biographies will shortly be added to their English Men of Action Series, which was begun with "General Gordon," by Colonel Sir William Butler. The authors of this series are about as important as their subjects and have been chosen with nice judgment. "David Livingstone," by Thomas Hughes, will appear in April; "Lord Lawrence," by Sir Richard Temple, in May; "The Duke of Wellington," by Mr. George Hooper, in June. Thirteen more volumes are in active preparation and will receive detailed announcement later on. "An Author's Love," the unpublished letters of Prosper Mérimée's "Inconnue," will be brought out in two volumes. In fiction there will be novels by two distinguished Americans, now almost identified with foreigners, Henry James and F. Marion Crawford. Mr. James will publish "A London Life," and Mr. Crawford "Greifenstein." Of scientific interest will be "Darwinism," by Alfred Russell Wallace, a systematic exposition of the theory of natural selection; "Modern Views of Electricity," by Oliver J. Lodge, an addition to the Nature Series; and "The Bacteria in Asiatic Cholera," by E. Klein, lecturer in St. Bartholomew's Hospital and at the College of State Medicine, London. "A Syllabus of Modern Plane Geometry," by the Rev. John J. Milne, is a valuable addition to mathematical text-books. The Honorable Sir Francis R. Sandford has edited the late Matthew Arnold's "Reports on Elementary Schools, 1852-1882," and students of education problems will rejoice in getting at a mass of fact and helpful logic sifted by a careful hand. The second part of Sir John Lubbock's "Pleasures of Life," and "Literature in its Social Aspects," by Aubrey De Vere, represent literary treats to the initiated. The field of religion will be enriched by "Supernatural Religion," by the Rev. J. B. Lightfoot, Bishop of Durham, consisting of the series of papers contributed to the Contemporary Review, and "Gifts for Ministry," by Brooke Foss Westcott, Canon of Westminster, addresses delivered to candidates for the ministry. "The Duke of Wellington's Plan," by Hon. S. Dana Horton, once more dissects the motives and glorifies the success of the hero of Waterloo.

JOEL MUNSELL'S SONS, Albany, N. Y., will add to their genealogical and historical publications "The Fillow, Philo, and Philleo Family," descendants of John Fillow, a Huguenot, who settled in Norwalk, Ct., about 1700, written by D. H. Van Hoosear, and furnished with portraits and plates, coats of arms, and exhaustive indices; "Lindsay Genealogy," by Margaret Isabella Lindsay, beginning with the family of the earliest settler in the mother State, Virginia, and including all the Lindsays of America; "Weeks Genealogy," by Jacob Chapman, beginning with Leonard Weeks, of Greenland, N. H., 1667; "Bouton-Boughton Genealogy," by James Boughton, enumerating the descendants of John, who came to Boston in 1635; the second volume of "Boston Epitaphs," in which W. H. Whitmore writes of the Granary Burying Grounds; and the third volume of their "American Ancestry," giving the name and descent in the male line of Americans whose ancestors settled in the United States prior to 1776.

JOHN MURPHY & Co., Baltimore, Md., announce a new volume by Cardinal Gibbons, entitled "Our Christian Heritage," and a new edition of the "Holy Way of the Cross," published with his approbation; two volumes of "Notes on Doctrinal and Spiritual Subjects," by Dr. Frederick William Faber, and a fourth edition of his "Poems." Other books of interest to devout Catholics will be "Catholic Church and Christian State," translated from the German of Cardinal Joseph Hergenroether, Archbishop of the Vatican; and "Manual of the Holy Face," translated from the French of the Rev. Abbé Janvier, published with the approbation of the Archbishop of Tours.

THE NATIONAL SCHOOL OF ELOCUTION AND ORATORY, Phila., announce No. 17 of their "Elocutionist's Annual." The entire series is being revised and enlarged, and new editions of Nos. 1 and 2 are just ready, each containing from thirty to forty pages of new selections. A revised and enlarged edition of Ward's "Base Ball" is also in press. The Normal Publishing Co. has been moved from Lancaster, Pa., to the same building with The National School, and Mr. Charles C. Shoemaker becomes its manager. Reductions in price have been made in "Normal Methods of Teaching," "Mental Science and Culture" and "Philosophy of Arithmetic," and several new educational works are in preparation.

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOC. AND PUB. HOUSE have in press "Alcohol in Society," a $500 prize essay by Rev. Dr. Richard Eddy; and two stories, "The Lost Cheque," by Miss Elizabeth Cheal, and "The Captain's Bargain," by Julia McNair Wright.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have already issued for the Spring season a number of handsome books, chiefly for young people, all of which have been noticed in previous issues of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Those who need a reminder are referred to Messrs. Nelsons' advertisement, which will be found elsewhere in this issue.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. steadily and unceasingly put upon the market English and American novels, which first have a run at a good price in substantial binding and are then metamorphosed into 25 c. paper novels and start in for a still more extended and successful run. Mrs. Southworth, Mrs. Stephens, Caroline Lee Hentz, Zola, Henry Greville, and others have already been entered in the paper army, and their works are being brought out in rapid succession. A novel just starting among the upper-price books is "A Business Woman's Journal," by Mrs. B. Beaumont, of Woodville, Tennessee, which is a sequel to "Twelve Years of My Life." It describes a trip from New Orleans through England, and the author's business career of prosperity until failure of the cotton crop brings her into debt and trouble, from which pluck and patience at last set her free.

PORTER & COATES announce a book sure of welcome among Quakers throughout the country in the "Life and Work of Eli and Sybil Jones," preachers and missionaries in the Society of Friends for more than fifty years, during which they have travelled over the greater part of the civilized world. The name of the editor is not given, but he has the full approval of Eli Jones and has had access to all his diaries and letters. Almost all Quakers in good standing have a personal acquaintance with Mr. and Mrs. Jones and will be glad to see this record of their busy, useful lives.

JAMES POTT & Co. have made arrangements to bring out some valuable additions to their extensive line of Protestant Episcopal Church literature. "The Ministry of the Christian Church," by Charles Gore, treats acknowledged difficulties with fairness, gives abundant references to the latest assailants and refutations of popular fallacies, and makes its scholarly information available by a full and carefully prepared index. "Our Inheritance" is a popular account of the Lord's Supper during the first three centuries, by Rev. S. Baring-Gould; "The Analytics of Belief in a Future Life," by L. P. Gratacap, will be of service to all arguing theologians; "The Mysteries of Providence and of Grace" is founded upon the story of Lazarus and consists of meditations delivered during the Lenten season of 1884, in Trinity Cathedral, Easton, Md.; "Reasonable Faith" will contain four sermons on fundamental Christian doctrines, by Rev. A. C. A. Hall, of Boston, Mass., and "The Divine Memorial of the Holy Eucharist," by the Rev. H. C. Stuart, of Quebec, is a brief exposition of the harmony subsisting between the passion of Christ and its representations in the Old and New Covenants. For younger readers Geikie's "Life of Christ" has been put into one volume and fully illustrated; and many helpful thoughts are furnished them in Rev. F. M. Faber's "Kindness in General, Kind Thoughts, Kind Words, Kind Actions." A beautiful story has also been founded on one of Canon Knox-Little's sermons and dedicated to him under the title of "Little King Davie." The publishers also announce many additions to their long line of "Bagster's Teachers' Bibles."

JOHN E. POTTER & Co. announce that they are hard at work getting out new books, but are as yet only prepared to mention two new works, additions to their "Fenno's Favorites," which now number six issues. Prof. Fenno is a teacher of elocution and fills his volumes with practical hints on pronunciation, gesture, and stage management, and also shows cultivated taste in making his selections of pieces. They have also just ready "Potter's New Elementary Geography," by Miss Eliza H. Morton; and "Elements of Geometry," by C. F. R. Bellows, both of which have been received with favor.

L. PRANG & Co.'s efforts to bring out more artistic designs and more elaborate and tasty novelties have not been in vain this season, as the large line of elegant Easter goods fully attests. Flowers, landscapes, and lovely children are the principal motifs for the designs, and lofty and appropriate sentiments accompany them. Among the novelties are Art Tiles of rare patterns, in imitation of plastic tiles, hand-modelled, made of durable material, and Ivory Mounts, also hand-modelled, in exact imitation of old carved ivory. Both imitations are excellent, and the designs highly artistic. Hand-painted Mounts are largely represented in the line. The Satin Art Prints are daintier and more delicate than ever before, and good taste is displayed in the various forms in which they are issued, such as book-marks, sachets, bags, portfolios, mouchoir cases, cushions, banners, as well as on handsome hand-decorated mounts and imitation ivory mounts. One set of designs has been printed on rich, soft faille silk, instead of satin, with a very happy result. A large line of Easter Booklets, most of them in hand-decorated covers, are brought out under appropriate titles and filled with the best Easter poetry. The Art Books issued for Easter are, besides "The Lord is Risen" and "Come, Sunshine, Come," which met with such large sale last year, and are therefore retained, the following: "Easter Spires," a dainty little gem, containing a poem by Mrs. Annie D. Darling, with five full-page photo-gravures by L. K. Harlow, in illuminated cover; "A Garland of Songs," words and designs by Lisbeth B. Comins, with music adapted from works of well known composers, and fifteen full-page monotint illustrations, and "Not to Myself Alone," a poem, with six full-page etchings by L. K. Harlow and vignettes in pen-drawing by F. Schuyler Mathews.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have again made preparations to add some important volumes to their list during the advancing spring. Of educational interest will be "Studies in Primary Education," by Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi, dwelling particularly upon the place for the study of languages in a curriculum of education; and "The Nursery Lesson Book," by Philip G. Hubert, Jr., aiming to be a guide for mothers in giving their children progressive instruction in reading, writing, arithmetic, drawing, and singing. In description there will be "From Japan to Granada," by Rev. Dr. James Henry Chapin, in which the talented author of "Creation" and "Sketches of The Huguenots" gives sketches of observations and inquiry in a tour around the world in 1887-88; and "Manual of Oriental Antiquities," by Earnest Babylon, translated and enlarged by B. T. A. Evetts, describes the architecture, sculpture, and industrial arts of Chaldea, Assyria, Persia, Syria, Judea, Phœnicia, and Carthage, making its clear recital still more effective with 250 illustrations. The publishers have in press, as their own commemoration of the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of Washington, a unique limited edition of Irving's "Life of Washington," a work for which Bryant predicted "a deathless renown." The set will be issued in five volumes, printed in large quarto form, and will contain 200 illustrations, comprising 130 steel plates and 70 woodcuts printed on india paper and inlaid in the text. The plates include portraits of all the noteworthy generals and statesmen of the American Revolution. But 300 sets will be issued, and the type will be distributed as printed from. The second volume of "The Writings of George Washington," edited by Worthington C. Ford, will appear in April, and the remaining dozen volumes will follow at intervals of two months. Only 750 copies of each volume will be printed, and the type will be distributed after the appearance of each part. Also of historical value will be "The Winning of the West and Southwest, 1769-1783," by Theodore Roosevelt; "The Story of Boston," by Arthur Gilman, and the coming volumes in the Story of Nations, including "The Story of Phœnicia," by Prof. Geo. Rawlinson; "Story of the Crusades," by T. A. Archer, Oxford; "Story of Early Britain," by Prof. Alfred Church; and "Story of the Hanse Towns," by Helen Zimmern. "The Crusade of Richard I., 1187-1189," by T. A. Archer, is the coming title in the series of English History from Contemporary Writers, and in active preparation in the same series are, "The Troublesome Days of Richard II.," by Miss L. Toulmin Smith, and "Alfred and the Danes, 870-901," by F. York Powell. Of economic and political interest are "The Stock Exchanges of London, Paris, and New York," by George Routledge Gibson; "The Geography of Marriage," by William L. Snyder, a consideration of the legal complexities connected with marriage in the United States; "A Manual of Procedure for Deliberative Assemblies," by George G. Crocker, and "The Constitutional History of the United States," containing chapters by Thomas M. Cooley, Justice Marshall, Henry Hitchcock, D. H. Chamberlain, and other celebrities in American politics. Francis Valk has written "Errors of Refraction," and Hon. Wm. P. Letchworth, President of the New York Board of Charities, has written a book on "The Insane in Foreign Countries," giving notes of an examination of European methods of caring for the insane, and many illustrations which must interest specialists. Of religious interest will be "Christian Doctrine Harmonized and Its Absolute Rationality Vindicated," by John Steinfort Kedney. The pretty Knickerbocker Series will receive the addition of De Quincey's "Murder as a Fine Art," and Sydney Smith's "Wit and Wisdom." "A Memoir of John M. Wieting," by Mary E. Wieting, is also promised in a limited letter-press edition.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have published extensively during the past season and have made arrangements to keep up their activity. In books relating to railways, of which they make a specialty, there will be "Crull's Time and Speed Chart," intended for compiling railway time-tables, which will show time required to run any distance from one-tenth of a mile up to 150 miles at any given speed from one to ninety miles an hour. The first of a series of lessons by Charles G. Leland treating of "Drawing and Designing" will be entitled "Minor Arts and Industries," and have many illustrations; as will also a descriptive sporting volume called "Cruisings in the Cascades and other Hunting Adventures," by G. O. Shields (Coquina). Of different interest will be "The Salvation Army," in which Nora Marks tells the oft-told tale of its aims and methods. To their two libraries of fiction, The Rialto Series and The Globe Library, they propose many additions. Owing to the fear of being forestalled by competitors they thus far decline to have their plans for the latter made public, but in the former they mention "Mikanore," by Henry Greville, and "Merze, the Story of an Actress," by Marah Ellis, both of which are elaborately illustrated with photogravures.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. make a welcome announcement of a cheap 12mo edition of Stanley's "Historical Memorials of Westminster Abbey," and also promise an American edition of "The Thumb Bible," by John Taylor, the water poet. They have just brought out "Messages of the King's Daughters," by Annie Darling, and "The Testimony of Justin Martyr to Early Christianity," lectures delivered by George T. Purves at the Princeton Theological Seminary in 1888. To their Epochs of Church History they will add "Wyclif and Reform," by Reginald Lane Poole, and "Counter-Reformation," by Adolphus William Ward; to their Men of the Bible they will add "Elijah: His Life and Times," by Prof. W. Milligan; "Jeremiah," by Rev. Canon T. K. Cheyne; "Jesus Christ," by F. J. Vallings; "Daniel," by H. Deane, and "David," by William J. Deane, who has already written upon "Samuel" and "Saul;" to their valuable Pulpit Commentary will be added "Second Samuel" in the Old Testament division, and the first volume of "St. Luke" in the New Testament division; and "Galatians" will be added to The Biblical Illustrator, edited by the indefatigable Rev. J. S. Exell. The "Life of Samuel Wilberforce," by his son, Reginald Wilberforce, has been revised and will be reissued with additions almost immediately. A very interesting announcement is "The Imitation of Christ," which Dr. Hirsche, of Hamburg, has spent a quarter of a century studying and editing, and which has now been translated faithfully from the edition published from Thomas Kempis' own manuscript by the great German theologian. Among other discoveries made by Dr. Hirsche is that the world-famous author of the Imitation should not be called Thomas à Kempis, as that letter signifies nothing either in Latin or French; and also that the original Latin was in rhythmic form, which Dr. Hirsche has striven to reproduce by a system of punctuation rigidly adhered to throughout the four books. A short story in neat dress called "Thomas Hard, Priest," is a clever parody of "John Ward, Preacher," showing a sensible woman's way of attaining her end without sacrificing conscience, and by loving, wise knowledge of masculine nature. It is written by Barton Lee, who tells of the trials of a strict Anglican priest married to a woman of Congregational persuasions, who had both agreed that their baby should belong to the Episcopal Church, but compromised on their decision for a while, and rocked the infant in a Puritan cradle which the wife had turned into an article of bric-à-brac by painting it in her leisure hours. The consequences of the Puritan motion on the semi-Episcopal infantile brain leads to the dénouement.

FLEMING H. REVELL will get ready the "Missionary Year Book for 1889-90," of which the American edition is edited by Rev. J. T. Gracey, of Buffalo, and gives an excellent presentation of the work of American societies in pagan lands, and is strongly recommended as a companion volume to Rev. James Johnston's "Protestant Missions of the World," lately issued by the house. Among their many helpful books for Christian readers are "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life," "Fifty Years and Beyond; or, old age, and how to enjoy it," "The Way to Him," by John T. Dale; "The Sabbath: its performance, promise, and defence," and "Hymns, Old and New," edited by D. B. Townner. For deeper thinkers will be "What Are We to Believe?" by Rev. John Urquhart; "Bible Briefs, or, outline themes for Scripture students," by G. C. and E. A. Needham; and "Bible Helps for Busy Men," by A. C. P. Cooke, now in its fourth edition. Further information on various tracts and reports will be found in the classified list under Theology, Religion, etc.

ROBERTS BROS. are arranging to publish several important books during the coming season. Philip Gilbert Hamerton, author of "The Intellectual Life," has also written a series of scholarly essays on "Physical Education," "Ethical Religion," by William M. Salter, adds still another volume to the steadily increasing literature of its kind. The new volume in the Famous Women Series will be devoted to "Jane Austin." Mrs. Helen Campbell last year went abroad and made studies on the spot about the working people, which now appear in attractive book form, under the title of "Prisoners of Poverty Abroad," uniform with her "Prisoners of Poverty" published last April. Mrs. Campbell has this subject well in hand, and writes with head and heart to help her fellow-men. Edward Everett Hale has written a volume of "Sunday-School Stories for Infant Classes;" and his favorite stories "Ten Times One is Ten" and "In His Name" will be issued in paper editions at 25 cents. In fiction, as usual, the house announces generously and with discrimination. "Bureaucracy" and "Seraphita" are the next volumes to be added to the wonderfully translated and perfectly printed edition of Balzac's novels. The author of "The Colonel's Opera Cloak," Mrs. Christine Chaplin Brush, will issue a new story called "Inside the Gate," which is said to rival in interest her former work which made so great a success in the admirable No Name Series. "Chata and Chinita," by Louise Palmer Heaven, is the flowing name of a new Spanish-Mexican romance said to show much power. Mrs. M. O. W. Oliphant published "The Little Pilgrim" in the Fall of 1882. She now has ready a book called "The Little Pilgrim's Further Experiences," in which she continues her poetic thoughts upon the future life; and also a volume in the same vein called "Stories of the Seen and Unseen." Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton reappears in a book called "Miss Eyre from Boston, and Others;" and the house promises a new edition of Robert T. S. Lowell's perennially fresh romance of "The New Priest in Conception Bay," which has held its readers since it first appeared in 1859, as published by Messrs. E. P. Dutton & Co.

HAROLD ROORBACH, N. Y., has almost ready two or three new little pamphlets calculated to add to the fun at social gatherings. "The Japanese Wedding," issued a short time ago, gave clear descriptions of that ceremony in Japan, and details of a pantomime representation. The newest entertainments will consist of a series of "Evenings with Dickens." The first lets the company enjoy "An Evening with Copperfield," introducing all the well-known characters down to the wooden-legged gatekeeper, and affording wide scope to amateurs for intelligent and laughable exhibitions in churches, schools, literary or social clubs, and the home circle. The second gives "An Evening with Pickwick," and a summer boarding-house may be convulsed with it if the actors and readers make themselves firm in their parts.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS have published steadily through the year and have only three books ready for special Spring announcement. To their beautiful Daudet books they will add "The Recollections of a Man of Letters," with 89 illustrations from designs by Bieler, Montegut, Myrbach, and Rossi, engraved by Charles Guillaume. "Untrodden Peaks and Unfrequented Valleys," by Amelia B. Edwards, will be brought out uniform with "A Thousand Miles Up The Nile," and will be of special interest during the time the great Egyptian scholar is visiting this country. "Tales of the Seven Deadly Sins," by John Gower, will be volume 2 of the Carisbrooke Library, edited by Prof. Henry Morley, a continuation and development of the Universal Library.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' list of spring publications includes a number of books of unusual importance. Chief in the list is a new story by the author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett. The title is "The Pretty Sister of José" and the book will have twelve illustrations by C. S. Reinhart. Mrs. Burnett's last story is a striking illustration of her versatility, the scene of the romantic tale being laid in Madrid, and the principal characters being Spaniards of the humbler class. Pepita, "the pretty sister of José," as she is known among the gallants who flock around her, is an uncommonly interesting study of a country girl, who brings with her to the gay capital a stock of pride and wilfulness, an imperious temper, and dazzling beauty. For sixty years the "Memoirs of Napoleon Bonaparte," by Louis Antoine Fauvelet de Bourrienne, has been a standard authority to which every one has turned for a graphic, entertaining picture of the man as he appeared to his intimate friend and secretary. His "Memoirs" has heretofore been accessible only in the English editions. It is now proposed to publish immediately in a popular Library Edition, in four 12mo volumes, an exact reprint of the latest English edition. This American edition will contain the thirty-four portraits and other illustrations of the original, together with all the other features that give distinction to the work—the chronology of Napoleon's life, the prefaces to the several editions, the author's introduction, and the additional matter which supplements Bourrienne's work. A new edition of the famous Erckmann-Chatrian "National Novels," six in number, with illustrations, an introduction, descriptive prefaces, etc., is also announced. The publication of this new edition of the Erckmann-Chatrian "National Novels" comes at a time when French fiction as represented by Balzac, Hugo, Daudet, and others is attracting unusual attention in this country. The stories of M. Erckmann and M. Chatrian scarcely need a word of explanation, as their literary merits and their historical value have been fully appreciated both by the critics and the public. They present with simplicity, power, and truthfulness the great periods of French history from the point of view of the humbler sharers in these important events. Henry T. Finck, the author of "Romantic Love and Personal Beauty," has written a volume of essays on musical subjects entitled "Chopin, and Other Musical Essays," which this firm publishes. Mr. Finck's papers discuss such timely questions as German opera in New York and the difference between the German and Italian vocal styles, as well as Chopin, Schumann, and the philosophical relation between music and morals. The limited edition of Lester Wallack's "Memories of Fifty Years" is worthy of special mention. The introduction by Laurence Hutton gives a biographical review of the Wallack family, and particularly of Lester Wallack, whose career upon the stage is traced in considerable detail. The work is a beautiful specimen of book-making, the illustrations, in particular, being numerous and of the greatest interest. In the reproduction of these letters, etc., the colors of the paper and ink of the originals are imitated. Each of the portraits has a page to itself, the back of the page being left blank: a fact of especial interest to extra illustrators and to collectors of theatrical portraits, many of those in the volume being from extremely rare and valuable prints. At the end of the volume is a complete list of characters played by Mr. Wallack. In "French Traits: a study in comparative criticism," by W. C. Brownell, there is presented a subtle and at the same time an extremely entertaining analysis of French character and French society, the parallel of which is not to be found elsewhere. The method of criticism is comparative throughout, the social customs, intellectual habits, and moral standards of the French being brought into juxtaposition with those that prevail in America. The "Cyclopædia of Music and Musicians," edited by John Denison Champlin, Jr., with William F. Apthorp, of Boston, as critical editor, will consist of three quarto volumes, this edition being limited to 500 numbered sets for this country and 50 for England. The scope, plan, and arrangement of the work are similar to those which made the "Cyclopædia of Painters and Paintings" unique and of the greatest value for reference. Like its predecessor, it is to be comprehensive and authoritative, the hearty coöperation of distinguished musicians having contributed largely to this result. An important feature of the work will be the illustrations—hundreds of portraits, more than were ever before collected in any similar work, and including a large number never before printed, of musicians, with autographs, reproductions in fac-simile of famous scores, views of birth-places, etc., etc. The three volumes will have 30 full-page portraits of famous composers, etched especially for this edition, the first volume, now ready, containing Auber, Bach, Berlioz, Beethoven, Brahms, Bellini, Boieldieu, Cherubini, Chopin, Donizetti, Franz, and Gluck.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD announce several "books that are books." They will issue an edition in two volumes of the "Select Essays of Thomas De Quincey," edited and annotated by Prof. David Masson; volume 5 of "The Henry Irving Shakespeare," containing "All's Well that Ends Well," "Julius Cæsar," "Measure for Measure," "Troilus and Cressida," and "Macbeth;" and volume 2 of "A New Commentary on the Book of Genesis," by Prof. Franz Delitzsch, who for a generation has been one of the foremost biblical scholars of Germany. History will be represented by "Francis I. and His Times," translated from the French of Madame C. Colgnet by Fanny Twemlow; description by an edition in one volume of the two-volume "Cruise of the Marchesa to Kamschatka and New Guinea," by F. H. H. Guillemard, with notices of Formosa and Liuku, the Malay Islands, and various islands; a new edition of "Hayti, the Black Republic," by Sir Spencer St. John; "The Multum in Parvo Atlas of the World," by W. and A. K. Johnston, comprising 96 double-page maps, political, physical, etc., useful statistics, and complete index; and "Old Glasgow," by Andrew McGeorge, who tells of the place and the people from the Roman occupation to the eighteenth century, and whose words are made more vivid by excellent illustrations, topographical views, and fac-simile engravings. In light literature there will be a little book of "Operatic Tales," in which F. R. Chesney will tell the stories on which the favorite operas are founded, including "Lohengrin," "Carmen," "Faust," "The Prophet," "The Meistersinger," etc., and "The Dead Leman, and Other Tales from the French," translated by Andrew Lang and Paul Sylvester, including an introduction, the title story by Theophile Gautier, "How We Took the Redoubt," and "The Etruscan Vase," by Prosper Mérimée; "The Taper," by Leon Tolstoi; "These Lots to be Sold," by Edmond About; "A Conversion," by Th. Bentzon; and "The Doctor's Story," by Balzac; "Sartor Resartus," "In Vinculis," "The Loza Minstrel," by J. Ashley Sterry, and "Love Sonnets of Proteus," by W. S. Blunt, will be the next additions to the Ideal Series, and the Bohn's Libraries will also receive some additions. "Hozell's Annual Cyclopædia for 1889," edited by E. D. Price, brought down to the close of 1888, will also soon be ready.

W. J. SKEVEY (United Brethren Publishing House) will have ready "Christian Doctrine," a treatise on systematic and practical theology by various authors, edited by Bishop J. Weaver; "Songs of the Morning," a new book for Sunday-Schools, by Rev. I. Baltzell, and Rev. E. S. Lorenz, containing new hymns and new music; and new editions of "Getting Ready for a Revival," by E. S. Lorenz, who also compiles "The Gospel Worker's Treasury," a collection of hymn and revival anecdotes, texts, Scripture readings, etc., and "Missionary Songs." There will be a new edition also of the "Handbook for Workers," a manual of Bible texts arranged by Rev. M. R. Drury.

F. A. STOKES & BRO., besides their Easter novelties noticed early in the month, announce a jolly volume culled from the bright pages of Life and called "Fun from Life," under which name they will collect the spring installment of the best things of Life, and still continue to issue "The Good Things of Life," to be laughed at in Christmas reunions. An amusing satirical account of the adventures of a party of Persian explorers among the ruins of America, in the year 1967 A.D., has been written and illustrated by J. A. Mitchell, the editor of Life, and will be labelled "The Last American." It appears as "a fragment of the journal of Khan-II, Prince of Dimph-yoo-chur and Admiral in the Persian Navy." Their series of New Handy Volume Standards, thus far containing four volumes of Bulwer's historical romances, four volumes of Carlyle, two volumes of tales from Blackwood's Magazine, three volumes of Trevelyan, the "Select Writings of Macaulay," and "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches," have been put into spring costumes of half cloth with wine-colored vellum-cloth backs, with outer half-sides in gold and delicate buff, and also into even more attractive half-calf, with olive-colored "cocoa" sides and linings, and both styles show excellent materials and tasteful and expert workmanship.

E. & F. N. SPON will bring out some good technical works, full titles of which will be found in our classified list under the heading of Arts and Sciences.

TICKNOR & Co. announce several novels, all up to their usual high standard of literary value and engrossing interest. In March they add to their Paper Series "Forced Acquaintances," by Edith Robinson; and "Under Green Apple Boughs," by Helen Campbell; and in April they will issue Miss Tinker's "Two Coronets," Alice Brown's "Fools of Nature," and Julian Hawthorne's "Dust." A Portuguese novel by Eça de Queiros, has been translated by Mrs. Mary J. Serrano, under the title "Dragon's Teeth." It is said to be a story of sin and sorrow enlivened by touches of humor, and of great literary interest.

VAN ANTWERP, BRAGO & Co.'s announcements in their special line may be found in our classified list under Education, Language, etc.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. announce a new series of books to be called the Victoria Library. Its scope will include selected works in poetry and prose from classic literature, biographies, histories of important epochs, descriptions of places of note, and occasional volumes of choice fiction. The first volume, entitled "British Oratory," is made up of six famous speeches, Grat-tan on Irish Liberty, Pitt on Union, Peel on the Corn Laws, Bright on Reform, Jones on Democracy, and Gladstone on Parliamentary Oaths. The books of this series will be sixteenmo pocket size, bound neatly in red cloth. A new edition of Southey's "Life of Wesley," edited by Rev. J. A. Atkinson, will be added to their Cavendish Library, and "The Ingoldsby Legends" will be placed among the Albion Poets and also included in the Chandos Classics, bound in the Roxburgh and also in the Library styles. Alexander Dumas' "Paul Jones" is just ready, translated by Henry Llewellyn Williams; and Balzac's "Cousin Pons" has been translated by Philip Kent and will appear in the Continental Library; while a distinctly English work of fiction will be brought out in "For England's Sake," by Robert Cromie, which deals with Kabul and Kandahar and is dedicated to Sir Edwin Arnold.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & Co. this spring turn from their clientèle of literary customers to cater for a class whose appetite for books must be awakened by desire to possess a volume that will show them a new way to make palatable the world-old necessity of food. "The Table," by Alessandro Filippini, for twenty-four years with Delmonico, is more than a mere cook-book. It gives more receipts than any book of its kind and at the same time contains invaluable advice by an expert on how to buy what is best and most economical, how to set tables and serve meals. The book is adapted to all styles of living. It will be beautifully printed with wide margins and bound neatly in oil-cloth for the kitchen and in full seal Russia for the library.

WHITE & ALLEN have nearly ready an historical souvenir by Mrs. Martha J. Lamb, editor of the Magazine of American History, entitled "1789-1889, Centennial Anniversary of Washington's Inauguration." Mrs. Lamb has carefully prepared this brochure, giving a vivid picture of Washington's inauguration, a sketchy description of prominent incidents occurring during his occupancy of the chair, together with glimpses of historic homes and landmarks now extant. These articles will be issued in a style befitting the occasion, and will contain a series of illustrations consisting of upwards of 40 reproductions of portraits, buildings, landmarks, etc., of the olden times, together with an official programme of exercises, etc., to take place throughout the country, thus giving the publication a double value. They also announce a new story by L. T. Meade, entitled "Deb and the Duchess," with seven illustrations by M. Ellen Edwards. Miss Meade has won for herself many enthusiastic readers in this country, especially by her charming story, "Daddy's Boy," which went out of print in a short time, and of which a new edition will be ready at once. They are also preparing an edition for the Easter holidays of "Log Book Notes."

C. H. WHITING (Chicago Depository of the Presbyterian Board of Publication) will have ready during the spring a book of "Forms," compiled by Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, containing forms for the special occasions of baptism, the Lord's Supper, ordination, dedication, marriage and burial, and Scripture selections for the chamber of sickness, the service at funerals, and the house of mourning, a book which will be of great use to younger clergymen. It is of handy size,  $6\frac{1}{2} \times 4\frac{1}{2}$  inches, neatly and attractively bound in limp leather.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will add some important books to his list of valuable church literature. "The Chief Things," by Rev. A. W. Snyder, is a volume particularly well suited for public reading at week-day services; "Sermon Stuff," by Dr. S. D. McConnell, Rector of St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia, comprises fifty-five sketches and two complete sermons and is full of good thoughts; the second series of "Living Voices of Living Men" is composed of practical sermons intended for family and lay reading. "The Law of Liberty and Other Discourses," by James Morris Whitton, contains fresh sermons for hearers of average culture, and a new volume of twenty-two sermons by Frederick W. Farrar, the eloquent Archdeacon of Westminster Abbey, is nearly ready. Later in the season the house promises "Guide Marks by Church People," by Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, and "The Divine Liturgy," a devotional commentary on the Holy Eucharist, by Dr. H. M. Luckock.

JOHN WILEY & SONS make several important announcements, of which full titles will be found in the classified list in this number under the headings of Arts and Sciences, or else under Education, Language, etc.

E. & J. B. YOUNG announce several books which will be of use to clergymen and laymen interested in church doctrine and church work. Collectors of Bibles will be glad to hear that a new work is forthcoming on "Old Bibles," giving a popular history and description of Bibles from the time of the earliest English translation, by J. R. Dore, with numerous illustrations, facsimiles of title-pages, etc. A volume of sermons preached by Knox-Little will be entitled "Light of Life" and will be of great interest to those who had the pleasure of hearing the great English preacher during his recent visit to America; "The Counsels of the Divine Master" is a work in two volumes by Dean E. M. Goulburn, of Norwich, England; "The Infallibility of the Church," by George Salmon, contains a course of lectures delivered at the University of Dublin; a "Manual of Parochial Work" has been prepared for the use of the younger clergy by various authors; and the successful choirmaster of St. James' Church, New York City, Mr. G. Edward Stubbs, has prepared "Practical Hints on Choir-Boy Training," giving the methods by which he has produced such good results. "A Harmony of the Gospel Narratives of Holy Week" will be ready before that season, and a volume on "The History and Teachings of the Early Church," by several leading clergymen, as a basis for the reunion of Christendom, is composed of lectures delivered under the auspices of the Church Club in Christ Church, New York City. In secular literature there will be "Marriage and Divorce," by Rev. B. Franklin, D.D.; the first volume of a "New Series of Reports on State Trials," edited by Mr. John Macdonell, who has had access to documents in the possession of Government Departments in England, Ireland, and Scotland; and a "Star Atlas," containing maps of all the stars between the North Pole and the South declination, with explanatory text by Dr. Hermann J. Klein, translated and adapted for English readers by Edmund McClure.

BUSINESS NOTES.

We learn that Mr. A. B. M'Glashen has been taken into partnership by the firm of Adam & Charles Black, of Edinburgh, the well-known publishers of the Encyclopædia Britannica. Mr. M'Glashen has for many years acted as representative of the firm, and in that capacity is well known in publishing circles in this country.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER, who has been for a number of years the "postmistress" of Harper's Young People, and who has a wide reputation as a writer of graceful verse, has succeeded to the editorship of Harper's Bazar, left vacant by the death of Miss Mary L. Booth.

THE Forum for April will contain a reply by Prof. Geo. P. Fisher, of Yale University, to Cardinal Manning's criticism of the public school system. Prof. Fisher defends religious liberty and public education against the Roman Catholic attack. In the same number Guillaume C. Tener, a French journalist, will explain the rise of Boulanger "by a horse and a song," and give an inside view of French politics and parties.

S. BING, the Paris expert, assisted by several of the best English authorities in Japanese art, conducts Artistic Japan, a sumptuous monthly journal full of valuable resources for technical designers, book illustrators, architects, decorators, manufacturers of papers, printers, weavers, potters, bronze-workers, etc. He has now arranged for an American edition which will contain precisely the same engraved and colored plates which are printed by the artist Mr. Charles Gillot in Paris under the personal supervision of Mr. S. Bing. It is proposed also to invite the kind collaboration of the literati and experts in America as the work progresses. Besides being of practical value, the work will constitute a graphic encyclopædia for the use of all students of Japanese art who are desirous of tracing the course of its development.

ALWAYS ORDER BY NUMBER.—Customer (in book-store)—Have you Victor Hugo's "'93," in this paper-covered series? Clerk (looking over the shelves)—Yes, sir; we have No. 93, but it's not Victor Hugo's; it's one of Miss Gushing-ton's novels.—Life.

HOPES FOR BOSTON.—Boston Book Dealer—Yes, madam, there seems to be a sudden and enormous demand for the works of Mr. Lowell and Dr. Holmes. Madam.—To what do you attribute the increase? Book Dealer—Well, I think the downfall of Mr. Sullivan has had something to do with it.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusion of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

A FEW SPRING ANNOUNCEMENTS

Charles Scribner's Sons,

743 and 745 Broadway, New York.

A NEW STORY BY MRS. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

THE PRETTY SISTER OF JOSÉ.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT. Illustrated by C. S. REINHART.
12mo, $1.00.

A beautiful Spanish girl and one of the most popular bull-fighters in Spain are the two principal characters of this delightful tale of love and romance. The story is very sweet and tender in feeling, intensely dramatic in development, and is told with that winning simplicity that makes everything from the pen of Mrs. Burnett so full of charm and fascination. The book is copiously illustrated, and is certain to take rank with the author's most popular works.

LESTER WALLACK'S MEMORIES OF FIFTY YEARS.

By LESTER WALLACK. With an introduction by LAURENCE HUTTON. With numerous portraits, views, fac-simile reproductions, etc. Limited edition. Small 4to, $10 00. net.

The rapidity with which the larger portion of this important work was subscribed for before publication indicates that numbers of this limited edition of 500 copies will become more valuable with each year. The reception of the book both from the press and the public has been cordial and fully appreciative of its merits as a beautiful and valuable specimen of bookmaking. Descriptive circulars sent free. Early subscriptions for balance of edition are advised.

"The delightful chat about the old times and the old favorites is brightened by portraits of the most distinguished among them."—Boston Herald.

"Full of genial and kindly reminiscences of the great lights of the stage, and brightened by many amusing anecdotes."—Albany Argus.

CHOPIN AND OTHER MUSICAL ESSAYS.

By HENRY T. FINCK, author of "Romantic Love and Personal Beauty." 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Finck's papers on musical subjects cover a broad field in an entertaining, instructive, and popular manner. They discuss such timely questions as German Opera in New York, and the difference between the German and Italian vocal styles, as well as Chopin, Schumann, and the philosophical relation between music and morals. The author is thoroughly familiar with the literature of his subject and his individuality is impressed upon every page.

VOLUME II. OF DR. VINCENT'S GREAT WORK,

WORD STUDIES IN THE NEW TESTAMENT.

By MARVIN R. VINCENT, D.D. Vol. II. The Writings of John—The Gospel, the Epistles, the Apocalypse. 8vo, $4.00.

The high respect commanded by the first volume of this notable work will be more than sustained by the second volume. The author retains his remarkably clear and concise style of treatment all through this volume, and completes a work which must rank with one of the most useful and important theological books of the time.

"It cannot fail to be of great use to Biblical students."—New York Sun.

"It is a true study of words, designed to aid the careful student in gaining the richness and fulness of the divine thoughts."—New York Observer.

"His work will occupy a position almost unique in its importance to Biblical study."—Phila. Presbyterian.

Vol. I.—Synoptic Gospels, Acts of Apostles, and Epistles of Peter, James, and Jude. $4.00.

Charles Scribner's Sons' Partial Spring Announcements.—Continued.

AN AMERICAN EDITION OF BOURRIENNE'S FAMOUS MEMOIRS OF NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

By LOUIS ANTOINE FAUVELET DE BOURRIENNE, his Private Secretary. Edited by Col. R. W. Phipps. New and revised edition, with 34 full-page portraits and other illustrations. The set, 4 vols., 12mo, in a box, $5.00.

For sixty years Bourrienne's "Memoirs of Napoleon" has been a standard authority to which every one has turned for a graphic, entertaining picture of the man as he appeared to his intimate friend and Secretary. This American edition contains the thirty-four portraits and other illustrations of the original, together with all the other features that give distinction to the work—the chronology of Napoleon's life, the prefaces to the several editions, the author's introduction and the additional matter which supplements Bourrienne's work, an account of the important events of the Hundred Days of Napoleon's surrender to the English and of his residence and death at St. Helena, with anecdotes and illustrative extracts from contemporary Memoirs.

"The only authentic Memoirs of Napoleon which have yet appeared."—PRINCE METTERNICH.

THE ERCKMANN-CHATRIAN NATIONAL NOVELS.

Six volumes, with Illustrations, an Introduction, Prefaces, etc. 6 vols., 12mo, each $1.25; the set in a box, $7.50.

The publication of a new edition of the Erckmann-Chatrian "National Novels," comes at a time when French fiction, as represented by Balzac, Hugo, Daudet, and others, is attracting unusual attention in this country. The stories of M. Erckmann and M. Chatrian scarcely need a word of explanation, as their literary merits and their historical value have been fully appreciated both by the critics and the public.

"These are among the few French novels that do not leave (as Charlotte Brontë said) a bad taste in one's mouth."—COL. THOS. WENTWORTH HIGGINSON.

MADAME THÉRÈSE; or, the Volunteers of '92.

THE CONSCRIPT: A Story of the French War of 1813.

THE BLOCKADE OF PHALSBURG: An Episode of the End of the Empire.

THE INVASION OF FRANCE IN 1814: Comprising the Night March of the Russian Army past Phalsburg.

WATERLOO: A Sequel to the Conscript of 1813.
THE PLEBISCITE; or, a Miller's Story of the War of 1870-71.

SPRING BOOKS.

ALAN THORNE. By MARTHA LIVINGSTON MOODEY. 12mo, $1.25.

"Alan Thorne" is a book of striking originality and power. Robert Thorne, a confirmed infidel, determines to bring up his only son, Alan, in complete ignorance of God, immortality, and the Christian Church, hoping thereby to prove that "a highly cultured being, whose intellectual and moral nature are highly developed, will result in a more perfect character than one reared in the nurture of the Christian faith." Of course he fails miserably in this rash experiment. In spite of all his precautions, the sensitive boy-soul finds out God and learns to rejoice in the hope of immortality. Fearlessly and ably the story faces the same burning questions as does "Robert Elsmere," but with far different results.

Every one should read it who is candid enough to listen to the evidence on both sides.

ACROSS LOTS. By HORACE LUNT. 12mo $1.25.

Horace Lunt possesses the same loving knowledge and the same delicacy of touch as Thoreau and Burroughs, while he imitates neither. Such chapter titles as "A March Ramble," "Wood-Notes and Nest Hunting," "Field Notes in Seed-Time," "Crosscut Views of Winter," just hint at the contents of the book. Only the book itself can give an idea of its peculiar charm.

GLIMPSES OF GREAT FIELDS.

By Rev. J. A. HALL. 12mo, $1.25.

A very concise and complete summary of the results of scientific research on the questions, What is force, mind, life? The thought throughout is original and important, and will be followed with unusual attention.

TOM'S STREET. By Mrs. S. R. GRAHAM CLARKE. 12mo, $1.50.

Admirers of the "Yensie Walton Books" will be pleased to hear that Mrs. Clarke has written a new book, fully up to the standard of her former successful efforts. Tom Young is the hero, a manly young fellow, full of enthusiasm in work for others. It is a story of "beginnings that have no endings," of persistent sowing of the seed upon all kinds of soil. The harvest was a glorious one.

FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS, and How They Grew. By MARGARET SIDNEY. New edition, illustrated, quarto, illuminated board covers, only 25 cents. Regular edition, cloth, $1.50.

The best, the breeziest, the brightest story of childhood's real humanity yet written. No home should be without it.

VAGABOND TALES. By HJALMAR HJORTH BOYSEN. 12mo, $1.25.

Prof. Boyesen's "Vagabond Tales" is a most engaging collection of this popular story-teller's recent "novellettes." There is a breeziness, a vigor, and a manliness about his characters that captivate the reader at once and combine dramatic force with literary skill. Some of these stories have already been translated into French, German, and Spanish.

THE LITTLE RED SHOP. By MARGARET SIDNEY. 12mo, $1.00.

The Little Red Shop was the establishment—Miss Peaseley said "establishment"—of Brimmer Brothers & Company, dealers in "apples, potatoes, family provisions, and—butter and doughnuts." At least that's the way it began. The object of the "establishment" was to earn money for Mammy and baby Roly Poly. How it did that and much more is told in this delightful story, brimful of racy New England life and child-life, Margaret Sidney's specialties.

A SEVENFOLD TROUBLE. By PANSY. 12mo, $1.50. (In press.)

"We are Seven" is the confession of the preface—Pansy, Grace, Parante, Mrs. C. M. L., Faye Huntington, C. M. L., G. R. A. But the unity of plot and characters is so well sustained from cover to cover that it is hard to believe in the joint authorship. It is an unhappy, even turbulent home to which we are introduced—misunderstood children and an unappreciated stepmother—and at the particular moment that the story opens it is in a perfect uproar. In time, however, true friends are found and kindly religious influences invade, touching at first but a single heart, then widely diffusing. Like all the Pansy books, it guides to higher living.

THE STORY OF VERMONT. By JOHN L. HEATON. 8vo, $1.50. (In press.)

A stirring and practical presentation of the early struggles, the rise, and the development of the Green Mountain State. Thorough, careful, and every way entertaining, the volume is one that every resident of Vermont and every person who can trace his ancestry to that sturdy mountain commonwealth will be glad to possess. The only history of Vermont published in forty years.

JOURNEYINGS IN ALASKA. By E. RUHAMAH SCIDMORE. New edition, paper covers, 50 cents.

The most graphic and accurate account of the resources and possibilities of Alaska that has ever been given. It gives one an immediate desire to start on an exploring tour.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Life and Letters of William Fleming Stevenson, Minister of Christ Church, Rathgar, Dublin. By his Wife. With portrait. 8vo, cloth, $1.75.

NEW SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOOKS.

"At the Hollies;" or, Staying with Auntie. By E. TABOR STEPHENSON, author of "When I Was a Little Girl," etc. 18mo, cloth extra, 60 cents.

A tale for the young, full of instruction, and written in a picturesque style.

Aunt Judith. The Story of a Loving Life. By GRACE BEAUMONT. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.00.

A simple and touching story of the blessed influence exerted by a Christ-like life (Aunt Judith's) on all who came in contact with it. Especially is this the case with one of the characters—a wayward girl, who, by a serious accident, becomes a life-long invalid, and who is taught where to find the strength and grace to enable her to live through the long, long years of suffering.

Children's Champion (The), and the Victories He Won. Pictures from the life of "The Good Earl," Lord Shaftesbury. By Miss Lucy TAYLOR. 12mo, cloth extra, 80 cents.

A simple and touching account of the life and work of one who nobly strove to fulfil the law of Christ, "Bear ye one another's burdens." It is admirably fitted to arouse the interest and enlist the sympathy of the young, and to fire them with a holy ambition to follow the example of one who was a real and not simply an ideal hero.

Dulcie and Tottie; or, The Story of an Old-Fashioned Pair. By EVELYN EVERETT-GREEN, author of "Fighting the Good Fight," "Temple's Trial," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.00.

A sequel to "Dulcie's Little Brother." An interesting tale, written in the simple, natural style and pervaded by the high Christian spirit common to the author's works.

Eagle and Dove. A Tale of the Franco-Prussian War. Founded on Fact. By M. E. CLEMENTS, author of "The Story of the Beacon-Fire," "Sheltering Arms," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, 80 cents.

A capital story, giving the experiences of an English girl in a French school at Metz during the war; and the description of the siege and surrender of the city provides an instructive accompaniment for the interest of the story.

For Her Sake. A Tale of Life in Ireland. By GORDON ROY. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.50.

A powerful picture of life in Ireland to-day. The characters and incidents are described in a remarkably forcible and happy way; while the story itself cannot fail to fascinate the reader and lure him on from beginning to end. It is written in a terse and vigorous style, and is altogether a story of the first order.

Lionel Harcourt, the Estonian; or, "Like Other Fellows." By G. E. WYATT, author of "Archie Digby," "Harry Bertram," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25.

A cleverly-written story, and one that can hardly fail to impress the minds of all youths into whose hands it may fall. So vigorous and buoyant is the style, so real and life-like are the characters and incidents, that from beginning to end the interest never flags.

Golden Wool (The). A Story of Two Girls' Lives. By Mrs. ISLA STUWELL. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25. Shows how noble deeds in the every-day duties that lie at our hands make a golden wool of life.

Harold's Bride. A Story of Life in India. By A. L. O. E. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.00.

An interesting story, written in the author's characteristic style, and affording instructive glimpses of the hardships and dangers of missionary life in the rural districts of India.

In Palace and Faubourg. A Story of the French Revolution. By C. J. G., author of "Good Fight of Faith," "Ruth Dernen," etc. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.50.

The contrasts of characters and incidents presented in this book are very striking; while there is a peculiar charm about the narrative that cannot fail to captivate the reader.

Little Miss Wardlaw. By LOUISA M. GRAY, author of "Nelly's Teachers," "Ada and Gerty," "Dunilton," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25. Well written and deeply interesting. Shows the beauty of an unselfish and unworldly life.

Molly's Heroine. By "FLEUR DE LYS," author of "The Young Huguenots," "A Strange Journey," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25.

"A safe book for the home circle, pure in style and tone, and character-building in its influence."—Journal of Education.

Nellie O'Neil; or, Our Summer Time. By AGNES C. MAITLAND. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.00.

"A safe book for the home circle, pure in style and tone, and character-building in its influence."—Journal of Education.

Pincherton Farm. By E. A. B. D., author of "Young Ishmael Conway," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25.

A story showing the elevating influence of a simple trust in God.

Saved by Love. A Story of London Streets. By EMMA LESLIE. 18mo, cloth extra, 50 cents.

This is a story of two little destitute girls alone in London; to whom, as to very many in their condition, the alternative presented itself—steal or starve. As a narrative of their many trials and their ultimate triumph, it contains much to encourage every worker in the Lord's vineyard who is animated by that "faith which worketh by love."

Vera's Trust. A Tale. By EVELYN EVERETT-GREEN, author of "Fighting the Good Fight," "Winning the Victory," etc. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25.

An intensely interesting book from beginning to end. It will captivate all readers.

Village Missionaries; or, To Every One His Work. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.00.

Hours with Living Men and Women of the Revolution.

A PILGRIMAGE. By BENSON J. LOSSING, LL. D. This is the latest work from the pen of Mr. Lossing, the celebrated historian, and is one of his most quaintly dramatic productions. Square 12mo, cloth, elegantly bound, illustrated with fac-similes of pen-and-ink drawings, $2.00, postage free.

In gathering material for his published works the historian—who, by the way, was born just 14 years after Washington died, and is still hale and hearty—"travelled 9000 miles in the thirteen original States and in Canada to all dwellings of living men and women who were actors in the stirring events of the long past, to hear from their lips the story of their experience and recollections in the birth-time of our Republic." But there remained much that is of great interest that could not find room in his hitherto published works. This is given in "Hours with Living Men and Women of the Revolution." The narratives, incidents, and developments of his pilgrimage read like a romance, are full of stirring patriotism, and inspire the reader with a loyal enthusiasm.

Wall Street in History.

Apocopes of the forthcoming patriotic celebration of the Centennial of Washington's Inauguration, Wall Street in history forms an eventful, highly interesting, and important narrative in our national history. We publish this under the title, "Wall Street in History," written by Mrs. MARTHA J. LAMB, author of "The History of New York," etc.

The first chapter covers the century of settlement and savage warfare, inclusive of the period when New York, for nearly fifty years, was actually a walled city. The second chapter is devoted to the vicissitudes of Wall Street in the exciting times of the Revolution, and to its history as the seat of fashion and the State government, and also as the seat of the National government for six eventful years, with President Washington a familiar figure in his chariot drawn by six horses. One chapter treats of the financial institutions which have made the street famous throughout the civilized world. The book is brimful of interest. About 50 excellent and accurate engravings illustrating the text add particularly to its historical value. The book is elegantly bound in cloth, with unique and heavy designs in gold. It is an acquisition for any library, for the centre-table, or for a gift-book. $2.00, postage free.

COMPILED AND WRITTEN BY THE REV. A. R. FAUSSET, M.A.

Illustrated by 600 Woodcuts. 1 Vol., Royal Octavo, Cloth, 750 pp., $5.00.

CRITICAL. EXPOSITORY.

The aim of the work is to put within the reach of all Bible students, learned and unlearned alike, the fruits of modern criticism and research, and at the same time to set forth briefly and suggestively those doctrinal and experimental truths which the written Word contains. Many subjects which most of the Bible dictionaries omit, and which are of deep interest, are handled. All pains have been taken to secure accuracy, and to put the earnest student in possession of the most trustworthy information on debated points.

"More nearly realizes our ideal of a Bible dictionary for all classes than anything that has ever come under our observation."—Lutheran and Missionary.

"A storehouse of Scriptural information in a most compact and accessible form."—Messenger.

"We recommend it with confidence as a volume for the family library and as an aid in the study of the Bible."

PUBLISH THIS WEEK:

The History of Ancient Civilization.

A Handbook based upon M. Gustave Ducoudray's "Histoire Sommaire de la Civilisation."
Edited by the Rev. J. VERSCHOYLE, M.A. With illustrations. Large 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

Ducoudray's "Histoire Sommaire de la Civilisation" is a recent French work that has been highly commended by European critics. An English version of the work has been prepared in two parts, one entitled "The History of Ancient Civilization," the other, "The History of Modern Civilization." The first part is now ready, as above; the second part will follow shortly. The work has been not merely translated, but edited, revised, and extended.

This edition is an exact reproduction of the expensive latest English edition, containing all the Notes, Portraits, Medallions, Maps, etc.

Attention is called to the fact that all the Portraits in this edition have been engraved on wood at great expense and will be found, on comparison with those reproduced by "Process," to be much superior.

A full and accurate Index, which is indispensable to a work of this kind, is also a special feature of this edition and will be of great convenience to all readers.

Bourrienne was Napoleon's friend at the School of Brienne; he afterwards became his confidential secretary and adviser, and their intimacy lasted through the most brilliant part of Napoleon's career. He had a prodigious memory, and he used his opportunities for collecting documentary evidence of what he writes. Prince Metternich said: "If you want something to read both interesting and amusing, get the Mémoires de Bourrienne. These are the only authentic memoirs of Napoleon which have as yet appeared." And it has been well said by one of his editors: "No one can read his memoirs without being convinced of the truth of the narrative, or fail afterwards in forming a perfect estimate of the personal character of Napoleon. The only work in our language which bears any comparison with the present in its graphic delineation of character is 'Boswell's Life of Johnson.'"

A NOVEL BY MR. FROUDE.

The Two Chiefs of Dunboy.

An Irish Romance of the Last Century. By JAMES ANTHONY FROUDE. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Froude is as fascinating in romance as in history. His novel has all the absorbing adventurous interest of a story by Scott. It is crowded with dramatic incident, and its portrayal of the fierce passions and picturesque characters of the Ireland of the Eighteenth Century is as powerful as it is vivid. The style has all Mr. Froude's accustomed brilliance and charm, and the historical significance of the book, added to its rare qualities as fiction, make it a masterpiece of the first rank.

The Erckmann-Chatrion National Novels.

A New Edition of Six Volumes, with Illustrations, an Introduction, Prefaces, etc., etc. 12mo, each, $1.25; the set in a box, $7.50.

"These are among the few French novels that do not leave (as Charlotte Brontë said) a bad taste in one's mouth."—COL. THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON.

The publication of a new edition of the Erckmann-Chatrion "National Novels," comes at a time when French fiction as represented by Balzac, Hugo, Daudet, and others is attracting unusual attention in this country. The stories of M. Erckmann and M. Chatrion scarcely need a word of explanation, as their literary merits and their historical value have been fully appreciated both by the critics and the public.

A NEW EDITION FOR 1889.

The Index Guide

To Travel and Art Study in Europe. By LAFAYETTE C. LOOMIS, A.M. With plans and catalogues of the chief art galleries, maps, tables of routes, and 160 illustrations. 16mo, leather, revised edition for 1889, $3.00.

The scores of illustrations—portraits and reproductions of the masterpieces of painting and sculpture, etc., in the European galleries—are a leading feature of this popular work, the new and revised edition of which for 1889 is now ready.

"The value of the guide is incontestable. It would be worth purchasing if only for the abundant maps of cities, plans of galleries, and charts of railway and river routes, to say nothing of the art illustrations."—N. Y. EVENING POST.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MACMILLAN & Co. have just ready F. Marion Crawford's latest novel, "Greifenstein," the scene of which is laid in South Germany, principally in the Black Forest. Some charming bits of German University life are given.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish at once Bourrienne's "Memoirs of Napoleon Bonaparte," edited by Col. R. W. Phipps of the Royal Artillery. The edition is in four volumes and is a reproduction of the latest English edition, containing all the notes, portraits, medallions, maps, etc., with the addition of several fac-simile autographs, and a full index. They will publish shortly "A Popular History of the French Revolution," by Mrs. Lydia Hoyt Farmer, which is based on the latest French and English authorities.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The History of Ancient Civilization," a handbook based upon M. Gustave Ducoudray's "Histoire Sommaire de la Civilization," a recent French work that has been highly commended by European critics, edited, revised, and extended by Rem. J. Verschoyle. The second part of the work, treating of modern civilization, will appear shortly. They have also just ready "The Ladies' Gallery," by Justin McCarthy and Mrs. Campbell-Praed, in their Town and Country Library. On May 1 they will issue Maxwell Grey's new novel, "The Reproach of Annesley."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready J. A. Froude's new historical novel, entitled "The Two Chiefs of Dunboy," of which the time is in the middle of the last century, and many of the characters are Irish exiles who have taken refuge and afterwards acquired influence in France, which they use against England. Besides being issued in cloth this novel will also form a number in the Yellow Cover Paper Novels. The powerful and truthful "National Novels," by Erckmann-Chatrian, six in number, are also ready with introductions, descriptive prefaces, and many illustrations. Loomis' "Index Guide to Europe" is once more revised to date, and ready for summer tourists.

HARPER & BROS. have just ready "Further Reminiscences," a second volume of "My Autobiography and Reminiscences," by W. P. Frith, the distinguished Royal Academician. The interest of the new volume upholds the reputation gained by the first. One chapter contains letters and recollections of Charles Dickens; another recalls Sir Edwin Landseer; still another, devoted to Mrs. Maxwell, whom novel-readers perhaps know better as Miss M. E. Braddon, tells, among other things, about the plan she proposed to Mr. Frith for a pictorial dramatic series on the lines of Hogarth, and how the artist shrank from the painfulness of the "terrible tragedy" which she outlined. Du Maurier and John Tenniel, the famous Punch artists, figure in a chapter on "Book Illustrators," and a host of other familiar names appear elsewhere, such as Robert Browning, John Ruskin, Thomas Hardy, Mrs. Lynn Linton, F. Anstey, and Anthony Trollope. They have also just ready the third edition, revised and enlarged, of C. K. Adams' "Manual of Historical Literature;" "The Mouse-Trap and Other Farces," by W. D. Howells, including among the other farces, "The Garroters," "Five O'clock Tea," and "A Likely Story," all of which, as well as "The Mouse-Trap," C. S. Reinhart has illustrated. Another book just ready is "The Tramp at Home" (illustrated), by Lee Meriwether, special agent of the Bureau of Labor Statistics at Washington, and author of "A Tramp Trip." The book contains an account of the incidents, amusing and otherwise, which befell him in the course of his study into the condition of the American working classes. Adventure, novel experience, and humorous episode are combined with original and striking testimony bearing upon social problems in the United States.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A. Augustus; B. Benjamin; C. Charles; D. David; E. Edward; F. Frederic; G. George; H. Henry; I. Isaac; J. John; L. Louis; N. Nicholas; P. Peter; R. Richard; S. Samuel; T. Thomas; W. William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 30 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (32mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., 11r., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adams, Rob. C. Pioneer pith: the gist of lectures on rationalism. N. Y., The Truth Seeker Co., [1889.] c. 99 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Allen, Grant. Force and energy: a theory of dynamics. N. Y., The Humboldt Pub. Co., [1889.] 55 p. O. (The Humboldt lib., no. 106.) pap., 15 c.

*Bernheim, H. Suggestive therapeutics: a study of the nature and use of hypnotism; tr. by Dr. Christian A. Herter. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. O. cl., $3.50.

Black, W. Nelson. Ultimate finance: a true theory of wealth. Pt. 2. N. Y., The Humboldt Pub. Co., [1889.] c. 55 p. O. (The Humboldt lib., no. 107.) pap., 15 c.

This is part second of an economic work begun in the September number of the "Humboldt Library." The first two chapters treat of the origin of property and the evolution of wealth, the third and fourth discuss the principles and possibilities of banking and insurance, and the fifth, sixth, and seventh are devoted to a correction of the many misconceptions that abound on the nature of accumulation and the administration of property. But the main purpose is an exposition of the theory of bonded insurance.

*Boardman, G. Dana. University lectures on the ten commandments. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1889. 378 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Bourrienne, L. Antoine Fauvelet de. Memoirs of Napoleon Bonaparte, by his private secretary; ed. by R. W. Phipps. New rev. ed., with il. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. 4 v., 53+422; 15+440; 16+452; 8+444 p., il. and map, D. cl., $5.

The first Amer. ed. of a work that has for sixty years been a standard authority on Napoleon. It contains the thirty-four portraits and other illustrations of the original edition, together with the other features that give distinction to the work—the chronology of Napoleon's life, the prefaces to the several editions, the author's introduction, and the additional matter which supplements Bourrienne's work, an account of the important events of the hundred days, of Napoleon's surrender to the English, and of his residence and death at St. Helena, with anecdotes and illustrative extracts from contemporary memoirs. The edition is an excellent one in every particular of paper, print, and binding.

Braeme, Charlotte M., ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] A heart's idol. N. Y., G. Munro, [1889.] 225 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1171.) pap., 20 c.

Carter, Nick. A Wall street haul; or, a bold stroke for a fortune. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1889.] c. 230 p. D. (The secret service ser., no. 18.) pap., 25 c.

*Cayley, Arthur. The collected mathematical papers. V. 1. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 16+589 p. Q. cl., for set, net, $7.50.

Chamberlain, Rev. N. H. The sphinx in Aubrey Parish: a novel. Bos., Cupples & Hurd, 1889. c. 481 p. 1 il. D. (The Algonquin Press lib.) cl., $1.50.

The author's former story "The autobiography of a New England farmhouse" was received with great favor. This is a story of the Anglican Church. The scene shifts between England, Strasburg, and Paris. The book is liberal, although it seeks to attract people to the English Church. Two quite dissimilar love-stories run through the plot. The rector of "St. Clements" is introduced preaching his first sermon on Easter Day, and for ten years he is seen doing faithful work for others until in the end he gains what he had counted lost to him.

A companion volume to Daudet's "Thirty years of Paris and of my literary life." Like that it is a collection of reminiscences, pen portraits of great men, and autobiographical sketches. "The story of my books" is continued, telling how and when "Nana Roumestan" and "Les rois en exil" were written. Among the pen-portraits are those of Emile Ollivier and Gambetta. Under "Theatrical characters" are sketches of Déjazet, Lesueur, Félix, Mme. Arnould-Plessy, Adolphe Dupuis, and Lafontaine. Some "Notes on Paris" and "In the provinces" complete a charming work. In appearance it is uniform with the previous volumes of Daudet, being enriched with many graceful vignettes and text pictures.

*Delamotte, Philip H. A progressive drawing book for beginners. 3d ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 10+122 p. S. cl., 90 c.

*Dixon, B. Homer. Homer genealogy; brief account of the family of Homer or de Homere of Ettingshall, Co. Stafford, England, and Boston, Mass.; the ancestors and descendants of Captain John Homer, who came to Boston.

- Ker, J.: D.D. Lectures on the history of preaching; ed. by Rev. A. R. Macewen; introduction by Rev. W: M. Taylor. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1889. 14+407 p. O. cl., $1.50.
The late Dr. Ker stood in the front rank of the preachers both of his country and his age. For some years before his death a nervous break-down in health incapacitated him for regular pulpit work. But at the reorganization of the Theological Seminary of the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, he consented to attempt the performance of the duties of the chair of practical training for the ministry, and these he continued to perform till his sudden death in 1886. The lectures in this volume represent his work at that period. The ground they cover is the course of preaching in the Protestant church, with notices of the most remarkable and successful preachers. The first eight lectures deal with the general history of the church prior to the Reformation, while lectures 9 to 21 are occupied exclusively with the history of German Protestantism.

- Lady Bluebeard: a novel; by the author of "Zit and Xoe." N. Y., Harper, 1889. 320 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 642.) pap., 10 c.
The Orient forms a brilliant background to this odd novel. The heroine is an eccentric and beautiful woman, born in India, but of English extraction. She is reputed to have an enormous fortune, and spends most of her time travelling with her maid. On her way to Europe she meets Hector Hicks, a young artist, on his way to India. She at once forms a great liking for him, and changes her plans, returning with him to India. The pair, of course, fall in love with each other and have a long and exciting courtship. The mystery which envelops Mrs. Fonblanque ("Lady Bluebeard") is cleverly sustained to the end. The conversations are very amusing, and the descriptions of Eastern life most vivid.

Lang, Andrew. The mark of Cain. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 114 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1395.) pap., 10 c.

First published in 1883 by the J. W. Lovell Co., as "Divorce," without any sub-title. In 1888 it was read by Mr. Gladstone, and at his suggestion it was republished in England by Macmillan & Co., being issued in Jan., 1889, under the title "Faithful and unfaithful." See notice of first edition in "Weekly Record," P. W., Jan. 6, '83, [572.]

*Letchworth, W. P. The insane in foreign countries: notes of an examination of European methods of caring for the insane. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. il. O. cl., $3.

Living voices of living men: practical sermons by bishops and clergy of the church: intended for family and lay reading. [2d series.] N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. 6+339 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Prepared upon the same general principle as the first volume, noticed in P. W., Oct. 29, 1887. The sermons are upon practical subjects; in topic and treatment they present an agreeable variety, and there will be found harmony in their diversity. They are twenty-nine in number, and by as many different divines.

Lossing, Benson J. Hours with the living men and women of the revolution: a pilgrimage; il. by fac-similes of pen-and-ink drawings by H. Rosa. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls, 1889. c. '88. 8+239 p. il. D. cl., $2.

As early as 1848 Dr. Lossing conceived the idea of making an extensive pilgrimage, for the purpose of visiting places of historic interest and conversing with living witnesses of the old revolutionary scenes, before their rapidly diminishing numbers were all swept away by the steady march of time. The facts and reminiscences collected on that extended journey—with eyes and ears wide open and an artistic pencil in hand—supplied excellent and ample material for two books. One, "Pictorial field-book of the Revolution," was published years ago. Its companion is the present volume, offering twenty-one chapters of most delightful reading of old revolutionary romances.

Lyall, Edna, [pseud. for Ada Allen Bayly.] We two. In 2 pts., pt. 2. N. Y., G. Munro, [1889.] 2+201-400 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1160.) pap., 20 c.

McClelland, M. G. Burkett's Lock. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 2+279 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., v. 1, no. 22.) pap., 50 c.

Burkett's Lock is situated on a southern canal, among Virginia mountain hamlets. Old Jo Burkett, a hard, taciturn man, has a deep, unexpressed love for his second daughter, Delia. She goes to a factory town, thirty miles from home, to work for her aunt, who promises to leave her some money. Her sister, Hester, stays at home and devotes her life to her taciturn father and brothers and her garrulous old grandmother. The plot is dramatic and the tragic end of Delia's year from home, her father's fierce grief, her brothers' plans of vengeance, frustrated by grave, proud, warm-hearted Hester, show a great advance in the author's workmanship. "Oblivion" and "Princess" gave promise of the artistic finish of this vigorous tale of rough characters and elemental passions.

Riou; tr. by Laura Ensor. N. Y., G. Routledge & Sons, 1889. 256 p. D. pap., $1.50; hf. leath., $2.25.

The chronicle of a yachting sojourn spent off Cannes. The scene, the climate, the easy independence and far niente of the position furnished the author with just the occasion for one of those elegant discursive studies for which he is celebrated. He expatiates on the natural beauties of the place, the society of Cannes; he takes us to Ste. Marguerite, and tells us the story of Bazaine's escape, and makes many wise, witty, and amusing reflections on the incidents of his voyage. Beautifully illustrated with many text pictures.

Queiros, Eça de. Dragon's teeth: a novel from the Portuguese by Mary J. Serrano. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889. c. 516 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author stands at the head of the list of Portuguese novelists. This work, published under the title "O primo Bazilio," produced a profound sensation in Portuguese literary circles, as it did afterwards in France and in Spain, in a French and Spanish version. It is the story of a sin and its consequences, pictured with the minute details of a Balzac or Daudet. A young wife is false to her husband. The man for whom she has betrayed her husband is a base, heartless fellow, who deserts her when he fears their sin will be discovered. A servant gains possession of the wife's letters and makes life miserable to her with threats of exposure and demands for money. The ending is sad and tragical.

- Hosca Ballou was born in Richmond, N. H., April 30, 1771, the eleventh child of a Baptist clergyman. At the age of eighteen he was converted at a revival to the Calvinistic Baptist faith. A few years after Universalism, then a novel doctrine, was brought to his mind by an earnest exponent of the faith, and against severe opposition the young Hosca became a convert and for years a leader in the new faith of salvation for all. All reforms interested him, and his personal magnetism inspired courage and confidence. His grave is in Mt. Auburn Cemetery. The biography is written in an enthusiastic key, but gives true pictures of the first years of this century in New England.

Vincent, Marvin R., D. D. Word studies in the New Testament. V. 2, The writings of John —The gospel, The epistles, The apocalypse. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. 7+607 p. O. cl., $4.

The scope of this scholarly and important contribution to the critical study of the text of the New Testament is broad and comprehensive, the work representing the fruit of many years of laborious research while Dr. Vincent has been the pastor of the Church of the Covenant in New York City. The purpose of the author is to enable the English reader and student to get at the original force, meaning, and color of the significant words and phrases as used by the different writers. An introduction to the comments upon each book sets forth in compact form what is known about the author —how, where, with what object, and with what peculiarities of style he wrote. The plan of the work is simple, each chapter of the New Testament under consideration having a heading, and the word or phrase commented upon being printed in full-face type in the succeeding order of the verses.

Waller, Mary E. Giotto's sheep: a cathedral story. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1889.] c. 38 p. il. sq. O. cl., $1.50.

A pretty story of Florence, designed for an Easter souvenir. Giotto's sheep, on the cathedral at Florence, and the appeal of a little beggar boy, suggests to an American artist, Christ's command, "feed my sheep." He rescues the little Italian, who is a born artist, from his poverty, and plans a future for him full of happiness. The book is richly bound and illustrated with five beautiful photo-etchings.

Waller, Mary E. The rose-bush of Hildesheim: a cathedral story. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1889.] c. 36 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

The scene of this story is laid in the old German city of Hildesheim; the five photo-etchings which illustrate it are extremely artistic, and recall parts of the old city. The story is a simple poetical little effusion, designed as an Easter remembrance. The binding is rich and characteristic.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 13, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A CORRECTION AND A COROLLARY.

THE CENTURY COMPANY calls our attention to the fact that their "Century Dictionary" will not be handled by the trade, but exclusively through regularly authorized agents and canvassers. In making the statement in our issue of March 30 we had understood that, though the work was strictly a subscription-book, booksellers might become agents and canvass for the work. The publishers, however, did not foresee such a possibility, and therefore made other arrangements.

Of course, we understand the difference in the methods of selling books over the counter and selling them by a canvass from door to door. Each method requires different talent and application. But we cannot understand why booksellers have let this important branch of the business go out of their hands altogether. Every bookseller worthy the name, especially in the smaller cities, towns, and villages, ought to know his territory to the smallest particular, and for that reason be able to handle certain lines, if not all subscription-books issued by the leading houses in that branch of the business. We know of several retail houses whose subscription department has become by far the most important of their establishments, and by long odds the most remunerative.

Booksellers never hesitate to include toys, wall-paper, stationery, hardware, and what not in their stock—all of which is bothersome to look after, on very little of which money is made, and nearly all of which ought to be kept anywhere but in bookstore. Booksellers will fuss with all these things and let their legitimate trade go to the dry-goods stores, and into the hands of peddlers. We think with a little enterprise and push in the right direction something might be done for the book trade.

AND this reminds us that in many letters received at this office the writers, in referring to the abuses in the book trade, are inclined to grumble at the inevitable. The bazaars, they claim, are doing this, that, and the other thing, and the publishers are helping along the general demoralization. But what is the book trade doing in the meantime? Is it moving along with the tide, and making the most of the possibilities? or, is it willing to be aimlessly tossed about on it; or, worse still, is it trying to sweep it back to where it thinks it belongs? It must not be forgotten that this is a progressive age. Much as we may regret it, we have to unlearn many old things and acquire new ones, else we shall be left behind. If the bazaars can make a living out of an article of which they are commonly supposed to know nothing, then why shouldn't a bookseller make money selling books? "Go to the ant," etc.

CHANGE IN THE FIRM OF TICKNOR & CO.

IT will be a surprise to most of the trade to learn that Ticknor & Co. have decided to go out of business as a firm. They have disposed of all their book stock and plant excepting the architectural and subscription books and The American Architect and Building News. These latter will be carried on by Mr. Benjamin H. Ticknor at the old stand of Ticknor & Co. Mr. Thomas B. Ticknor will become associated in an important position with Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and Mr. George F. Godfrey retires altogether. About this time four years ago, the firm of Ticknor & Co. succeeded the firm of Jas. R. Osgood & Co., and started forth with fair prospects. We regret they were not realized. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will incorporate the Ticknor books in their catalogue as soon as possible. A full line of these books, including the popular paper series, is in stock, and orders can be filled without delay.

AN AUSTRALIAN BOOKSTORE.

From the Boston Journal.

THERE is a building on one of the principal streets of Melbourne called the "Arcade." It extends clear through to the next street, or nearly so, and is the place to visit Saturday evening, when the people come to buy their mental pabulum. The desk and counter are in the centre of the immense hall, with a dome above. The second floor is a gallery surrounding an open space, from which can be seen the hall below; the third the same. This affords a balcony and promenade, and in the rear, above and below, are sections, each one comprising a certain class of literature. In front of each is a column supporting the gallery above, upon which is an inscription from some noted author of the class of literature in the alcove behind. Thus there are history, philosophy, science, art, fiction, poetry, religion, etc., etc.

In the central hall below I saw an orchestra including the ever graceful and romantic harp. The people of Melbourne passed up one side and down the other; others reclined against the columns or leaned over the balconies viewing the tide of life, and others "made believe" they were reading in the secluded alcoves. If one wished any particular book, that person would go to the counter and give the attendant a clue to what was wanted, and it would in all probability be found. I wished a volume of the great "Tichborne Case." There was none, but a work entitled "Great Impostors" was produced, from which was actually read to me what was said about Orton, probably the most noted character that ever turned up in the colonies. In the evening the "Arcade" is most brilliantly lighted. The sections devoted to cheap literature were crowded, and those devoted to the discovery of Australia and Australasia, or the South Seas, were well attended, but I saw no one looking for the "Iliad" or "Anabasis." I got pretty near the poor fellow tugging away at the double bass and the one wrestling with the trombone, as usual, and I expect they thought I was "real impertinent," but the price of a pot of colonial beer would have made them all right, I know.

SOME AUTHORS' FULL NAMES.

SEEMING Bret Harte's name on the title-page of his latest book the other day recalled to me how general had become the habit with authors of dropping one of their surnames. How odd Francis Bret Harte sounds, for example, yet such is the author's baptismal name. Bayard Taylor's first name was James; only a few others than Wilkie Collins' intimate friends, I imagine, know that his name is really William Wilkie Collins, and so is the case with many others. Austin Dobson was Henry Austin Dobson before he took up literature, and Edmund William Gosse is to-day known to the world only by his first and last names. "Henry R. Haggard" sounds strange to thousands of ears who know "Rider Haggard." Brander Matthews was christened James Brander Matthews, and Duffield Osborne is in reality Samuel Duffield Osborne. Laurence Hutton is a contraction of James Laurence Hutton, and Howard Seeley is Edward Howard Seeley, Jr. Frank Stockton is really Francis Richard Stockton, while Joaquin Miller is a corruption of Cincinnatus Hiner Miller. The principal reason for this contraction of names, I imagine, is that one surname is undoubtedly more striking and easier remembered by the public than two.—Bok's Literary Leaves.

HOW TO MAKE LABELS STICK TO METAL.—Paper pasted, gummed, or glued on to metal, especially if it has a bright surface, usually comes off on the slightest provocation, leaving the adhesive material on the back of the paper with a surface bright and slippery as ice. To overcome this the Scientific American suggests that the metal be first dipped into a strong and hot solution of washing soda, afterwards scrubbing perfectly dry with a clean rag. Onion juice is then to be applied to the surface of the metal, and the label pasted and fixed in the ordinary way. It is said to be almost impossible to separate paper and metal thus joined.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. A. C. GUNTER, the author of "Mr. Barnes of New York," is at work on a new novel to be entitled "That Frenchman," which is to portray the Frenchman on both sides of the Atlantic.

M. TAINE's health has sufficiently improved to permit him to resume his literary work, and it is said that a series of three articles by him on "The Reconstruction of France in 1800" will appear at once in the Revue des Deux Mondes.

THE author of "Rabbi Jeshua" is about to publish, through Mr. Redway, of London, another volume on the same lines, to be entitled "Paul of Tarsus." It is to be a rationalistic life of the great apostle, as the former was of Jesus of Nazareth.

F. MARION CRAWFORD is writing a book on Sir John Hawkeford for the English Men of Action series. Mr. Walter Besant will prepare the volume on Captain Cook, Mr. Clark Russell that on Dampier, and Mr. Archibald Forbes that on Havelock.

COL. E. R. ROE, the author of "The Gray and the Blue," "Brought to Bay," etc., has written a new story entitled "A Woman of Ice, or, Communism in America." It is to be published serially in The National Revue, a Chicago journal, of which Col. Roe is the editor.

ANDREW D. MELLICK, JR., Plainfield, N. J., has in preparation a work to be entitled "The Story of an Old Farm, or, Life in New Jersey in the 18th Century," a semi-social, semi-historical study. The author intends to describe quite fully early German immigration to the American colonies, to vindicate the Hessian troops, and to do justice to the New Jersey Loyalists.

ALL who have enjoyed the humor of the late Philip H. Welch are afforded an opportunity of contributing to a memorial to his worth and work. A fund is to be raised for the education of his four children, none of whom is over nine years of age. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Edward P. Clark, of the Evening Post, the Treasurer, or to the editors of The Century, The Christian Union, or The Forum, who have consented to audit the accounts.

MR. THOMAS S. TOWNSEND, of New York City, has been at work since the beginning of the Civil War collecting, sifting, and classifying material, some of which he has now formed into a volume to be called "The Honors of the Empire State in the War of the Rebellion," and to which he calls attention. It will be issued through the Putnam's as a subscription-book as soon as sufficient orders have been received to pay the cost of a first edition. Such orders should be sent to Mr. Samuel O. Fields, Library of Columbia College. On Decoration Day some years back Mr. Townsend delivered an address before the Long Island Historical Society, which contained the germ he has brought to fruit in this volume.

JOHN ERICSSON desired that if any biography of him was undertaken it should be entrusted to his friend, Col. William C. Church, editor of the Army and Navy Journal, and the executors of the estate accordingly have turned over to Col. Church all the papers which could be useful in such a work. While it is true that Capt. Ericsson destroyed his diary, all his documents since 1860 were preserved. In private letters and other papers has been found abundant material relative to his youth and the influences which shaped his early career. Col. Church will contribute some valuable papers embodying much of this material to the fall numbers of Scribner's Magazine which have been prepared by the help of these original documents. They will afterwards be expanded into an adequate biography.

ZOLA is at present literally "on the track" of documents for a new novel. He says that the new work is to be a tragic one—"a study of what crime is capable of producing, and its effect on certain temperaments. As the deed is committed on a railway, I have had to travel by train in all directions to gather the knowledge requisite to make the scene lifelike. The different phases of railway existence will, in fact, be one of the chief attractions of the book. It has given me more trouble than all the rest put together. As for the judicial part of my story, that is comparatively easy, and my studies of judges, juries, and advocates are almost complete. But my task on the whole has been very difficult. I little expected to find railway life such a vast and intricate subject to deal with correctly in the narrow limits of a novel."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

WITH its May issue, The Delineator, published by the Butterick Publishing Co., N. Y., reaches, we are informed, a first edition of 250,000 copies. This is a fair indication of the value of this enterprising journal.

MR. W. S. WALSH, who has lately severed his relations with Lippincott's Magazine, will take entire charge of the Sunday edition of the New York Herald, which is expected to put on a more literary air than it has had for some time.

AN eight-page Supplement to be issued with Harper's Weekly, April 17, will be chiefly devoted to a story of New York life, "A Romance of Tompkins Square," by Thomas A. Janvier, with accompanying illustrations by W. A. Rogers.

AN interesting portrait of John Burroughs at 20 opens the April Wide Awake as frontispiece. This engraving accompanies Mr. Burroughs' own story of his boyhood, "The Boy John Burroughs: a glance backward," telling how he had to struggle for his "schooling." Another excellent piece of biographical and historical work is by an English writer, Mrs. Blothwayt, entitled "Raleigh and the Potato." This gives, by courtesy of the National Gallery, Dublin, Ireland, a portrait of Lady Raleigh, Sir Walter's wife; also, engravings from photographs made especially for Wide Awake, of Hayes-Barton farmhouse (Sir Walter's birthplace), of the Raleigh place of worship, the church at Budleigh Salterton, Sir Walter's residence at Voughal, Ireland, a most picturesque spot, the garden where the first potatoes were planted in Ireland, and many other interesting illustrations.

IT MADE A BIG DIFFERENCE.—In a railway train. Two men discussing a book which is being handed about by newsboy. First man—"That's a great book, sir, a masterpiece." Second man—"I wonder how it's selling?" First man—"Selling like ginger. Never saw anything like it. You see, I'm the publisher and ought to know." Second man—"Your information delights me. I'm the author." First man (with fallen countenance)—"Well, that is, er, er, it hasn't had much of a sale yet, but I think, er, it will have. Big risk, you know, getting out a book of this sort."—Paper and Printing Trades Journal.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—In addition to the announcement of the removal of Cupples & Hurd, we note that Mr. Alex. T. Laughton, formerly of Laughton, McDonald & Co., will have charge of their retail department; the department of medical works will be in charge of Mr. D. W. Mason, and Mr. Martin Garrison will superintend their subscription-book department. The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal will have its headquarters with Cupples & Hurd as well as the Popular Science News.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA.—Charles Grissell, bookseller, has removed to this city from Omaha, Neb.

DENNISON, IOWA.—Henry C. Schlüter, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

DENTON, TEX.—J. R. Barton & Co., booksellers, have gone out of business.

DENVER, COLO.—Stone & Co. and Locke Bros., the former stationers, the latter booksellers, have sold their stock to The Stone & Locke Book and Stationery Co., of which W. G. M. Stone is President, W. I. Locke, Vice-President, and E. R. Locke, Secretary and Treasurer. They have conveniently situated stores at 800 to 804 Sixteenth Street, and will do a wholesale and retail book and stationery business.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The Samuel Dodsworth Book Company have opened a stationery store in Kansas City, Mo.

LANSING, MICH.—Northrup & Robertson, booksellers, have been succeeded by Gardner & Robertson.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Brunnquell & Rohde, German booksellers and stationers, dissolved partnership April 1. Mr. Rohde will carry the stock alone under the firm-name of Chas. R. Rohde & Co.

NEWNAN, GA.—M. L. Carter & Co., booksellers, have been burned out. Loss $3000; no insurance.

NEW YORK CITY.—B. Westermann & Co. will remove shortly to 812 Broadway, the former quarters of Geo. R. Lockwood & Son.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Photo-Electrotype Engraving Co. will remove May 1 to Nos. 7 to 11 New Chambers Street, corner of William Street. By our printer's error their advertisement in our last two issues was made to read Chambers Street instead of New Chambers Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The stock of Koch Sons & Co., in the Faber Building, on Pearl Street, was seriously damaged during the night of the 10th inst. by water from a defective automatic sprinkler. It seems that one of the 700 cocks of the sprinkling apparatus distributed throughout the four-story building had come off in the top floor, and during the night quietly emptied the 7000 gallons contained in the tank on the roof, drenching the building from top to basement. The loss is estimated at $30,000, but at this busy season of the year the inability to supply orders promptly will no doubt entail even greater loss.

NEW YORK CITY.—Fire broke out in the building at 111 Nassau Street on the morning of the 10th, damaging the fine stock of books kept in that building by Bowers & Loy.

NEW YORK CITY.—Mr. Chas. R. Brown, late of the editorial staff of the New York Graphic, has entered into partnership with Mr. Fred. W. Farnell, son of the well-known Brooklyn bookseller, under the firm-name of Brown & Farnell, who will conduct a book and stationery business at 238 Fourth Ave., New York.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Hogle & Palmer, booksellers, have effected a compromise with their creditors at 25 cents on the dollar.

SEYMOUR, IND.—Platte & Sons, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co., Cincinnati, O., have issued a neat alphabetical list of 487 books on Angling, Hunting, Shooting, and kindred subjects. (36 p., 16°.)

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—W. O. Davie & Co., 16 E. 4th St., Cincinnati, Monthly Catalogue for April. (16 p., nar. 12°).—R. W. Douglas & Co., 250 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont., (No. 5) Rare and curious books. (48 p., 16°).—A. L. Luyster, 98 Nassau St., N. Y., (No. 164) Standard English Books. (20 p., 12°).—F. M. Morris, 75 Madison St., Chicago, (No. 3) Rare English and American Books. (48 p., 16°).—H. Sotheran & Co., London, (No. 482) Price Current of Literature. (32 p., 12°).—T. O. Weigel, Leipzig, Neues Verzeichniss von Wissenschaftlichen Werken. (20 p., 12°.)

OBITUARY NOTES.

HENRY HALL, an authority on the history of Vermont, died from heart failure at his home in Rutland, Vt., on April 4. He published several books, including a "History of Rutland County." His chief works, "History of Vermont" and "Life of Ethan Allen," had not been finished at the time of his death. They are so near completion that they will be published by his executors. Mr. Hall left a wife and two daughters, Miss Clara T. Hall and Mrs. W. H. Boardman.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE MINERVA PUB. Co. have issued another attack on the Jews entitled "Judas Iscariot."

HUNT & EATON (Methodist Book Concern) have in press "The Man of Galilee," by Dr. Atticus G. Haygood.

GEO. M. S. HORTON, Tribune Building, N. Y., will hereafter publish "Farley's Reference Directory of the Book, Stationery, Printing Paper, and Kindred Trades."

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. will shortly issue Louis Ulbach's "The Confessions of an Abbé," which is considered one of the author's boldest and most dramatic productions.

THOMAS WHITTAKER have just published "The Washington Centennial Souvenir," a large, finely printed, and handsomely illustrated brochure arranged by Frederick Saunders, of the Astor Library.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have just ready "The Bird-Bride," a collection of ballads and sonnets by Mrs. Graham R. Janson, of which the initial and title-giving poem deals with an Eskimo legend.

THE regular Spring Parcel Sale will be held May 7 and following days at the salesrooms of Bangs & Co. Invoices must be in by the 20th inst. at the latest, at which time the catalogue must go to press.

C. W. BARDEEN, Syracuse, N. Y., will publish May 15 an interesting historical guide-book entitled "Carleton Island in the Revolution—the old fort and its builders," with notes and brief biographical sketches, and illustrations by Carleton.

BELFORD, CLARKE & Co. will publish shortly William H. Herndon's "Life of Abraham Lincoln." Mr. Herndon was for some years the law partner of Abraham Lincoln, and knew him perhaps as intimately as any person apart from his immediate family.

A FEW proof impressions on India paper, suitable for framing, of the etching from the famous Oulless portrait of John Bright, are offered for sale by Cassell & Company. The original painting is owned by the Manchester Reform Club, by whose permission it was etched.

THE M. L. HOLBROOK Co. have just ready "Studies of the Outlying Fields of Psychic Science," a work by Hudson Tuttle, who aims to explain the vast array of facts in his field of research by referring them to a common cause, and furnishes nearly fifty pages of "personal experience and intelligence from the sphere of light."

THE CENTURY COMPANY have just completed their monumental work on the "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War." An index to the four volumes is appended to the thirty-second and final part. In concluding this handsome and valuable work the publishers may justly feel proud of the achievement.

W. J. GAGE & Co. are about to open an office in New York at No. 3 East 4th Street to secure improved facilities for carrying on more successfully their American trade. This firm has recently been appointed sole agents in America for the sale of Walter Scott's remarkably cheap publications, and they will hereafter supply the trade in the United States instead of Thomas Whittaker.

THE TYPOTHETÆ have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, William C. Martin; Vice-Presidents, Theodore L. De Vinne and Douglas Taylor; Corresponding Secretary, W. C. Rogers; Recording Secretary, Francis E. Fitch; Treasurer, W. E. Hallenbeck; Executive Committee, R. Harman Smith, James W. Pratt, Henry Bessey, James A. Rogers, and John Polhemus.

CASSELL & COMPANY have just ready a new edition of William Robertson's "Life and Times of the Rt. Hon. John Bright," which has been brought down to date by a well-known American writer. The adding of the last lines to these chapters has been held back to await the death, which has been for so long anticipated. The frontispiece of the book is a portrait of Mr. Bright taken from a recent photograph.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready "An Exposition of the Principles of Partnership," by James Parsons, a member of the Philadelphia Bar and Prof. of Law in the University of Pennsylvania; and a new volume in the Badminton Library of Sports and Pastimes devoted to "Driving," edited by the Duke of Beaufort, who as well as the other contributors is a recognized authority on his theme. There are 12 full-page plates and 54 illustrations by G. D. Giles and John Sturgess.

A. S. BARNES & Co. announce that they have purchased and will hereafter publish the entire list of the late firm of Knight, Loomis & Co. Foremost in these lines are the Payson, Dunton and Scribner Copy-books, of which an entirely new and carefully revised edition is now in preparation; Bond's Staff-Ruled Writing-Books; National Language and Number Tablets; Dinsmore's Writing Spelllers; Bartholomew's Drawing-Books; Gillet & Rolfe's Natural Science Series, and many others.

THE DE WITT PUBLISHING HOUSE have just ready "Short Comedies for Amateur Players," adapted and arranged by Mrs. Burton-Harrison, and illustrated by Kelly, five short comedies, easily within the scope of intelligent amateurs, all of French origin. The pieces are entitled "The Mouse-Trap," "Behind a Curtain," "Weeping Wives," "Tea at Four O'clock," and "Two Strings to Her Bow." "May-Time," also just ready, is a collection of poems, exhibition pieces, and games suitable for school exercises and outdoor entertainments, and "Little Dialogues for Little People" will be brought out at once in excellent type and dainty cover.

PEOPLE who are interested in the prohibitory amendment which is now before the State of Massachusetts for popular vote, will find a concise statement of the entire legislation in recent years in "Ten Years of Massachusetts," by Raymond L. Bridgman, published by D. C. Heath & Co., of Boston. It includes the years 1878 to 1887, and among other important enactments of that period are the civil damage law, the screen law, the school-house law, and the temperance textbooks law. Every new effort of the State to repress liquor-selling is mentioned, and the text of the most important passages is given verbatim.

CUPPLES & HURD have just brought out "An Alien from the Commonwealth," the romance of an odd young man, telling a story of literary life, by Robert Tolstol; "Last Chance Junction," Miss Sally Pratt McLean's drastic Western story, will be put into the successful Green Paper Series; as will also "A Monk's Wedding," translated from the German. W. H. H. Murray has written a book entitled "Yesterdays with Actors and Deacons," a strange combination of associates, which will doubtless furnish interesting information; and for later publication is announced a new story by N. H. Chamberlain, author of "The Sphinx of Aubrey Parish."

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have just imported a unique example of book-making in the "Museum in Parvo Atlas of the World." It contains ninety-six double-page maps, a large amount of statistics, and an index covering over 100 pages, all in shape and size for the pocket. They have just ready a volume of poems and translations by W. J. Linton, the well-known engraver. He privately published, before this, two volumes of poems, both in very limited editions, and now very scarce. In this volume nearly all the poems in those two volumes are included, and, besides new poems, a number of new renderings of French poems, in the original metres, are included.

GEORGE A. LEAVITT & Co. now definitely announce that the Spring Trade Sale will take place April 23. Invoices are promised from Lee & Shepard, Worthington Co., Pollard & Moss, A. D. Worthington Co., Porter & Coates, Scribner & Welford, Thomas Crawford, Oldach

& Co., J. H. Wulfekoetter, Amies Publishing Co., Edward Meeks, Vizetelly & Co., E. Walker's Son, Reeves & Turner, Geo. M. Davenport, Geo. A. Jones & Co., M. & R. Burghelm, Tibbals Book Co., A. T. Loyd & Co., Humboldt Pub. Co., Thayer, Merriam & Co., L. A. Morrison, Arundel Bookstore, N. Y. Book Exchange, W. W. Munsell & Co., and a number of others. Plates and Copyrights belonging to Thos. R. Knox & Co., W. C. Rejand, and Geo. M. Davenport will be offered for sale on the 25th inst.

ROBERTS BROS. announce for early publication the second volume of Renan's "History of the People of Israel," covering the period from the reign of David to the capture of Samaria, 721 B.C., and "French and English," a comparison between these great nations in literature, science, and art, by Philip Gilbert Hamerton. In lighter literature there will be "By Leafy Ways," by F. A. Knight, brief studies in the book of nature as read in the "West Country" of old England, with fitting illustrations by E. T. Compton; and a story by Eleanor Putnam called "A Woodland Wooing." Edward Everett Hale will complete his second volume of "Sunday-School Stories," covering the second half year of the International S. S. Lessons, and Mrs. Whitman, Secretary of the "Ten Times One Club," will provide "Sunday-School Stories for Little Children."

THE Annual Statistical Report of the American Iron and Steel Association for 1889 will be ready next week. This report gives statistics of the production and prices of all the principal iron and steel products of the United States in 1888 and recent years; also statistics of the production of iron ore and coal in the United States in 1888 and recent years; statistics of the construction of railroads and iron and steel ships in the United States in 1888 and recent years; statistics for 1888 and recent years of United States imports and exports of iron and steel and imports of iron ore; statistics for recent years of the iron and steel and coal-mining industries of Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium, Spain, Italy, Canada, and other foreign countries, and a review of the present condition of the iron and steel industries of the United States and other countries. The book will be issued by the American Iron and Steel Association, 261 S. 4th St., Philadelphia.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have in press, besides the books already announced in our issue of March 30, a new novel by "Rita," of which the title is still kept from the public; "Bertha Laycourt," a novel, by Edgar C. Blum; and "The Queen of Bedlam," a story of frontier army life, by Captain Chas. King. "Half-Hours with Humorous Authors," selected and arranged by Charles Morris, is to be brought out uniform with "Half-Hours with the Best American Authors;" "Francis Bacon, Part II.," by John Nichol, will form the thirteenth volume of Philosophical Classics for English Readers; and there will be a "Life of Henry M. Stanley," by Rev. H. W. Little. "The Clinical Diagnosis of Non-Surgical Diseases," by Dr. Rudolf von Jaksch, has been translated by Dr. Cagny, of St. Mary's Hospital, London; and "Eight Hundred Miles in an Ambulance," by Laura Winthrop Johnson, contains interesting matter which has been prefaced by George William Curtis. Two books finely gotten up will be a "Manual of Ancient Sculpture," by Pierre Paris, edited and augmented by Jane E. Harrison, containing 200 illustrations, and "Diego Valasquez and His Times," by Carl Justi, translated by Prof. A. H. Keane, which will contain 52 illustrations. A practical book for engineers, draughtsmen, and mechanics, to be sold by subscription, will be "Examples, Rules, Tables, and References," by John Richards.

MACMILLAN & Co. will act as the American agents of Sonnenschein & Co.'s new Library of Philosophy. This Library is to consist of a series of works edited by J. H. Muirhead and arranged in three departments, dealing respectively with schools of philosophers, the history of thought in particular departments, and the subject-matter of philosophy treated from an original point of view. In the first series, which will, it is expected, ultimately cover the entire history of thought in the fields of metaphysics and ethics, the following volumes have already been promised: "Sensationalists: Locke to Mill," by W. S. Hough, of Ann Arbor, Mich.; "Modern Realists: Leibnitz to Lotze," by Prof. Andrew Seth, of St. Andrew's; "Early Idealists: Descartes to Leibnitz," by W. L. Courtney, of New College, Oxford; "Scientific Evolutionists: Comte to Spencer," by Prof. John Watson, of Kingston, Canada; "Utilitarians: Bentham to Contemporary Writers," by W. R. Sorley, of Trinity College, Cambridge; "Moral Sense Writers: Shaftesbury to Martineau," by Prof. Wm. Knight, of St. Andrews; and "Idealistic Moralists: Kant to Green," by Prof. Henry Jones, of University College, Bangor, Me. Of the volumes of the second series, already arranged for, may be mentioned a "History of Logic," by Prof. Geo. S. Morris, of Ann Arbor, Mich.; "History of Psychology," by Prof. Adamson, of Owens College; "History of Political Philosophy," by D. G. Ritchie and J. H. Muirhead; "History of Economics," by Dr. J. Bonar; "History of Aesthetics," by A. Bosanquet; and "Evolution of Theology," by Prof. Otto Pfeiderer. As an introduction to the Library, Erdmann's (smaller) "History of Philosophy," in three volumes, has been translated by Dr. W. S. Hough, of Ann Arbor, and will appear very shortly.

GEORGE BELL & SONS will shortly publish in their Bohn's Library an edition of Arthur Young's "Travels in France," edited by Miss Betham-Edwards.

THE publishing rights and stock of the old firm of F. G. Cotta, of Stuttgart, including the Allgemeine Zeitung, have been purchased by Kroner Brothers.

THE TILLOTSON NEWSPAPER LITERATURE SYNDICATE announce that Mr. Hall Caine, whose forthcoming novel they will publish, has decided to entitle it "The Bondman." Mr. Caine has been engaged two years upon this work, which is a story of the middle of this century, the scenes being laid for the most part in England and her colonies.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

ALAN THORNE. By MARTHA LIVINGSTON MOODEY. 12mo, $1.25.

All who are interested in the solution of the great problems that vex society to-day should read "Alan Thorne." While not second to "Robert Elsmere" in its strong humanitarianism, it represents the higher inspiration and motive, the happy combination of faith and works which alone stands for the truest Christianity. Simple, earnest, unsectarian, it is a book to strengthen belief, to cheer and encourage rather than to bewilder and dishearten.

Its pictures of the home life of the poor are as vivid as Dickens' and its treatment of the temperance question is masterly in its realism.

Every thoughtful reader, young or old, will be the better for its teachings; while to the many earnest Christians wounded by the specious doctrines of Mrs. Ward, it will be a message of healing and refreshment.

A SEVENFOLD TROUBLE. By PANSY. 12mo, $1.50.

But for the confession in the preface it would never occur to any one that this smoothly written story was the joint production of seven different authors, so strong is the sympathy between them. It is a true story, modified only to show what might be done in a home where confusion and ill-feeling reign, where the stepmother is unappreciated, the children misunderstood, the father worried, and everything tending to misery. How order is brought out of chaos, peace and harmony out of discord, is the aim of the writers, each one of whom takes the character in which he or she is most interested, and endeavors to work it out to the best advantage of all.

TOM'S STREET. By S. R. GRAHAM CLARKE. 12mo, $1.50.

Mrs. Clarke has obtained a wide popularity with the young people through her "Yensie Walton Books," and they, as well as older readers, will be charmed with this, her latest story, which, in a brightly suggestive way, shows the good that may be done in a neighborhood through the efforts of one strong, earnest, and willing worker.

Tom Young, the hero, is just such a manly, enthusiastic young fellow as people like to read about, and the other occupants of the street where he lives and labors are drawn with much skill.

GLIMPSES OF GREAT FIELDS. By Rev. J. A. HALL. 12mo, $1.25.

The popular mind has been deeply stirred of late by many able, earnest works, designed to overthrow the established beliefs of Christianity—a personal God, a divine Christ, and the immortality of the soul. But here is a book that stoutly defends the old faith and that too not by an appeal to revelation but by meeting scientists and philosophers upon their own ground. The author believes "that the time has already come when the Christian idea of God may be said to be intellectually apprehended by the thinking mind, not only in the Church, but also in the philosophical world."

The reasons for this belief are given so clearly and concisely that common people can understand them if they will.

THE STORY OF VERMONT. By JOHN L. HEATON. 8vo, $1.50. (In press.)

A stirring and practical presentation of the early struggles, the rise, and the development of the Green Mountain State. Thorough, careful, and every way entertaining, the volume is one that every resident of Vermont and every person who can trace his ancestry to that sturdy mountain commonwealth, will be glad to possess. The only history of Vermont published in forty years.

VAGABOND TALES. By HJALMAR HJORTH BOYSEN. 12mo, $1.25.

Prof. Boyesen's "Vagabond Tales" is a most engaging collection of this popular story-teller's recent "novellettes." There is a breeziness, a vigor, and a manliness about his characters that captivate the readers at once and combine dramatic force with literary skill. Some of these stories have already been translated into French, German, and Spanish.

THE LITTLE RED SHOP. By MARGARET SIDNEY. 12mo, $1.00.

A delightful story of how two boys, assisted by a bright little sister, went into business, in a small way at first, with the laudable object of helping to take care of Mamsy and baby Roly Poly. The firm of "Brimmer Brothers & Company," Rosalie being the "Company," had up-hill work sometimes, but they were of the sturdy New England stock and held on, till in course of time the "Little Red Shop" became the "Brimmer Store."

The story is full of the racy child-life in which Margaret Sidney excels.

ACROSS LOTS. By HORACE LUNT. 12mo, $1.25.

To those who love the country this book will be most enjoyable reading, recalling a thousand and one pleasant incidents. Every page contains some fresh bit of instruction or touch of keen insight into the wonders of nature, the habits of birds or insects. For fine comment and a certain unconventional freshness of observation the book is quite on a par with the writings of Jeffries or Thoreau.

JOURNEYINGS IN ALASKA. By E. RUHAMAH SCIDMORE. New edition, paper covers, 50 cents.

The most graphic and accurate account of the resources and possibilities of Alaska that has ever been given. It gives one an immediate desire to start on an exploring tour.

FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS, and How They Grew. By MARGARET SIDNEY. New edition, illustrated, 4to, illuminated board covers, only 25 cents. Regular edition, cloth, $1.50.

The best, the breeziest, the brightest story of childhood's real humanity yet written. No home with children should be without it. The cheapness of the new edition places it within reach of all.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROS. have just issued another volume in the series of English Classics for School Reading, "Fairy Tales in Prose and Verse," selected from early and recent literature, and edited, with notes, by William J. Rolfe. The book is fully illustrated.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT will publish at once a book of thoughtful sermons, instinct with the broad and hopeful spirit of the day, entitled "Living Questions: studies in nature and grace," by the Rev. Warren Hathaway. While thoroughly reverent and a profound believer in the Biblical standards of faith, Mr. Hathaway's utterances have a ring of common-sense and show evidences of a wide reading and a shrewd observation.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have purchased from the French publishers, Messrs. Plon, Nourrit & Cie., and from the author, Mme. Henry Gréville, the sole right to the publication in English of the latter's new romance entitled "Nikanor." They have sold to Chatto & Windus, of London, the English rights on this book, and it will be published there at once. Their own edition with eight illustrations is just ready for the trade.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready a revised edition of their "Dictionary of New York." Of great value at all times as a reference-book to the sights and institutions of the city of New York and surroundings to both the stranger and native, this handbook will become doubly so to the visitor during the Inauguration centennial. It will be found a reliable and comprehensive guide not only to the historic and curious sights, but to the practical as well—such as hotels, the streets, the best modes of travel, restaurants, places of amusement, and the hundred and one little things on which a stranger wants to be "posted."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will shortly publish "The War for Independence," by John Fiske, which will form the first volume of a new series to be entitled The Riverside Library for Young People. This series is intended for boys and girls who are laying the foundation of libraries of their own, and will contain history, mechanics, travel, adventure, natural history, and the best class of fiction. Other volumes announced for this series are "Birds Through an Opera-Glass," by Florence A. Merriam; a biography of George Washington, by Horace E. Scudder, and "Up and Down the Brooks," by Mary E. Bamford.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

OSCAR FAY ADAMS is engaged upon a life of Jane Austen.

WE regret to note that failing mental faculties have at last compelled Mr. George Bancroft, the historian, to abandon his literary labors.

W. ROBERTS, author of "The Earlier History of English Bookselling," is contributing a series of articles on "Bookselling in Scotland" to the Scotsman.

THE Hon. Mrs. Maxwell-Scott, of Abbotsford, is preparing for publication some hitherto unpublished journals of her great grandfather, Sir Walter Scott.

THE Memorial Fund to Matthew Arnold is said to amount to about $35,000. Influential subscribers will hold a meeting to consider what is to be done with the money, and to examine designs for a memorial to be placed in the Abbey. The greater portion of the fund will doubtless be assigned to Mrs. Arnold.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted: if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., mar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

Adams, C. Kendall. A manual of historical literature, comprising brief descriptions of the most important histories in English, French, and German; together with practical suggestions as to methods and courses of historical study; for the use of students, general readers, and collectors of books. 3d ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. '82, '88. 39+720 p. O. cl., $2.50.

The revisions to which this work has been subjected consist of alterations and additions that are thus described: 1. All titles have been changed, whenever change has been necessary, in order to note the appearance of new editions or continuations. 2. A few of the older books have been excluded in order that their places might be given to new works of greater importance. 3. Some of the descriptions have been condensed, and thus room made for others without greatly enlarging the volume. 4. At the end of each chapter, under the head of "Suggestions to students and readers," a new section has been added, entitled "Recent works of importance." 5. The table of contents and index have been amplified so as to include all the titles now inserted.

Angerstein, E., M.D., and Eckler, G., eds. Home gymnastics for the well and the sick, adapted to all ages and both sexes; with directions how to preserve and increase health; also how to overcome conditions of ill health, by simple movements of the body; tr. from the 8th German ed. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. tr. 8+94 p. il. and 1 folded pl. in pocket. O. cl., $1.50.

The editors are both experts on the subject: the one being staff physician and superintendent of the gymnasiums of Berlin, the other the head teacher of the Royal Institution for training teachers of gymnastics. The work is intended for laymen and for use without a teacher. Therefore only such movements have been treated as can easily be made intelligible by description and drawings. None of the movements require special apparatus. The figures in the text are excellent, while the chart in the pocket of book, will materially help to a thorough understanding of the exercises.

*Arnold, Matthew. Reports on elementary schools, 1852-1882; ed. by Sir Francis Sandford. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 15+302 p. D. cl., $2.25.

Balsac, Honoré de. Bureaucracy (Les employés); or, a civil service reformer; tr. by Katharine Prescott Wormeley. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. c. tr. 333 p. D. hf. mor., $1.50.

"The book is a most careful and exact study of the French civil service of Balzac's time, and it possesses special interest for Americans in the contrasts and parallels which are inevitably suggested by it. Given institutions resembling one another in fundamental form and principle, and there must be resemblances also in their manner of working. It is the seamy side of politics that is here analyzed, the obvious purpose of the author having been to expose the evil influence exercised upon government and public affairs by the growth of an army of office-holders in whom self-interest had killed patriotism, and who, by their incessant intrigue, often paralyzed wholesome and reformatory measures, especially all such as tended to simplify and cheapen the transaction of the public business."—New York Tribune.

Beaufort, Duke of, [and others.] Driving; il. by G. D. Giles and J. Sturgess. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1889. 14+426 p. il. D. (The Badminton lib.) cl., $3.50; hf. mor., $5.

Contents: Carriages, by Alfred E. T. Watson; The carriage-horse, by the Earl of Onslow; The coach horse, by the Duke of Beaufort; The coach-house, harness-room, and driving appliances, by the late Major H. Dixon and others; The cost of a carriage, by Alfred E. T. Watson; Hints to beginners, by H. Dixon and Col. Smith-Baillie; Single harness, by Lord Algernon St. Maur; Tandem-driving, by Lady Georgiana Curzon; Quonsequo tandem? by Sir E. Teesdale; Old coaching days, by Lord Algernon St. Maur; On the box, by the Duke of Beaufort; The Brighton, Bath, and Dover roads, by the Duke of Beaufort; Driving clubs, old and new; The coaching revival; Posting in England and Posting in France, by the Duke of Beaufort; Sleighing, by Sir C. Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson. The pretty sister of José. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. 5 + 127 p. il. D. cl., $1.

A romantic love-tale of Spain. The scene is laid in Madrid, the principal characters being Spaniards of the humbler class. The "pretty sister of José" is a lovely creation; her passionate love for Sebastiano, the matador, being told with a charming simplicity. The illustrations, by C. S. Reinhart, are spirited and graceful.

Campbell, Mrs. Helen. Prisoners of poverty abroad. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. c. 248 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Mrs. Campbell's papers, "Prisoners of poverty," published several years ago in the New York Tribune, excited so widespread an interest in woman's work and wages, that she has been induced to pursue her investigations in Europe. This volume is the result of her labors, and is full of graphic descriptions of the working women of London and Paris, and of information throwing light upon their miserable condition. The subjects discussed are as follows: The sweating system in general; Among the dressmakers; A West End milliner's apprentice; London shirt-makers; The tale of a barrow; Street trades among women; London shop-girls; From Covent Garden to the eel-soup man in the borough; Women in general trades; French and English workers; French bargain counters; Dressmakers and milliners in Paris; A silk weaver of Paris.

Carthey, Jean de. The wandering knight; his adventurous journey; or, a mediæval pilgrim's progress. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1889. 14 + 346 p. D. cl., net, 80 c.

An allegorical romance. It first appeared in 1572, and is said to have been the source to which John Bunyan was, in a great measure, indebted for the meditations that suggested, and the materials that supplied, the substance of his immortal work, "The pilgrim's progress." It is an imaginary tale, describing a certain journey made by a knight, and his many adventures and encounters. He is led astray in his pursuit of the follies and delights of the world, then comes under the influence of Divine Grace, finds his way to the Castle of Penance, and thence to the Mansion of Virtue. The present translation was made from the edition of 1572 under ecclesiastical supervision.

Crawford, F. Marion. Greifenstein. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. c. 4 + 357 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The scenery, characters, and sentiment are all German, and so true to life that one might think the novel written by a German. The last representatives of an ancient German race, living in lonely grandeur in the Black Forest, are the chief characters. Old Greifenstein illustrates the abhorrence of the German noble to a blemish upon his name. Death to him is always preferable to dishonor. His son, also Greifenstein, has just finished his education when the story opens, and is about to marry his cousin "Hilda," a poor but beautiful girl and a most noble character. She likewise lives in the Black Forest with her mother. A succession of accidents bring to light some family skeletons long supposed buried, and a number of horrible and dramatic events ensue. Justice is meted out to an erring woman in a manner reminding one of the horrors of the Middle Ages—the two murderers committing suicide afterwards. Hilda is the one gleam of sunshine throughout. She is an unusually strong type of woman, helpful to all around her.

Crommelin, May. Goblin gold. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 108 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1336.) pap., 20 c.

Derrégaix, V. Modern war; tr. by C. W. Foster. Wash., D. C., James J. Chapman, Agt., 1888. c. tr. In 3 v., v. 1 and 3, 15 + 710 p.; 6 + 64 pl. O. cl., for complete work, 3 v., $8.50.

This work will be completed in three volumes—the first and third only being published at present. The first is devoted to the subject of "Strategy," the second will discuss "Grand Tactics," while the third is a supplementary atlas to the first and second containing 64 maps delineating certain strategical movements in the campaigns discussed in the body of the work. The original work was written after the French reverses in the Franco-German war, "with a view to inform the French army upon the art of war as it is to-day." It begins by giving the strength, composition, and organization of the principal European armies; passes to that great body of measures in preparation for war, so essential to be known and followed to-day; and then enters upon the more active part of the subject by considering, with appropriate explanation and illustration, the various operations of war—mobilization, concentration, attack of frontiers, marches, and battles.

Emerson, J. M. European glimpses and glances. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1889. c. 221 p. por. and il. D. cl., $1.

Comprises rambles through Hamburg and Bremen; a pilgrimage down the Rhine, through northern Germany, to Switzerland, Italy, and France. The author's descriptions of ruins, architecture, and art, and the many noted people he met, are fresh and interesting. The first chapter is devoted to an account of Laurence Oliphant and his wife Rosamond Dale Owen, who were passengers on Mr. Emerson's steamer.

Fairy tales in prose and verse; selected from early and recent literature; ed. with notes by W: J. Rolfe. N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. 6 + 187 p. il. S. (English classics for school reading.) cl., 56 c.

The plan of this book is similar to that of the "Tales of chivalry" and the "Tales from English history," which have preceded it in the series; but the selections are suited to a somewhat younger grade of pupils than those volumes were intended for. The selection comprises 21 charming tales by W. Allingham, Miss Mulock, C. and M. Lamb, Laboulaye, and others.

A comprehensive little handbook of information regarding the government, etc., of Great Britain. It was first published some 30 years ago; but the English system of government has undergone so many changes in that time, that it was necessary in issuing the 16th ed., to rewrite the whole work, and omit much that was obsolete. As the same time Mr. Gordon has retained the same popular style and the methods of Mr. Fonblanque.

Frith, W. P. My autobiography and reminiscences. In 2 v. V. 2. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 5 + 333 p. por. O. cl., $1.50.

A second and supplementary volume to Mr. Frith's interesting autobiography published in 1888. It is chiefly made up of anecdotes, letters, and reminiscences. There are chapters on Richard Dadd, Charles Dickens, Sir Edwin Landseer. George Augustus Sala, John Leech, Shirley Brooks, and Mrs. Maxwell—on "Admiration," on "Self-delusion and other matters," "Fashion in art," "English art and French influence," "Ignorance of art," "Oratory," "Book illustrators," etc., etc.

Frontier and city; or, Winnie at Clarke's Corners. N. Y., American Tract Soc. [1889.] c. 294 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The story of a pretty fashionable New York girl, who goes out to Dakota to help her half-brother—who is engaged there as a home missionary—in his work.

Froude, J. A. The two chiefs of Dunboy; or, an Irish romance of the last century. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. 2+456 p. D. cl., $1.50; pap., 50 c.

The greater part of the action of this novel occurs about Bantry Bay, Ireland, the scenery of which is described with much accuracy. The two chiefs of Dunboy are Morty O'Sullivan, the native chief, who is an absentee because a price is set on his head, and Colonel Goring, an Englishman and a Protestant, who has supplanted him in his estates. The motive, it will be seen, is the implacable hostility existing between the Irish and English on Irish soil. The contraband trade with France, whence also Irish exiles despatch arms and ammunition to Ireland for use in an approaching insurrection, furnishes occasion for many dramatic incidents. There is a description of a chase of a privateer, Morty O'Sullivan's Doutelle, by His Majesty's ship Æolus, that has rarely been surpassed in vividness by any other writer.

Howard, Blanche Willis. The open door. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 3+436 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"The door is open. . . . When all things begin to fall upon you, retire. But if you stay, do not complain." On this quotation from Epictetus the author points the moral that there is a way of looking at life that drives to suicide, another that makes this earth a good place to be in. Selfishness versus unselfishness is the keynote of a story laid in a German country-seat which introduces many social questions with strong common-sense and happy humor. A helpless cripple is the hero, a healthy, happy girl the heroine. The stone-carver Bernhardt, the handsome old countess, her diabolical little yellow dog, and her bosom friends and retainers all play important parts in a fresh, healthy story. By the author of "Guenn," "One summer," etc.

Howells, W. D. The mouse-trap, and other

Meriwether, Lee. The tramp at home. N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. 10+296 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Mr. Meriwether spent upwards of a year in Europe studying the condition of the workingmen; the result of his observations was published in "A tramp trip," and also submitted in a report to the Bureau of Labor Statistics at Washington. The interest and value of his figures caused the Secretary of the Interior to appoint him as a special agent to obtain similar information in America. The dry statistics gathered in his travels as a special agent have been submitted to the Department. In this volume he offers a few of the incidents, amusing and otherwise, that befell him in his intercourse with the working classes of America, also some general statistics as to wages, living, etc. His researches took him among the working-women of New York and Brooklyn, the factory hands of New England and the southern farmers, to Texas, through the Northwest territory, thence to California, and afterwards on a journey to the Sandwich Islands in connection with his investigation into the condition of sailors.

Michael, Leo. She: an allegory of the church. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1889.] c. 82 p. D. cl., 50 c.

The present writer, after a reading of H. Rider Haggard's "She," has come to the conclusion that it is meant as an allegory—"She" representing the Christian church. His ingenious interpretation of the story is given in this little volume.

Norton, Mrs. Frances Marié. The stalwarts; or, who were to blame: a novel. Chic., Mrs.

Frances Marié Norton, publisher, 1888. c. 311 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

The sub-title more fully defines the aim: it describes the book as a novel portraying fifty years of American history, showing those political complications which have, in the United States, culminated in civil war, and even in the assassination of two good presidents. By Frances Marié Norton, the only sister of Charles J. Guiteau. Mrs. Norton's object is to defend her brother's name. She represents him as crazy and secretly worked upon by certain parties for political motives to assassinate President Garfield. A great deal of family history is given to account for Guiteau's insanity. The names are all fictitious, and the narrative in the form of a novel.

Oliphant, Mrs. Marg. O. W. The little pilgrim: further experiences. [Anon.] Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. 190 p. S. cl., 60 c.

Continues the story of "the little pilgrim" in the unseen world. In the "seen and the unseen"—the first part of this volume—she has many questionings and longings answered. Under the guidance of the "Sage" she returns to earth and is shown the constant and loving work of God's advocates pleading with his children to return to him. "On the dark mountains" paints a hopeless picture of "those who had chosen to follow their own way." "The land of darkness" is a picture of the infernal regions almost as powerful as Dante painted.

Peard, Frances Mary. The country cousin: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 371 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 643.) pap., 40 c.

Joan Medhurst has been brought up in the country, by a father and mother unusually rich in educational theories. She has been thoroughly drilled in humility by her father, by constant fault-finding as to her looks and mental endowments. The time comes, finally, when she must go to London to be "presented," and firmly believing she is both ugly and ignorant dreads the ordeal. Her unexpected success as a "beauty" turns her head, and there is a most alarming rebellion on her part against her father's tiresome lectures. She determines to marry, to gain her freedom—Sir Henry Lancaster, an M.P. and a celebrity of the day, being the victim of her little plan. He loves her devotedly and believes her as innocent and unsophisticated as she looks. He marries her and has a terrible awakening. For a time her vanity and heartlessness threaten to wreck her husband's life, but Joan's better nature awakens under a strain of great trouble.

Robbins, Mrs. S. S. Gladys Philbrick; how she was made great. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1889.] c. 204 p. S. (Rock Cove ser.) cl., 75 c.

The first volume of a new series for young people, by the author of "The Gillettes." Gladys is a motherless little girl, living in Florida, who has such an ungovernable temper that her father can do nothing with her. He finally concludes to send her to Massachusetts to her uncle's house, at Rock Cove. Here her story takes place, and she learns to be a better girl. Her dog Ponto plays quite a part in the narrative.

Robertson, W. Life and times of the Right Hon. John Bright. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1889. c. 4+604 p. por. O. cl., $1.50.

First published in 1884, and noticed in "Weekly Record," P. W., Feb. 23, '84, [630.] A new chapter has been added to this edition, bringing the narrative down to the date of Mr. Bright's death, in March, 1889. This chapter deals chiefly with his attitude towards Irish home rule.

Saunders, F., comp. The Washington centennial souvenir. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. c. 41 p. il. O. pap., 25 c.

The souvenir comprises a picturesque description of the inauguration of the first President of the United States, a collection of the eulogies pronounced upon his character by the most eminent personages of all nationalities, and a chapter devoted to anecdotes and incidents connected with Washington's great career. It is compiled by the author of "Salad for the solitary."

The mysterious letters in the title stand for "illicit diamond buyer," known familiarly as an "I. D. B." These men grow rich in a short time through buying the stolen gems, and return to their native land—if they escape detection—wealthy and respected. Donald Laure figures in this capacity. He has married a beautiful native, upon whom he lavishes his dishonestly gained wealth. Mrs. Laure is the centre of a dramatic episode. The detectives coming to search her husband's house for a missing diamond, she cleverly secretes it in the glass eye of a Zulu servant. The story has a most unexpected ending. Shows as intimate knowledge of South Africa as did "Yankee girls in Zulu Land," by the same author.

The underlying motive is the influence of music: the story shows it is not always an elevating one. Moritz Reisse, the chief character, is a famous composer. He loves his friend's wife with a guilty passion. The intrigue is discovered by the husband, and the result is the double suicide of husband and wife. The scene is laid in Germany, and the characters are German. Many interesting conversations on music are introduced.

This narrative of one of the hardest fought battles of the American civil war "is founded principally on the official records of the officers of both the United States and rebel forces, interspersed with some details not found in the records from the reminiscences of veracious persons and from personal observations of the writer." John B. Turchin (Ivan Vasilievitch Turchinoff) was born in Russia, 1822; entered the Cadet School at St. Petersburg; in due time was admitted into the staff service of the Imperial Guards as sub-captain and was promoted successively captain and colonel. Made the campaigns with the Imperial Guards during the Hungarian war, 1848-9, and of the Crimean war. In this country he achieved reputation as colonel of the 10th Illinois Infantry and as brigade commander in the Army of the Cumberland, his greatest feats being the capture of Huntsville, Ala., his last charge at Chickamauga, and the scaling of Missionary Ridge.

Two pretty, motherless girls, who are cousins, divide the interest. The father of one is an extremely wealthy man and the president of a great railroad company; the father of the other is a baron, and the possessor of a fine property and baronial mansion up among the Alps, which the railroad president is trying to obtain to make a line through for his railway. The struggle to retain his home kills the old baron, and he dies cursing the originators of the road. Added to this curse is a legend of the "Alpine fay," connected with a high peak in the mountain, which is verified in the story just as the baron's curse seems to carry out its evil work. The theft of an invention, the final punishment of the thief, several love affairs, and many charming scenes from German domestic life make up the story.

Wiggin, J. B. The wild artist in Boston: a story of love and art in the actual. Bost., J. B. Wiggin, 17 Bromfield St., 1888. c. 407 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"The 'wild artist,' Roy Bartlett, is the son of a New Hampshire farmer, bright, active, and handsome, and with a love for art so strong that he is finally impelled to come to Boston, where he starts out upon what proves to be a very pleasant and profitable career as a landscape painter. He is at first subject to the ups and downs which accompany the life of an artist, but happily he is not dependent upon his work, and the ill luck which might crush the ordinary painter has no particular or permanent effect upon him. He takes things as they come, and enjoys life to the full. He makes the acquaintance of many of the city artists, whose names occur frequently in the book, and some of them even take active part in the events of the story. The scene changes back and forth from the city to the country, and the incidents are those of every-day life. The charm of the book lies in its freshness and its utter unconventionality."—Boston Evening Transcript.

"HONORABLE MENTION."

In these centennial days, when the American pulse is quickened in so many ways, many thoughts are turned backward and old memories are awakened. Just after reading the announcement of the change in the Ticknor firm, an hour ago I picked up a copy of the third edition of Motherwell's Poems, a thin little volume bound in boards, and turned to the well-remembered and honored imprint: Boston, Wm. D. Ticknor & Co., MDCCCXLV. We were a smaller people then, and had fewer publishers and sellers of books. We now know many things of which we then knew nothing. Doubtless we have grown greatly in knowledge, and greatly increased in riches so called, but we have lost many good things, and among them, and largely, I fear, the old-time bookseller and bookstore, of which the "wooden corner" was a memorable type. How few, relatively, there are now of such places in all the broadened land! In those days, and for many years afterwards, that bookstore was a lounging-place for the men of wit and learning; for the younger students and readers, as well as for their elders. "Ticknor's" was an institution, not in the cant phrase of to-day, but in the true sense. The best of Boston lingered and loitered there among the books, while in the "office," or room upstairs, a new race of authors were planning with the publisher for first ventures on the opening and widening sea of American literature.

I much doubt if any of the historians will think it worth their while to recognize on their pages the true relation of the publisher in the development of our literature. But look at the line of new authors, to say nothing of the old, whose works were issued from the Ticknor press. Of the former not a few were unknown save in a limited circle, and then as now the publisher bore the risk and venture of their work. This is a fact too often overlooked or forgotten.

As a man of affairs I presume I might better be spending my time in trying to sell a book (at a liberal discount of course) than indulging in such idle reminiscences and suggestions as these.

And yet might not all of us learn a lesson from the past to help us in this trade of ours? Would that all of our generation might hold with the old-time publisher and bookseller, that, while eager for success, he was never to forget that his business stood kin to the learned professions, and that he was, by the very nature of it, something more than a simple tradesman!

May the new departure of Mr. Benjamin Ticknor be crowned with success. A. D. F. R.

THE TRUE INWARDNESS OF THE "LOOMIS NATIONAL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION" AND THE "BUYERS' UNION."

ON Thursday last, the 17th inst., the affairs of the Loomis National Library Association, of 744 Broadway, N. Y., the Buyers' Union, of 2 Cooper Union, and of the Consolidated Buyers' Jobbing Company, of 795 Broadway, so-called book publishing, bookselling, and subscription concerns, were freely ventilated at the Jefferson Market Police Court, New York, in the case of Albert L. Talcott against Ernest T. Loomis.

The complaint on its face involves a charge that on March 27 Loomis, the ex-President of the Buyers' Union, entered its offices at 2 Cooper Union and removed to 795 Broadway furniture, fixtures, a safe, and other property belonging to the Buyers' Union, of which Talcott is President. The value of the articles was put at $1100 or $1200. Behind this charge were others more serious. Justice Patterson held the defendant in $5000 for examination. In default of bondsmen Loomis went to the court jail.

Loomis, in answer to Justice Patterson's questions, said that the articles he removed belonged to him, as he had purchased them with his own money, and not with the money of the Buyers' Union.

Ernest T. Loomis in 1887 organized, under the laws of the State of Virginia, a company which was to be known as Loomis National Library Association. The purpose of the company was to furnish any member with all books at publishers' rates, in return for which privilege each member subscribed $10. The name of the association was changed in February, 1889, to the Buyers' Union. Arrangements were also made for local managers, who should represent the association. For some time past J. V. Sebold has been its Secretary, and the main office has been in Cooper Union, this city.

According to Ezra A. Tuttle, counsel for the complainants, Loomis, who held $50,000 worth of the stock, has been advertising all over the country for persons competent to take important offices in the company. The condition was always made that any applicant should buy stock in the concern.

"It was a 'paper' company in every sense of the word," said Mr. Tuttle. J. V. Sebold, the Secretary at the home office, admits that all the stock was issued to Loomis and charged to him, and he paid in $5000 and drew it out on various pretexts.

"Late last year he had done so well," continued Mr. Tuttle, "that he wanted to slide out, and so went gunning for dupes. Mr. Talcott answered one of his advertisements from Chicago and received in reply a letter which said that stock would be sold at par. It was fully paid up, unassessable, and of course represented actual property up to the full amount. It paid handsome dividends. The cash profits amounted to several thousand dollars a month. In February Loomis had so paved the way to slipping out of the concern that he had wheedled several persons out of big sums and had given them offices. Mr. Talcott, President, parted with $6000, and C. Z. Hill, Treasurer, with $5000. C. A. Epping, of the War Department, Washington, paid $1000 and got the Assistant Secretaryship. Harold Russell Griffith paid $5000 on the understanding that he was to be Loomis' right-hand man."

These officers were to enter on their duties on March 1. Loomis was to make money for the concern, to which was given the title of the Loomis National Library Association. Loomis, on the night of March 27 it is stated by complainants, cleaned out the Cooper Union office and took the effects to 795 Broadway to establish the Consolidated Buyers' Jobbing Company as a rival to the Library Association.

Mr. Loomis' arrest brings to light evidence to show that a good many people are financially interested in Loomis' operations. It is alleged that all the agents whom he employed as district managers were badly duped. They were to open an office, oversee the shipping of goods, and generally superintend the work of the sub-agents or canvassers. Each manager would have control of a stock worth more than $4000, and would be required to deposit only $1500 as a guarantee, which could be withdrawn when the business connection ceased.

It appears that Loomis did not insist on the deposit of $1500. He took what he could get. One gave him $500, another $200, and others deposited all the way from $200 to $1000. In return each was given an agency and a stock of books, but the stock was so antiquated as to be practically useless. As a natural result the agencies were soon given up. The deposit, however, it is alleged, was not returned in any case reported.

THE GENESIS OF THE UNITED STATES.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. have in preparation an important work, to be entitled "The Genesis of the United States, a narrative of the movement in England, 1605-1616, which resulted in the plantation of North America by Englishmen, disclosing the contest between England and Spain for the possession of the soil now occupied by the United States of America, the whole set forth through a series of historical manuscripts now first printed, together with a reissue of rare contemporaneous tracts, accompanied by bibliographical memoranda, plans, and portraits, and a comprehensive biographical index," collected, arranged and edited by Alexander Brown. The entire work will be contained in two octavo volumes, of about 450 pages each. The publication will begin as soon as three hundred subscribers have been obtained. The price to them will be $12 for the two volumes, bound in cloth. The publishers reserve the right to raise the price of all subsequent issues. The author takes his stand in London, as it were, and gives a complete history of the period in question in the form which it took at the time. He presents the documents, broadsides, and rare tracts, in his narrative, in their historic order, as they came to hand in London or in the Court of Spain. Thus he gives the information which the founders of Virginia had, and also discloses the secret intrigues not known to them at the time. These documents and reprints are furnished with head-notes, which state explicitly their origin and present location, as well as the events which called them forth; with foot-notes explanatory of difficulties, and with editorial narrative which points out the relation which they bear to each other and to historical development. They are printed, when taken from English records, with scrupulous precision as to spelling and capitalization, and the translations from the Spanish and French have been made as literal as possible, with due regard to intelligibility.

The documents thus collected are of six sorts:

I. Manuscripts which never before have been printed. These are given in full.

II. Printed papers which never have been printed either in America or in England.

III. Manuscripts in foreign languages, of which translations into English never before have been printed.

IV. Manuscripts and printed papers which have appeared at a later date in print, but not in America. These three divisions are given in full, except in some instances when the length renders this impracticable; in such cases extended extracts are given.

V. Manuscripts and printed papers which have been reprinted in America. In this division only the briefer papers have been reproduced, but careful reference has been made to the longer ones, and full account given of the reprint.

VI. Illustrative material. So far as this is a matter of printed books a list only has been given. By means of this plan the work contains both a great mass of entirely new or exceedingly rare material, and a full guide to all the contemporaneous sources of the history under consideration. The whole number of documents contained in the work is 365. Of these, 71 have been published before; the remainder, 294, are now for the first time given to the public. They have been drawn from a variety of sources, public and private; many of them were written in cipher, many were secret despatches. They include communications between Virginia and London, and confidential communications between the Spanish Court and its agents in London; agreements, contracts, constitutions, and records.

PROPOSED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONS.

From the time of the Union of the thirteen colonies to the present date conventions have been held for the purpose of framing State constitutions. In the case of the oldest States this course was pursued on the recommendation of Congress. In regard to later admissions into the Union, Congress has prescribed the methods to be pursued in order to obtain admission; but in all cases a fundamental law or constitution is a prerequisite of statehood.

In a very large majority of cases the proceedings or journals of these conventions, and in later years debates and documents, have been printed, affording a vast amount of official information as to the construction or intent of portions of these instruments.

In many of the States the original constitutions have been repeatedly amended or entirely superseded by later instruments, involving the same formality of conventions, ratifications, etc. Not infrequently the work of a convention has been set aside by the vote of the people, and Congress has on several occasions failed to approve constitutions adopted by seceded States and territorial conventions antecedent to their proposed admission into the Union.

The Journals, Debates, and Documents of these conventions, the accounts of local contentions transferred to Congress, and embodied in numerous memorials and petitions to and reports from that body, form contributions of the highest importance to the history of every State in the Union.

Many of these publications are of the greatest rarity, in fact of some of them it has been found impossible to get any trace whatever. W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., Washington, D. C., propose now to publish the results of ten years' careful research by Mr. J. H. Hickcox, also of Washington, who has collected upwards of two thousand titles, including editions of Federal and State Constitutions which have been printed collectively or separately. The work will include also bibliographical accounts of the fundamental laws of the colonies, of the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, the proceedings of the Federal Convention of 1787 which formulated the Constitution of the United States, and the proceedings of the several State conventions called for the purpose of ratifying the same.

Mr. Hickcox is well known as an accurate and painstaking bibliographer, and the connection of his name with the work is assurance of its being well and thoroughly done. Should enough interest be shown in the work to warrant the publication it will be handsomely printed, with full collations and descriptions, and will, it is thought, make an octavo volume of about 200 pages. All interested in American history, especially in its constitutional bearings, are invited to coöperate in furthering the publication by sending their names to the publishers as subscribers, and by contributing titles of any books or pamphlets relating to the subject and coming within the above-named limits.

A LIBRARY OF BOOKS BY WOMEN.

From the N. Y. Sun.

WE hear from Paris of a new library to be established there in which only books written by women are to be kept on the shelves. Not long ago there was a project for getting up a library of that kind in this city. It was found, after full inquiry, that at least 10,000 volumes by female authors could be procured in short time. In the list that was made there were books in every department of literature. About one-half of the whole were novels, but the other half contained the titles of works upon many branches of science, upon metaphysics, history, philosophy, theology, literary criticism, and education, besides dramas, epics, lyrics, and other poems. We do not think it would be advisable for women to confine their reading to books written by other women, any more than it is advisable for men to neglect the valuable literature that has been created by the ladies. It is desirable that the works of both feminine and masculine authors should be found in our libraries. At the same time it would be interesting to see a special collection in this city of all the volumes that have emanated from female minds since the days of Sappho.

OBITUARY.

PROF. I. H. BROWN, of the publishing firm of I. H. Brown & Co., St. Louis, Mo., died at Columbia, Mo., March 28, aged 47 years. He was born in Fayette County, O., August 17, 1842, and graduated from McKendree College in 1862. He made teaching his life-long occupation, and wrote a large number of works on mathematics, elocution, and the English language. In 1880, in connection with his brother, C. W. Brown, he became a publisher (chiefly of his own books), settling in St. Louis. In 1885 he went to Columbia to open a branch of his business and to complete a series of mathematical works. He was just about to enter a brilliant career as author of educational books. Many excellent articles from his pen have appeared in the educational journals of this country.

LOUIS ULBACH, the widely-known French journalist and writer, died in Paris on the 16th inst., after an illness of some duration, in the sixty-eighth year of his age. He was born in Troyes. In 1844, at the age of twenty-two, he published his first book, a volume of poems, entitled "Gloriana." He entered the field of journalism in 1844, and gained some celebrity by a series of letters published under the pseudonym of "Jacques Souffrant." In 1853 he became editor-in-chief of the Revue de Paris, holding the position until the paper was suppressed in 1858. After that he contributed to a number of journals, including Le Temps and Figaro, until 1868, when, on the suppression of Rochefort's La Lanterne, he started a similar journal, which he called La Cloche. In 1872 he became a contributor to the Indépendance Belge and the Revue Politique et Littéraire. M. Ulbach was also the author of a number of novels, of which his "Madame Gosselin," "For Fifteen Years," and "The Steel Hammer" were published in English translations in this country by D. Appleton & Co., and his "Confessions of an Abbé" by T. B. Peterson & Bros.

DR. SAMUEL W. GROSS, the eminent practitioner and author of medical works, died at his home in Philadelphia, on the 16th inst., aged fifty-two years.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE centennial number of Harper's Bazar, to be issued April 26, will contain an engraving of Daniel Huntington's painting, "Lady Washington's Reception Day," and two drawings by H. A. Ogden, "Washington Taking the Oath," and "The First Inauguration Ball—Washington leading Mrs. Maxwell in the minuet." Anne Richardson Earle contributes an appropriate story, "The First Inaugural Ball," and Agnes Carr Sage an article called "A Hundred Years Ago."

THE Graver and Palette, a new journal devoted to the interests of engravers and painters, is said to start under auspicious conditions. A special feature will be the free use of its columns "to further getting positions of various kinds for those wishing to utilize their artistic talents as 'bread-winners.'" The editors are G. C. Loewenthal and Alice Hyneman Rhine. The paper will be a quarterly and will be published at 164 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

THE first number of a weekly paper devoted to better and fuller means of technical and practical education, called The American Workman, has just been issued, presumably by Cassell & Co. It is an illustrated magazine of practice and theory for workmen, professional and amateur. Its scope is comprehensive and its management will be liberal. No polemics will be admitted and discussion will be permitted on such subjects only as are of common interest for all readers. Every paper that requires it will be fully illustrated with sketches, diagrams, or working drawings, which alone will render The American Workman most valuable. Subscriptions should be addressed to the editor of The American Workman, New York City.

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY.—Ward, Lock & Co. will remove May 1 to No. 35 Bond Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—W. J. Gage & Co.'s office in this city will be at No. 3 East 14th Street instead of East 4th Street, as announced in our last issue.

NEW YORK CITY.—By the fire last week Bowers & Loy's stock at 111 Nassau Street was damaged to the extent of $4000.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY has published a little tract entitled "Washington's Religious Belief—selections from the public addresses of Gen. Washington, declarative of his trust in Divine Providence and belief in the Christian Revelation," compiled by Rev. Mason Gallagher.

WARD, LOCK & Co. have just ready "The Life and Opinions of John Bright," by Francis Watt, fully illustrated. They will publish at once "Camps and Quarters," a series of military sketches and stories by the well-known war correspondents Archibald Forbes, George Henty, and Charles Williams.

F. DENHAM, 744 Broadway, N. Y., has issued as a souvenir of the Inauguration centennial a broadside sheet (14 x 22 inches) containing the portraits, with fac-simile signatures, of all the Presidents of the United States from Washington to Harrison, a picture of the inauguration of Washington, April 30, 1789, and views of Wall Street in 1789 and 1889. It retails at 10 cents.

HUBBARD BROS., Philadelphia, have in press an illustrated volume to be entitled "Living Leaders of the World." It will contain short biographies of men and women now most prominent all over the world. The portraits, mostly from new photographs, to accompany these biographies, will be in steel plate, photogravure, and wood-cut. Many well known authors are engaged upon the biographies.

THE OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston, have just issued a handsome song folio entitled "Choice Sacred Songs," containing carefully selected and publicly tested songs of a sacred or devotional character. Some of the best modern composers of this class of songs are represented in the book, among whom are Barri, Tosti, Gounod, Costa, Tours, Handel, Abt Haydn, Blumenthal, Lassen, Helmund, Faure, Parker, Saint-Saëns, Raff, and others. Every solo has accompaniment for the piano or organ. Nothing of a trivial or undignified nature has been admitted into the collection. The pieces are not difficult. The price is $1 in paper and $1.25 in boards.

CASSELL & Co. will publish early in the summer a collection of the amusing experiences of Marshall P. Wilder, the humorist. They have just published a novel with the extraordinary title of "Rented: a husband." How a woman could rent a husband, of whom she could rent him, or what she would want to rent him for are questions that will at once present themselves, and they are answered to the entire satisfaction of the reader. We have often heard of husbands who were bought outright, but renting them is certainly a new industry. How it may be carried on is ingeniously demonstrated in this romance. The husband who was rented is described as an actor, the wife by whom he was rented as an actress, and the woman who rented him as a "star" in the theatrical firmament. His engagement as the "leading man" of her company is not what is referred to by the expression "rented;" that refers to a bona fide business transaction by which he was rented as a husband for so much cash down and so much per week. The identity of the author of this curious book is hidden behind the pseudonym of Annie Eliot.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS add to their previous announcements for the spring season: "The Ideals of the Republic, or, great words from great Americans," comprising The Declaration of Independence, The Constitution of the United States, Washington's First Inaugural, Washington's Second Inaugural, Washington's Farewell Address, Lincoln's First Inaugural, Lincoln's Second Inaugural, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The volume will contain etched portraits of Washington and Lincoln, and will be issued as No. 20 of the Knickerbocker Nuggets. They will also publish a translation of Dante's "Convito," by Katharine Hillard; a third volume in Mr. Phyle's series of works on pronunciation, entitled "Seven Thousand Words Often Mispronounced;" and "An Essay on Money," by James Platt, author of "Business," reprinted, under arrangement with the author, from the 19th English edition. For the American Historical Association they will issue a "Report of the Proceedings at the Fifth Annual Meeting held in Washington in December, 1888." For the American Society of Church History they will publish Vol. I. of its papers, comprising: "The Progress of Religious Freedom as Illustrated in the Toleration Edicts," by Philip Schaff, D.D., President of the Society; "Indulgencies in Spain," by Henry C. Lea, LL.D.; "The Crisis in the Middle Ages," by James Clement Moffat, D.D.; "Melancthon's Synergism, a study in the history of psychological dogmatism," by Frank Hugh Foster; "The Influence of the Golden Legend," by Prof. E. C. Richardson; and "Notes on Syncretism," by Prof. Hugh McDonald Scott.

THE German War Office has published a history of Prussian flags since the battle of Jena, and is to follow it with a history of Prussian regiments from the period of the father of Frederick the Great (Frederick William) to our own times.

WALTER SMITH & INNES, London, will publish late this month the authorized translation of Garibaldi's "Autobiography." A copious supplement, to meet the requirements of English readers, has been added by Madame Jessie White Mario. Fac-similes of some of Garibaldi's letters are given.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

A Russian "Ecce Homo."

COUNT TOLSTOÏ'S
MY RELIGION.

NEW EDITION.

Paper Covers, 50 Cents; Cloth, $1.00.

---

This book, which was the first to attract attention to Count Tolstoi's remarkable personality, immediately caused more discussion than any other work of its kind that has been published since "Ecce Homo." It was recognized by many as the utterance of a new prophet who, stripping away from religion the dead husks of conventionality and Phariseism, restored Christianity to its pristine simplicity and truth. Even those who felt called upon to criticise its violent literalism confessed that it was the work of an honest man who saw in Christ's teachings the only way to save the world from moral death.

"My Religion" has become a classic, and this new edition will put it within reach of all.

The Literary News.

---

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS has become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, began in January and will run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work."

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," enlivens each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specially intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

Address THE LITERARY NEWS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL ST.),

"Summer Reading,"

1889.

To RETAIL DEALERS:

The SUMMER CATALOGUE, issued now for twelve years, has been found so useful and profitable by enterprising dealers, that it has become a regular feature of the trade. The thirteenth issue, in a special pamphlet adapted for imprint circulation all through the summer, will be published in connection with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, early in June.

The imprint editions will contain, in addition to a catalogue of guide-books and light literature for summer reading, an entirely new selection of reading-matter both of a practical and entertaining character, chiefly intended for the use and amusement of tourists, pleasure-seekers, and visitors of summer resorts.

Booksellers should remember that, while summer is usually a dull time, the sales of light literature, etc., can be pushed to make a successful business even in this season. The classes who travel are of course those who have money to spend, even in dull times, and the summer is the time when very many bookbuyers do the greater part of their reading. The decadence of the "cheap libraries" should give the enterprising dealer the opportunity to sell better and more profitable books. Booksellers at or near summer resorts should especially avail themselves of this publication, while city dealers should remember that it will be also useful to tempt stay-at-homes to make investments or to follow up customers otherwise out of reach.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish shortly another contribution to the steadily growing Emerson literature. The forthcoming volume is by the son of the sage of Concord, Mr. Edward W. Emerson, who will afford a glimpse into the private and charming domestic life of his famous father. The title of the book will be "Emerson in Concord." Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have also under way an illustrated edition of Thackeray, which will be, it is promised, more complete than any other existing edition. It will be in twenty-two 12mo volumes printed in large type.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have just ready "Ethical Religion," a volume of lectures delivered by W. M. Salter before the Society of Ethical Culture of Chicago; a cheaper edition of "In His Name," by E. E. Hale, containing all the illustrations of the larger holiday edition of this beautiful story; a revised edition of C. E. Pascoe's useful handbook "London of To-Day," which is now in its fifth year; and a new edition in cloth and paper covers of Mary Cowden Clarke's "A Rambling Story."

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have just ready one of the most interesting literary contributions to the approaching anniversary celebration in Mr. Thos. E. V. Smith's volume, "The City of New York in the Year of Washington's Inauguration, 1789." The extract from the book is but a small portion of the matter relating to the state of literature, newspapers, art, and education in general in New York a hundred years ago. The remainder of the book is given up to a general description of the city, and then pictures in detail government, militia, politics; climate, dress, and customs; churches and clergy; amusements, etc., and ends with President and Vice-President, and Washington's inauguration. He records the dwellers on the principal streets, and gives vivid brief sketches of the city fathers, the Faculty of Columbia College, the newspapers of the day, the plays of 1789, and many a curious extract from public or private documents.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have now ready a volume entitled "The United States," by Prof. J. D. Whitney. The volume is made up from the article written for the "Encyclopædia Britannica," modified in such a manner that it appears as originally written, with the facts and figures illustrating the physical geography of our country and its material resources corrected down to the beginning of the present year. They have also just issued the index volume to the "Encyclopædia Britannica," completing the work; "An Exposition of the Principles of Partnership," by James Parsons, of the Philadelphia Bar and Professor in the University of Pennsylvania; vol. 147 of the "Massachusetts Reports;" and vol. 19 in the new series of the "United States Digest." In May they will publish "The American Law of Administration," by Judge J. G. Woerner, of the Probate Court of the city of St. Louis, Mo.; and later they will issue Dumas' "Monte Cristo," in four volumes, and the "Valois Romances," in six volumes, comprising "Marguerite de Valois," "La Dame de Mousoreau," and "Forty-five," uniform with their previous issues of Dumas' works and illustrated with a number of historical portraits.

Bastin, Edson S. College botany; including organography, vegetable histology, vegetable physiology, and vegetable taxonomy; with a brief account of the succession of plants in geologic time, and a glossary of botanical terms; being a rev. and enl. ed. of the "Elements of botany." Chic., G. P. Engelhard & Co., 1889. c. 15+451 p. il. O. cl., $3.

The "Elements of botany," published in 1887, was noticed in "Weekly Record," P. W., June 4, 1887, [801.] When the first ed. was exhausted and a revision became necessary it was thought best to supply its place with two books: one especially suited to the use of colleges and of schools of pharmacy and medicine, and the other, a briefer and more elementary work, adapted to the use of high schools and academies. This, the "college botany," is the same in treatment as the "Elements." Considerable portions of Pts. 1, 2, and 3 of the "Elements" have been rewritten for this work and much new matter added; and pt. 4 has been wholly rewritten and much extended. To the chapters on organography and vegetable histology some additional practical exercises have been added. In pt. 5 important changes have been made in the classification. The glossary of terms has been revised and extended, old engravings have been reengraved, and many new ones added by the author.

Benjamin, Marcus, comp. May-time: a collection of poems, exhibition pieces, and games. N. Y., The De Witt Publishing House, [1889.] c. 84 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Offers a collection of poems and dialogues for May-day exercises, and gives a brief history of the ceremonies with which the coming of spring has been celebrated. The poems are almost entirely from standard authors.

Brown, Jessie H. Roderick Wayne. Cin., Standard Pub. Co., 1889. c. '88. 5+213 p. O. cl., $1.

An account of the life of a young man, early left an orphan; his innate goodness and religious training make his career a most successful one. The incidents are simple and unsensational.

Canfield, W. B., M.D. Practical notes on urinary analysis. Reprinted from the Maryland Medical Journal. Balt., Md., [Cushings & Bailey], [1889.] 38 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Chapin, Ja. H. From Japan to Granada: sketches of observation and inquiry in a tour round the world in 1887-8. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 11+325 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The two opening chapters are devoted to an account of the writer's experience in Japan and China; then follow descriptions of Singapore, the Isle of Ceylon, here and there in India, the land of the Pharaohs, historic scenes in Palestine, the Knights of St. John—Malta, a glance at Sicily and the further shore, the Barbary states and Spain.

Choral book (The) for home, school and church; tr. by F. Zuchtman and Edwin L. Kirtland.

Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889. c. 96 p. O. bds., 70 c.

The "Choral book" consists of ninety choice choral pieces which have proved their quality by centuries of use in the homes, schools, and churches of Germany. The tunes are unchanged by a single note, while the hymns have been translated with religious fidelity to both sentiment and music.

Connolly, Ja. H. A storm ashore. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. 92 p. D. (The household lib., v. 4, no. 24.) pap., 25 c.

Convers, D. Marriage and divorce in the United States; as they are and as they ought to be. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. 4+266 p. S. cl., $1.25.

Written for the general reader, to prove and illustrate the statement that marriage and divorce in the United States are in an unsatisfactory condition. The chapters are thus entitled: How the tie is formed; How presumptions marry those who ever consented; Prohibitions which prohibit nothing; Who may not marry; Divorce; Legal causes for divorce; Christ's teaching on divorce; Conflict of laws.

*Cowdery, Jabez F. A treatise on the law and practice in justices' courts, as determined by the statutes and decisions of Cal., Col., Nev., Oreg., Ariz., Ida., Mont., Utah, and Wash. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1889. c. 852 p. O. shp., $13.

Crofton, F. Blake. Haliburton: the man and the writer: a study. Windsor, N. S., The Haliburton Soc., 1889. 75 p. O. (Haliburton ser., no. 1.) pap., 50 c.

The Haliburton Society of Windsor, N. S., was founded in 1884 "to further in some degree the development of a distinctive literature in Canada." This paper on Judge Haliburton is the first of a proposed series of annual publications. It is a very scholarly and appreciative sketch of the greatest of Nova Scotian writers, and one whose influence was very marked on certain characteristic departments of American literature. Though there are few readers of the "Clockmaker" to-day, yet many of Sam Slick's shrewd sayings have become household words.

Croker, B. M. Pretty Miss Neville a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 263 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1335.) pap., 20 c.

Davidson, T. Prolegomena to "In memoriam;" with an index to the poem. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 7+177 p. D. cl., $1.25.

In writing this essay on Tennyson's "In Memoriam" the author's aim has been to bring out into clearness the religious soul-problem which forms its unity.

Draper, Lyman C. An essay on the autographic collections of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution. From V. 10, Wisconsin Historical Society Collections. Rev. and enl. N. Y., Burns & Son, 744 Broadway, 1889. c. 117 p. por. sq. O. cl., $2.

Some very valuable and interesting information is given in this essay concerning the collectors and collections of autographs of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution. The subject is introduced with an account of the slow but steady growth in this country of this beautiful and inspiring employment, and of the patience, perseverance, and time needed in its pursuit.

Ducoudray, Gustave. The history of ancient civilization : a hand-book based upon Ducoudray's Histoire sommaire de la civilisation; ed. by Rev. J. Verschoyle. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 12+295 p. il. D. cl., $1.75.

Ducoudray's work is divided into two parts, the second under the title of "The history of modern civilization," will be published shortly. The work is intended especially for students in the more advanced classes of schools. This can scarcely be called a translation of the work for a large part, especially the accounts of Greek literature and art and Latin literature, has been re-written by the editor for the sake of greater accuracy and fuller information. In rewriting as well as in correcting he has used the works of the latest and best authorities.

Examination and education : the American supplement to the Nineteenth Century, for March, 1889. N. Y., Leonard Scott Pub. Co., 29 Park Row, [1889.] 36 p. O. (Leonard Scott extras, no. 4.) pap., 25 c.

Papers on examination and education by representative educators from all parts of the country.

Franchi, Father Jos. Ignatius. Hand-book of humility ; or, the love of self-contempt ; from the Italian. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1889. c. 361 p. S. cl., 60 c.

A little religious work, inculcating the virtue of humility. Translated from the 3d ed., which appeared about 1803.

Fullerton, G. Stuart. A plain argument for God. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. 110 p. D. cl., $1.

The author is professor of philosophy in the University of Pennsylvania. It was with a conviction that the argument for God's existence could be stated simply and plainly, and in a way to appeal to a thoughtful mind unaccustomed to following the reasonings of the schools, that he wrote this little book. It grew out of three lectures on the subject delivered before the Churchwoman's Institute in Phila., in the spring of 1888.

Graves, Jos. A., comp. The school hymnary : a collection of hymns and tunes and patriotic songs for use in public and private schools. N. Y., C. E. Merrill & Co., [1889.] c. 176 p. D. bds., 45 c.

Harland, H.; ["Sidney Luska," pseud.] Grandison Mather ; or, an account of the fortunes of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gardiner. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 4+387 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The opening chapters give a sunny picture of Tom Gardiner's vacation in Paris after finishing his college course, and his courtship of "Mrs. Tom." Tom is a young fellow of sufficient means to feel at peace with all the world. His honeymoon has not a cloud. He returns with his wife to New York, takes an elegant suite of apartments, and proceeds to enjoy life. One morning he reads in the paper that his agent has committed suicide after making away with all of Tom's fortune. Tom is a beggar, and enjoys the novel experience of looking for a situation. This part of the story, including the search for a cheap boarding-house, is capably told. After many experiences Tom writes a novel, under the pseudonym of "Grandison Mather," and makes some money. The story is a simple, every-day one throughout, but is charmingly told and full of graphic pictures of New York life.

Harrison, Mrs. Burton, ed. Short comedies for amateur players as given at the Madison sq. and Lyceum Theatres, N. Y., by amateurs ; il. by Kelly. N. Y., The De Witt Publishing House, [1889.] c. 5+116 p. il. D. pap., 50 c.
Contents: The mouse-trap; Weeping wives; Behind a curtain; Tea at four o'clock; Two strings to her bow. These five short comedies are easily within the scope of intelligent amateurs. They have been tested and approved as suitable for this purpose at private houses, and by the larger hearing accorded them on the occasions of their production at the Madison Square and Lyceum Theatres in New York City. The five charming little sketches by Mr. Kelly will be found invaluable as suggestions for costuming and stage grouping.

Hathaway, Warren. Living questions : studies in nature and grace. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1889. c. 3-365 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A book of thoughtful sermons by the pastor of Blooming Grove Congregational Church, Washingtonville, N. Y. Contents: The guiding hand; God revealed; The nameless prophet; The office of conscience; The resurrection; The price of the prize; A royal sensualist; Prayer, our reasonable service; A divine vocation for every man; Personal liberty; The mission of affliction; The sanctuary and the church; The temporal and the eternal; The battle of life; The real issue—a discourse on evolution; The vine and the branches.

Haygood, Atticus G. Pleas for progress. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, [1889.] c. 320 p. D. cl., $1.

Discourses on questions of public interest. The titles show the many topics discussed. They are: The education of the negro; How he makes his way; A nation's work and duty; Concert of war songs; Public schools; Hand as well as head and heart training; Some needs of the negro; Building a Christian college; Broaden the college, better the school; The gammon school of theology; Our brother in black; Rescue the perishing; The convict question; Our danger and our defence; The duty of the south.

Hector, Mrs. Annie F., ["Mrs. Alexander," pseud.] A false scent. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 119 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1361.) pap., 20 c.

Holt, G. C. The concurrent jurisdiction of the federal and state courts. N. Y., Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1888. c. 26+237 p. O. shp., $3.

Homer, The Odyssey [Greek], Books 1-4 ; ed. on the basis of the Ameis-Hentze edition by B. Perrin. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889. 4+229 p. D. (College ser. of Greek authors.) cl., $1.50.

The German edition has been freely changed to adapt it to the needs of American college classes, but record is made in the appendix of all important deviations from the opinions of the German editors. References are rather liberally given to the leading American grammars, and also to Monro's "Homeric grammar."

Hungerford, E., ed. The American book of church services, with selections for responsive reading. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 12+374 p. D. cl., net, $1.25.

This book is intended to serve for churches which now use no liturgy the purpose served in the Episcopal Church by the Book of Common Prayer. It contains outlines of morning and evening service, brief and longer; a service for Sunday-schools; marriage, baptismal, and burial services; a service for uniting with the church, and for communion; services for special days and occasions; also, an ample list of selections of sacred music, with references for the guidance of pastors and choristers. The compiler has drawn from the Prayer-Book and from a large variety of volumes containing liturgical forms, and has produced a book remarkably full and admirably suited for use, especially in Congregational churches.

Ideals (The) of the republic ; or, great words from great Americans. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1889.] 2+173 p. T. (Knickerbocker nuggets.) hf. cl., $1.

Contents: The declaration of independence, 1776; The constitution of the United States, 1780; Washington's first inaugural, 1789, second inaugural, 1793, and farewell address; Lincoln's first inaugural, 1861, second inaugural, 1865, and Gettysburg address, 1863. Index to the constitution.

Jackson, Abraham W. The immanent God and other sermons. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 4+159 p. D. cl., $1.

The sermons were preached in California, and were so much appreciated for the quality and tone of thought, and for their devoutness—a very good quality, not invariably found in all sermons—that they were regarded as well worthy of being brought to a larger audience. The subjects are as follows: The immanent God; The unsearchable God; The manifest God; Law, Providence, and prayer; Satan, or the genius of trial; Self-annihilation; The way where the light dwelleth; The heart's plea for immortality accepted.

Jacobi, Mary Putnam, M.D. Physiological notes on primary education and the study of language. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 3+120 p. D. cl., $1.

Contents: The flower or the leaf; Experiments in primary education; The place for the study of languages in a curriculum of education.

King, Florence M. A man of the name of John. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] 185 p. D. (Cassell's rainbow ser., v. 1, no. 30.) pap., 25 c.

A pleasant English story of country life. The owner of Ashleigh Manor dies without signing his will. Alan Fortescue, who had looked after the property for some years, is thus deprived of a legacy and others much disappointed. The heir has to be advertised for, and is found in a mercantile house in Liverpool. No one knows him, and he writes Alan to continue his stewardship until his return from a journey on the continent. In the meantime an unknown artist appears at Ashleigh, who gains many friends, wins disinterested love, and rights many wrongs—Alan's among others—and who finally turns out to be the heir, Sir Geoffrey Hurst.

Linkhead, Alex. L. The queen of the block. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. 57 p. D. (The household lib., v. 4, no. 23.) pap., 25 c.

Lamb, Mrs. Martha J. Souvenirs of the centennial anniversary of Washington's inauguration, April 30, 1789, as first president of the United States: papers. From the Magazine of American History. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889. c. 1+86 p. il. O. pap., 25 c.

Three papers entitled, "The inauguration of Washington, 1789," "Washington as president, 1789-1790," and "Historic homes and landmarks." Contains also the program of ceremonies for the centennial celebration for April 29 and 30, and May 1, 1889.

Leonie; or, the sweet singer of New York; by the author of "For mother's sake." N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1889.] 151 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1346.) pap., 20 c.

McCarthy, Justin, and Praed, Mrs. Campbell. The ladies' gallery: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 352 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 26.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

Two Englishmen looking for a gold mine meet in the Australian bush. One is perishing from hunger and thirst, and the other shares his small remaining stock of food and water with him. Over the camp-fire confidences are exchanged and a compact of friendship is entered into. The man who had been perishing from thirst vows, if needed, to sacrifice life and happiness to Richard Ransom, his rescuer. This is the motive of the book. The gold is found and the men return to England immensely wealthy. Dick Ransom goes into Parliament and the reader is led to take a strong interest in his career and political opinions. London social life with its many celebrities is also well described. Ransom loves, but finds there is an impediment in his way to winning a girl whom he thought free. The perplexities of his life are solved by "Jo Binbian," his Australian chum, who acts like a hero and redeems the old vow made in the bush.

McCarthy, Justin, and Praed, Mrs. Campbell. The ladies' gallery. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. 287 p. D. (Globe lib., no. 89.) pap., 25 c.

The other subjects discussed in this volume are: Jesus and the great masters of literature; Great men in history; Christian manliness in trial; The desire for death; The identification of divinity with humanity; Modern progress an encouragement to missionary zeal; etc., etc.

Tuckerman, Bayard. Life of General Lafayette; with a critical estimate of his character and public acts. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1889. c. 2 v., 11+275; 3+266 p. por. D. cl., $3.

In this examination of Lafayette's career and character Mr. Tuckerman has made an attempt to arrive at impartial conclusions, to point out the mistakes as well as the successes of his career, the failings as well as the qualities of the man. He believes Lafayette has suffered, perhaps, "as much from the exaggerated praises of his admirers as from the bitter attacks of his enemies." Mr. Tuckerman has had exceptional advantages in his investigation of Lafayette's life. Through the kindness of collectors and societies, he has had the use of many valuable unpublished letters and much new and original material. Both volumes contain portraits of Lafayette at different periods of his life.

Ulbach, L. The confessions of an abbé; tr. by [J. Stirling. Phil. T. B. Peterson & Bros., 1889.] c. tr. 17-357 p. sq. S. bds., 25 c.

In early life, before the abbé had taken his vows, he had loved a beautiful woman, and through a cruel deception had been made to believe she was false to him. He then entered the church and she became the Duchess de Thorvilliers. After both have advanced in life and he had become a famous preacher they meet and the past is explained. Their old love is revived, and in a moment of passion they both forget their vows—she to her husband, he to the church. The duchess dies broken-hearted after giving birth to a child—a daughter—and the abbé expiates his sin through this child and also through the punishment inflicted upon him by the church, which unfrocks him.

Ulmann, Albert. Frederick Struthers' romance. N. Y., Brentano's, 1889. c. 195 p. S. pap., 50 c.

The characters in this story are an old German watch-maker and his two daughters, living in the top of a tall business building below the City Hall, in New York City, and a young man who calls to have some watches mended and falls in love with one of the daughters. The young man is Frederick Struthers, who has been cast off by his family on account of his intemperate habits. He seems to bring unhappiness to all who come in contact with him, and soon succeeds in breaking up the old German's happy home. His own suicide ends a gloomy story.

*Vickers, R. H. The powers and duties of police officers and coroners. Chic., T. H. Flood & Co., 1889. c. 8+275 p. D. cl., $1.50; shp., $2.

THE rage for dramatizing all sorts of popular books has reached Washington, and we are informed that Mr. William E. Curtis, the versatile and enterprising correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, is engaged upon the dramatization of that justly popular book, Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, which will be adapted to the spectacular stage.—Washington Book Chronicle.

BUSINESS NOTES.

MONROE, WIS.—Adams & Wagner, stationers and booksellers, have sold out.

RICHMOND, VA.—The firm of Thomas J. Starke & Sons, dealers in miscellaneous and religious books and stationery, has been dissolved by the death of the senior partner, Mr. Thos. J. Starke. H. M. Starke will continue the business at the old stand, 909 E. Main St., under the firm-name of H. M. Starke & Co.

SIOUX FALLS, DAK.—Foster Ross, of the firm of Ross & Warwick, booksellers and stationers, is dead.

TABOR, IOWA.—C. E. Jones, bookseller, has sold out.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.—The new Methodist Book and Publishing House, on Richmond Street, is now approaching completion, and will be a handsome and commodious building, affording ample accommodation for manufacturing, as well as for offices for all the connected departments. It will probably be midsummer before the book-room and printing establishment are removed to the new premises. The old premises on King Street will be sold. The building has a frontage of one hundred feet by a depth between streets of two hundred feet. The property is situate in the heart of the city, very near to Yonge Street, and near the site of the new City Hall and Court-House, and with its double frontage specially suitable for its intended purpose. On Richmond Street has been erected a four-story building across the full front, which is divided into stores and hall entrance. The latter occupies the centre of the block, and forms a tower starting from foundation and finished up to top of store cornice in cut stone and polished granite columns. The total cost of the new building, including land, will be over $100,000.

HENRY G. PEARSON.

THERE is inexpressible sadness in the death of a man who dies in the doing of his work, because he is doing that work at his best, amid discouragements and ill appreciation, and because he is unwilling to do that work less well. Thus died Frederick Leypoldt five years ago. Thus died Henry G. Pearson last week, a martyr in the work which he had set himself.

We speak of his work here because it was intimately connected with the publishing trade, in an office which had relations which were national in their scope, and since the death of Mr. Pearson illustrates defects in the postal system, to which he fell a victim, which seriously concern publishing interests. We are not talking politics, because the difficulties under which Mr. Pearson labored existed under administrations of both political parties.

Mr. Pearson had to administer, in the largest and most difficult office in the country, a law which was in itself full of difficulties and inconsistencies, under directions from the Department, which is less in touch with the postal concerns of the public than a working post-office. This last, of course, is a necessary incident in all centralized administration. The provisions regarding second-class matter in the present law, to cite only one instance, present a mass of complications and perplexities which greatly embarrass any administrator of its provisions, and the classification of postal rates otherwise is also imperfect and illogical. Mr. Pearson himself was in favor, as the result of his long practical experience, of the simplest possible law, which should be self-operative, so to speak, and which should not require or permit the interference of the government with the methods of private business. Such a revision of the law would have had his hearty and active coöperation, so far as that could be given with due regard to his official relations. But it was his business to administer the law, not to criticise it, and to fulfil the directions of the Department of which he was a servant; and it was only in private conversation that he felt at liberty to express his personal views and desires for the improvement of the service through the improvement of the law. Some day, it is to be hoped for the good of the public and the comfort of his successors in office, the postal laws will be made as simple and sensible as he would have had them.

Mr. Pearson set himself resolutely to conduct the business of the New York Post-Office as a business organization without regard to politics. This did not gain for him the sympathy of politicians in either party, and throughout both administrations he had this second difficulty to fight. He had to be constantly on his guard against the machinations of those who sought to overthrow both him and his system by misrepresentation of both. One result of this was that in the largest post-office in the country, producing revenue enormously beyond its expenses, he was cut down in the appropriations for the New York office to a sum which barely sufficed with the strictest economy to carry on the necessary work. This required a driving of the work which was hard upon the entire personnel of the office, but chiefly upon Mr. Pearson himself. He had the loyalty of his staff, the more so where the difficulties of the situation were clearly perceived, but the corps of carriers and other employés resented the pressure put upon them and the arrangement of hours which was necessary to get the work done. Thus Mr. Pearson's life was crushed out between the upper and nether millstones. He was always brave and cheery and indefatigable at his work, but of late months his vitality had begun to fail and his nervous exhaustion began to show itself in increasing nervousness of manner. That his death was due merely to disappointment because he was not reappointed is not true; for some time he had given up any real expectation of remaining at his post.

The publishing trade, who united so heartily four years ago in urging his continuance in office, owe Mr. Pearson abiding recognition for the work which he has done toward making the post-office a business organization of the highest type. It has been proposed that those who honor the man and his methods should unite in providing some memorial which should testify to that feeling in the future, and we hope the publishing trade in New York will not be behindhand in making manifest the appreciation which we are sure that it feels.

THE catalogue for the American Book-trade Exhibit at Paris, just ready, in neat shape, from the Riverside Press, Cambridge, makes a creditable showing with its twenty-nine individual exhibits, although it is to be regretted that several of the leading houses of New York are not represented. Mr. A. Growoll, of this office, acted for M. Terquem in editing this catalogue. Visitors at the Exposition Universelle will obtain from the display a favorable if not an adequate impression of American book-publishing.

THE BOOK TRADE OF NEW YORK IN

A CONTRIBUTION TO THE CENTENNIAL.

BY THOMAS E. V. SMITH.*

THE principal publishers and booksellers in the city in 1789 were :

Thos. Allen, No. 16 Queen (Pearl) Street, corner of the Fly Market (now the Fulton Market).

Berry & Rogers, No. 35 Hanover Square.

Samuel Campbell, No. 44 Hanover Square, corner of Old Slip.

William Durrell, No. 198 Queen St.

Hugh Gaine, Sign of the Bible, Hanover Square.

Harrison & Purdy, No. 3 Peck Slip.

Robert Hodge, No 37 King (Pine) Street, corner of Queen.

Samuel Loudon, No. 5 Water Street.

Robert M'Gill, No. 212 Water Street.

William Morton, No. 231 Queen Street.

John Reid, No. 17 Water Street.

James Rivington, No. 1 Queen Street.

The books read in 1789 may be judged of by a few taken at random from the advertisements of the booksellers. Thus Samuel Campbell advertised, among other books, American editions of Nicholson's "Introduction to Natural Philosophy;" Paley's "Moral Philosophy;" Percival's "Father's Instructions;" "Emma Corbett, or, the miseries of civil war;" "Advice from a Lady of Quality to her Children, in the last stage of a lingering illness;" "The Night-Cap" by Mercier; "The Beauties" of Dr. Johnson; and Falconer's "Shipwreck." He also sold a "Life of Baron Trenck," with an elegant frontispiece representing the baron in a dungeon, loaded with 88 pounds of iron; an edition of "The Lounger," in two volumes, for 12s., which was a little more than half the London price; and the 12th edition of Webster's "Spelling-Book." In 1786 Mr. Campbell had published a sale catalogue containing the titles of about 5000 volumes. On February 4, 1789, Robert Hodge announced the publication of "The First American Novel" entitled "The Power of Sympathy, or, the triumph of nature." This entertaining work was said to be founded on truth, and written in consequence of a remarkable suicide; it was published in two duodecimo volumes and was dedicated to the young ladies of America. The suicide referred to was that of a young lady in Boston in the summer of 1788, which was fully described in the newspapers and is mentioned in Brissot de Warville's book. In December, 1789, Mr. Hodge also offered for sale, at the price of two shillings, a pamphlet entitled "The Resurrection of Laurent Ricci," a true and exact history of the Jesuits, by "A Friend of Good Government." This was dedicated to the Rev. Father John Carroll, Superior of the Jesuits in the United States. In March, 1789, Thomas Allen offered for sale the first volume of the new "Encyclopædia Britannica," and in May he announced the publication of Mr. Jerningham's "Poems" at the price of 2s. 3d. Samuel Loudon sold "The Conflagration," a poem upon the Last Day, by the Rev. Benjamin Francis, for 1s. 6d., and announced that "the elegance of the stile, the seriousness of the subject, and the object of the performance, must be an inducement to expedite the sale of such a valuable publication." Between January and April, 1789, he also sold two editions of Bartholomew Burgess' "Short Account of the Solar System." In June, 1789, Hugh Gaine published and sold Jedediah Morse's "American Geography" for 1s. to the public and for a French crown in sheets by the quantity to the booksellers. William Morton published "The Cow Chase," by Major André, and Harrison & Purdy issued "The Young Mason's Monitor and Vocal Companion," by William M Stewart, an American book containing necessary hints for the young brethren and a collection of Masonic songs. The book, however, which created the greatest interest in 1789, both in New York and other cities, was Dr. Gordon's "History of the Rise, Progress, and Establishment of the Independence of the United States of America." This book was first published in London in 1788, but in 1789 Hodge, Allen & Campbell published a proposal for subscriptions for an American edition to be issued in three octavo volumes for thirty shillings. The reception which the book met with in some quarters appears in an article copied in the New York newspapers from a Boston source, a portion of which reads as follows: "Much has been said and much still remains to be said concerning the inconsistency, the partiality, the notorious reflections, the mistakes, the redundancies, the manifest errors in grammar, the absurd conclusions, the odd conjectures, and the repetitions which appear in almost every page of Dr. Gordon's 'History of the American Revolution.'" The New York publishers, however, were equal to the occasion, published a long advertisement lauding the book to the skies, and doubtless made money by the interest aroused by the criticism of it.

The longest-established bookseller in the city in 1789 was Hugh Gaine, an Irishman from Belfast, who came to New York about the year 1745, and about 1750 set up a press purchased with his savings as an apprentice at nine shillings currency a week. In August, 1752, he established a newspaper called the New York Mercury (afterwards called the Gazette and Mercury), of which he continued the publication until 1783, remaining in the city during the Revolution. He died April 25, 1807, aged 81 years. His son, John R. Gaine, who was associated in business with him, died in May, 1787. James Rivington was a son of Charles Rivington, who in 1711 founded the publishing house of that name in London. He settled as a bookseller in Philadelphia in 1760 and came to New York in the following year. In 1773 he began the publication of a newspaper called the New York Gazetteer, which became obnoxious, and his press was destroyed by Liberty Boys in 1775; but in 1777 he resumed the publication of it under the title of the Royal Gazette and remained in New York during the Revolution, expressing the strongest Tory sentiments, but, it is said, giving secret information to Washington. In 1783 he discontinued the publication of his newspaper and became a bookseller and tobacco-nist. His tobacco advertisement in August, 1789, reads: "The Gentleman's Twist is a constant Vade mecum and hilarious Associate of the Cognoscenti and others Amateurs of our All-cheering delicious Morceau." He died in July, 1802, aged 78 years. His portrait is in the gallery of the N. Y. Historical Society.

Robert Hodge came to America from Edinburgh in 1770 and opened a printing office in New York in 1773. He removed from the city during the Revolution, but returned after the war, and published a number of books jointly with Allen & Campbell. He died in Brooklyn in August, 1813, at the age of 67 years, having been retired from business for a number of years. Samuel Campbell was also a Scotchman who began to sell books in New York about the year 1785 and died in the city on the 26th of June, 1836, aged 73 years. Thomas Allen also made his appearance about the year 1786 and continued in business until 1799. Robert MacGill first appeared in Philadelphia in 1771 and removed to New York in 1778, where he continued in business until 1811, when he removed to Newburg. His wife died on the 14th of June, 1789, aged 26 years. On the 4th of November, 1789, was "married by the Rev. Benjamin Foster, Mr. William Durrell, Printer and Bookseller, to Miss Maria Schenk, daughter of Mr. Abram Schenk, a young lady possessed of the most amiable qualities, both natural and acquired." Mr. Durrell was still in the printing business in 1823. John Reid appeared as a bookseller soon after the Revolution, and died August 19, 1828, aged 64 years.

In 1784, Samuel Loudon advertised a circulating library of about 2000 volumes, which did not thrive, although revived in April, 1787; but whether this was in existence in 1789 does not appear.

A BOOKBUYER WHO WAS WATCHED.

From the Chicago News.

THE other afternoon a very modest-looking gentleman sauntered into McClurg's bookstore and began looking at the treasures in the English corner. Mr. Millard eyed the stranger with suspicion, for the reason that not very long ago a modest-looking gentleman pocketed several treasures and made off with them. But Mr. Millard was not long in discovering that the quiet stranger knew somewhat of books, for he talked very intelligently of the best editions. Mr. Millard began, in fact, to feel sorry for the man. "Here," thought he, "is a gentleman who is a bibliomaniac. See how fondly his fireless eyes gloat on those extra-illustrated Dibdins! What envious, what hopeless pangs are now surging in his bosom! Poor devil, it is my duty to steer him away from those incomprehensible prizes and up against some books within the compass of his means."

But the stranger would not be steered worth a cent. He would inspect nothing but the costliest treasures. "I am sorry that you have sold the Washington 'Burns,'" said he, ruefully. "I would have taken it and been only too glad to get it."

"Our price was $150," suggested Mr. Millard. "Cheap enough," said the stranger quietly. "And now may I ask you to send these five volumes to me at the Richelieu Hotel? The clerk will pay the bill. By the way, what is the whole amount?"

"Two hundred and thirty-five dollars," said Mr. Millard, impressively.

"Well, send them to the Richelieu at once," said the stranger, "and the clerk will pay the charges for me."

A far-away, a distrustful, a billous look stole into Mr. Millard's keen eyes. "What name, please?" asked Mr. Millard, firmly but courteously.

"George W. Vanderbilt, of New York," said the modest stranger, demurely.

THE SPRING TRADE SALE.

THE Spring Trade Sale took place according to programme on the 23d inst. and the following days. A fair number of bidders was present, though many old acquaintances seemed to have disappeared. The following buyers registered: Samuel Carson, San Francisco; John Highland, Philadelphia; R. K. Smith, of A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago; W. H. Campion, of Porter & Coates, Philadelphia; Jordan, Marsh & Co., Boston; A. L. Rowland, Princeton, N. J.; E. Vosseller, Flemington, N. J.; E. D. Silver, Montgomery, Ala.; H. P. N. Gammel & Co., Austin, Tex.; H. Gregory, Providence, R. I.; The Boston Book Co.; and John M. Dean, Williamsport, Pa. Nothing remarkable took place, everything dragged along leisurely until the last lot was "knocked down." A handsome crayon portrait of the late Mr. Shepard hung suspended over the auctioneer's stand during the sale, a silent memento of one who was once the life and inspiration of many a trade sale. We shall give in another issue a list of the parties to whom the plate stock of Thomas R. Knox & Co., W. C. Regand, and G. M. Davenport was sold.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

L. L. WHITLOCK, Berkeley and Tremont Sts., Boston, Mass., has issued a "List of Scientific and Trade Papers," which will be found useful by advertisers. (48 p., 8°, 10 cents.)

THE "Complete Index to Littell's Living Age (First Hundred Volumes)," compiled by Mr. Edward Roth, 1135 Pine Street, Philadelphia, has just completed the fiction and begun on the geographical articles.

J. FRANCIS RUGGLES, the Bibliocrank, Bronson, Mich., has just published a broadside which he calls Biblioconflagratio, and which may be aptly described as a "Circularis singularis." Those who wish to be amused, as well as informed of Mr. Ruggles' plans, had better send for this curiosity.

THE "English Reference Catalogue" will probably be published this month. Mr. Whitaker says that it will be thicker than any previous issue, and that the index will be one-third larger than the last. The office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has secured a limited number of copies which will be delivered as soon as received and in the order the subscriptions were received.

The Torch and Colonial Book Circular, in its issue for March 30, 1889, prints a useful list of books of reference for the bookseller and librarian. It is arranged under subjects and includes all the more recent English and American bibliographical publications, current periodicals and special bibliographies. Published by E. A. Petherick & Co., 33 Paternoster Row, London, Eng.

THE English Catalogue of Books for 1888, published by Sampson Low & Co., is now ready, and may be obtained at the office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. It contains as usual a complete list of the books published in Great Britain and Ireland for the past year, with their sizes, prices, and publishers' names, also of the principal books published in the United States, with the addition of an index to subjects. (136 p. 8°; paper, net, $1.50.) The "Annual American Catalogue" and the "English Catalogue" may be had bound in one volume, half leather, $5.)

THE NATIONAL PRINTING AND PUBLISHING CO., Milwaukee, Wis., have in preparation a catalogue of technical literature, comprising all books in that branch printed in England and America during the years 1880-88 inclusive. The catalogue will be issued in 7 or 8 parts, each to be sold separately, under the title, "Handy Lists of Technical Literature." The first part, to be ready early in May, is to contain a list of "books on all kinds of products for manufacture as applied to useful arts, and on trades and manufactures in general." The books will be arranged alphabetically by authors, with a subject index in the same alphabet. Pt. 2 will be devoted to Military and Naval Science; Pt. 3, to Engineering, etc.; Pt. 4, to Mining, etc.; Pt. 5, to Fine Arts, etc.; Pt. 6, to Architecture, etc.; and Pt. 7, to Reference works and miscellaneous subjects.

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—John Anderson, Jr., 99 Nassau St. N. Y., (No. 5) Standard Rare and Curious Books. (8 p., 8°).—J. W. Bouton, 706 Broadway, N. Y., (new ser. No. 13) Bargains. (60 p., 16°).—T. L. Bradford, M.D., 1862 Frankford Ave., Phila., Complete list of homœopathic Medical Journals published in the United States between the years 1835 and 1888. (8 p., 8°).

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE San Francisco Examiner has secured the services of Thomas Nast, the caricaturist, who is turning out any number of cartoons on both local and national questions.

THE Centennial Number of Harper's Weekly, clad in a special cover designed by E. H. Blashfield, will be issued on Monday (April 29), instead of on Wednesday, the regular publication day of this periodical. It will contain an engraving of Charles Wilson Peale's portrait of Washington, which was painted after the battle of Yorktown, a drawing by T. de Thulstrup, giving an idea of New York life a hundred years ago, and an eight-page Supplement, comprising historical portraits, drawings from old prints, sketches, and a paper entitled "The Inauguration of Our Government," by Paul Leicester Ford.

THE "JUDGE" PUBLISHING CO. has nearly completed its handsome home at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Sixteenth Street. The first two stories are built of Maine granite and the remaining six of Philadelphia white brick. The second story will contain the offices of the Judge Publishing Company. Its binders and electrotypers will find room on the third floor, the typesetters on the fourth and fifth, and the lithographic printers on the sixth and seventh. Seventeen studios will attract artists on the eighth. The building will be 87 feet front on Fifth Avenue and 125 feet deep on Sixteenth Street, and will be lighted throughout by an electric illuminating system requiring 1084 lighters, the engine for the dynamo having 200 horse-power. In the building there will be 57 drum cylinder machines.

THE CREED OF THE PLAGIARIST.

He writeth best who stealeth best
Ideas, both great and small;
For the great soul who wrote them first
From Nature stole them all. —Life.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FREIGHT on books from the East to San Francisco is only $4.20 per hundred pounds. Whew! pretty stiff that!

W. S. GOTTSBERGER & Co. have just ready Dr. Georg Ebers' "Margery" ("Gred"), a tale of old Nuremberg, translated by Clara Bell.

THE WOMAN'S TEMPERANCE PUBLICATION ASSOCIATION, Chicago, have in press "Glimpses of Fifty Years," by Miss Frances Willard.

THE NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHING CO. have now ready "Manual of Rhymes, Selections, and Phrases," by Oscar Fay Adams, which forms number seven in their series of Teachers' Help Manuals.

FRANK F. LOVELL & Co. will publish at once, in addition to Mona Caird's "The Wing of Azrael," two novels, entitled, "On Circumstantial Evidence," by F. Florence Marryat, and "Miss Kate, or, Confessions of a caretaker," by Rita.

JAMES H. EARLE, has just ready "Sweet Mother," an illustrated poem, by Mrs. B. W. Mason, with photo-cabinet opening. He is also preparing "A Wedding in War-Time" and "Stay," a companion to "Dollars and Duty."

THE DUNLAP SOCIETY will publish this year two parts of Mr. William Winter's "Brief Chronicles" and Mr. Lawrence Barrett's recollections of Charlotte Cushman, which will contain also a list of parts played by the great actress.

GEORGE MUNRO has begun the publication of a series of copyright books to be issued monthly under the general title of The Library of American Authors at the uniform price of twenty-five cents per volume, whether it contains 311 pages or 34 pages with illustrations. In general get-up—that is, paper and print—they are no improvement on his old Seaside Library.

THE BANCROFT-WHITNEY CO., San Francisco, Cal., call attention to their American State Reports, of which they publish six volumes a year. It is the aim of the series to select cases of "general value and authority" throughout the United States, and so to annotate them as to show their relation to the entire body of American jurisprudence. They will be selected and annotated by Hon. A. C. Freeman. The series is announced "to go on forever."

GINN & Co. will publish next month in their excellent series of Classics for Children "The Two Great Retreats of History," which will contain Grote's history of the Retreat of the Ten Thousand Greeks from Babylon, and an abridgment of Count Ségur's history of the retreat of Napoleon from Moscow. Each narrative has an introduction, and is supplemented with a map and all needed foot-notes. They have in preparation for the same series a volume of "Heroic Ballads and Poems."

IRA BRADLEY & Co., Boston, have in preparation a set of six beautiful quarto gift-books for children, printed on fine calendered paper and bound in lithograph covers, each book to contain forty pages, eight in color and the remaining thirty-two pages to have half-page cuts and reading-matter set in pica type. Their titles are: "Topsy and Turvey," by Mrs. S. J. Brigham; "The Funny Japs," by Jack Rivers; "Indian Stories," by Major Wells; "That Queer Old Man in the Moon," by Marion Gay; "The Bear Hunter's Stories," by an Old Hunter; and "The Frog Band," by Uncle Will. This house will also publish "History of the Old Testament," by Alfred Edersheim, M.A., D.D., Ph.D., in four handsome 12mo volumes.

"THE Constitutional History of the United States, as seen in the development of American law," to be published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, will comprise the following papers: "The Federal Judiciary—its place in the American political system," by Thomas M. Cooley, LL.D.; "Constitutional Development in the United States as influenced by Chief-Justice Marshall," by Henry Hitchcock, LL.D.; "Constitutional Development in the United States as influenced by Chief-Justice Taney," by G. W. Biddle, LL.D.; "Constitutional Development in the United States as influenced by the decisions of the Supreme Court," by Chas. A. Kent; "The State Judiciary—its place in the American political system," by Daniel H. Chamberlain, LL.D.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co., Cincinnati, will issue shortly "The Jew in English Fiction," by Rabbi David Philipson, D.D. The author considers the question, whether it is legitimate to use the Jewish character in works of fiction, and if so, to what extent. He discusses the dramas and novels of prominent English writers, wherein Jews play important rôles, critically examines the works, points out the sources where possible, and investigates in how far the Jew as portrayed has been misunderstood, and where the conception of the writer is correct. The book will consider among others: Marlowe's "Jew of Malta;" Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice;" Cumberland's "The Jew;" Scott's "Ivanhoe;" Dickens' "Oliver Twist" and "Our Mutual Friend;" Disraeli's "Coningsby" and "Tancred;" and George Eliot's "Daniel Deronda."

D. C. HEATH & Co. have ready for immediate publication, in their series of Science Guides, "Thirty-Six Observation Lessons on Common Minerals," by Henry Lincoln Clapp, Master of the George Putnam Grammar School, Boston." It is not an epitome of any work on mineralogy, nor simply a collection of suggestions, but a specific, practical guide for the use of the teacher. They will publish at once "The Laws of Health in Relation to School Life," by Arthur News-holme, M.D., Diplomat in Public Health, University of London. It is a compend of sanitary science, intended for those who are erecting new school-buildings or modifying those already existing. They have also in preparation an Industrial and Educational System of Drawing, by Langdon S. Thompson, A.M., recently Professor of the subject in Purdue University, and now Supervisor of Drawing in the schools of Jersey City.

F. A. BROCKHAUS has just completed, by the publication of Lieferung 22, the important "Hebrew and Chaldee Dictionary of the Talmud and Midrasch," by Rabbi Prof. Dr. T. Levy. The completed work forms four volumes.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in preparation a second part of Sir John Lubbock's "Pleasures of Life." The subjects dealt with are Ambition, Wealth, Health, Love, Art, Poetry, Music, the Beauties of Nature, the Troubles of Life, Labor and Rest, Religion, the Hope of Progress, and the Destiny of Man.

1889.

To RETAIL DEALERS:

The SUMMER CATALOGUE, issued now for twelve years, has been found so useful and profitable by enterprising dealers, that it has become a regular feature of the trade. The thirteenth issue, in a special pamphlet adapted for imprint circulation all through the summer, will be published in connection with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, early in June.

The imprint editions will contain, in addition to a catalogue of guide-books and light literature for summer reading, an entirely new selection of reading-matter both of a practical and entertaining character, chiefly intended for the use and amusement of tourists, pleasure-seekers, and visitors of summer resorts.

Booksellers should remember that, while summer is usually a dull time, the sales of light literature, etc., can be pushed to make a successful business even in this season. The classes who travel are of course those who have money to spend, even in dull times, and the summer is the time when very many bookbuyers do the greater part of their reading. The decadence of the "cheap libraries" should give the enterprising dealer the opportunity to sell better and more profitable books. Booksellers at or near summer resorts should especially avail themselves of this publication, while city dealers should remember that it will be also useful to tempt stay-at-homes to make investments or to follow up customers otherwise out of reach.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE SPRING PARCEL SALE has been postponed to the 13th inst. It will commence on Monday afternoon and continue the following days, beginning each day at 10 A.M.

THE HOME PUBLISHING CO., 3 East 14th St., N. Y., announces that owing to the extraordinary size of the first edition, and the delay caused by the Centennial celebration in New York, the publication of A. C. Gunter's new novel, "That Frenchman," has been delayed till May 10.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish soon George Brandes' "Impressions of Russia," in which are included chapters on Russian literature, which has been translated by Samuel C. Eastman, of Concord, N. H., who spent the past summer in Denmark and worked under Brandes' supervision.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have nearly ready a collection of poems by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the eminent Philadelphia physician, entitled "The Cup of Youth," which will be published in shape similar to his former volume, "A New Year's Masque;" and a volume by Mrs. A. J. Woodman, a niece of the poet Whittier, entitled "Picturesque Alaska," giving an amusing account of experiences on a trip to Alaska, illustrated with photographs of the most striking scenes at various points of the journey. Mr. Whittier has written an introduction to the volume.

THE WORTHINGTON CO. announces that it will publish immediately new and handsome editions of the works bought at the Thos. R. Knox & Co. sale, comprising Captain Mayne Reid's works, 18 vols.; Strickland's "Queens of England;" Mrs. Browning's Poems, Life, Letters, and Essays; Chambers' "Young Folks' Historical Library;" Barnett's "Old Merchants of New York;" Bailey's "Festus;" "Boys' Own Book;" "Child's Own Book of Fairy Tales;" "Child's Bible Picture and Story Book;" Fouqué's "Undine;" Lafontaine's Fables; Peter Parley's works; "Robin Hood;" Rochefoucauld's "Maxims;" and Alex. Smith's "Poetical Works."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MARK TWAIN is said to be busy on a new book, to be entitled "A Yankee at the Court of King Arthur."

THE title of Marshall P. Wilder's forthcoming book, to be published by Cassell & Co., is to be "People I've Smiled With."

MISS AMELIA B. EDWARDS' first lecture in America will be delivered on November 7 at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, N. Y., on the invitation of the Brooklyn Library.

WE have been informed that Miss Annie Elliot is not the author of "Rented, a husband," just published by Cassell & Co. The pseudonym of the author of that book is "Voisin." Annie Elliot is not a pseudonym, but the real name of the author of a recently published novel entitled "An Hour's Promise."

MISS MAUD HOWE (Mrs. Elliott) is putting the finishing touches on what she calls "a tremendous love-story." She is under the impression that too many books of the present day are written to emphasize some peculiar hobby, and that therefore a novel which is a love-story, pure and simple, would be a relief. "For this relief, much thanks."

THE assertion recently made that Walt Whitman is about to be introduced for the first time to readers in Germany reminds us that Ferdinand Freiligrath twenty years ago translated quite a number of the poems of the original edition of the "Leaves of Grass," which linguistic feat he prefaced in the final edition of his works with an excellent critical and appreciative biographical notice of Walt Whitman.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (8mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbot, Ezra. The authorship of the Fourth Gospel and other critical essays; selected from the unpublished papers of the late Ezra Abbot. Bost., G: H. Ellis, 1888. c. 501 p. O. cl., $3.50.

The present volume is issued in compliance with suggestions coming from both sides of the Atlantic. Several of the essays it contains appeared originally in publications not easily accessible, yet embody results of the highest value to students of the New Testament, whether in its textual or its historical aspects. Besides the elaborate discussions of debatable textual questions, room has been found for a few of those papers in which Dr. Abbot addresses general readers in a style alike lucid, attractive, and authoritative.

Raue, C. G., M.D. Psychology as a natural science applied to the solution of occult psychic phenomena. Phil., Porter & Coates, 1889. c. 541 p. O. cl., $3.50.

Following Buneke, the great German investigator, Dr. Raue has endeavored to solve, on the basis of the new psychology, the occult psychic phenomena, claiming so much attention from modern thinkers. Dr. Raue proves that materialism is incompetent to explain these occult manifestations, and endeavors to give a rational psychological explanation of the same. The work is characterized by perfect fairness towards his opponents. The author displays rare logical powers and a singularly happy way of making his foes convict themselves "out of their own mouths."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 4, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE CENTENNIAL AND THE BOOK-TRADE.

We have not noticed among the members of the book-trade that same glow of Centennial enthusiasm which marked some other callings. No float appeared in the industrial procession representing either extreme of the Seaside Library or the "Century Dictionary." Nor were the great publishing or bookselling houses of New York so lavish in their display of bunting or in the variegated colors of other material left by the rain as other trades. In our last issue we printed an interesting review of the state of bookselling in New York City 100 years ago, from the admirable commemorative volume which A. D. F. Randolph & Co. have published; the contrast from that day to this is of course great, but after all there has been almost no calling in which the gain has been relatively less in some respects than that of the book-trade. In the century the gain has been very great, but in the half century or in the past thirty years it has not been great, so that the general feeling in the trade is probably not one of astonishment at our triumphs of a century in book-dealing. In other words, even the best-known publishing houses have not as much relative influence on the public as they or their predecessors had a third of a century ago.

Yet in that time we have brought mechanical book-making to a very high state of perfection, and in one department, that of the illustration of books, we have reached a point (by the help of the magazines) which no one could have prophesied a third of a century ago. Our great magazines and the books which are made up from them or which rival their products in public interest, and such vast undertakings as the "Century Dictionary," are notable products of American brains and American printing-presses. Within the century, indeed, America has led the world in developing the art of printing through the influence of improved printing-presses, and has contributed its share in certain relations of mechanical book-making. In this we may take a just pride.

But in book-publishing otherwise, and in book-dealing, we are not where we should be. It is the result, we believe, as we have time and time said, of unwise trade methods which have been becoming worse and are still becoming worse year by year. The publishing trade "proper," as it is sometimes called, has not kept pace with the times. Many of the old houses have let a large volume of business go into the hands of "cheap publishers," who supply the public with large numbers of books printed in what Carlyle would call a cheap and nasty way, while a little foresight and wisdom of method would have supplied the public in a better way, at not much increase of cost and with more satisfaction all round. Within the last generation we have seen in the dry-goods business an enormous improvement in business methods, and as a matter of fact the so-called dry-goods houses, by virtue of keener methods, have taken a good deal of the trade of the book-dealers proper. We have always held and still hold that a better system on the part of the great publishers of historic names, and other publishers who are called part of the regular trade, might build up in this country in books as they have done in magazines, a people's literature which would have given the bookstores opportunity for existence and prevented the breaking to pieces of the distributing machinery which we now so much lament. It is not too late to introduce a new order of things, although the way has been shown from without rather than discovered from within. We are rather tired of saying this sort of thing, because it seems to produce so little effect, but still it is our business to keep saying it. It is only by wise, far-sighted business methods that any business in these days of competition can keep pace with the growth of the country, and that the extent and business of the book-trade is so little larger now among sixty millions of people than it was when the population was half that, or quarter that, or a tenth that, is not to the credit of our calling.

We print elsewhere an interesting letter addressed to a person in one of the smaller cities of New York State, which is a printed circular with typewriter date inserted, that is evidently being distributed far and wide. It is evident that the fools are not all dead yet, whether they be recipients of this interesting invitation who propose to accept the kindly offered salary of $125 a month or more, or the sender who expects to obtain the small amounts of "$2500 (at par)." We have not before heard of the signer of this letter, and do not know whether or not this be his real name; but if it is necessary to caution any one against so transparent a device, we beg to pass along that caution. The easy-going way in which "Mr. Appleton" is made president must interest the distinguished gentlemen of that name, one or the other of whom would undoubtedly be supposed by the unwary to be the president of this nebulous corporation. We should put this circular aside as of no importance but for the fact that a recent fiasco which landed its promoter in the Tombs, showed that there are still many people who are taken in by just such schemes.

We reprint from Mr. Rider's "Book Notes" an interesting exposé of a contrast between publishers' prices and "our prices," by a house which is both publisher and retailer of these multipriced books. We give also another letter which seconds Mr. Rider's suggestion that the state of things is not as it should be, but asks if there are not other more important reforms desirable. We have often stated our belief that the advertising of a retail price by a publisher was an implied contract with the retailers to whom he sold books on that basis, which, properly construed, should prevent his selling single copies below that, and we regret that this is not the general sentiment or at least the general practice of the publishing trade. As to the relative prices of cloth-bound and paper books, we hope to treat that subject more fully later.

THE SPRING TRADE SALE. SALE OF STEREOTYPE PLATES.

On Thursday afternoon, April 25, the Trade Sale concluded with the disposition of the stock of stone and electrotype plates, cuts, and stamps offered by Charles L. Chase, assignees of Thomas R. Knox & Co., and three other lots. The prices for the Knox plant were unexpectedly good, the Mayne Reid set, for instance, fetching $155 per volume. Very little of this stock will go into the melting pot, that bought by Mr. Ackler being the few exceptions, and even of this we are not certain. The lots credited to Knox were bought by Thos. R. Knox under the name of Ryerson; the lots credited to Dillingham will be understood to mean Charles T. Dillingham, and those marked Worthington went to the R. Worthington Co. Otherwise the following list explains itself:

THE MORALS OF BOOK PUBLISHING.

From S. S. Rider's "Book Notes," April 27.

THERE is in Providence a firm which advertises itself as "Publishers of Standard Subscription-Books." This firm sells its publications by the subscription or agency system. It appoints agents for certain districts and puts them under the following contract: "I also hereby agree that I will not deliver a copy of this work to any one who does not actually subscribe for it, as I believe, for their own use, and not for sale; and that I will not sell a copy to any one at anything less than the full retail price; and that I will not sell copies of this work, directly or indirectly, to any book-dealer," etc. Agents were asked to send for outfits at once (cash with the order), so as to secure a good winter's work; and the firm declared that they would "give each agent exclusive right to the territory assigned him, so there will be no competition."

Among the books thus published and sold by this firm were the following, to each of which the price of the same, to subscribers, is affixed:

|   |        |
|---|--------|
| Three Decades of Federal Legislation, by S. S. Cox..... | $1.45 |
| Picturesque Washington.....                             | 80     |
| Harrison and Morton, by G. L. Harney....                | 90     |
| Poore's Life of Burnside.....                           | 90     |

During a portion of last winter this firm issued a "Holiday Book List," in which it was announced that the firm had leased a store at 218 Westminster Street, Providence, and would there make a "Great Special Holiday Sale of Books." The following were among the books thus advertised:

|   |        |
|---|--------|
| Three Decades of Federal Legislation, by S. S. Cox..... | $1.45 |
| Picturesque Washington.....                             | 80     |
| Harrison and Morton, by G. L. Harney....                | 90     |
| Poore's Life of Burnside.....                           | 90     |

The morals of bookselling appear at once, in selling to a Woonsocket man, if perchance he happens to be at the publishers' place of business (218 Westminster Street), a book for $1.45, for which a subscription agent at home asks him $4.50; or a "Picturesque Washington" for 80 cents which the agents were selling for $2.50 per copy.

That fair dealing which must form the basis of all legitimate mercantile affairs seems to be quite absent in such a transaction. Contracts entered into between parties certainly could not be enforced. Not only is the moral law violated, but it is possible that actual fraud may be in it. Mr. Bouvier thus defines legally the term fraud:

"Actual or positive fraud includes cases of the intentional and successful employment of any cunning, deception or artifice used to circumvent, cheat, or deceive another. For instance, the misrepresentation by word or deed of material facts by which one exercising reasonable discretion and confidence is misled to his injury."

It is beyond question that an action for damages would lie against this firm in favor of every agent. Would a man in Woonsocket buy a book of an agent for $4.50 which the publishers of the book advertised, and here in Providence possibly sold for $1.45? Certainly not. Does not the publisher put himself in direct competition with his agent, so that a good winter's work would be destroyed? and had not these things been held out to the agents as an inducement for them to enter the business, and to buy outfits? Certainly they had. If the firm's agent in Woonsocket asks and receives $4.50 for a book which the firm sells in Providence for $1.45, would not such agent be liable to an action for fraud? These are serious questions.

April 27, 1889.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

IN a recent number of the readable "Book Notes," published by Mr. Rider, of Providence, R. I., he severely criticises the action of a subscription-book firm, who opened a store a week or two before Christmas for a "Great Special Holiday Sale of Books." This firm published "Three Decades of Federal Legislation," by S. S. Cox, sub. price, $4.50; "Picturesque Washington," sub. price, $2.50; "Poore's Life of Burnside," sub. price, $2.50. These books were advertised at $1.45, 80c., and 90c. respectively. Mr. Rider thinks that "fair dealing, which forms the basis of all legitimate mercantile affairs, is quite absent in such transactions." To this I think the readers will agree. It is evident that the books when sold at the immense discount, as quoted above, paid the publishers a fair profit, and that the subscription prices as charged were out of all proportion to the cost of making the books.

But the question at once comes up, Are the subscription houses the only ones among the publishers who put exorbitant prices on their books? Is not this the rule with most of the publishers, even the most prominent? Is not this seen very plainly even when we note the prices publishers place on a paper-cover edition and on a cloth-cover edition of the same book? One instance comes to mind, and this a book just out. Froude's new novel is published at 50 cents in paper, in cloth at $1.50. Most booksellers pay the publishers 32 cents for paper editions, and for the cloth 95 cents. Now the difference in the two editions is simply the cost of the binding, and while the writer is not a practical binder and may be mistaken, the probability is that it does not cost over 10 cents to bind the book, but the bookseller has to pay 63 cents more for the bound copy than for the one in paper. Is not this entirely out of proportion to the cost? Is not this one reason why so few bound books of this class are sold? The libraries are now about the only purchasers of bound novels, and I do not blame the public for not buying bound novels at the prices charged, even when the bookseller sells them at from 20 to 25% discount.

Why cannot such books, in fair cloth binding, be sold for 60, or at the most 75 cents? Walter Scott, an English house, has had a large sale of the Camelot series, books well made, well bound, and fit to go on the shelves of any ordinary home, which sell for 40 cents each retail, most booksellers offering them at 35 cents net per copy. Is there any reason why such books cannot be made here? Would it not be well for some of the older publishing houses to try this experiment? I believe that the book trade would take pleasure in handling such books, and that there would be quantities sold in place of the Seaside and other cheap lines now kept in most bookstores.

Such is the belief of at least one
BOOKSELLER.

AN EASY WAY OF MAKING MONEY.

THIS letter reaches us indirectly from a gentleman in one of the smaller cities of New York State, to whom it was sent:

New York, April 8, 1889.

DEAR SIR: Would you at a salary of $125.00 per month (or more), accept general manager position (if tendered) of a publishing company in which Mr. Appleton is President and others equally prominent, directors and other officers?

The party must be stockholder, but only to the amount of $2500.00 (at par), which amount could be withdrawn if he should discontinue the work.

The entire stock of $50,000.00 was fully paid up in cash and of course is unassessable. A party is wanted who would give special attention to our work in that section.

Please favor me with an early reply.

Very truly,

J. L. THURSTON,
Address Station D, New York.

A BOOKSELLER'S UNIQUE PRESCRIPTION FOR THE "BLUES."

From the Chicago News.

"I AM frequently in Boston," said George R. Peck, the Topeka bibliosopist, to a circle of maniacs in the saints-and-sinners' corner at McClurg's last Saturday. "Business calls me there every month or so, and I make it a point always to drop in at Estes & Lauriat's to see what new things they have in the book line. The store is not a large one and it is crowded with goods. The first man you meet is a short, slender person, with wild eyes, dishevelled hair, and a typical Yankee voice, high-keyed and nasal. This man's name is Piper, and he is one of the most popular salesmen in the country. He used to be in the grocery business, but he wearied of it and quit it to transfer his talents, as he told me, from the tin can to the leather trade. Piper doesn't know very much about literature, but he understands human nature, and when it comes to a trade he catches weasels asleep every time. They say that Franklin Carter, President of Williams College, came into the store one morning looking just a trifle sallow and rockier than usual; he is always complaining about his liver, and on this occasion he had a sad tale to tell about having eaten something that had disagreed with him.

"I know just what'll fix you up all right," said Piper.

"What is it?" asked President Carter, eagerly.

"D'Urley's pills," said Piper.

"Where can I get 'em?" asked the college official, his curiosity now fully aroused.

"I'll send 'em around to the hotel," said Piper. And he did. It would be hard to imagine President Carter's horror upon discovering that the remedy prescribed was Tom D'Urley's 'Pills to Purge Melancholy,' 6 vols., half-calf, $18!"

THE DEAREST BOOK IN THE WORLD.

From the Bulletin de l'Imprimerie.

WHAT was the highest price ever given for any book? We leave this question to be decided by competent authorities among book lovers. We may, however, venture to say that we know of one for which a sum of 250,000*fr.* (£10,000) was paid by its present owner, the German Government. That book is a missal, formerly given by Pope Leo X. to King Henry VIII. of England, along with a parchment conferring on that sovereign the right of assuming the title of "Defender of the Faith," borne ever since by English kings. Charles II. made a present of the missal to the ancestor of the famous Duke of Hamilton, whose extensive and valuable library was sold some years ago by Messrs. Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge, of London. The book which secured the highest offer was a Hebrew Bible, in the possession of the Vatican. In 1512 the Jews of Venice proposed to Pope Julius II. to buy the Bible, and to pay for it its weight in gold. It was so heavy that it required two men to carry it. Indeed, it weighed 325 pounds, thus representing the value of half a million of francs (£20,000). Though being much pressed for money, in order to keep up the "Holy League" against King Louis XII. of France, Julius II. declined to part with the volume.

FRANCO-AMERICAN COPYRIGHT.

A CABLEGRAM dated April 27 quotes the Temps as saying "that societies have been formed, entitled 'Union des Deux Mondes,' to manifest bonds of sympathy between America and France, and to seek an amending of the American copyright laws. They will organize a fête for July 4, and will give concerts and other entertainments."

BOSTON STILL AHEAD.—One of the best hits at the Browning Clubs is that related by Mr. Arlo Bates in a recent Book-Buyer: "I heard on the street the other day one newsboy yell derisively to another, who vulgarly advised him to 'Go soak yer head,' 'Oh, yer go home and read Brownin'!" What the dirty little gamin thought it meant, and where he got the phrase, are alike mysteries to me; but who, after that, can say Boston is not the home of true culture?"

OBITUARY.

PRESIDENT FREDERICK AUGUSTUS PORTER BARNARD, of Columbia College, died April 27, aged 80 years. He was born May 5, 1809, at Sheffield, Berkshire County, Massachusetts. At the age of nine he entered school at Saratoga Springs, devoting his spare time to learning the printing business. In 1828 he graduated from Yale College with high honors and began teaching in the Hartford Grammar School. In 1830 he became tutor at Yale. In 1831 he taught in the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Hartford, and in 1832 in that of New York. His next educational position was as Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in the University of Alabama, at Tuscaloosa, from 1837 to 1848. He was then transferred to the Chair of Chemistry and Natural History at the same institution. This position he held until 1854, when he took orders in the Protestant Episcopal Church. At the outbreak of the civil war he came North and was elected to the Presidency of Columbia College, to succeed Dr. Charles King. From that time to his retirement from active duties last year, President Barnard's energies had been directed to furthering the interests of the college in all directions. President Barnard throughout his life was actively engaged in scientific research and in everything that advanced the educational interests of our country. His writings covered a wide range of subjects. His first venture was an arithmetic in 1830. This was followed in a few years by an "Analytic Grammar, with Symbolic Illustrations," which has been in use for years in the principal institutions for the deaf and dumb. He contributed to various periodicals from 1837 on, treating questions of astronomy, engineering, photography, electricity, metrology, physics, mathematics, and hygiene. He was editor in chief, with Prof. A. Guyot as associate, of "Johnson's Universal Cyclopædia," published in 1873. In Field's "Outlines of an International Code," Dr. Barnard wrote the chapters on money, weights and measures, longitude and time, and sea signals. Of the many-sided character of Columbia's late President, the Popular Science Monthly once said: "Among the promoters of science and liberal culture in our time, few men have labored more efficiently and successfully than the present versatile and accomplished President of Columbia College."

We regret to note the death, on April 27, of Mrs. Elizabeth Lex, wife of Mr. Edmund Claxton, of the former firm of Claxton, Remsen, Haffelfinger & Co. Mr. Claxton, who himself is not in good health, has the sincere sympathy of all who know him, and of those who honor his name as one of the earliest and best representatives of the book trade.

DAVID GOODMAN CROLY, one of the best-known journalists in this country, died at his home in New York City, April 29. He was born in New York, November 3, 1829. After graduating from public school he learned the trade of silversmith, but followed it for only one year. He then took a special course at the New York University, with the idea of entering the field of journalism. He subsequently became a professor of phonography and reporter for the Evening Post and New York Herald from 1855 to 1858. While on the Herald he was married to Miss Jennie Cunningham, better known as a writer over the signature of "Jennie June." He was connected for years with the New York World, of which he was city and managing editor, and after that with the New York Graphic, on which his journalistic career ended on account of ill health in 1878. He was buried at Lakewood, N. J.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Dearborn Publishing Co. have sold to F. T. Neely, 415-425 Dearborn Street, their entire book publishing business. Through this purchase Mr. Neely secures the exclusive authority to publish in book-form for ten years all the writings of Bill Nye. Mr. Neely is already in control of the works of Walter R. Houghton, the historian, and a number of guide-books, maps, etc.

DENNISON, TEXAS.—C. T. Howe & Co., book-sellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

EGAN, DAK.—H. E. Heeren, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by G. R. Lanning.

HARRISON, ARK.—Hull Brothers, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

LA PIER, MICH.—C. L. Thatcher, bookseller, has sold out.

LOGANSPOUT, IND.—Augustus D. Queally, bookseller, it is reported, has transferred his stock to a trustee.

MERRIAM PARK, MINN.—C. S. Anderson, bookseller, has sold out.

WARSAW, MO.—Barton Smith, bookseller, has sold out his business.

JOURNALISTIC.

The Illustrated Journal of Useful Inventions and of Art Applied to Industry is a new monthly journal published by E. de V. Vermont at 744 Broadway, New York City. It will be the special organ of the Paris Exhibition, Brentano's being its agents in London and G. Alesmonieres in Paris. The Journal aims to be "a paper pleasantly if not luxuriously illustrated, reporting in a language, which is that of the multitude, every event in material life, which embodies a manifestation of the power and ingenuity of the human mind." The first issue contains articles on tariff, type-writing machines, electricity, New York flats, French torpedo-boats, the Paris Exposition, etc.

The Bibliotheca Platonica, a new bi-monthly journal, will be a philosophical and philological exponent of the writings of Plato and his school, including the writings of Aristotle and the Neoplatonists. Many important Platonic suggestions, notes, emendations, etc., made by American and European scholars, never come to light for want of a proper organ. Each number will contain a bibliography, which will register all current editions and translations and all treatises and articles relating to the philosophers and their writings. The coöperation of all scholars is cordially invited. Papers may be written in English or Latin. Thos. M. Johnson, of Osceola, Missouri, is the editor.

The subject of Agnosticism is holding a prominent place in the English reviews at present. Professor Huxley started the discussion in the Nineteenth Century for February, and was taken up by Dr. Wace, Principal of King's College, and the Bishop of Peterborough, in the March number of the same review. The Professor as quickly responded in a thoroughly characteristic paper in the April number, in which he sets forth his own position with greater clearness and gives his opponents a sharp overhauling. In the Fortnightly Review for April Mr. W. H. Mallock joins the fray with a paper entitled "Cowardly Agnosticism," and points out things which will probably startle the public, Professor Huxley himself included. These articles are but the beginning of what promises to be an interesting and exciting controversy.

Wide Awake for May brings to a close Trowbridge's popular serial, "The Adventures of David Vane and David Crane," to give place to Charles R. Talbot's story of "Sybil Fair's Fairness;" it brings to a pause, too, Margaret Sidney's "Five Little Peppers Midway," to go along with them next month, however, in the fresh tale of "Five Little Peppers Further On." A chapter of the "Children of the White House" series, by Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, is entitled "The Household of Andrew Jackson," and is full of anecdotes and pictures, twenty illustrations being given; it throws a ruddy firelight glow over the grim old warrior-President. "Men and Things" is delightfully readable, full of original anecdotes; notable among them is "Tad Lincoln in the White House Kitchen in 1862," and "John G. Whittier's Little Dog and the Singer." We notice that the Wide Awake children who have undertaken to build the dining-room in the Ramona School (the Helen Hunt Memorial Building) have received a gift of $500 to their fund from Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury, of Cleveland, Ohio.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS will publish shortly a new book by Amelia B. Edwards, entitled "Untrodden Peaks and Unfrequented Valleys."

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOC. announces that the price of the new edition of Schaff's "Through Bible Lands," though increased in size by additional chapters and illustrations, has been reduced from $2.25 to $2.00.

DAVID NUTT, London, has published an edition of the "Morte D'Arthur," which is an exact reproduction of the copy in Lord Spencer's library in everything except the Roman letter, which is substituted for black letter type.

CHARLES TITTMANN, of Dresden, Saxony, has recently published a third and revised edition of his little work, "The Standard Opera-Glass." The ninety plots of celebrated operas contained in this useful little work are very accurately given.

GEBBIE & CO., Philadelphia, have made arrangements with Chatto & Windus, of London, to control the fine library edition of Taine's "English Literature," four volumes, octavo, which can be had from them in cloth and fine bindings.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. will shortly publish the life of C. B. Vignoles, an English civil engineer who was Assistant-Surveyor in South Carolina in 1817-20, and who surveyed and mapped Florida a little later. He aided Ericsson in building the Novelty as a rival to Stephenson's Locomotive, and he became one of the foremost of English railway engineers. They will also issue at an early date the speeches of Lord Randolph Churchill, edited and annotated by Louis J. Jennings, formerly editor of the New York Times.

THE BUCHHANDLUNG DES WAISENHAUSES IN HALLE will shortly publish a book of interest both to authors and publishers. Its title is "The Legal Relations of Authors and Publishers Technically and Historically Considered," by Augustus Schürmann. The principal contents will be: Early Times—The Book Trade and the Authors' World—Origin and Development of Publishing Agreements—The Age of Piracy—The Basis of Modern Legislation—Book Piracy—Newspaper Piracy—The Duration of Copyright.

JAS. S. SCHOONOVER, 79 S. Pennsylvania St., Indianapolis, Ind., has published a neat game called "Battles of the Civil War." The game comprises 64 cards. Any four cards containing the names of the same battle form a book. The player who has made the highest number of books wins the game. Four different games may be played with the cards, all of them amusing and calculated to instruct the players in the names of the battles, dates, etc. A book giving fuller description of the battles accompanies each pack of cards.

THE Public Printer of Vermont has in press a catalogue, with names and records, of Connecticut soldiers and sailors engaged in the war of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, and the Civil War. According to a despatch to the N. Y. Times, "it was authorized by the Legislature of 1886, and has just been completed under the supervision of Adj.-Gens. Smith, Camp, and Barbour. A large corps of clerks was employed on the work and it has cost the State $53,000. A number of the copies will be distributed among the different libraries, public offices, Grand Army posts, and Sons of Veterans corps."

THE world-renowned Leipzig firm of booksellers, K. F. Koehler, celebrated the centennial anniversary of its formation April 6. The founder of the firm, Carl Franz Gottfried Koehler, born 1764, was the grandfather of the present proprietor. His family had been well known and honored tradesmen of Leipzig since 1668. The Koehler family two hundred years ago were celebrated tanners and famous for their excellent cordovan or Cordovan leather—a shiny goat-skin tanned and dressed in a peculiar manner similar to that made at Cordova, Spain, whence its name. From the same word we have also the English corruptions "cordwain" and "cordwainer," the latter being applied to workers in Cordovan leather and shoemakers. In 1830 his son Franz entered the firm, who on his death in 1873 was succeeded by his son, the present proprietor, Karl Franz Koehler. Of the old employes still living, mention is made of Carl Schnabel, who entered the house as errand-boy in 1825 and who has been enjoying a well-earned pension since 1875.

"Summer Reading," 1889.

TO RETAIL DEALERS:

The SUMMER CATALOGUE, issued now for twelve years, has been found so useful and profitable by enterprising dealers, that it has become a regular feature of the trade. The thirteenth issue, in a special pamphlet adapted for imprint circulation all through the summer, will be published in connection with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, early in June.

The imprint editions will contain, in addition to a catalogue of guide-books and light literature for summer reading, an entirely new selection of reading-matter both of a practical and entertaining character, chiefly intended for the use and amusement of tourists, pleasure-seekers, and visitors of summer resorts.

Booksellers should remember that, while summer is usually a dull time, the sales of light literature, etc., can be pushed to make a successful business even in this season. The classes who travel are of course those who have money to spend, even in dull times, and the summer is the time when very many bookbuyers do the greater part of their reading. The decadence of the "cheap libraries" should give the enterprising dealer the opportunity to sell better and more profitable books. Booksellers at or near summer resorts should especially avail themselves of this publication, while city dealers should remember that it will be also useful to tempt stay-at-homes to make investments or to follow up customers otherwise out of reach.

Orders for imprint editions at subscription rates should be sent in at once.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY.

WILL PUBLISH MAY 15 :

THACKERAY'S WORKS.

Illustrated Library Edition. Complete in twenty-two volumes, crown octavo, printed in large type, with over 1600 illustrations. Each volume will be prefaced with such information as seems desirable concerning the time and circumstances of its writing. This feature will lend a special value to the edition, and with its excellences of typography, illustration, and binding will win the favor of all who appreciate tasteful books, and who also appreciate the wisdom, the good sense, the humor, and the indescribable literary charm of Thackeray.

NOW READY.

VANITY FAIR. 2 volumes, tastefully bound, $1.50 each.

RIVERSIDE LIBRARY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

Messrs. HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY herewith begin a series of books designed especially for boys and girls who are laying the foundation of private libraries. The books included in it are not ephemeral publications; both the authors and the subjects promise that they will be books to last.

History, Biography, Mechanics, Travel, Natural History, and Adventure, will form the principal portion of the Library, but occasionally a story of special excellence will be added.

NOW READY.

THE WAR OF INDEPENDENCE. By JOHN FISKE.

GEORGE WASHINGTON: an Historical Biography. By HORACE E. SCUDDER.

75 cents each.

Both Mr. Fiske and Mr. Scudder are so well known as attractive writers, and authorities in matters of history, that it is needless to commend these books to general favor.

THE STORY OF PATSY.

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN, author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol." With illustrations. Square 16mo, 60 cents.

Patsy is a forlorn boy, who, through the kindness and wise tact of a teacher into whose school he strays, becomes cheery and helpful. The story of the transformation is told with admirable skill, and is touched with both humor and pathos. It ought to be read by every family in the land.

A GIRL GRADUATE.

By CELIA P. WOOLLEY, author of "Rachel Armstrong; or, Love and Theology." 1 volume, 12mo, $1.50.

A story of the social ambitions and experiences of a Western girl educated above the position of her parents. It does not deal with the serious problems involved in "Rachel Armstrong," but with questions of social caste and distinction, foreign to the theory of our republic, but nevertheless existing here and full of perplexities and difficulties.

THE SLEEPING-CAR, AND OTHER FARCES.

Including THE SLEEPING-CAR, THE PARLOR-CAR, THE ELEVATOR, and THE REGISTER. By W. D. HOWELLS. 12mo, $1.00.

"Written with all the exquisite literary skill of which Mr. Howells is so thoroughly a master, and every page sparkles with humor."—Syracuse Journal.

THE CUP OF YOUTH, AND OTHER POEMS.

By S. WEIR MITCHELL, M.D., author of "The Hill of Stones," "The Masque, and Other Poems." "In War-Time," etc. 8vo, $1.50.

This is a beautiful book, in style like Dr. Mitchell's "Masque," and like that it contains more genuine poetry than is often found in much larger volumes of modern verse. Lovers of poetry will give it a hearty welcome.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CASSELL & Co. will publish early in June a volume of verse by Charles M. Dickinson, of Binghamton, a well-known journalist who has already achieved some reputation as the author of a single poem called "The Children."

CHAS. SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly the second volume of Prof. Chas. W. Shields' "Philosophia Ultima," and "Progress of Religious Freedom as Shown in the History of the Toleration Acts," by the Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff.

TICKNOR & Co. have in preparation Pfeiffer's "American Mansions," a series of designs by Mr.

Carl Pfeiffer for dwelling-houses of various classes, with all their details, both decorative and constructive, carefully worked out. They also call attention elsewhere to a selection from their list now in stock.

WM. R. JENKINS will issue immediately a cheap edition, in French, of Victor Hugo's "Nôtre-Dame de Paris," in two volumes, for $2 in paper and $3 in cloth. It is reprinted from the plates of the édition de luxe and will contain all the fine illustrations of that edition excepting only those in color.

ROBERTS BROS. will publish on the 14th the second division of Rénan's "History of the People of Israel," from the reign of David up to the capture of Samaria. They will also begin at once the issue of a new paper series of novels for the summer season, including some of the choicest fiction published by their house.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The Primitive Family in its Origin and Development," by Prof. C. N. Starcke, of the Copenhagen University, which forms volume 65 of the International Scientific series; Part 5 of vol. 3 of Roscoe and Schorlemmer's "Treatise on Chemistry," covering "The Chemistry of Hydrocarbons and Their Derivatives;" and "How to Study Geography," by Francis W. Parker, which forms vol. 10 of the International Education series. They have in preparation "An Epitome of Herbert Spencer's Synthetic Philosophy;" "Stellar Evolution," by Dr. James Croll; "European Schools in 1888," by Dr. L. R. Klemm; "A Dictionary of Terms in Art;" "In the Wire Grass," a novel, by Louis Pendleton; and the annual volume for 1888 of "Appletons' Annual Cyclopædia."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. will publish next week, by subscription, the first volume of "The Cyclopædia of the Diseases of Children," by American, British, and Canadian authors, edited by John M. Keating, M.D. Among the important subjects treated in the volume are anatomy, physiology, diagnosis, therapeutics, injuries of the new-born, infant-feeding, dentition, puberty, fevers, and miasmatic diseases. They will also issue in a few days a new novel by the famous military author, Capt. Charles King, entitled "Laramie, or, The Queen of Bedlam." It is a distinctively American work of fiction, possessing all the national characteristics which have made this author's stories so popular. The edition of "Dr. Rameau," George Ohnet's great novel, as issued by this house, met with such a large sale that they have decided to issue shortly another of this writer's famous French works. It will be illustrated and is to appear in a few days. A new story by Mrs. Cameron is also in preparation, and forms the next number of the popular Lippincott Series of Select Novels.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: no cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); TL. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

American digest. (Annual v. 2, 1888.) (Being v. 2 of the United States digest third series annuals.) A digest of all the decisions of the U. S. supreme court, all the U. S. circuit and district courts, and the courts of last resort of all the states and territories, [etc.] With table of cases, [etc.] St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1889. c. 9+1538 p. O. shp., [National reporter system digests, annual series, v. 2.] $8.

Angel, Rosa Evangeline. This side and that: poems. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1889. c. 6+160 p. D. cl., $1; $1.25.

Miss Angel is a Cincinnati lady, long known as a contributor to the newspapers and religious press. She has collected in this volume about seventy short poems, classified as "Songs of love," "Hope," "The children," "Whom men call dead," and "Miscellaneous." Hers is a serious muse, tender and reverent. Her versification is smooth and the language well chosen.

Atwood, I. M., D.D. Revelation. Bost., Universalist Pub. House, 1889. c. 90 p. S. (Manuals of faith and duty, no. 3.) cl., net, 25 c.

These manuals are expositions of prominent teachings of the Universalist church. The subjects considered here are shown in titles of chapters: The Bible; Not one book, but many; Versions; Theories of the book; Is a special revelation necessary? Difficulties; Miracle; Inspiration and revelation; Ends which revelation subserves; Theosophy and revelation; Interpretation of Scripture; Authority of Scripture.

Author's (An) love; being the unpublished letters of Prosper Mérimée's Inconnue. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. c. 18+337 p. D. cl., $1.50.

In Paris, in 1874, was published Prosper Mérimée's Lettres à une inconnue. It was an event in literature, the volume creating a sensation and inspiring an interest which it has never lost. To-day it is quoted as one of the classics of modern French literature. The letters covered a period of thirty years, breathing at first love, afterwards friendship. It was never known to whom they were addressed. It was believed, however, the unknown correspondent was a real person and not a creature of the imagination. The present volume, said to be from the pen of a brilliant American woman, supplies the other side of the correspondence—the letters written by the "unknown." They are such as a clever, cultured, loving woman might write separated hopelessly from one she loved.

Bert, Paul. Primer of scientific knowledge: translated and adapted for American schools. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. tr. '87, '88. 186 p. il. S. cl., 36 c.

The following from the author's preface gives the scope of the book and its relation to "First steps in scientific knowledge," also by Mr. Bert. "This new work is carried out in the same spirit as 'First steps in scientific knowledge,' and follows the same plan. The book is so arranged that the larger work becomes a review and extension of the subject. The method, which consists in presenting to the child during two or three consecutive years the same subjects, in the same order, following the same general arrangement, but with an increasing number of facts and a progressive elevation of ideas, is an excellent one, and is now universally adopted."

Black, James B. A digest of the decisions of the court of Indiana, from p. 213, v. 73, Ind. reports (the commencement of the May term, 1881), to and incl. v. 114. Indianapolis, The Bowen-Merrill Co., 1889. c. 31, 817 p. O. shp., $7.50.

Blennerhassett, Lady. Madame De Staël: her friends and her influence in politics and literature. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. 3 v., por. O., cl., $10.

Boyesen, Hjalmar Hjorth. Vagabond tales. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1889.] 332 p. S. cl., $1.25.

The little volume has been brought out in neat, attractive style and is made up of seven charming novelets: "Crooked John," "A child of the age," "Monk Tellenbach's exile," "A disastrous partnership," "Liberty's victim," "A perilous incognito," and "Charity."

Boylston, Peter, (pseud.) John Charaxes: a tale of the civil war in America. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. 289 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The scene is laid in Boston. The story has barely opened before the heart of a coquette, who has made havoc with her many admirers, is itself touched and a love-affair is under full headway. This is very happily managed, however, and after widely separating the leading characters, we are introduced to John Charaxes, a true cosmopolitan of wide experience with the world, highly cultured, in easy circumstances, benevolent, and somewhat eccentric. From this point the narrative assumes an unusual interest, new lovers appear in due time, and under the patronage of our friend Charaxes difficulties are removed and all ends joyously.

Bradford, S. B. Prohibition in Kansas and the Kansas prohibitory law. Topeka, Kan., The G. W. Crane Pub. Co., 1889. c. 36+28 p. O. pap., 25 c.

Braeme, Charlotte M., ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] A heart's bitterness. N. Y., Street & Smith, 1889. c. '88. 277 p. D. (The select ser., no. 22.) pap., 25 c.

*Burnett, C. H., M.D. Diseases and injuries of the ear; their prevention and cure. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. D. (Practical lessons in nursing, no. 5.) cl., $1.

*Burt, Stephen Smith, M.D. Exploration of the chest in health and disease. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 210 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Caird, Mrs. Mona. The wing of Azrael. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1889.] c. 8+305 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 17.) pap., 30 c.

The author formulated her theories of marriage and divorce in the Westminster Review last year. The same theme is the motive of this sad, hopeless story in which Azrael, the Mohammedan angel of death, offers the only solution for lives hopelessly sacrificed to modern social conditions. The heroine marries to save her family from ruin, obeying the wish of a weak, idolized mother. Her husband is a cruel tyrant, who marries her fully aware of her dislike; Mrs. Lincoln would seem to stand for Mrs. Caird's theories. The descriptions are powerful both of nature and of mental states. The author feels a mission and is deeply in earnest.

*Cassell's pocket guide to Europe; comp. by E. King; rev. by M. F. Sweetser. Rev. ed. for 1889. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1889. T. leath., $1.50.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

- *Oolyer, F. Treatise on water supply, drainage, and sanitary appliances of residences; including lifting machinery, lighting and cooking apparatus. N. Y., E. & F. N. Spon, 1889. 92 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- Cooke, Frances E. Story of Theodore Parker; to which is added an introduction and a bibliography of books and articles by and pertaining to him. 3d ed. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, [1889.] c. '83, '89. 50+115+10 p. por. D. (Algonquin press lib.) cl., $1.
- *Cousins, Rob. H. Theoretical and practical treatise on the strength of beams and columns; in which the ultimate and the elastic limit strength of beams and columns is computed from the ultimate and elastic limit compressive and tensile strength of the material, by means of formulas deduced from the correct and new theory of the transverse strength of materials. N. Y., E. & F. N. Spon, 1889. 180 p. O. cl., $5.
- *Davis, G. E. Practical microscopy. New rev. ed. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. il. O. cl., $2.50.
- *Delaware. Court of chancery. Reports of cases. Under authority of the general assembly, by Willard Saulsbury, chancellor. V. 5. [1874-1886.] Rochester, N. Y., The Lawyers Cooperative Pub. Co., 1889. c. 10+660 p. O. shp., $8.
- Dewey, Melvil, ed. Rules for author and classed catalogs as used in Columbia College Library; with 52 fac-similes of sample cards; bibliography of catalog rules by Mary Salome Cutler. Bost., Library Bureau, 146 Franklin St., 1888. c. 48 p. interleaved, O. pap., $1; flex. persian mor., $2.
- These rules were very carefully made up from the A. L. A. Code five years ago. Since then they have been in daily use in the Columbia Library training classes, and the two years in the Library school. For over two years they have been in type, subject to constant criticism and suggestion from those needing their help, and hundreds of minor changes in wording and illustration have been made in the effort to fit them as perfectly as possible for an invaluable guide to catalogers. The most important feature is the graphic illustrations. Fifty-two fac-simile cards were found necessary to fully illustrate all the points. These include all details: the names, titles, imprint, capitals, spacing, indentation, reference, and call numbers. They are printed twice in order to show the red down lines in proper position, and blue ink is also indicated by special type.
- *Ebers, G. Die 'Gred': roman aus dem alten Nürnberg. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1889. 2 v., 295; 304 p.; S. cl., $1; pap., 65 c.
- *Ebers, G. Die schwwestern: roman. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1889. 432 p. S. cl., 50 c.; pap., 35 c.
- Gréville, Henry, [pseud. for Madame Alice Durand.] Nikanor; tr. by Mrs. Alice E. Chase. Authorized ed. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. c. tr. 304 p. il. D. (The rialto ser., no. 8.) pap., 50 c.
- Nikanor is the illegitimate son of a Russian nobleman. His father carries him, when but a few hours old, to the house of a Greek priest on his estates, and obliges the priest to raise him as his own child. Nikanor has a taste for the priesthood as he grows up, and when but a mere boy enters the church. Before taking his vows he is obliged to marry, as all Greek priests do. From thenceforward his fate is a most unhappy one. His marriage is not a perfect union and his heart wanders to another. He then loses wife and child and dies broken-hearted because an impediment stands in the way of his second marriage. His real father plays a part all through the book.
- Grey, Maxwell. The reproach of Annesley. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 3+308 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 27.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.
- The house of Annesley is supposed to be under a curse—the heir having for several generations met a strange or violent death. Shortly after this story opens Paul Annesley, a village doctor, inherits the estates most unexpectedly—four persons having stood between him and his inheritance. Next to him in succession is his cousin Edward Annesley, an officer in the English army. They both love the same woman and many scenes of jealousy and anger are the result, all heightened by the duplicity of a third hero, who also loves Alice Lingard. This third party is the villain of the story. When Paul Annesley disappears in a most mysterious manner he makes every effort to cast suspicion upon Edward as having murdered him. This is "the reproach of Annesley; but time clears up the mystery, and Edward's good name is freed from all suspicion. By the author of "The silence of Dean Maitland."
- *Heiberg, H. Apotheker Heinrich: roman. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1889. 189 p. S. cl., 50 c.; pap., 35 c.
- Hoar, G. F. The constitutional remedy. N. Y., The National Temp. Soc. and Pub. House, [1889.] 12 p. D. pap., 5 c.
- A speech made by the United States Senator from Massachusetts during the recent presidential campaign, in favor of constitutional prohibition.
- *Indiana. Supreme court. Reports of cases; by J: W. Kern, off. rep. v. 115, May term, 1888. Indianapolis, The Bowen-Merrill Co., 1889. c. 20+643 p. O. shp., $3.50.
- James, H. A London life; The Patagonia; The liar; Mrs. Temperly. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. c. 6+366 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- Four of Mr. James' characteristic stories are represented by the title. The heroine of the first is a "fast" American girl—such as Mr. James likes to paint—married to a stupid Englishman. The pair are in the "swim" of fashionable London life, and are both equally heartless and unprincipled. After many shocking scenes of domestic infelicity, the climax is reached with the wife's elopement and a subsequent divorce. "The Patagonia" is the name of an ocean steamer. It is the scene of a tragedy. An American girl going out to England to marry a man for whom she does not care very much is flirted with by a handsome Bostonian. Finding he is trifling with her, she jumps overboard. "The liar," which appeared in The Century, is a capital character study, as is also "Mrs. Temperly." The first story, "A London life," appeared in Scribner's.

- In the preparation of this work, Dr. Leidy has given special attention to those parts of the human body, a minute knowledge of which is essential to the successful practitioner of surgery and medicine. The names in most text-books are given in Latin; the author, however, has as far as possible used an English equivalent for such names, the Latin being given in foot-notes. Various other improvements, such as long experience has suggested, have also been made in the nomenclature of the science. The illustrations are numerous and largely original. The first edition of the work, which has been out of print for many years, was very highly esteemed. The present edition (entirely rewritten) presents the ripe fruits of Dr. Leidy's experience of many years of successful labor as a teacher and as an original observer and discoverer in anatomical science.

Logan, Celia. Her strange fate: a novel. N. Y. & Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] 268 p. D. (The household lib. V. 4., no. 20.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The heroine, a beautiful young dressmaker, is beguiled into a marriage, which though informal is perfectly good under the laws of New York State, with a wealthy young man, who soon tires of her and casts her off and repudiates her claims upon him. To compel recognition of her rights, she pursues him to the Western city which is his home, where she finds him seeking marriage with a society lady. A succession of sensational situations follows, including an attempt upon the heroine's life, the temporary destruction of her reason, and the accidental killing of the hero.

Merriman, H: Seton. The phantom future: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 3-239 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 644.) pap., 35 c.

An English chop-house with an inside bar presided over by a beautiful barmaid named Syra, a bachelor's chambers in the Temple, and a lovely English countryside are the chief scenes in an unusually fresh novel. The actors are literary men, medical students, and a public singer, "Sam Crozier," who is the principal influence throughout. The motive is love, the story illustrating the higher traits which often are found in the poorest specimens of humanity.

Mitchell, S. Weir, M.D. Far in the forest: a story. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. 298 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"A story of early pioneer days in northern Pennsylvania. There to a clearing in the primeval wilderness comes Elizabeth Preston with her opium-besotted husband and her bright boy, Paul, a lad of twelve. The husband soon dies and Elizabeth is left to manage the lumber interests she had acquired alone. As her husband lies dying Baron Riverius, a German nobleman who is exploring the country for the purpose of making investments, comes to her cabin almost frozen in a terrible snow-storm. Elizabeth, with the aid of her servant Becky, saves his life, and thereafter he settles in the neighborhood and becomes her fast friend and then her lover. The other characters are backwoodsmen and are strongly delineated, the scenes at the logging camp being well drawn. Finally a woman is shot in the woods and Riverius is suspected of the murder. He is imprisoned in his cabin and the brutal lumbermen are about to hang him when a forest fire breaks out and he escapes to the mountains."—Boston Beacon.

Montgomery, D. H. The leading facts of French history. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889. c. 5+321 p. map, D. cl., $1.25.

Presents the most important events of the history of France, selected, arranged, and treated according to the soundest principles of historical study, and set forth in a clear and attractive narrative. The work is based mainly on the French histories of Guizot, Rambaud, Martin, and Duruy, supplemented with notes made by the author during a somewhat prolonged stay in France. The general plan of treatment is the same as the author's "Leading Facts of English history."

Murray, W: H: H. Deacons. Bost., Cupples

& Hurd, [1889.] c. '74, '89. 82 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

A lecture delivered by Rev. Dr. Murray in Music Hall, Bost., 1871. It was written to call the attention of the church and people to the perversion and abuse of the office of deacon in the Congregational churches. First pub. in 1874 by H: L. Shepard & Co.

Murray, W: H: H. The story that the keg told me; [also,] The story of the man who didn't know much. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, c. 16+454 p. 1 il. D. (Adirondack ser., no. 1.) cl., $1.50.

This series of "Adirondack tales" is to be completed in six volumes. Three volumes are already written, representing the graphic sketches of the Adirondack region published by Mr. Murray in the early days of his literary career, which gained him fame and the sobriquet of "Adirondack" Murray. The other three are yet to be written. These special stories have John Norton, the trapper, for their hero; in fact, he runs all through the series, speaking words of wisdom on many subjects connected with the woods and with nature. He represents an ideal New England man who has spent his life in the woods. The first story introduces him to the reader; the second finds him the hero of a thrilling episode. Both stories are rich in sporting experiences.

A choice selection of pieces for public readings. Mr. Riddle's work as a reader of miscellaneous selections is fairly represented by it, while the public is presented with a few hitherto unpublished sketches written for his own use. It needs only to mention some of the contributors to the pages of this book to indicate the high order of its contents. "Come here," translated from the German, by Miss Genevieve Ward; "A cure for dudes," by John T. Wheelwright; "Cleopatra's dream," by W. W. Story; "At midnight," by Edgar Fawcett; "It never comes again," by R. H. Stoddard; "An incident of the French camp," by Browning, etc., etc.

Van Pelt, Rev. Dan. A church and her martyrs. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1889.] c. 336 p. S. cl., $1.15.

The first part is devoted to the history of the church of Holland, and the second part to an account of the martyrs of Holland. The author lately spent a summer in the country of which he writes, making many researches and familiarizing himself with the places made memorable by the scenes of which he writes. This fact gives freshness to his descriptions.

The original work was first offered to the public in 1865; the lapse of almost a quarter of a century made it essential that the work should be revised and enlarged so as to cover the recent literature of fiction; the opportunity was also taken to supply a few omissions in the body of the work. C. G. Wheeler is the nephew of the former editor and was associated with him in compiling the companion volume, "Familiar allusions." The appendix covers 40 pages.

This book will have peculiar interest for boys. At the same time it will prove valuable and suggestive to all who are engaged in work for boys, especially in missionary effort in behalf of the neglected classes of cities and large towns. It is the narrative of an experiment with a party of such boys, and tells first of their condition of homelessness and friendlessness, and then describes the effort that was made for their rescue.

John G. Whittier furnishes an introductory note as follows: "This little volume, written, with no thought of publicity, at car-windows and from the decks of steamboats, in sight of the objects described, has something of the freshness and vividness of reality, like a chain of photographic impressions from Mount Shasta to Mount Elias. Its unstudied but truthful pictures may be of interest to those who have seen the wonderful region of mountains, glaciers, and inland seas, and to those who are hoping or expecting to visit it, and to the larger number who are only able to travel by proxy, and see through the eyes of others."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 11, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

CLOTH-BOUND AND PAPER-BOUND BOOKS.

A CORRESPONDENT recently called attention to the discrepancy in price between paper-covered and cloth-bound issues of the same book, suggesting what apparently is very often in the minds of the public, that publishers reap an enormous advantage from the margin between the two. The criticism points to one of the chief difficulties in the publishing trade. It is not the mere cost of the duplication of a book, as every publisher knows, but as the public very often overlook, that chiefly counts. The cost of composition and plates, the large necessary outlay for advertising, the store expenses and other items of expenditure must go into the cost of every book, successful or unsuccessful, and it must be added that a successful book must also pay its share of the losses of the unsuccessful books. Since publishers are not infallible, and there are sure to be failures of judgment, the business of publishing could not be kept up on any other basis. Now all this first cost must be distributed among the probable returns of every book published. If the edition which a publisher expects to sell is put at 25c., 35c., or 50c., in paper, of course an immense edition must be sold to cover these elements of first cost—a larger sale than can be predicted for most books. As a matter of fact it is upon the cloth edition that a publisher bases his distribution of the first cost and on which the author expects his main return; the paper edition, so to speak, is a by-product at an abnormally low price, not adequately above the mere cost of duplicating copies, put forward in the hope that buyers may be attracted who would not be reached by the cloth edition. In other words, it is not that the cloth edition is so much higher than the paper, but that the paper edition is so much lower than the cloth. The English publishers have a practice based on this same general principle of issuing all their novels first in the costly three-volume shape and after some lapse of time putting them forward in the cheap one-volume shape, at 5s., or 3s. 6d., or in paper at a still lower price. The necessary theory of publishing is that the elements of first cost must be placed on the probable sale of the cloth edition.

It should also be pointed out that while the additional cost of binding, although understated by our correspondent, seems but a small proportion of the difference between the two issues, it is nevertheless a considerable proportion of the actual increase obtained by the publisher. The difference between a cloth-bound book at a dollar and a half and a paper bound book at 50c. is not to the publisher $1 but 50c. or over, according to the discount which he makes. Here again the long discount system puts bookselling at a disadvantage before the public.

It would probably be a sounder and on the whole a more successful method if publishers would publish their cloth-bound editions at a somewhat lower price, making, of course, a correspondingly closer discount, reducing also the discount on their paper-covered books, but leaving the price of those about as they are now. This would be more in line with true business principle and would perhaps satisfy the public better. So long as two books are advertised side by side at $1.50 and 50c., in which the only difference is the cloth cover costing originally a shilling or so, the public will think that that cheap book is none too cheap and that the high-priced book is much too high. On the other hand if the cloth-bound book were at a dollar and the paper book at 50c., the discrepancy would not be serious. It is extraordinary into how many complications, inviting misunderstanding on the part of the public, the publishing trade has drifted with its present methods of discounts. And now that the scale of discounts has become so abnormal that many houses actually find that though their total business increases their total profits decrease, it is high time that business men of true foresight look after their methods and see if there is not something wrong about them.

THE RETIREMENT OF MR. THOMAS D. GALPIN.

ON the evening of April 12 the immense staff of Cassell & Co., including all employes over eighteen years of age, was invited by Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Dixon Galpin to Exeter Hall, London, where a pleasant and memorable entertainment was provided for them. In June, 1883, Cassell & Company became a stock company and Mr. Galpin has since held the onerous position of managing director, from which he is now retiring. In the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for August 11, 1883, appeared a full account of the reorganization of the great firm and the festivities with which it was consummated. The great plan has been a success, as the speeches made at Exeter Hall fully testify. The Right Hon. A. J. Mundella, M.P., occupied the chair, and the guests, numbering nearly 1000, included many distinguished people. Many ladies were also present, chiefly friends of the managers and heads of departments in the Cassell Company. The Chairman's speech was full of information, and enlivened by wit and humor. Mr. Galpin in his address gave many interesting facts and figures of the work of the six years under his directorship. As to the financial position of the firm, he said they had paid their 10 per cent. and earned a profit of £240,000. The £9 shares were now worth £15 10s., and 7500 of these shares were held by the employes, so that one-third of the capital was in the hands of the employes. Mr. Galpin dwelt upon his life-long faith in coöperation. He referred tellingly to his late partner, Mr. G. W. Petter, to the late W. E. Forster, the speaker on the occasion of the last reunion, and to his life-long friend, John Bright. He said the new managing director, Mr. Turner, had been in the business thirty years and his well-known work was a guarantee that the old traditions of the house would be maintained. Mr. Turner made an address of thanks to Mr. Galpin and of greeting to his fellow-workmen. A silver salver, to which all the employes had contributed was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Galpin, with an illuminated memorial testifying of the esteem he has always enjoyed from his associates. The proceedings, including fine music, were under able direction, and the smooth, easy way in which everything went off left nothing to be desired.

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE W. T. BERRY.

At a meeting of the Tennessee Historical Society, held April 23, the following tribute to the memory of the late W. T. Berry (the well-known bookseller, whose death was noted recently) was entered on the minutes of the society:

"The minute-book of the society is so soon again darkened by an announcement of the death of another honored member, the late William T. Berry. He lived long and usefully and the memory of him will always be cherished by the numerous friends who surrounded him in life and gathered around his tomb at his death. For more than half a century his form and face have been familiar upon the streets of Nashville, and during all that long time and in a period, too, of political convulsions, when his opinions were not shared by popular sentiment, no imputation was ever cast upon the excellence of his character or the purity of his motives. This is eulogy sufficient and all the better because it is true. Death comes to all, and the time and manner of it are of less consequence than the actions and conduct which precede the dire event. The arch enemy or kindly friend, whichever it may be, permitted our esteemed friend to fulfil his mission on earth, and he worked it out quietly and unostentatiously, but diligently and usefully. No glitter surrounds his name, and the respect which attaches to it comes not from the adventitious help of official position, but while aiming only to discharge the duties of a private citizen the influence he exerted was more beneficial and widespread than if he had mingled in the strife for evanescent honors. The salient points of his character were strength coupled with gentleness, inflexible adherence to what he believed to be right, and though sometimes harsh in the condemnation of what he conceived to be wrong, the severity of expression being devoid of personality never inflicted pain or wounded sensibility. He could as well as any other man we know have sat for that picture of gentleness and benevolence so touchingly and beautifully described by Sterne in that celebrated classic, the blemishes of which are more than redeemed by its many exhibitions of Christian graces.

"We shall not say anything of his home life nor of his devotion to his family. Private grief is sacred.

"Fifty-four years ago this month a modest young man opened a bookstore in Nashville and during that month the writer of this feeble tribute made his acquaintance—an acquaintance soon ripening into friendship uninterrupted for a moment and strengthened by almost daily association, the recollection of which will remain through life a constant and enduring pleasure.

"It was a happy accident, and, indeed, fortunate for the people of Nashville, that the taste of our deceased friend led him to adopt the vocation of a bookseller—the business, of all others for which he was best suited, only that the idea of remuneration seemed to have been lost in his eager desire to provide intellectual enjoyment for his patrons. The selection on his shelves was admirable, embracing the whole range of literature, art, and science, no details being omitted, even as to form of binding or excellence in print. Devoted to books and fond of intellectual society, his office was for years the resort of the literary gentlemen of Nashville. There, after the labors of the day were over, gathered in social converse Fogg, Reese, Washington, Houston, Turley, Meigs, Marshall, the two Ewings, Bell, Trimble and others of similar tastes, the late learned Dr. Philip Lindsley being often a prominent figure, the names of whom indicate the high order of subjects upon which there was an interchange of thought and opinion. Sad it is to reflect that of the elder ones constituting that galaxy of learning and gentility only three yet linger above the horizon, the Hon. E. H. Ewing, Judge Russell Houston, and the Hon. R. J. Meigs, all bowed with age, but with intellects bright and unclouded, and let the day be distant when inexorable fate shall summon these three survivors to join the others of our friends who have taken their places 'in the silent halls of death.' It was not, however, alone to men of learning and position that those hospitable doors were open. Berry's Bookstore was the literary centre of Nashville, and a sort of public library where students, old and young, were always welcome and all helps cheerfully given to search out a reference or verify a quotation.

"The influence of our friend was most felt, and most effectively felt, in the impetus which he gave to the cultivation of letters in Tennessee. Such a legacy is monument enough.

"Column and labored urn but vainly show
An idle scene of decorated woe.
The sweet companion and friend sincere Need no mechanic help to force the tear."

The Board of Trustees of the University of Nashville, of which Mr. Berry, with one exception, was the oldest member, also passed appropriate resolutions at its meeting, April 19.

HUNTINGTON & CO.'S NEW QUARTERS.

FROM all accounts Huntington & Co.'s new bookstore, at the corner of Church and College Streets, Burlington, Vt., is one of the finest in the State. The building in which it is housed was erected by Mr. Huntington in connection with the block of the Y. M. C. A., but conforms to the plan of that building only in general outline. It is separated from that building by solid brick walls and was in fact built to stand alone. The block is four stories high with spacious basement and attic, and it has a frontage of 56 feet on College Street and 32 feet on Church Street. In architecture the building is a modified Romanesque. The first story is of rock-faced brown-stone, and the walls above are of brick with terra-cotta trimmings. The entrance to the store is arranged in a deep recess at the corner of Church and College Streets and is flanked by brown-stone pilasters with moulded capitals carrying a heavy lintel of brownstone which bears the simple but suggestive inscription:

The sides and ceiling of the entrance recess are panelled in natural quartered oak, and the doors, sides, and transoms of the same material are glazed with plate-glass. The entrance floor is of red unglazed tile. The entrance is the embodiment of the graceful in architecture, but is only the suggestion of what is to follow.

Having gained the interior the visitor is impressed with the air of elegance and solidity which makes itself felt everywhere. The vision is unobstructed in all parts, the floors above being borne by heavy iron beams, thus obviating the use of supporting columns. The store is lighted by three immense plate-glass windows and by groups of small windows artistically arranged over the shelving. The amount of light admitted is largely increased by the novel arrangement of the entrance, and the store lights up in an admirable manner even on a cloudy day.

The store has clear dimensions of 52 by 30 feet with a height of about 14 feet and is most conveniently arranged. Bookcases line the wall on the north, east, south, and part of the west sides, and the counters run parallel east and west. The bookcases and counters are of oak, natural finish, and the floor of maple. The ceiling is constructed with heavy panels formed by encasing the iron beams in oak, the spaces between being sheathed with white spruce, finished in the natural color. The furniture, including two elegant desks, show-cases, and chairs, are of natural finish cherry.

A new departure has been resorted to to save space by arranging bookcases in the front of the counters, thus gaining space for showing over 1000 volumes. A single case in the centre of the floor accommodates an equal number, and there are 1000 square feet of shelving and drawer space on the side walls.

The store is illuminated at night by six chandeliers of an attractive design in old brass, having three gas-jets each, in addition to side-lights in the large plate-glass windows. There are three large radiators, bronzed, the walls are decorated with pictures framed in oak to correspond with the finishing of the store, and all in all the surroundings could not well be made more attractive.

This house is the oldest in Chittenden County, Mr. Huntington having begun the book and stationery business in 1837. He learned the trade of bookbinding with Chauncey Goodrich in the Lyman block on the opposite corner, then known as the Wickware building. He began business as a bookbinder in the William Wainwright building, which was of brick and two stories high, occupying the site of Jones Brothers' block on College Street. He remained there until 1842, when he moved into the old Thomas Hotel block on the site of his present building. In 1847, the year of the great railroad excitement, when it was supposed that business was all going to the lake, he bought this "corner lot" with building, which then contained two stores, of W. L. Strong. He continued to occupy that place of business until the Strong block, of which it formed a part, burned on January 15, 1887. From that time until the present he rented the old Moody Haskell building on Church Street. The firm at present consists of Mr. S. Huntington, Mr. G. W. Whitney, his son-in-law, and Mr. H. J. Shanley. The latter two have grown up in the employ of Mr. Huntington. Mr. Whitney entered Mr. Huntington's service in 1863 and was admitted as junior member of the firm of S. Huntington & Co., January 1, 1873. Mr. Shanley, who began his service April 6, 1874, was admitted to the firm on July 1, 1888. This is in brief a sketch of the business which has continued without interruption for over 50 years under the management of Mr. Huntington and has grown from a small beginning to its present large proportions.

"OLD BOOK" MEN.

From The Book-Lover.

THE "old book" man, that is, such a character as "Snuffy Davy," as the "old book" man Davy Wilson used to be called, is not very often met with in this country. Wilson was not such a man as your fastidious passenger would care to sit alongside of, even in one of the best ventilated horse-cars of the metropolis. He was well named "Snuffy," for he was so passionately addicted to the use of black rappee that in a crowded hall one would only need to give him a smart rap on the chest in order to administer a pinch of the pungent herb to every mother's son in the room. But Wilson was a typical and an ideal "old book" man.

Sir Walter Scott vouches for the absolute truth of the following description: "Wilson was the very prince of scouts for searching blind alleys, cellars, and stalls for rare volumes. He had the scent of a sleuth-hound and the snap of a bulldog. He would detect you an old black-letter ballad among the leaves of a law paper, and find an 'editio princeps' under the mask of a school Corderius. Snuffy Davy bought the 'Game of Chess,' 1474, the first book ever printed in England, from a stall in Holland, for 2 groschen, or 2 pence of our money. He sold it to Osborne for £20, and as many books as came to £20 more. Osborne sold this inimitable windfall to Dr. Askew for 60 guineas. At Dr. Askew's sale this treasure was purchased by royalty itself for £170."

A well-known French writer (Ernest Chesneau) is of the opinion that this type, as fixed by Balzac and Gavarni, is becoming rare even in Paris. "The old man wearing large spectacles, with a white cravat—so called by courtesy—tied like a cord under his chin, which is always covered with a stub of a beard, his body thrust into a long bag of a coat pierced with more pockets than Thebes had gates, said pockets crammed full of books of all sizes, poking out their edges as fish their heads from a pelican's pouch; his life narrowed to one idea, he, therefore, a monomaniac, consequently eccentric and absent-minded, hunting in all seasons and weathers from early dawn to twilight, heaping up his treasures in wild confusion amid the dust of some miserable attic chamber, jealous of his possessions, which he hides from the world and in which he never looks, drawing his only satisfaction from ownership."

This author relates the pretty little anecdote of the Princess Elizabeth, who while the prisoner of her sister, Mary Tudor, at Woodstock, killed the monotony of life by sewing spangles on her book covers with gold and silver thread. No doubt the books, be it said en passant, were missals, and Elizabeth took this means of convincing her sister that she was a good Catholic.

And Chesneau would like to see the book-lover of to-day "go and do likewise." That is, not literally sew spangles on his book covers, but abandon all the affectations of the old-time collector, be an intelligent gentleman, take an interest in the technique of book-building, study the decoration and ornamentation of covers, so that he may become a genuine collaborator with his binder. In a word, be and act like a rational and reasonable creature, so that his love of books may not, like the miser's love of gold, be of no use to his fellow-man and a curse to himself. "A consummation most devoutly to be wished!" The nineteenth century has done much to give the quietus to many silly affectations connected with books, and it is to be hoped that the twentieth will complete the good work.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

WILLIAM F. GILL has bought Edgar Allan Poe's cottage at Fordham, N. Y.

DR. L. H. MILLS, an American residing at present at 19 Norham Road, Oxford, Eng., will issue by subscription his work on the Gáthas of Zoroaster, during the present year or early in 1890.

IT is proposed to erect a monument of the late E. P. Roe by placing a natural boulder at some suitable spot near his home at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., and the Christian Union invites subscriptions. A few hundred dollars will cover the cost.

"FÜRST BISMARCK UND DIE LITTERATUR" is the title of a forthcoming monograph by a German of letters, Dr. Adolf Kohut, who has undertaken the task of presenting the Chancellor in his capacity of writer, and of recording his relations to authors and journalists.

A PRIVATE concert with readings for the benefit of the Home Hotel Association for needy authors, artists, and professional men was given on the evening of the 6th inst., at the house of Mrs. S. P. Embury, 31 W. 37th St., N. Y. The entertainment was successful in every particular.

MR. CHARLES THOMAS JACOBI has followed his "Printer's Handbook" with "The Printer's Vocabulary" (London, The Chiswick Press), which he claims to be a collection of some 2500 technical terms mostly relating to letter-press printing, "many of which have been in use since the time of Caxton."

MR. H. RIDER HAGGARD has, it is said, made publishing arrangements for a new story, in which Queen Esther will prominently figure. To study local color for the new volume Mr. Rider Haggard will shortly start for a tour in Asia Minor and Persia, visiting Persepolis, Shiraz, and probably Baghdad.—Athenaeum.

IT is reported that Mrs. Oliphant, the novelist, will expand her Blackwood sketch of the late Laurence Oliphant into a larger biography, to be published as a book, and that in this enterprise she will have the assistance of the mother of Mr. Oliphant's first wife. Some time ago it was given out that the widow of Mr. Oliphant, who still survives him, was making arrangements for a biography.

A NUMBER of authors have consented to give a reading in aid of the project to raise the debt of about $700 on the memorial church erected at Grovetown, Ga., in honor of Paul Hamilton Hayne, the Southern poet. The entertainment will take place at Hardman Hall, No. 138 Fifth Avenue, N. Y., on Monday, May 31, at 8 P.M. Tickets are for sale at the hall, and at Jenkins' bookstore, No. 85 1/2 Sixth Avenue.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ABILENE, KAN.—B. D'Huy, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

BOSTON, MASS.—Rev. A. E. Dunning has been admitted as a member of the firm of W. L. Greene & Co., publishers of The Congregationalist, which is now in its 75th year. Dr. Dunning is now absent on a tour West and to the Pacific coast in the interests of the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society, of which he has so long been Secretary, but he will complete the trip by midsummer, and will terminate his connection with that Society and join the staff of The Congregationalist September 1, to be associated with Dr. Dexter in its editorship. Dr. Dunning was born in Brookfield, Ct., in 1844, graduated at Yale in 1867 and at Andover in 1870, and was the first pastor of the Highland church in Roxbury, now Boston Highlands, from September, 1870, to December, 1880. In January, 1881, he entered upon his work as Secretary of the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society. For several years it had been felt quite widely that this Society ought to be lifted up into a far more prominent position as the leader in the denomination in the various departments of Sunday-school work, and Dr. Dunning was selected with the conviction that he possessed to a high degree the qualities needed at the head of this important work. The result showed him to be a rare man for the place, and he has filled it with growing success up to the present time. He has for many years been well known as a contributor to the columns of the religious press, including The Congregationalist, The Sunday-School Times, The Advance, and The Golden Rule. He has been one of the writers for the "Monday Club Sermons" since 1876, and has now for several years furnished the Sunday-school explanation for The Congregationalist.

BOZEMAN, MONT.—The firm of J. H. Taylor, bookseller, has been changed to Taylor & Ray.

CAZENOVIA, N. Y.—William Watkins and W. J. Hutchinson have formed a copartnership under the firm-name of Watkins & Hutchinson, for the purpose of conducting a general book, stationery, printing, and bookbinding business, at 81 Albany Street, Cazenovia, N. Y., as successors to William Watkins, who has been in business at this location for the past twenty-three years. Mr. Watkins began life as a bookseller when a mere lad and early attracted the attention of the late Charles Scribner. He ever sought to elevate his calling to the dignity of a profession, and by his taste, tact, and unflinching courtesy won many friends. His marked success in a limited field is a striking illustration of the survival of the fittest. His partner, Mr. Hutchinson, is a practical printer, and together with their trusted assistants we have no doubt the new firm will forge on to win new laurels.

CEDAR SPRINGS, MICH.—Miss Ella Wamsly, bookseller, has sold out.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Book Concern has been incorporated by A. McLellan, H. W. McLellan, and D. A. Stocking, to publish books and deal in novelties and general merchandise.

CINCINNATI, O.—Hopkins & John, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

CLEVELAND, O.—E. H. Hawley (Hawley's Book Exchange) went out of the book business. Mr. Hawley has reached his seventy-seventh year and considers himself entitled to respite from work. We wish him years enough yet to come to enjoy his rest. He closed out his business, having been unable to find a successor.

DALLAS, TEX.—Kirm & Mitchell, booksellers and stationers, have changed their name to Kirm, Mitchell & Co.

DECORAH, IA.—Jas. Alex. Leonard, bookseller, has taken his son, George I. Leonard, into partnership, the style of the new firm being Leonard & Son.

DENTON, TEX.—J. R. Barton & Co., booksellers, have gone out of business.

EGAN, DAK.—H. E. Heeren, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by G. R. Lanning.

NEW YORK CITY.—Wilbur B. Ketcham, publisher and bookseller, has removed on account of extensive alterations in 71 Bible House, to 13 Cooper Union, where all correspondence should be addressed.

OGDEN CITY, UTAH.—A. H. Cannon, bookseller and stationer, Ogden City, Utah, has sold out.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—E. R. Baxter & Co., agents for subscription-books, have been succeeded by Bye & Co.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

THE twenty-first annual volume of the useful "Uebersicht der gesammten staats- und rechtswissenschaftlichen Literatur," edited, since 1868, by Otto Mühlbrecht, of the Berlin firm of law booksellers, Puttkammer & Mühlbrecht, contains the titles of all law-books and books relating to political and social science issued in Germany, France, Great Britain, the United States, Italy, Spain, Holland, Russia, Switzerland, Belgium, and the Scandinavian countries during the year 1888. The work is issued in six bi-monthly numbers, the titles, arranged under language groups, are reasonably full, and paginations and prices are given; and there is an index of authors. The titles of American books are reproduced verbatim from the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. (xxviii. + 252 pp., 8°, price 6 mks. = $1.44.)

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—Walter R. Benjamin, 28 W. 23d St., N. Y., Supplement No. 2 to "The Collector" [of autographs]. (8 p., sm. 4°).—F. M. Crouse, Indianapolis, Ind., May list of second-hand books. (4 p., 8°).—David G. Francis, 17 Astor Place, N. Y., Valuable Books. (May, 1889, No. 91, 36 p., 12°).—W. R. Haight, Toronto, A neat Book list of English, American, and Canadian books. (April, 1889, No. 1, 4 p. folder).—John T. Kerrigan, Dallas, Tex., List of Rare Books. (8 p. folder).—Edward Mills, 309 N. 9th St., St. Louis, Mo., Medical, Americana, Theological, and Miscellaneous Books. (774 titles, 28 p., 8°).

OBITUARY.

COUNT DEMETRIUS TOLSTOI, who was Russian Minister of the Interior until a few weeks ago, died May 7, at St. Petersburg. He was the representative of the Russian ultra-conservative, or repressive, element, and a staunch supporter of the Russian Orthodox Church, and has been called even by conservative Russians "a second Katkoff, without Katkoff's brains." In 1866 he was appointed Minister of Instruction and General Attorney of the Holy Synod. Six years later he was appointed Minister of the Interior. He wrote a work on the Roman Catholic Church in Russia and "Historical Researches."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEBBIE & Co., Philadelphia, have in preparation a complete and exhaustive illustrated history of the American Army, to be illustrated by photogravures and sketches from authentic sources.

THE Athenaeum calls to mind that last week saw Mr. Murray's eightieth birthday, and very properly congratulates "the doyen of English publishers on his having reached that venerable age and preserving an intellect as keen and a heart as warm as in his youth, and a bodily vigor which would do credit to a man fifteen years his junior." If it may be permitted to do honor to a publisher while he is still living, no one of the fraternity more highly deserves honor than Mr. Murray.

GINN & Co. will publish this month the sixth volume of their Library of Anglo-Saxon Poetry, Cynewulf's "Elene," edited by Chas. W. Kent. The introduction of this work will contain an account of the manuscript, author, sources, theme of poem, etc., as well as a discussion of the versification, particularly of rhyme. The text is accompanied by the Latin original at the foot of each page. The notes, intended as aids to the student, will be full, and frequent reference will be made to "Cook's Sievers' Grammar." The glossary, prepared on the plan of Heyne's glossary to "Beowulf," will be unusually full, and will contain references both to notes and grammar.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish next week quite a library of books of various kinds. They begin, with "Vanity Fair" in two volumes, an Illustrated Library Edition of the complete works of Thackeray, which will fill twenty-two volumes, crown octavo, printed from large-faced long-primer type, and fully illustrated, forming a very desirable edition of Thackeray for the library. They also begin another new enterprise, the Riverside Library for Young People, which is intended to consist of books of decided interest and permanent value in various departments of reading which young people find most engaging. The first two volumes, to appear next week, are "The War of Independence," by John Fiske, and "George Washington, an Historical Biography," by Horace E. Scudder. Mrs. Wiggins, whose little book, "The Birds' Christmas Carol," has had so great vogue, has written another book, perhaps a little larger, entitled "The Story of Patsy," a forlorn city boy, who, under the influence of a kind and tactful teacher, developed very attractive qualities which, unfortunately, he did not live long to manifest. The story is both humorous and pathetic, and will doubtless have a wide reading. Mrs. Woolley, whose story of "Rachel Armstrong, or, love and theology," has during the past year attracted no little interest, has written another novel, entitled "A Girl Graduate," which deals with questions which should never arise in a republic, namely, questions of caste and social distinction, and deals with them in a very interesting and suggestive way. Four of Mr. Howells' farces, entitled "The Sleeping-Car," "The Parlor Car," "The Elevator," and "The Register," will be grouped in a single volume. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, who has already published two volumes of notable verse, has prepared another small collection, entitled "The Cup of Youth, and other poems," which will be brought out in the same style as his previous volume, "The Masque, and other poems."

History of the People of Israel.

SECOND DIVISION.

From the Reign of David up to the Capture of Samaria. By ERNEST RÉNAN. Uniform with the "History of the People of Israel till the Time of King David." 1 vol., 8vo, $2.50.

"The second volume of Rénan's history of the people of Israel deals with important events, and covers the period from the reign of David to the capture of Samaria and the fall of the Northern Kingdom. . . . For brilliancy, insight, erudition, audacious paradox, and admirable style, the second volume of M. Rénan's 'History of the People of Israel' will yield to none of his writings; and, while a great many of its conclusions will provoke controversy, it will be read with none the less interest by the general public."—*N. ## 1889.

To RETAIL DEALERS:

The SUMMER CATALOGUE, issued now for twelve years, has been found so useful and profitable by enterprising dealers, that it has become a regular feature of the trade. The thirteenth issue, in a special pamphlet adapted for imprint circulation all through the summer, will be published in connection with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, early in June.

The imprint editions will contain, in addition to a catalogue of guide-books and light literature for summer reading, an entirely new selection of reading-matter both of a practical and entertaining character, chiefly intended for the use and amusement of tourists, pleasure-seekers, and visitors of summer resorts.

Booksellers should remember that, while summer is usually a dull time, the sales of light literature, etc., can be pushed to make a successful business even in this season. The classes who travel are of course those who have money to spend, even in dull times, and the summer is the time when very many bookbuyers do the greater part of their reading. The decadence of the “cheap libraries” should give the enterprising dealer the opportunity to sell better and more profitable books. Booksellers at or near summer resorts should especially avail themselves of this publication, while city dealers should remember that it will be also useful to tempt stay-at-homes to make investments or to follow up customers otherwise out of reach.

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS has become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, began in January and will run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work."

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," enlivens each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specially intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

Address THE LITERARY NEWS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL ST.),

(P. O. Box 943).

- Together with the descriptions of the rare birds and animals of Australia, New Zealand, and New Guinea, and the exciting accounts of the methods of hunting or catching them, are many amusing adventures of the author and his brother, two bright Americans, who seem to possess a keen sense of humor.
- Dixon, W. Hepworth. Her majesty's tower; from the 7th London ed. [2 v. in 1 v.] N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., 1889. 11+359+5+391 p. il. D. cl., $2; hf. cl., $3.50.
- A new edition in 1 volume of a famous book; reprinted by Crowell first in 1885 in 2 v.
- Drake, S. Adams. Burgoyne's invasion of 1777; with an outline sketch of the American invasion of Canada, 1775-76. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889. c. 146 p. il. S. (Decisive events in American history.) cl., 50 c.
- The prelude with which the narrative opens undertakes first to briefly outline the history of the northern army, which finally brought victory out of defeat, and next to render familiar the names, location, and strategic value of the frontier fortresses, before beginning the story of the campaign itself. The bulk of the book is taken up with the history of Burgoyne's campaign, one of the decisive events of the Revolutionary struggle, as well as one of the most daring. It is freshly written, and so interesting that it holds the attention throughout.
- Durand, J., ed. New materials for the history of the American revolution; tr. from documents in the French archives and edited by J:

- Durand, N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1889. c. 7+311 p. D. cl., $1.75.
The correspondence of Gérard de Rayneval and the Chevalier de la Luzerne included here and hitherto not accessible is of the greatest importance. It throws new light on two subjects of special interest, the hitherto secret debates of the Continental Congress and the cabal against Washington, as well as on the schemes of the politicians of the day who prevented an energetic prosecution of the war. A number of chapters are devoted to Beaumarchais. This material sets the character of Beaumarchais in a new light to American readers and strongly appeals to their sympathies. An appendix contains a remarkable letter by Thomas Paine addressed to Danton and here published in full for the first time. Index.
- Ebers, Georg. Margery ('Gred'): a tale of old Nuremberg; from the German by Clara Bell. Rev. and corr. in U. S. Authorised ed. N. Y., W. S. Gottsberger, 1889. c. tr. 2 v., 10+279; 2+300 p. S. cl., $1.50; pap., 80 c.
"Margery," or "Gred," as it is called in the original, is a tale of old Nuremberg now put into excellent English by the facile Clara Bell. The time is the first half of the fifteenth century, when Nuremberg was at the height of its glory as a centre of art and letters, and when its wealthy burghers lived in almost royal splendor. Margery is a daughter of the famous house of Schopper, an orphan at the beginning of the story, which is supposed to be told in her own words. She describes her school life, her friendship with the scrivener's daughter, beautiful Ann Spies, and the various romantic love affairs of which from childhood she began to take cognizance. Her brother, the bold and impetuous Herdegen, falls in love with Ann, but is for a time alienated by the machinations of a rich old uncle. There are festivities in city and country, adventures with gypsies, duels, and many tragic events to lead interest to the narrative."—Boston Beacon.

- Emerson, E. Waldo. Emerson in Concord a memoir written for the "Social circle" in Concord, Mass. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. '88. 4+266 p. por. D. cl., $1.75.
Mr. Emerson prepared for the "Social circle" in Concord a memoir of his father, Ralph Waldo Emerson. It does not attempt to cover the whole of Mr. Emerson's life; it is more especially limited to his private and domestic life, as its title suggests. The record of his studies, his relations to his neighbors and friends and to the reforms and political questions of his time, as well as his religious views, is given with perfect frankness, and the reader feels that the more distinctly Mr. Emerson is known, the more clear is the impression of the wonderful beauty and purity of his life.
- False (A) couple; a novelization of the drama "A false couple." N. Y., Exchange Pub. Co., 54 Broad St., 1889. c. 227 p. D. pap., 50 c.
New York City clubs and Long Branch race-tracks offer the scenes. The heroes, two young men about town, love the same girl. During this dramatic novel she engages herself to one, marries the other, and after stormy years the curtain goes down when she is preparing to marry the first suitor.

- Fraternity: a romance. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 3+265 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 645.) pap., 35 c.
The hero enters one of the aristocratic old families of North Wales as teacher of the violin and of French to a beautiful young girl. Although constantly preaching the equality and fraternity of mankind, the nothingness of rank and riches, he suddenly leaves the country, on finding his pupil loves him. The remainder of the tale tells his story and that of a friend, and finally explains contradictions, clears up involved family histories, and pictures the happy consequences of a perfect love towards God and man.

Jealousy leads to a duel between two young New Yorkers. It is decided that instead of shooting they shall draw a black or white ball, the one drawing the black ball agreeing to commit suicide in three months. The story pictures three months in the life of a man knowing his end is near. First he uses his immense riches to drug his consciousness, then he decides to work for the good of others. The poor quarters of New York are realistically drawn. The dénouement remains a mystery to the last page.

Starcke, C. N. The primitive family in its origin and development. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. 8+315 p. D. (International scientific ser.) cl., $1.75.

The author's aim has been to ascertain the nature of the primitive family, and to point out the ideas on which it is based, as well as the germ of moral growth which it contains. The work, after an introduction, is divided into 2 sections: 1, "Definition of kinship," has chapters on Australia; America; Africa; Asia; Polynesia; Aryan peoples. 2, "The primitive family," is divided under chapters entitled: Father and child; Polyandry; The Levirate and niyoga; Inheritance by brothers, and other supposed proofs of polyandry; Nomenclatures; Exogamy and endogamy; Marriage and its development; The family, the clan, and the tribe. There is a table of nomenclatures, List of books referred to, and Index.

Thackeray, W. M. Complete works. Illustrated lib. ed. 22 v. V. 1 and 2. Vanity fair; [also,] Lovel the widower; with 159 il. by the author, and an introduction cont. the history of these works. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. ed. 2 v., 29+480; 5+460 p. D. cl., $3.

A new and lovely edition of Thackeray's complete works is begun with these two volumes. It is to be called the "Illustrated library edition," and will be completed in 22 volumes. It is an octavo page, in large type, and will embrace over 1600 illustrations, the majority of them being Thackeray's own comic efforts. Each volume will be prefaced with such information as seems desirable concerning the time and circumstances of its writing. This feature will lend a special value to the edition, and with the excellences of typography, illustration, and binding will win the favor of all who appreciate tasteful books, and who also appreciate the wisdom, the good sense, the humor, and the indescribable literary charm of Thackeray.

*Times and days: being essays in romance and history. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 214 p. S. cl., $1.50.

Timol, Rob. An alien from the commonwealth: the romance of an odd young man. Bost.,

Cupples & Hurd, 1889. c. 3-358 p. 1 il. D. (Algonquin press lib.) cl., $1.50.

The hero is a southerner by birth and a Yale College graduate. He is a gentleman in every sense of the word, cultured, upright, and independent. He has special beliefs as to the extent a man should go in aiming at success in this world, and he will not go beyond them even when circumstances force him to earn a living. His life is what most people would call a failure, but he preserves his integrity, and is finally relieved from poverty by a bit of good luck. The plot is not at all intricate, simply painting the hero's career in the West as a lawyer, journalist, etc. That a college education unfits a man for a business life is one of the theories the author dwells upon.

*Tudor, Owen Davies. A selection of leading cases in equity, with notes. V. 2, Pt. 2, with notes and American cases by Franklin S. Dickson, from 6th ed. Phil., The Blackstone Pub. Co., 1889. c. 599 p. O. (Text-book ser., v. 3, no. 28.) pap., $1.50 (not sold out of set.)

Tuttle, Hudson. Studies in the outlying fields of psychic science. N. Y., H. L. Holbrook & Co., 1889. c. 250 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author's aim is to bring together proofs of the doctrine of immortality. These he has sought for in the field of supernaturalism. His book abounds in narratives and anecdotes of supernatural occurrences, dreams, omens, stories of faith cures, premonitions, of the phenomena of mesmerism, hypnotism, magnetism, etc.

Valentine, Jane. Time's scythe. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 5+209 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., v. 1, no. 25.) 50 c.

Characters, scenes, and incidents are too many to be described clearly in a short notice. The heroine leaves her country home and comes to a city, not located by name, to earn her living in a large store. The hero is a man who preaches a good deal and pleases women always. An ocean voyage is described with much detail. Time's scythe cuts down some leading characters, but also smoothes the hindrances from the lives of others.

Baldy's Point is in Arkansas. The surrender of Lee brings the Confederate soldiers back to their homes, and the story offers a picture of the desolation of the South after the war, the arrogance of the emancipated slaves, and the poverty and cares of the defeated white masters. The two heroes and two heroines are noble men and women.

A touching little story of a poor little deformed street boy—"Patsy." He becomes a member of "Miss Kate's" Free Kindergarten, and believes he has in her care and love a foretaste of that paradise he finally goes to. While the story provokes tears it also incites laughter, as the writer describes with genuine humor the inhabitants of Ann and Silver Sts. in the slums of San Francisco.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 18, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE next annual meeting of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association will be held at the Trade Sale Rooms of George A. Leavitt & Co., corner Broadway and Tenth Street, on the evening of June 5 (not on the 3d as some of the circulars erroneously state it). The Association is on the threshold of its tenth year and has a creditable record. It has not grown as quickly as was expected at the start, but its growth has been steady and healthy—each year has showed a larger membership, every death benefit has been larger than the previous one.

At this next meeting there will be presented a number of modifications of the Constitution and By-laws, most of which, being intended to simplify the work of the Association, will no doubt be adopted without argument. The amendments, however, relating to the extension of membership to 1500, the one relating to death payments, and the new article relating to the Reserve Fund will provoke discussion. It is to be hoped that every member residing in New York, or in the neighborhood, will be present, and be prepared to intelligently dispose of the business to be brought before the Association. The questions are of vital importance and will materially affect the future of the Association which all have worked so nobly to build up. It is therefore needless to point out that the changes must be made only after due thought and deliberation. And the time for that is now—after the meeting it may be too late.

THOUGH it is not the province of this journal to enter the field of criticism we cannot refrain from pointing out to the reviewers of the press at large the perniciousness of giving undue prominence to the books which in their eyes deserve condemnation. We refer especially to the productions of the so-called "fleshy" school. If a book be bad, let the fact be noted in the briefest possible item, and it will be buried. To point out its vulgarity and to fortify the critic's assertion by quoting at length tid-bits of its salacious contents—very often quoting the only objectionable parts the book contains—is precisely the kind of treatment which wakens idle curiosity and gives this class of writing the short-lived popularity it is having; it certainly is the thing that tends to feed the vanity of its author. We fail to see in what particular the author of such a work is more to blame than such a critic. Without him the author's work would in almost every instance remain an unknown harm. As the Critic, in touching upon this abuse, very sensibly remarks: "The daily press is largely to blame for the present state of things, for with an irresponsibility that is appalling and bad taste that is contagious and demoralizing, it has generally catered to the craze of these writers for notoriety, and poured into the ears of an indifferent public the most trivial details of their private lives. But we have had enough of it, and it is time the editors of our 'great dailies' inquired into the abuses of their columns." Furthermore, but few are interested in this kind of stuff. Strange as it may seem, the taste for unclean literature is confined to a very small part of the sixty millions of the inhabitants of this country. The vast majority are in sound moral health.

WE beg to remind our readers that our issue for May 25 will be the Summer Number, which we hope again to make an excellent medium both for the home and summer resort bookseller for making the most of summer trade. We do not think it necessary to repeat the claim that much can be done with this publication in the way of following up and retaining trade—the success of those who have used it being sufficient proof. We ask publishers to be prompt in supplying their advertising, and booksellers in sending their imprint orders for this issue.

THE INTRODUCTION OF PRINTING INTO NEW YORK.

ANTIQUARIANS, book collectors, and bibliographers generally have for a long time accepted it as an incontrovertible fact that the volume known as "Bradford's Laws, 1694," was the first book printed in New York, being partly printed in 1693. The following Pennsylvania Act is also supposed to have been printed in that year, as well as two or three separate New York Acts Anno Regni Gulielmi & Mariæ. | REGIS & REGINÆ | Anglicæ, Scotiæ, Franciæ & Hiberniæ, | QUINTO | AN ACT for granting to King William and Queen | Mary the Rate of One Penny per Pound upon the | clear Value of all the Real and Personal estates, | and Six Skillings per Head upon such as are not | otherwise rated by this Act. To be employed by the | Governor of this Province of Pennsylvania and | Territories thereto, for the Time being, towards | the Support of this Government. | Folio, pp. (4).

William Bradford, it will be remembered, was the first printer not only of New York but of Pennsylvania as well. He was born in Leicester, England, May 20, 1660. Being a Quaker he emigrated in 1682 and landed on the spot where Philadelphia was afterward built. In 1685 he began printing under the patronage of the Friends. In 1692 he incurred the displeasure of the dominant party in Philadelphia through his sympathy with George Keith and was imprisoned for libel. After his release, he accepted the offer of the New York Council to set up a press in that colony, and on April 10, 1693, was duly appointed "Printer to the Majesty King William and Queen Mary;" establishing himself in the present city of New York and his salary in that office commenced on that day.

It has been commonly accepted, as we remarked, that the book quoted above, or either of three other Acts, were the first fruits of Bradford's press in New York, which have been preserved and are still extant in one or more specimens of each. To these George H. Moore, LL.D., the Superintendent of Lenox Library, now adds the record of a publication hitherto unrecognized, but which he thinks may prove to be the earliest of them all.*

Upon news of the French invasion of New York in the winter of 1692-3, Dr. Moore says: "Governor Fletcher displayed great energy and activity, taking the field in person, proceeding with uncommon celerity to the scene of action and providing by every means in his power for the security and protection of the frontier. His services were cordially recognized by all, and by none more emphatically than the friendly Indians in alliance with the English, who bestowed on him the name of Cayenquirago, the Great Swift Arrow, to commemorate the rapidity of his movement from the city of New York to the scattered settlements in the wilderness above Albany.

"The journal of this expedition and other documents, official and semi-official, illustrating the transactions connected with it, were brought together and printed in New York by authority of the Governor himself. The exact date of appearance of the work cannot be readily fixed; but it is certain that before the summer of 1693 was fairly forward, that valiant soldier was enabled to read the flattering record of his achievements from the types of William Bradford, the poor printer whom he had just rescued from Quaker persecution in Philadelphia. It is not difficult to understand with what zeal and alacrity the grateful protégé would hasten to perform his part in the work of 'booming his benefactor.'

"It would be unreasonable to doubt either that Fletcher was desirous to give the publicity of print to the record of his successful expedition or that the printer was eager to gratify his friend and patron. The thanks of the popular branch of the legislature were formally voted to the Governor for his promptness and zeal in appearing against the French on the frontier, by a resolution of the 22d March, 1693, the very day before the 'encouragement to the printer' passed the Council: and a copy of this resolution duly authenticated is the last article in the book.

"The work thus produced in New York was reprinted a few weeks later in London, and we are indebted to that republication for the greater part of our present knowledge of its existence. It was licensed in London, September 11, 1693, and in one of the London journals of the 16th September, 1693, the following advertisement announced the fact that

"On Tuesday next, the 19th Instant, will be publish'd. 'A Perfect Journal of the late Actions of the French at Canada, with the Manner of their being Repuls'd, by His Excellency Benjamin Fletcher, their Majesties Governour of New-York. Impartially related by Colonel Nicholas Reyard and Lieutenant Colonel Charles Lodowick: To which is added the Present State and Strength of Canada given by a Dutchmen, late Prisoners there.

* Price stitch'd 6d.

'Printed for Richard Baldwin. 1693.'

"It is not improbable that this was part of the title of the original publication in New York, excepting the imprint—and that the variation in the English edition belongs to that alone. The title of that edition is as follows:

"A | Journal | of the | Late Actions | of the | French at Canada. | With | The Manner of their being, Repuls'd, by | His Excellency, Benjamin Fletcher, Their | Majesties Governour of New-York. | Impartially Related by Coll. Nicholas Reyard, | and Lieu- | tenant Coll. Charles Lodowick, who attended His | Excellency, during the whole Expedition. | To which is added, | I. An Account of the present State and Strength of Canada, | given by Two Dutch Men, who have been a long Time Pri- | soners there | and now made their Escape. | II. The Examination of a French Prisoner. | III. His Excellency Benjamin Fletcher's Speech to the Indians. | IV. An Address from the Corporation of Albany, to His Excellen- | cy, Returning Thanks for His Excellency's early Assistance for | their Relief. | Licensed, Sept. 11th, 1693, Edward Cooke, | London, Printed for Richard Baldwin, in Warwick-Lane, 1693. | 4to. Title and Preface, 2 leaves. Text, 22 pages.

"The English edition is introduced by a spirited preface to the reader, who is assured by the editor that 'we have this Credit to the Truth of our Narration, That 'tis no more than what has been already Printed at New-York by his Excellency's (the Commander in chief in the Expedition) particular Authority there,' etc.

"Governor Fletcher's successor and bitter enemy Lord Bellomont furnished, a few years later, an account of this publication, which is very entertaining, though by no means complimentary to his predecessor or the people whom they governed, whether lay or clerical.

"Writing to the Lords of Trade, November 12, 1698, he says: 'The printed accounts of his great exploits against the French which he published and sent into England I cannot possibly get one of them for love nor money, and I am told he made it his business to get up all the printed copies, which is an argument with me of his consciousness that he had imposed a romance instead of a true narrative,' etc.—N. Y. Col. MSS. iv. 426. It is not difficult to understand the reason why a publication which had disappeared within five years after it was printed in New York in 1693, should be well-nigh unknown two centuries later.

"The facts now stated seem to warrant the suggestion that 'The Perfect Journal,' etc., may have been 'the first-born of the press in New York.' They certainly deprive the first edition of the Laws of the honor—hitherto commonly assigned to that interesting and valuable volume, which still remains the most considerable monument of typography in New York before 1700."

ACCOUNTING FOR THE EDITION.—Enthusiastic Friend—Ah, how'd' do, Charlie? Gone into literature, I see. Quite a book of yours. I bought a copy yesterday.

Author, thoughtfully—Now, if I could only find out who bought the other copy!—Evening Sun.

* This information is quoted from a most interesting pamphlet entitled "Typographia Neo-Eboracensis Primæ—Historical Notes on the Introduction of Printing into New York 1693, by George H. Moore, LL.D., Superintendent of the Lenox Library. N. Y., Printed for the Author, 1888. 18 p. O. pap.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY.

At the sixty-fourth annual meeting of the American Tract Society, held last week, the following showing was made for the publishing department:

The Society has issued to date 7341 distinct publications, including 1654 volumes and exclusive of six periodicals, two of which are published in German and four in English. The six periodicals have an aggregate circulation of 2,579,400. New permanent publications to the number of 170 were added to the Society's list during the year, including 66 in English, 11 in German, 23 in Spanish, 16 in Italian, 12 in Danish, and 52 in Swedish.

In the course of the remarks with which Dr. Rand, Secretary of the publishing department, accompanied his reading, it was announced that the alterations in the Tract House had been completed, resulting in an increase of $5000 to $6000 in the annual rental, and that an uptown store would soon be opened in the Young Men's Christian Association building at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-third Street.

The business department's expenses were: For publications, $172,808.76; depositories, $25,833.47; taxes, special repairs, and life interests, $27,683.81; other expenses, $25,523.44. There was a surplus of $6762.83, and, deducting the overdraft of the benevolent department, a cash balance of $3669.44.

The officers chosen are: President, the Hon. William Strong, LL.D., of Washington; Vice-President, Martin B. Anderson, LL.D., of Rochester; Secretaries, the Revs. J. M. Stevenson, William W. Rand, G. L. Shearer, and Thomas Armitage; Treasurer, O. R. Kingsbury and Louis Tag; Auditors, William A. Wheelock and Elbert B. Monroe. The Board of Managers was re-elected with the addition of Mr. Warner Van Norden and the Rev. Dr. E. B. Coc. This Board met and chose this Executive Committee to serve for three years: Publishing Committee—The Rev. Drs. T. W. Chambers and L. W. Bancroft; Distributing Committee—Messrs. Titus B. Meigs, William B. Sloan, and John Noble Stearns; Finance Committee—Messrs. Peter Donald and William M. Isaacs.

OBITUARY.

JAMES G. SHAW, widely known as the "father of the blank-book trade," died on the 9th inst., at the home of his nephew, 137 Macon Street, Brooklyn. The burial was at Tarrytown and was private. Mr. Shaw was born 77 years ago in Lansingburg, N. Y. His father was an old resident of Albany, where he was a bookseller and binder. Mr. Shaw came to New York City in the "forties" and established the firm of J. G. Shaw & Co., which, after continuing a short time, was changed, by the admission of a new partner, to Shaw & Ireland. Mr. Ireland, however, died within two years, and the firm resumed its former designation. During the California fever Mr. Shaw greatly extended his business and laid the foundation for its later growth. Twelve years ago the firm became the J. G. Shaw Blank-Book Company, with its offices and factory at 79, 81, 83, and 85 Duane Street. A year ago Mr. Shaw retired. Mr. Shaw married Miss Bolderman, of this city, some time after he arrived in New York. His wife died in 1887, leaving no children.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

"CARMEN SYLVA" (the Queen of Roumania) is translating into the English language a number of Roumanian popular songs collected by one of her maids of honor, Mlle. Vacaresco, from the mouths of the peasantry. These legends and ballads, which are described as of great beauty by an English lady who has read them in Her Majesty's English version, have never been printed in any form, nor, until now, written down. The Queen, who is enthusiastic about her poetical discoveries, as they may fairly be considered, read some of them lately at an afternoon reception. Her Majesty's English translation is said to be most exact; as close, indeed, as the difference between the two idioms will allow—a result rendered possible by the fact that the poems are unrhymed.—Athenaeum.

BUT little is known in America of the personality of Georg Ebers, now undoubtedly Germany's foremost living novelist. Few would imagine that the beautiful stories published of late above this author's name were dictated by him often in hours of pain and torture. The novelist is a confirmed invalid, suffering constantly the most agonizing pain from an incurable malady. His home in Tutzing is a comfortable house in which the owner's taste permeates everything. Books are almost in every room in the house, and in the chamber where the novelist passes his days he lies hemmed in with library shelves filled with books in all languages. His disposition is of the kindest and he never loses his cheerfulness even when he suffers most. He is idolized by his family and friends. Before his illness, the author was a man whose personal appearance would attract attention anywhere. He has now, however, lost much in flesh, days of confinement leaving deep tracks on his features and frame.—Bok's Literary Letter.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE current issue of Harper's Weekly contains an eight-page supplement with an article on "Prehistoric Arizona," by Col. R. J. Hinton, illustrated by Harry Fenn. The terra-cotta-colored cover of the Centennial Celebration Number of Harper's Weekly will hereafter be a permanent feature of this periodical.

A. ALONZO STAGG, the Yale pitcher, will begin a series of papers on "Baseball for Amateurs" in the number of Harper's Young People to be published May 14. The current issue gives the most faithful account yet published of the Samoan disaster—four engravings from photographs taken immediately after the hurricane.

EARLY in June, Longmans, Green & Co. will issue in New York the first number of The New Review, an English monthly started by Mr. Archibald Grove, a young Oxford man. In the strength of its articles and in the reputation of its contributors it intends to rival the Nineteenth Century, while its low price will put it within reach of a wider public. Three Americans, Lady Randolph Churchill, Mr. Henry George, and Mr. Henry James, are among the contributors to the first number.

Santa Claus, the forthcoming weekly for young folks, which at present has offices at 423 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, has been actively though quietly engaged in collecting material for its first issues. Its business man, Mr. E. M. Camp, writes us that manuscripts of original stories, fun, and anything new are wanted. Especially does he want articles about industries for the new paper's special feature, which will be practical articles on the various industries in every-day language.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BISHOP POTTER's address, delivered at St. Paul's Church on the occasion of the Centennial of Washington's Inauguration, has been reprinted in pamphlet form from the Evening Post, and may be had for one cent per copy in any quantity by addressing that journal.

A VOLUNTOWN antiquarian, according to a telegraphic despatch to the N. Y. Times, "has dug up an ancient and curiously interesting treatise in Latin, which is now the property of Dr. J. A. Webb. It is a well-preserved copy of the elegant and thorough treatise of William Amesius, 'Concerning Conscience and Its Law on Occasions.' It was published at Oxford by William Hall at the expense of John Adams in 1659. The work is a 16mo of 450 pages, in five books analytically arranged. It opens with a dedication and closes with a supplemental 'Exhortation of Theology,' composed 'August 22, 1623.' It is considered a literary prize and one of the oldest books in the State."

FRANK MORRIS' old-book shop was invaded by all the bibliomaniacs on the 6th inst., and there was a general bustle all over the place. It seems that Mrs. Morris presented her husband with a splendidly bound first edition of young Americana on the 4th, and this event it was that excited our local maniacs. The topic of conversation was the title that ought to be given to the prize. Gunther tells Morris that he'll remember him in his will if he'll name the new arrival Shakspeare Autograph Morris, but Mr. Morris cannot see his way clear to accept this proposition; he would prefer some name appealing more directly to the sympathies of his constituency. Dr. Poole thinks that Salem Witchcraft Morris would be a good name; Mr. Stryker is urging Thomsons S. as an appropriate name, the initial S. standing for Seasons; as for Mr. Gunsaulus, he suggests Cromwell Arizona, and Mr. Bristol stands calmly but firmly for some such simple title as Extra Illustration Morris, or Second Folio Morris, or Privately Issued Morris, or Autograph Copy Morris.

Mr. Gunsaulus was telling a group of the bibliomaniacs that there was nothing so beautiful in a house as a bevy of bright children. "I have a very lovely family," said he. "I hold, as the sinful would say, a bobtail flush."

"What's that?" asked the Hon. Charles B. Farwell, the well-known collector of Bibles and psalm-books.

"We were talking about children," explained Mr. Gunsaulus, "and I was saying that in our family we had a bobtail flush—four girls and a boy."

Thereupon everybody laughed—everybody except the Sage of East Pearson Street.

"No," said Mr. Farwell, smiling sadly. "It is evident that you have had no experience in the ways of the world; otherwise you would not make so erroneous an application of terms. You do not hold a bobtail flush; you hold four of a kind—four queens and a jack—a powerful good hand, sir, and I should advise you to stand pat."

—Chicago Morning News.

• TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

 It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO.'S

New Books for Summer Reading.

MICAH CLARKE: His Statement. A Romance of the War in the West. By A. CONAN DOYLE. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

"Easily the best example of the class of fiction to which it belongs of the year. . . . Two descriptions of battles in this story are among the most brilliant and most spirited bits of writing we have had. But it is not merely two or three striking incidents, but the maintained interest of the entire tale, that leads us to give it such high praise as we have risked above."—Christian Union.

A DANGEROUS CATSPA W: A Story. By DAVID CHRISTIE MURRAY and HENRY MURRAY. Crown 8vo, $1.00.

"Some of these characters are touched in with a masterly hand, and Mr. Prickett in particular adds one more to the list of cool English detectives who figure creditably in the pages of fiction. . . . Will bear comparison with the best of Mr. Christie Murray's stories."—Athenaeum.

THE SON OF A STAR: A Romance of the Second Century. By BENJAMIN WARD RICHARDSON, M.D., F.R.S. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

"Abounds in incident and adventure, told with enthusiasm and spirit, and while retaining the atmosphere of the period, is not encumbered with too much of its phraseology. It is in more respects than one a remarkable production and will be read with interest from the first chapter to the last."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

A NINE MEN'S MORRICE: Stories Collected and Recollected. By WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK. Crown 8vo, $1.25.

"The chief characteristic of the book as a whole is its weird diablerie. . . . The volume is to be counted among the most successful literary incursions into the regions of the occult."—Morning Post.

LETTERS ON LITERATURE. By ANDREW LANG. Foolscap 8vo, $2.00.

"They are delightfully frank and racy, rich as an argosy in learning that shines and sparkles, but true to the author's critical convictions as the English tar to his flag."—The Independent.

LOST LEADERS. By ANDREW LANG. 12mo, $1.50.

"They evince a width of observation, an incisiveness of expression, and a freshness of manner which render the volume very charming reading. . . . We recommend all who delight in the society of a scholar, a gentleman, and a wit to procure this delightful volume."—John Bull.

PEN AND INK. Papers on subjects of more or less importance. By BRANDER MATTHEWS. 12mo, half cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

"Pen and Ink' is a book to please the every-day reader as well as the scholar; and externally it is as lovely an object as a man can put on his favorite book-shelf."—The Bookman, Dec., 1888. Julian Hawthorne.

A THRILLING NOVEL.

The Romance of an Alter Ego

BY GEN. LLOYD BRYCE.

12mo, Paper, 50 Cents; Cloth, $1.00.

The Romance of an Alter Ego is essentially a novel of to-day, and the author, while remembering that truth is stranger than fiction, has carefully abstained from making fiction stranger than truth. The publishers confidently expect that the book will prove to be the greatest success in years.

"There are many clever chapters in the book, and the events of contemporaneous human interest are treated in a peculiarly graphic way. . . . For the class of readers interested in psychological research, 'The Romance of an Alter Ego' will be welcome. . . . Mr. Bryce has written a capital story. . . . The task of a story-teller must be considered successful if the reader is held interested to the end of the book."—New York World.

A WHITE UMBRELLA IN MEXICO.

By F. HOPKINSON SMITH. Illustrated by the Author. $1.50.

"It is so exquisitely bound and printed that its appearance alone makes it a desirable acquisition; while its contents are most piquant and interesting—an account of a week's journey from El Paso to the City of Mexico, with dainty, clever little illustrations made while the artist was under the stimulus of the liveliest enthusiasm."—The American, Phila.

DRAGON'S TEETH.

A novel by EÇA DA QUEIROS. Translated from the Portuguese by MARY J. SERRANO. $1.50.

"As a piece of literary art it is equal to Balzac at his best. As a picture of modern life in Lisbon it stands alone. As exhortation and as warning it is as earnest and as solemn as was of old the voice of one crying in the wilderness."—Louise Chandler Moulton.

THE RIVERSIDE PAPER SERIES.

[A Continuation of Ticknor's Paper Series.]

Under the above title, Messrs. HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY will begin on the first of June the issue of a series of novels, most or all of them copyright. These will embrace stories which in the ordinary form have already found many readers, some of them stories of very remarkable popularity; but in the new and inexpensive style they will surely reach a much more numerous audience.

Prang's Christmas and New Year Publications

SEASON 1889-1890.

We bespeak a careful examination for our extensive line of Christmas and New Year Cards, Satin Art Prints, Christmas and New Year Novelties, Calendars, Christmas Booklets, and Holiday Art Books.

It has been our endeavor to draw to our line the best attainable in making it distinctly American in character, a policy which we have always followed, as the names of the following American Artists and Writers, who have contributed in the past to our publications, will attest. Among Artists we will only mention :

AMERICAN ART AND LITERATURE,

Elihu Vedder, Thomas Moran, F. S. Church, Leon Moran, Frederick Dielman, A. F. Tait, Ross Turner, Miss Lizbeth B. Humphrey, Mrs. O. E. Whitney, Miss Lizbeth B. Comins, Miss Dora Wheeler, Miss Rosina Emmet, Frank Fowler, C. Y. Turner, C. D. Weldon, Miss Ida Waugh, Louis K. Harlow.

The following writers were among our contributors :

Joaquin Miller, Mrs. Celia Thaxter, Mrs. Margaret Deland, Mrs. Emily Shaw Forman, Miss Anna Fuller (Hopestill Goodwin).

Our line this year is full of novelty in design and make-up. A very large number of low-priced booklets of exceptional merit, and holiday books of striking attractiveness, form a leading feature. The unusual number of Calendars for the pocket, the desk, and the mantel-piece, are included, among which are two new folders by the late Miss Lizbeth B. Humphrey, the last we shall be able to offer of this so eminently gifted artist.

Among the books we would mention :

FLOWER FANCIES. By Alice Ward. Illustrated by F. Schuyler Mathews, Mrs. O. E. Whitney, Mrs. E. T. Fisher, Lucy J. Bailey, C. Ryan, Eleanor Ecob Morse, and Fidelia Bridges. An elegant holiday gift-book, bound in sateen, printed in colors, with a rich design by F. Schuyler Mathews.

GOLDEN SUNSETS. Six illustrations in color and six in monochrome, by Louis K. Harlow. Poetic selections from various authors. A most superb volume.

THE NIGHT COMETH. Poem by Watson. Embellished by vignettes in pen work and by six photogravures after charcoal drawings by W. Goodrich Beal. Bound in unique binding in colors and silver, and fastened with moire ribbon and silver stars.

NOTES FROM MENDELSSOHN. Four colored and four monochrome illustrations by Louis K. Harlow. Elegant design on cover.

YE BOOKE OF GOODE LUCK. Illustrations by Louis K. Harlow and F. Schuyler Mathews. Illustrating various emblems of good luck, as : four-leaved clover, horseshoe, new moon, rice, wish-bone, and old shoes.

MAYFLOWER MEMORIES. Illustrations in color and monochrome by Louis K. Harlow. Illustrating Mrs. Hemans' "Landing of the Pilgrims." Elegantly bound.

Three New Christmas Pictures, as Popular as the ## PRIZE BABIES.

THE PRIZE BABIES' WALKING MATCH. By Miss Ida Waugh.

THE DASH FOR LIBERTY. (Chickens escaping from a basket.) By A. F. Tait.

FIVE O'CLOCK TEA. By C. D. Weldon.

BELFORD, CLARKE & COMPANY'S

NEW BOOKS.

A Transaction in Hearts. By EDGAR SALTUS. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

Saltus' latest novel, and in some respects his best. In the character of Christopher Gonfallon the author aims a terrible blow at the hypocrisy of those who, setting themselves up as examples and leaders of men, fall before the temptations of the beast in their own natures. The recreant minister, the evil enigma, Claire, and the pure, sweet wife make a trinity of characters rarely found in modern fiction.

The Philosophy of Disenchantment.

By EDGAR SALTUS. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

A philosophical work which entitles the author to a first place in the ranks of modern thinkers. Even those who disagree with his conclusions cannot deny him a vigorous and pointed logic, keen insight, and powerful reasoning.

The Anatomy of Negation. By EDGAR

SALTUS. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

A work of superlative excellence and worth.

The Transient Guest, and Other Stories.

By EDGAR SALTUS. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

A Splendid Egotist. By JEANNETTE H. WALWORTH, author of "That Girl from Texas." 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

A brilliant society novel by this gifted author, and one of the best she has written. The paper-covered edition, in its beautifully illustrated design in colors, is a marvel of the bookmaker's art.

The Masque of Death. By CHARLES

LOTIN HILDRETH. 12mo, white cloth, gilt top, vellum style, with original design in blue and gold, $1.00.

So exquisite a specimen of the bookmaker's art has rarely been issued from the American press. Mr. R. H. STODDARD says: "There is a power of self-restraint, an evenness of strength in his verse which command our respect—a sense, a sincerity, a gravity, a dignity in his work which is uncommon." "The work," says the World, "of a great poet, destined to live."

Astarte. From the French of ALFRED DELVAU, by R. B. DAVENPORT. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

A splendid translation of a striking work of modern French fiction.

A Ride on a Cyclone. By WILLIAM HOSEA BALLOU. Illustrated by COULTAUS. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

A volume that might have been written by Jules Verne and full of solid information.

Madeline, and Other Poems. By JAMES MCCARROLL. Portrait of the author, and an Introduction by Charles Lotin Hildreth. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, white vellum style, with original design in blue and gold, $1.50.

A volume of rare and original verse, which many a celebrity in the literary, musical, and artistic world will recognize as the most graceful tribute to great names. A collection destined to win its way to enduring popularity.

Herndon's Lincoln. By WILLIAM H.

HERNDON and J. W. WEIK, A.M. 3 vols., half calf, $9.00; cloth, $4.50.

This is a life of the great statesman and martyr-President from an entirely new standpoint. It is a close study of the man's personal character and private life by W. H. Herndon, for twenty years his law partner, and will give many entirely new and startling events in Lincoln's public and private life. In many respects the most important biographical work ever issued in America.

Dinnerology. By "PAN." 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

Experiments in economical cooking, brightly and interestingly related.

The Black Ball. By E. DE LANCEY PIERSON.

12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

Mr. Pierson's latest and best work, alive with humor and genuine pathos, at once fantastic and intensely human.

The Vengeance of Maurice Denalquez.

By SELINA DOLARO, author of "Bella-Demonia," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper covers, beautifully illustrated, 50 cents.

Madame Dolaro's poethumorous work, and by all odds her very best.

The Fatal Fiddle, and Other Sketches.

By E. HERON-ALLEN. With many original cuts. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper covers, beautifully illustrated, 50 cents.

A volume of short stories, told in the author's best style.

To-Night at Eight. By FANNIE AYMAR

MATHEWS. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper covers, 50 cents.

A collection of exceedingly clever and interesting comedies and comediettas, full of fun and fresh, sparkling satire.

Manon Lescaut. From the French of ABBÉ

PRÉVOST, by ARTHUR W. GUNDRY. New edition. Paper covers, beautifully illustrated in colors, 50 cents.

A superb edition of this famous French classic, with a magnificent cut in the very best style on nearly every page. A real édition de luxe in cheap form.

BELFORD'S MAGAZINE. Subscription Price, $2.50.

The Best Magazine in the Country.

FOR SUMMER READING.

New Cloth Books.

VAGABOND TALES. By HJALMAR HJORTH BOYKSEN. 12mo, $1.25.

A most engaging collection of this popular story-teller's recent "novelettes."

The Boston Times says: "There is a strength, a delicacy, and tenderness in Boyesen's stories that appeals to all hearts, while his touches of humor, his breezy Norse atmosphere, and his dramatic skill have given him an undisputed place in the foremost ranks of modern writers of fiction. The pathos that lives in the heroism of 'Crooked John' and in the baffled longings of 'Liberty's Victim' appeals with startling directness to the reader."

ACROSS LOTS. By HORACE LUNT. 12mo, $1.25.

To those who love the country this book will be most enjoyable reading, recalling a thousand and one pleasant incidents. Every page contains some fresh bit of instruction or touch of keen insight into the wonders of nature, the habits of birds or insects.

"The book belongs to the finest kind of literature in the department of Natural History."—Boston Herald.

JUNE, JULY, AND AUGUST. The summer volumes of Oscar Fay Adams' charming series of "Through the Year with the Poets," are among the most delightful books for summer reading. The selections are rich and varied, and some of the most exquisite poems on nature are to be found among them. The volumes are very daintily gotten up. Cloth, 75c.; half cloth, $1.00; half white, $1.00.

THE STORY OF LOUISIANA. By MAURICE THOMPSON. 8vo, fully illustrated, $1.50.

THE STORY OF VERMONT. By JOHN S. HEATON. 8vo, fully illustrated, $1.50.

These two latest issues in the "Story of the States" series are as interesting in material as they are diverse in style, and even the most satiated fiction-reader may draw inspiration, interest, and patriotism from the stirring stories of these two widely-separated but equally American commonwealths.

RANALD BANNERMAN'S BOYHOOD. By GEORGE MACDONALD. New edition. 12mo, illustrated, 75 cents.

Quaint, tender, humorous, pathetic is this simple story of a young Scotch laddie.

THE PRINCESS AND THE GOBLIN, AND THE PRINCESS AND CURDIE. New edition. 12mo, illustrated, 75 cents each.

Macdonald's fairy stories are so bewitching that older readers than children will be loath to leave them.

Lothrop's Summer Series for 1889.

Paper, 35 cents each.

Delightful books—clear type—excellent paper—delicate blue-and-gold paper covers—none so good in every particular have ever before been offered at 35 cents.

TILTING AT WINDMILLS. By EMMA M. CONNELLY.

"A delicate and powerful delineation of a social life as charming as it is strange to Northern readers."—Am. Bookseller

"The author has made a grand hit."—Inter-Ocean.

"Portia is delicious; one of the sweetest, purest, and most winning characters in fiction."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A MODERN JACOB. By HESTER STUART.

"An extremely good novel. The plot is well developed; the character drawing is more than good; the humor is abundant, the pathos true."—Boston Advertiser.

"Replete with quaint, bright sayings, and some very tender and touching scenes."—Home Journal.

"Worth a thousand novels of the Haggard or Conway stripe."—Phrenological Journal.

THE DOCTOR OF DEANE. By MARY TOWLE PALMER.

"This bright and well-written book holds an uncommonly distinct and agreeable group of portraits."—N. Y. Nation.

"Some of the situations and characters are suggestive of 'Middlemarch.'"—No. Christian Advocate.

GLADYS: A Romance. By MARY GREENLEAF DARLING.

"The sweet and wholesome story of a girl as simple and old-fashioned as her name."—Boston Globe.

"One closes the book with a new impulse towards earnest and loyal living."—Chicago Journal.

THE RUSTY LINCHPIN, and LUBOFF ARCHIPOVNA. After the Russian of Mme. KOKHANOVSKY.

"Two exquisite idylls of Russian rural life."—Christian Union.

"Pathetic as well as humorous; full of subtle charm."—Transcript.

"They bring us very close to that strange civilization so fascinating to Western readers."—Chicago Dial.

DOROTHY THORN OF THORNTON. By JULIAN WARTH.

"One of those books that people cannot help talking about."—Ohio State Journal.

"One of the most complete love stories in ideal simplicity and purity."—Sunday Times.

IF YOU WANT A COPY OF THE NEW EDITION OF FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS,

By MARGARET SIDNEY, send 25 cents, before the edition is exhausted.

COMMENTS FROM LETTERS RECEIVED DAILY.

"I am so glad to be able to get this delightful story in cheap form."

"Please send me five more copies of the 'Little Peppers' for friends."

"It is just what I want for my Sunday-school class. I enclose order for ten more."

"I am getting myself into business, but all my friends who see it want a copy. Please find enclosed a check for twelve more."

"We have long cherished the cloth volume as a household treasure, and now I must have the paper one for common use."

Eleven Bright Women.

Published by LEE AND SHEPARD, Boston.

Mexico Picturesque, Political, Progressive. By MARY E. BLAKE (author of "On the Wing") and MARGARET F. SULLIVAN (author of "Ireland of To-Day"). Cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

A book of prime worth, brilliantly written, and brim-full of vivid descriptions of Mexico, its scenery, its historic places, its villages, its people, its government, its literature and authors; indeed, these two intelligent women have placed before the public a strikingly true picture of our neighboring country, and readers will gain information not before written of this beautiful land and highly interesting people.

On the Wing. By MARY E. BLAKE. Cloth, $1.00.

A thoroughly enjoyable volume, replete with interesting notes of a trip to the Pacific. Much that the work contains is new in the book-reading world, inasmuch as the authoress traversed new routes, and visited many points but recently made accessible.

A Summer in the Azores. With a Glimpse of Madeira. By C. ALICE BAKER. Cloth, gilt edges, $1.25.

The author has given us a charming picture of life in the Azores—that group of islands which she predicts will ere long be regarded as a desirable half-way station on the great highway of European travel.

"This is much the best book written on that theme, and is indeed a delightful picture of a delightful subject."
—COL. T. W. HIGGINSON.

From the Oak to the Olive. By JULIA WARD HOWE. 16mo, cloth, $2.00.

These records of a pleasant journey, as Mrs. Howe modestly styles them, are reminiscences of travel in different foreign countries; and touch upon London, Rome, Naples, Florence, Venice, Munich, Switzerland, and Paris. Mrs. Howe is an accomplished and graceful writer, whose observant mind takes note of many things which an ordinary traveller would pass by, the record of which makes a singularly entertaining volume.

Life at Puget Sound. With Sketches of Travel in Washington Territory, British Columbia, Oregon, and California. By CAROLINE C. LEIGHTON. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

The region with which it deals is one of vast importance, yet which is comparatively little troubled by the pen of the narrator and the information here given is both fresh and valuable.

"Your chapters on Puget Sound have charmed me. Full of life, deeply interesting, and with just that class of facts and suggestions of truth that cannot fail to help the Indians and the Chinese."
—WENDELL PHILLIPS.

A Winter in Central America. By HELEN J. SANBORN. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

"This is one of the brightest books of travel we have seen in many a day. The author is a Boston young lady, who accompanied her father on a trip from New Orleans across the Gulf of Mexico and into the Caribbean Sea, to British Honduras; thence up the Rio Dulce and its chief affluent, to the interior of Guatemala; and through the wild mountains and valleys of that little-known tropical country by mule-back, and by any other means, until at last, after many hardships and wild experiences, they reach Guatemala City. It is of absorbing interest, and the reader will not willingly lay it aside until he has read the last page."
—Methodist, Knoxville.

An American Girl Abroad. By ADELINE TRAF-TON, author of "His Inheritance," "Katherine Earle," etc. Cloth, $1.50.

"A sparkling account of a European trip by a wide-awake, intelligent, and irrepressible American girl. Pictured with a freshness and vivacity that is delightful."
—Utica Observer.

"The American girl is a bright, good, merry-hearted girl, off for a good time; and her readers are of the opinion that the journey was a decided success."
—Liberal Christian.

European Breezes. By MARGERY DEANE (Mrs. M. J. Pitman). 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

This book, as its name indicates, is a fresh, sparkling, breezy compilation of fact and incident, noted by the author in her travels in Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Switzerland. The same graceful and attractive style pervades the book characteristic of the author's other writings, and the book has not a dull page in it.

Beaten Paths. By ELLA W. THOMPSON. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

A bright, gracefully told, and entertaining account of a European tour made by a young lady, in company with six other ladies, "all alone." The reader who joins himself to their company may "do" the ordinary European sights very agreeably.

An American Woman in Europe. By Mrs. S. R. URBINO, $1.50.

A thoroughly interesting book of Travels.

The Island of Capri. Translated from the German of FERDINAND GREGORIUS by LILLIAN CLARKE. $1.00.

A charming description of "Beautiful Capri."

BY TRAVELLED MEN.

CURTIS GUILLY'S POPULAR BOOKS.

Britons and Muscovites; or, Traits of Two Empires. Crown 8vo, $2.00.

Over the Ocean; or, Signs and Scenes in Foreign Lands. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

Abroad Again; or, Fresh Forays in Foreign Fields. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

Camps in the Caribbees. Adventures and Discoveries of a Naturalist in the Lesser Antilles. By FREDERICK A. OBER. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

Germany Seen without Spectacles. By HENRY RUGGLES. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

Incidents of a Collector's Rambles in Australia, New Zealand, and New Guinea. With illustrations by the author, SHERMAN F. DENTON, Artist to the U. S. Fish Commission, Washington, D. C. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

This is a work of great interest and great intrinsic worth. Mr. Denton had good facilities for seeing the countries through which he travelled, and he made much of his opportunities. The book has the merit of being written in a style which leaves no doubt as to the author's meaning, and gives a vast amount of valuable information.

HAVE IN PRESS FOR EARLY PUBLICATION

A New Book by ROSA NOUCHETTE CARY,

Printed from Advance Sheets by Arrangement with the Author,

The Search for Basil Lyndhurst. About 400 pp., 12mo, paper, 30 cents.

Also by Arrangement with the Authors:

Derrick Vaughan, Novelist. By EDNA LYALL. 12mo, paper, 30 cents.

A Troublesome Girl. By THE DUCHESS, author of "Molly Bawn," "Phyllis," etc. 12mo, paper, 30 cents.

Comedy of a Country House. By JULIAN STURGIS. 12mo, paper, 30 cents.

"SHE:" An Allegory of the Church. 1 vol., 12mo, half cloth gilt, 50 cents.

This is a marvellous book. It finds in "SHE" a book of inspiration as full of religion and prophecy as the Apocalypse. It is something in the allegorical style of "Pilgrim's Progress," and is evidently written under a like intensity of religious conviction. It makes moral and spiritual truth as fascinating as romance. "She" is the Church, worshipping her dead Jesus instead of the Risen Christ; Leo is Intuition; Holly, Science; Job, Practical Service; Mohamed, Infidelity; Ustani, Spiritualism; Billali, The Priesthood; Kor, The Modern World; The Hamhagger, The Devotees of Superstition; Hotpoting, Religious Persecution. Every character and every incident is utilized in a most ingenious way. It tells how the Church is to be redeemed by going into the bath of fire.—Spirit.

An I. D. B. in South Africa. By LOUISE VESCELIUS SHELTON, author of "Three Yankee Girls in Zululand," etc. 1 vol., 12mo, beautifully printed on coated plate paper, in cloth gilt, $1.50.

A LARGE-TYPE PORTABLE BIBLE.

The call for a large-print edition of the Bible, that would at the same time be light and convenient to carry, has induced Messrs. EVANS & SPOTTISWOOD to issue this new and beautiful edition in Long Primer type, beautifully printed on a thin white paper in the usual finished style of the Queen's Printer's work; making a volume 8½ x 5½ and 1½ inch in thickness. Our travellers will show samples of this book in various kinds of binding.

SOME EARLY FALL PUBLICATIONS

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON,

714 Broadway, New York.

A NEW HANDY VOLUME (Red Line) EDITION OF

The Complete Works of William Wordsworth.

Carefully edited from the best texts. In 8 vols., small 16mo, from a new font of type, and beautifully printed with red lines by the Glasgow University Press, on PAPER SPECIALLY MADE FOR THIS EDITION. Handsomely bound in cloth, red edges, in a neat box, $5. This set will also be put up in new and very attractive bindings, similar in styles to our "ILLUSTRATED POCKET SHAKESPEARE."

Wordsworth's value as a poet is particularly great at the present time. There is no poet who can be studied to better advantage. In these convenient volumes, songs, sonnets, and passages of familiar beauty will be, moreover, reread with new delight by those who have found in their acquaintance with Wordsworth one of the strongest and most undying consolations and most vivid influences of their intellectual life.

NOTES IN SEASON.

ROBERT CARTER & BROTHERS will publish, by arrangement with the author and English publisher, the autobiography of John G. Paton, missionary to the New Hebrides.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just issued a novel written by Fannie Kemble, whose two volumes, "Records of a Girlhood" and "Records of a Later Life," have delighted so many on both sides of the Atlantic. The scene of her story is laid in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts.

JOHN WILEY & SONS announce: "Philosophy of the Steam Engine Developed," by Prof. Robert H. Thurston; "Composition, Digestibility, and Nutritive Value of Food," by Prof. H. A. Mott; and "General Motions of the Atmosphere, Cyclones, Tornadoes, Waterspouts, Hailstones, etc.," by Prof. Wm. Ferrel.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR Co. announce for early publication "The Drillmaster in German, based on Systematic Gradation and Steady Repetition," by Solomon Deutsch, Ph.D., author of "Letters for Self-Instruction in German," etc. This work the author claims to be an application of the principle of presenting but one difficulty at a time, and illustrating and explaining it so fully and by such numerous examples that it has ceased to be a difficulty before another step is taken. It is sought less to give grammatical instruction than to cause the language itself to be so learned that the student without a thought of grammar would never use it except in a grammatical manner. They also announce a "Genealogy of the Farnham Family," by J. M. W. Farnham.

A. S. BARNES & Co. will publish at once Ex-United States Minister Theodore S. Fay's long-promised work "The Three Germanies." Dr. Philip Schaff who read the work in manuscript says of it: "Few men have had better opportunities to study the history of Germany than Theodore S. Fay, who for twenty-five years occupied diplomatic positions in the service of the United States at Berlin, London and Berne, and has been residing near Berlin since his retirement from public life. He was an eye-witness of the important events of 1848, 1866 and 1870. His personal experience and long observation give a fresh and life-like character to his interesting work on 'The Three Germanies,' especially the greater part of the second volume from the reign of King Frederick William III. to the death of Emperor Frederick III. in June, 1888."

THE WORTHINGTON COMPANY have just ready the third series of Algernon Charles Swinburne's "Poems and Ballads," which a writer in the London Globe speaks of as including some of the most lasting works produced by the poet in the maturity of his genius. They have also ready a large-paper edition (limited to 500 copies) of David M. Main's "Treasury of English Sonnets." This renowned selection of English sonnets, now acknowledged to be the choicest and standard, has been out of print for some time. But as the publishers recognized a demand for an exceptionally handsome edition, equal to the English large-paper copies which have sold readily for $30 each, they have been induced to issue the work in luxurious style. It forms a superb book, printed from large type on laid paper of the best quality, cloth bound, with leaves uncut. They announce for immediate publication "Two Daughters of One Race," a new novel, by the gifted author, W. Heimbürg (Bertha Behrens). This story deals with certain peculiar phases of German high life society, and of the fortunes of two young and beautiful noble ladies. The novel is delightfully told and very dramatic in its treatment. It is illustrated with photogravures and head and tail pieces.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Ts. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Ps. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Amendment to the inter state commerce act approved March 2, 1889; with a summary of its provisions. Phil., T. & J. W. Johnson & Co., 1889. 15 p. O. pap., 10 c.

"The purpose of this manual is to furnish a concise and systematic statement of the principles of procedure applicable to deliberative bodies, and great care has been taken to keep the distinction clear between principles which are of general application and rules which are adapted to meet requirements dependent on the size and purposes of special assemblies. To treat of all the complications of procedure which may arise would have necessitated a book much too large for ready reference or convenient carriage."—Preface.

- "To tell the story of the state's early trials—which can never be too often rehearsed lest her sons should forget to be grateful for their ancestry; to add to this an account of the more recent events that have escaped the attention they deserve; and to include so far as possible in this brief recital the growth of arts and learning, the development of industry, and the evolution of laws, customs, and institutions to meet the needs of a gracious, temperate, and valiant people—such has been the purpose of the writer. Not only to the people of Vermont, but to the citizens of every state in our broad land, is the story of the Green Mountain state offered as a help, an inspiration, and a record of steady endeavor."—Pref. acc.

- Howard, G. E. An introduction to the local constitutional history of the United States. V. 1, Development of the township, hundred, and shire. Balt., N. Murray, agt., Johns Hopkins Univ., 1889. c. 12+526 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, extra v. 4.) cl., $3.
- The history of local institutions has thus far been treated almost entirely in monographs dealing with special topics, or relating to particular phases or periods of development. Moreover a large and valuable portion of this literature is dispersed through the voluminous publications of learned societies, and therefore inaccessible to the general reader. Besides much of the material requisite for a comprehensive view has never been explored. There is needed, in short, a book which shall gather up, sift, and skillfully arrange the results already obtained by the host of writers on Græco-Roman, Germanic, and English institutions, and supplement them by further investigation, particularly for this country. Such is the scope of the present work. Each institution is followed through every stage of evolution, from its ancient prototype under the tribal organization of society, to its existing form in the new states and territories of the West. The author has aimed at presenting a clear and logical statement of constitutional facts—the details of offices, powers, and functions; while bringing into special prominence the process of organic growth, differentiation, and decay. The work is, however, very largely the result of independent study of the original records; and many topics are treated from the sources for the first time. Particular attention has been given to the bibliography, which is brought down to date.

- The writer went over to Europe in the Queen's Jubilee year. He landed in Ireland first, desiring to attend the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland. After an account of the proceedings here, he gives an interesting description of the chief points of attraction in the Emerald Isle. He then goes to London, describes the Jubilee celebration, the various London mission schools and the work accomplished, the Presbyterian Church in England, and other things which interest him. His travels take him to France, Switzerland, Austria, and the East, and finally to the Holy Land. The volume is not a stereotype travel book, but rather a study of the religious condition of the people in all these places.
- Near to happiness (A cold du bonheur); from the French by Frank H. Potter. N. Y., Appleton, 1889. c. tr. 261 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 28.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.
- Sténie de Santis has been educated by her father and his intimate friend, Count de Fleynac, whose son Georges has been her constant companion. The fathers desire their children to marry, but Georges falls in love with a pretty face and marries a frivolous, selfish girl who is in love with a dissolute count, but needs Georges' money. Their marriage is unhappy. Sténie marries to please her father and is also unhappy. The Franco-Prussian war is skilfully introduced. Sténie remains throughout a cultivated, noble woman who sacrifices herself for her friends and proves through life the guardian spirit of the man she loves and whom she leads "near to happiness."

Rénan, Ernest. History of the people of Israel from the reign of David up to the capture of Samaria. [V. 2.] Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889. 10+455 p. O. cl., $2.50.

This volume takes up the history of the people of Israel, from where the first volume, "Till the time of King David," ended. It contains what M. Rénan considers the most important part of the history of Judaism. It is divided into 2 pts. "The one kingdom," and "The two kingdoms." Chapters are devoted to the government of David, military organization, part played by the Philistines in the organization of Israel, the wars of David, the religion under David, death of David, etc.; profane development of Israel, buildings at Jerusalem, political decadence of Israel, literature in the kingdom of Israel, the decalogue, religious superiority of Judah, etc.

Robbins, Mrs. S. S. Ben Philbrick learning to be helpful. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1889.] c. 215 p. 1 il. S. (Rock Cove ser., no. 2.) cl., 75 c.

Continues the story of "Gladys Philbrick," begun in the first volume of the series. She is still at Rock Cove with her cousins and still with her dog Ponto, the central figure. Ben, her cousin, saves her from drowning and performs other acts of bravery, and ends by being quite a hero.

*Salmon, D. Longmans' junior school grammar. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 124 p. D. cl., 30 c.

Sanborn, J. Wentworth. Go to the ant and learn many wonderful things: a book for the young. Cin., Cranston & Stowe, 1889. c. 119 p. D. cl., 60 c.

This little book grew out of the interest of the author's children in his experiments with ants. They grew so interested and asked him so many questions, that he sought every possible means of gaining information for them, putting down on paper, from time to time, facts which he gathered by personal observation and reading. He hopes these results of his studies will interest other people's children, as they did his.

Sawyer, H. C., M.D. Nerve waste: practical information concerning nervous impairment in modern life; its causes, phases, and remedies, with advice on the hygiene of the nervous constitution. 2d ed. San Francisco, The Bancroft Co., 1889. c. 10+160 p. O. cl., $1.

See notice 1st ed., "Weekly Record," P. W., March 3, '88. [84c.] The present edition has been rewritten and considerably enlarged, in an effort to make the book more practically useful.

Schaff, Philip, D.D. The progress of religious freedom as shown in the history of toleration acts. Reprinted from the papers of "The American Society of Church History." V. 1. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. 6+126 p. O. cl., $1.50.

A companion to Dr. Schaff's treatise on "Church and state in the United States," which appeared in Nov., 1887. It properly precedes it, and ends where the other begins. Both together form a brief history of religious liberty in Europe and America.

Shields, C. Woodruff, D.D. Philosophia ultima; or, science of the sciences. V. 2. The history of the sciences and the logic of the sciences. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. 4+482 p. O. cl., $3.

"Philosophy, therefore, the final philosophy, as presented in this work, could not claim to contain that finished system of perfected knowledge which might be grasped by Omniscience alone, but simply to project an ultimate or ideal scheme of research, ever unfolding, yet never fulfilled through all time to come. And the aim will be to sketch such a scheme in three parts answering to the three chief philosophical questions: in the first part, a Science of the sciences (Scientia scientiarum) answering to the question, What can we know? in the second part, an Art of the sciences (Ars scientiarum) answering to the question, How can we know? and in the third part, a Science of the arts (Scientia artium) answering to the question, Why should we know?"—From Introduction.

*Smith, Rob. H. Graphics; or, the art of calculation by drawing lines, applied especially to mechanical engineering, with an atlas of diagrams. Pt. 1. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1889. 2 v., v. 1, 18+257 p. O. cl., $5; v. 2, 39 pl. Q. cl., $5.

Smith, Sydney. The wit and wisdom of Sydney Smith: a selection of the most memorable passages in his writings and conversation. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1889.] 2+445 p. T. (Knickerbocker nuggets, no. 18.) hf. cl., $1.

Another contribution to the subject of our unequal marriage and divorce laws. There are chapters on: Who may lawfully marry? Who are forbidden to marry? Marriage of children; Consequences of children marrying without consent of parents; clandestine marriages; Forbidden marriages among blood relatives; Mongrel marriages; Bigamy and its consequences; Foreign divorces; What constitutes a valid marriage? The marriage license; Divorce, etc., etc.; The remedy—objections to a national law; The remedy—an amendment limiting the powers of the states; Bird's-eye view of the system of marriage and divorce in the United States, arranged geographically. Index.

*Statutory requirements relating to insurance in the U.S. and Canada. Corrected to Dec. 1, 1888. [Anon.] Hartford, The Insurance Jour., 1888. c. 130 p. O. cl., $3.

Stone, Ja. S., D.D. Readings in church history. Phil., Porter & Coates, 1889. c. 584 p. D. cl., $1.50.

In this volume are carefully examined and interestingly set forth the prominent periods of ecclesiastical history, and much is told of the persons, books, customs, and movements which thereto belong. Ritual poetry, monachism, doctrine, architecture, symbolism, and folklore are dealt with; and a rare critical ability is displayed in the analysis of characters such as Augustine of Hippo, Guthlac of Croyland, Thomas à Becket, Henry VIII. and George Fox, and of books such as the "Inferno," "Piers the plowman," "Paradise lost," "Pilgrim's progress," and the "Book of common prayer."

Tinsneau, Leon de. L'attelage de la marquise; [also.] Une dot by Ernest Legouvé; with explanatory notes in English by F. C. Sumichrast. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, 1889. c. 111 p. S. (Contes choisis, no. 14.) pap., 25 c.

The first story tells of a proud old countess reduced to having her old equipage drawn by a team of servants and of the sudden rise in her fortunes. The second gives a picture of the part the marriage settlement plays in French weddings. The explanatory notes are by Prof. Sumichrast, Instructor at Harvard University.

Woolley, Celia Parker. A girl graduate. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 6-439 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Maggie Dean is one of the brightest graduates of the Litchfield High School; besides being clever, she is very pretty and refined. Her father is an intelligent machinist and her mother a good but uneducated woman. Her school-days over and her education finished, it seems a question what is to become of her. She is in appearance and habits and ambitions far above her parents' station in life, but is excluded by her parents' condition from the refined society she longs for. It is this problem the author dwells upon and aims to solve—as to whether it is not a mistake to give the children of the poor the education we bestow upon them. Maggie's problem is solved by marriage to a rich man and emigration to the West. But before she marries she has many unhappy hours hesitating between two lovers.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

McLELLAN, MOSHER & Co., Portland, Me., have issued in neat shape a list of their legal blanks and office supplies. (48 p., 8°.)

DAVID NUTT, London, Eng., has issued an interesting list of second-hand works in the departments of modern philology, belles-lettres, and folk-lore. (32 p., 12°.)

THE ENOCH PRATT FREE LIBRARY of Baltimore, Md., have issued a second supplement to their Finding List of books added to the Central Library from February 1, 1888, to March 1, 1889. (68 p., 8°, pap., 15 c.)

W. H. KÜHL, Jägerstrasse, 73, Berlin, has issued an interesting catalogue of works on ship-building and engineering, being principally volumes from the libraries of the late H. Gaede, Roy. Ing., and H. Burchard. Aside from its immediate value as a list of books for sale it will be found a useful manual for permanent reference. (78 p., 16°.)

THE NATIONAL PUBLISHING AND PRINTING Co., Milwaukee, Wis., have published the first of their "Handy Lists of Technical Literature," compiled by H. E. Haferkorn and Paul Heise. This first issue is a reference catalogue of books on useful arts in general, products and processes used in manufacture, technology, and trades, printed in English and published from 1880 to 1888 inclusive, to which is added a select list of books printed before 1880 and still kept on publishers' and jobbers' lists. The titles are arranged under authors' names or the first word of the title-page when the author's name is not given, supplemented with subject and cross-references. The work seems to be carefully done, the few blemishes we have found being mainly slips such as are inevitable in the compilation of a catalogue. The series will undoubtedly be of service not only to the bookseller, but also to the student and artisan. (100 p., 8°, pap., $1; cloth, $1.25. A key containing the names and addresses of the publishers and jobbers of each book will be furnished to booksellers and librarians only, at 25 cents extra.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 1, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

THE PERPETUAL QUESTION.

A COMMUNICATION elsewhere from a house, generally respected in the trade, which has experienced the ups and downs of the book-trade through many years, puts forcibly the view that closer discounts are not a sufficient remedy for present evils of the trade, and indeed takes a sadly pessimistic view of the future of publishing and "regular" bookselling. Certainly the universal complaint as to the difficulty of selling books so as to get adequate return for the work and intelligence required and to make a fair living, is not lessened as the years go by. No one can make a tour through any part of this country without noticing how few well-appointed book-stores there are even in the large cities; he cannot interview the proprietors of such stores as there are without finding universal lamentation as to the unprofitableness of business; and when he goes to the fountain head of the trade, the publisher, there is again the complaint that the retailers no longer buy books. Of course, this does not mean that there is absolutely no trade in books. Publishers still continue to exist, even if they do not increase very much in numbers and in sales; and sixty millions of people of course buy a great many books. But even counting in the bazaars and so-called library associations and other means of selling books outside the regular trade, there is an inadequate amount of book-buying and an inadequate support for an important trade.

We have never believed that there is any cure-all for the difficulties which the book-trade is facing, or that any one remedy would bring about a bookselling millennium, but we do stick to the opinion, which is confirmed every day by experience of one sort or another, that a reform in the system of discounts would do more than any other one thing to benefit the trade. We have pointed out that this can only be had by giving the public books as cheaply as they get them now, making the discounts real instead of nominal. Notwithstanding our correspondent, we believe that the difference between the "publisher's price" and the underseller's price would then be so small as to offer very little temptation to the public. This is, we believe, the gist of the whole matter, though it is not a panacea.

Our correspondent emphasizes other elements of reform as absolutely necessary to bring about decided betterment. In dealing with this part of the problem certain practical limitations must be kept in mind, as, for instance, that it is practically out of the question for publishers to follow up their books through the hands of jobbers and others to the extent of cutting off the supply from dealers who do not maintain prices. We have always hesitated to endorse any remedy for bookselling which overlooked this difficulty. But certainly the schedule of discounts may rightly be regulated by the service the jobber or retailer does the publisher and the public, and the amount of risk, so to speak, which he saves to the former. In other words, the dealer who handles only the books which are sure to sell, as the bazaars generally do, or the dealer who orders only the books on which he has actually received orders, does not help to create demand and does not relieve the publisher of any risk. On the other hand, the dealer who carries a fair supply of the publisher's general stock, or who orders a new book to an extent which requires him to stimulate the demand, is doing a real service to the publisher, and should therefore have more discount than the other man. In a word, he who orders a hundred dollars' worth of general stock ought to have a bigger discount than a dealer who orders a hundred dollars' worth of a quick-selling book which is sure to go off "like hot cakes." Now, the present practice of publishers in regard to discounts is exactly the opposite of this. The bazaars which sell a great stock of the latest new novel and almost nothing else may get a larger discount than the bookseller who is not selling that book only, but pushing the publisher's whole list. It is in this way that the "regular dealer" may fairly ask to be discriminated from the bazaars and the underseller. It goes without saying that publishers ought to abolish discount to retail buyers—in which position they would be fortified by the close margin to which a new system would restrict them.

It is not a pleasant task to be harping so much on this one string, but it must be recognized that the most careful and far-sighted consideration on the part of both publishers and retailers is necessary to cure the real and threatening difficulties of the book-trade.

IN March last we referred editorially to the progress, or rather the reverses, of the movement of the Börsenverein—the German Association of Booksellers—to abolish the nuisance of underselling. We then noted the fact that the Berlin and Leipzig book-trade had already brought about a modification of the Börsenverein's ruling, that the discount to bookbuyers should not exceed five per cent. By this modification the booksellers of Berlin and Leipzig were enabled to give an additional five per cent. when necessary, provided the exception were restricted to the trade in these two cities. We expressed doubt at the time that the restriction would be observed. According to a recent issue of the Börsenblatt it appears that the Berlin members of the Börsenverein in a meeting held May 3 unanimously voted that the observance of the five per cent. rule for customers outside of Berlin was impracticable, and they therefore petitioned the vorstand, or board of directors, to amend the rule so that the maximum discount would be restored to ten per cent. Of course, if Berlin should gain her point the rule must become universal, and this will practically put an end to a movement from which much was hoped.

We cannot help feeling that the defeat of the German Association is due to the fact that they began at the wrong end. Reform in the book-trade must begin with the publisher. Underselling was bred and is for the most part sustained by the baneful discount system; so long as that is maintained the underseller will prosper—no longer. Several important German booksellers are recognizing this view and are discussing it in their trade journals.

COMMUNICATIONS.

CLOSE DISCOUNTS NOT A CURE.

NASHVILLE, April 12, 1889.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

IN reply to your article, "The Old Question Again," it seems to us that throughout your article the "question" remains a question. Can the bookstore keep in stock an assortment of books covering the ground of general demand, in such variety and quantity as to fairly bring it in the scope of what we understand by the term "a well-appointed, intelligently conducted bookstore," and do so with all the expense attendant on such an establishment, in the face of such competition as it has now to meet? We do not believe it; that it has not done so up to the present time we all know. Judging the future by the past, we assume that the disorganization of the old-time bookstore will continue until both the "question" and the bookstore will be settled by the inexorable law of competition, and settled adversely to the wishes of those of us who still cling to ideals, whose practicality becomes more and more hopeless as each successive year adds new and fresh obstacles to prevent. It seems to us that the first sentences of your article contain an admission that is fatal to your whole scheme of reform.

"A bookstore well stocked and well appointed cannot be run at the same margin of profit as a bazaar . . . or association which confines itself to mailing catalogues. It is true also as a general law of trade that whoever performs a service cheapest does in the long run get the business." Here you raise the question, Do the bazaar and association perform this service? and say "emphatically" no. We hold that the whole body of what we may term the opposition, commencing with the publishers and embracing all classes of undersellers, are performing the service more successfully than the bookseller. The rise of one and decline of the other is the proof. You have repeatedly in your columns deplored the decadence of the bookstore, and attributed it, very properly, we think, to the methods of distribution now prevailing. In view of this fact, we cannot see how you hope to inspire the trade with the idea that they can in the future perform for the public a service that will be so much more satisfactory than that offered by the opposition as will re-revolutionize the book business and bring it back to its "first love." In point of fact, the one remedy you propose is wholly inadequate to meet the case. No matter what discount is established by the publisher, it will be met by the underseller with the old proposition, "publisher's price" so much, "our price" so much, and the difference will be enough to throw the "great bulk of the trade in the direction of the underseller." A close examination of this proposition will convince the most skeptical. A well-stocked, well-appointed retail bookstore cannot possibly be maintained except at an expense greatly in excess of that requisite for the needs of the outside competitor, so that under any system of discounts they are able to offer inducements that get the cream of the trade. No matter how intelligently or with what energy a bookstore is conducted, there is a limit to the amount of business it can do, and the limit is reached too soon to admit the attempt to do its business on a margin of profit anywhere near that which will satisfy the bazaar man, catalogue mailer, or the underseller generally. We admit that the attraction of a well-filled and nicely arranged bookstore with intelligent clerks will draw much trade and will be gratifying from an æsthetic point of view; but will it pay? Please answer, brother booksellers. You state that "our correspondent fails to recognize that the present state of things does not work." On the contrary, we recognize it only too well. What we think we also recognize is that the "state of things" will not work any better for the bookseller by a reform that embraces no other remedy except shortening of discounts. Right here we will say that we by no means advocate a retail price that is merely nominal: a book published, price $1.50, that can be bought at 45 cents, more or less, is subject to great reform. What we do mean is that the discount given by such houses as Harper & Bros., Scribner, Putnams, etc., is not too much to meet the exigencies peculiar to the book business.

However, we would be perfectly willing to submit to a reduction of discount, to say 25%, provided, first, retail prices were perpetually reduced. Second, that publishers would inaugurate the policy indicated in your article, viz., to "recognize that the dealer who keeps books in stock is entitled to more support from publishers than a man who simply fills orders." Third, that going further they would make a distinction so marked between a regular bookseller and an underseller that it would compel the underseller to go out of business or come in as a legitimate bookseller. Fourth, that publishers themselves abolish all discounts to any except legitimate dealers.

You say that publishers cannot depend upon the hand-to-mouth trade that the bazaar and association give. Well, it is evident that they have not yet arrived at that conclusion; but that they have suffered in diminished sales and will suffer even more by depending on the new methods seems to us very evident. We think its effect on the "output" of the "respectable" publisher is visible to all. "If the bookstore is to go, this trade [publishing] will go too;" in a large measure we believe that, for all the schemes and devices of the whole gens underseller will not and cannot take the place of the bookstore. But this the publisher will find out, we think, too late to save the old-time methods. To sum up the whole "question," we again say that under present methods the struggle for existence will be the survival of the cheapest, not the fittest; that the mere changes of prices and discounts cannot possibly alter the position of the bookseller for the better; that only by unifying the interest of the whole fraternity of booksellers and respectable publishers on a basis of mutual interest and support can a condition of things be reached that will insure prosperity and permanency for both. Finally, we are so far pessimists as to believe there is not sufficient foresight and sagacity in the trade, individually or collectively, to bring about such a state of affairs. If any of the trade, publishers or booksellers, differ with us, we would be glad to hear from them through the WEEKLY, which will doubtless be glad to open its columns for a revival of the "old grievance" question.

OBITUARY.

PETER CARPENTER BAKER.

PETER C. BAKER, one of the oldest and most prominent business men of New York, died suddenly, May 19, at his home, 39 E. Thirty-eighth Street, New York City. Mr. Baker was born at North Hempstead, N. Y., March 22, 1822, and was educated at the Harlem Academy. When quite a boy he came to New York City and entered the bookstore of W. E. Dean, who half a century ago was an extensive printer and publisher of legal and classical books. Attracted no doubt by the mechanical department of his employer's establishment, he decided to learn the printer's trade. Soon after he had served his time he became superintendent of the large establishment of John F. Trow, who at that time was the printer for D. Appleton & Co., George P. Putnam, John Wiley, and nearly every other prominent publishing house.

In 1850 Mr. Baker, in connection with the late Daniel Godwin, commenced business on their own account, under the style of Baker & Godwin, in the Tribune Building, where they made for themselves an almost national reputation, their name being among the best known in the United States in connection with the printing business. Soon after starting in the printing business Baker & Godwin made their specialty the printing of law-books. This brought Mr. Baker into close relations with Mr. John S. Voorhies (who established himself in the law-book business in 1842), which ultimately, through his familiarity with the different law-books published by the latter, induced him to become a publisher himself. In 1865, on the death of Mr. Voorhies, Mr. Baker reorganized the business under the firm-name of Baker, Voorhis & Co. The junior partner, Mr. Wm. W. L. Voorhis, is not, as has been commonly understood, a relation of the late Mr. J. S. Voorhies. He had been connected with him in business for over twenty years and bears a similar name (omitting, however, the e), hence the inference.

Mr. Baker was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Literary Association and was a member of the Eclectic Club. He was a member of the Union League and Lotus Clubs. During the war he was active in the Union cause, editing the Steam Press, a periodical devoted to pushing the Union cause. He was also one of the originators of the Typothetæ. He was Chairman of the committee on erecting the statue of Benjamin Franklin on Printing House Square, and it was through Mr. Baker's efforts that money for the pedestal was raised. Mr. Baker was a member of the Sons of the Revolution. He was a Trustee of the Stuyvesant Safe Deposit Company. He was active in charitable enterprises, among the latter being the Hahnemann Hospital. Mr. Baker leaves a widow and three married daughters. His remains were interred at Woodlawn Cemetery.

WILLIAM WHITE HARDING.

WILLIAM W. HARDING, for many years proprietor and editor of The Philadelphia Inquirer, died in Philadelphia on May 15, aged fifty-nine years. Mr. Harding was born in Philadelphia, November 1, 1830. His father, Jasper Harding, was at the time of W. W. Harding's birth proprietor of the journal with which his name was associated for so many years, bearing at that time the more general title of Pennsylvania Inquirer. After receiving a careful scholastic training the deceased entered the branch house of D. Appleton & Co., established in Philadelphia in the forties by Mr. George Appleton. About 1855 or '57, Mr. Harding became associated in business with his father under the firm-name of Jasper Harding & Son. The senior Harding had since 1836 been an extensive manufacturer of book and printing papers, and, in connection with Mr. A. J. Holman, publisher and manufacturer of family Bibles. The financial panic of those times came shortly after Mr. Harding's connection with his father, and the firm was obliged to succumb. At this time they abandoned the manufacture of printing papers and other large operations in which they were interested. Mr. Jasper Harding was obliged to discontinue the business, and Mr. W. W. Harding then assumed it. So far as the publication of Bibles and the book business was concerned, that branch was under Mr. A. J. Holman's management. The business was continued in this way up to about 1873, when two destructive fires occurred in the Bible manufacturing departments. At this time Mr. A. J. Holman bought the entire Bible and book plant from Mr. Harding, who retired from the book business and devoted himself to the publication of the Inquirer up to a short time previous to his decease. He leaves a widow and six children. Two brothers, George Harding and J. Morris Harding, survive him. His twin brother, Barclay Harding, who founded the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, died on October 30, 1865.

GEORGE HENRY CALVERT, journalist and author, died at Newport, R. I., May 24, aged eighty-six years. He was born in Prince George's County, Md., January 2, 1803. He was the great grandson of Lord Baltimore, the founder of Maryland, and on his mother's side was a descendant of the celebrated painter, Rubens. He was graduated at Harvard in 1823, and subsequently had the benefit of a course of study at the University of Göttingen. Upon returning to the United States he went to live at Baltimore and for several years edited the American. In 1832 he published his "Illustrations of Phrenology," which was the first American treatise on the subject. In 1843 he went to Newport, which has been his home ever since. Among his published works are: "A Volume from the Life of Henry Barclay," 1833; "Don Carlos," a metrical version from the German, 1836; "Count Julian," a tragedy, 1840; "Cabirol," 1840 and 1864; "The Battle of Lake Erie," an oration, 1853; "Joan of Arc," 1860; "Arnold and André," an historical drama, 1864; "Goethe, His Life and Works," 1872, and "Wordsworth: a biographic æsthetic study," 1875.

ALLEN THORNDYKE RICE, editor and publisher of the North American Review, died May 16, after an illness of only four days. Mr. Rice was born in Boston, January 18, 1853, but was taken to Europe when quite a child. He was educated abroad, taking a degree at Christ's College, Oxford. On his return to America he studied law at Columbia College. In 1877 he purchased the North American Review, which under his auspices became very popular. He also owned a controlling interest in Le Matin, a Parisian newspaper. In 1879 Mr. Rice organized the Charnay expedition, which was sent under the patronage of the United States and France to investigate the remains of the ancient civilization of Central America and Mexico. On March 27 he was appointed by President Harrison Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Russia. He was to have sailed for his post on the 22d. Mr. Rice left no family. The burial was in the family plot in Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. HUMPHRY WARD has given up her visit to this country.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE celebrated her seventieth birthday May 27.

EDGAR SALTUS has in preparation a volume of short stories to be entitled "Annochiature."

MR. B. P. SHILLABER (Mrs. Partington) is writing his reminiscences of the last half century.

FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN, the writer of society verse, used to be a retail stationer at Peekskill.

THE fund for the benefit of the family of the late Philip H. Welch has reached nearly $10,000.

AN outcome of Prof. J. P. Mahaffy's tour of Greece will be a book on the monasteries of that country.

MARGARET DELAND's new novel will be entitled "Sidney Page." Though not dealing directly with theology, it will have a religious motive.

THE Duke of Argyll has written a new work entitled "What Is Truth?" in which the question is considered from a scientific as well as from a theological point of view.

MARION CRAWFORD's "With the Immortals" is being translated into French, and Rénan will contribute a preface. The French Academy has awarded to Mr. Crawford a prize of $200 for his two novels written by himself in French and entitled "Zoroastre" and "Le Crucifix de Marzio."

ALFRED R. CONKLING, of New York, the nephew of Roscoe Conkling, generally known as Alderman Conkling, has about completed the work of collecting material for his life of his uncle, and has a portion of the book already written. He expects to have the entire work ready for the press in October. The publishers will be Charles L. Webster & Co.

THE Boston Traveller tried its hand at guessing the authorship of "An Author's Love"—purporting to be the unpublished letters of Prosper Mérimée's "Inconnue." The Traveller thought Harriet Waters Preston had written the book. Mr. Brett, Macmillan & Co.'s representative in America, however, declares she is not the author. And so the work still remains the literary problem of the day. Possibly it is "Vernon Lee."

THE American authors who visited Washington in March, 1888 (at the time of the readings given in that city in aid of the international copyright cause), and who were very pleasantly received at the White House by the President and Mrs. Cleveland, have just presented Mrs. Cleveland with an interesting and beautiful souvenir of their visit, consisting of an album in which each of the authors has written his name, with bits of prose or verse attached. The collection was made by Dr. Edward Eggleston, the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Copyright League.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. WM. ARMITAGE HARPER, the eldest son of John W. Harper, of the firm of Harper & Bros., was married May 21 to Miss Kate Eunice Beecher, daughter of Col. Henry K. Beecher.

HIS many friends and acquaintances in this country will be pleased to learn that R. T. Lancefield has been elected librarian of the Hamilton (Canada) free library. Immediately before his appointment he was editor of the Canadian Book-seller, and secretary of the Canadian copyright association, in which capacity he rendered excellent service to the Canadian booktrade in particular and literature in general. We wish Mr. Lancefield all success in his new field.

MR. CHAS. PARSONS, the veteran head of the Art Department of Harper & Bros., relinquishes that post to-day, after a service of twenty-six years. He retires from the position with the grateful affection of all who during those long years have come into relation with his character, wide talent, and gentle manner. The artist fraternity have looked upon him as one of the Nestors of their profession, although no man of his age was ever younger in thought and sympathy, and from him they were always willing to accept with deference and gratitude criticism which from others would have caused more or less impatience. For all these years the care of the illustrated features of the several periodicals, subject to the oversight of the firm, has been in his hands, and during that time some of the greatest advances in American art have had the benefit of his sympathetic encouragement. It is pleasant to note that he does not retire altogether from the service, but will still be in relation with Messrs Harper & Bros. in an advisory capacity, which will give him freedom for rest as well as sufficient occupation to keep so active a person happy. He will be succeeded by Mr. F. A. Schell, who will have the valuable assistance of Mr. W. A. Patton, who did such admirable work in connection with the Fellow-craft exhibition of newspapers at the Centennial exhibition, and has for some years been Mr. Parsons' right-hand man in the Department.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE editorial management of the North American Review is at present in the hands of Mr. William H. Rideing.

By the special permission of the Queen of Roumania (Carmen Sylva) [London] Life will publish, from week to week, "Thoughts of a Queen," being daily entries made by her in her private album. The queen intends to publish the series in book-form afterwards.

MRS. VAN RENSSLAER, the well-known art critic, has written a careful study of the career and art of Corot, the modern painter, about whose work there has perhaps been more discussion and difference of opinion than any other. This article appears in the June Century. The illustrations have been a long time in preparation and are all engraved from the originals by Elbridge Kingsley.

THE thirty-seventh volume of the Century was completed with the April number, and the bound volume forms a collection of literature of exceptional merit. The Lincoln biography and Mr. Kennan's Siberian papers are in text and illustrations the leading features of the volume. Mrs. Catherwood's "Romance of a Dollard" is complete in this volume, which also includes Mr. Cable's "Strange True Stories of Louisiana" and that piece of rollicking humor, Mr. Edwards' "A Born Inventor." Papers dealing with Samoa, the reorganization of the British Empire, home-rule, federation and the annexation of Canada are of international political interest. The illustrated articles on Palestine have kept pace with the Sunday-School lessons. The whole volume is well abreast of the questions of the day, and as always reflects credit upon its editors and its generous publishers.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Cupples & Hurd, publishers and booksellers, made an assignment to Louis D. Brandeis, 60 Devonshire St., on May 16. At a meeting of the creditors held on the 22d it appeared that the liabilities are: Open accounts, merchandise and labor, $11,697.72; due to authors, $2937.60; outstanding notes, $2614.13; due on Algonquin Press account, $5429.86; rent for store, $500. Total, $23,179.31. The assets, face value—Open accounts due, $6593.27; medical books, $2067.83; books bound, $3096.62; books unbound, $2927.47; plates, $5000; lease, 94 Boylston Street, $3000, four years to run; other accounts due, $5813.35. Total, $28,498.54. In October, 1888, they bought outright an interest in the Algonquin Press, which is the subject of controversy. The firm has been losing from the start, and though they were able to hold out some time longer, seeing the dull season ahead they thought it would be better for the creditors to make the assignment at once. Mr. Brandeis' statement was heard with interest by the creditors, but the only action taken was to appoint a committee to look into the affairs of the firm and report at a later meeting. The committee as finally agreed upon consists of Bentley W. Warren, Herbert M. Plympton, and J. Murray Kay. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

CHIFFEWA FALLS, WIS.—C. G. Keyon, bookseller, has sold out.

CINCINNATI, O.—Hopkins & John, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

CLEVELAND, O.—Taylor, Austin & Co. have opened their new book, stationery, and news store at the old stand of Chandler & Budd, No. 116 Public Square. The place has been very handsomely refitted and refurbished, and possesses many attractions for the reading public, besides its extensive stock of new and bright literature and choice stationery. Mr. Walter R. Austin, the manager of this house, was for many years connected with the house of Cobb, Andrews & Co.

DAYTON, KY.—Wessling & Nolte, stationers, etc., have dissolved partnership.

DECORAH, IA.—The firm of J. A. Leonard, bookseller, has been changed to Leonard & Son.

DENISON, TEX.—George Howe, bookseller, is dead.

GRAND FORKS, DAK.—The firm of F. W. Iddings, bookseller, has been changed to Iddings & Graham.

JACKSON, MICH.—C. S. Brown, bookseller and stationer, died in April last.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—D. N. Kelsey & Son, booksellers and newsdealers, have sold out.

MEXIA, TEX.—Park & Fishburn, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—E. Westlund & Co., booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

MONROE, WIS.—Adams & Wagner, booksellers, have sold out.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—F. F. Hansell & Bro., publishers and booksellers, have removed to their new and handsome quarters, Nos. 94 and 96 Canal Street. "This substantial evidence of enterprise on the part of this firm," says the New Orleans Daily Picayune, "deserves more than a passing notice. Twelve years ago the senior member of this firm, Mr. F. F. Hansell, commenced business in a modest way at No. 30 Camp Street, at that time occupying only a portion of the building. Such was the progress and success of the business that in only a few years it was found necessary to enlarge the premises, and the entire building, Nos. 28 and 30, was secured. In the meantime Mr. M. E. Hansell, the present junior member of the firm, was admitted to an interest in the business, and such has been its rapid growth that they recently determined on securing their present commodious quarters. A special feature of the business, and one in which they at present occupy the field in this section almost exclusively, is the publication of law and school books. Some four years ago they made a contract with Prof. Nicholson, of the State University, for the publication of his series of arithmetics, which had a short time before been adopted for use in the public schools of this State. They then published a series of copy-books prepared by a well-known teacher in the city, and also a history of the United States by Prof. Chambers, of the Boys' High School."

NEW YORK CITY.—The business of the Anderson School-Book Co. will hereafter be conducted under the corporate title of The New York School-Book Clearing House, the order for such change of title being duly granted by the Supreme Court, as authorized by law. The parties at interest and the officers of the company remain unchanged. The business of the company will be conducted at No. 65 Duane Street, directly opposite former location.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. B. Treat has removed to 5 Cooper Union.

NEW YORK CITY.—A. W. Lovell & Co. have removed to No. 3 E. 14th Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—H. Rosenthal & Co., booksellers, are retiring from business. Their entire stock is advertised to be sold at auction by Geo. A. Leavitt & Co., June 3 to 5.

SEDALIA, MO.—M. B. Adams, bookseller, has sold out.

SIoux CITY, IA.—Small & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

SIoux FALLS, DAK.—Foster Ross, of the firm of Ross & Warwick, booksellers and stationers, is dead.

TIFFIN, O.—George R. Hass, bookseller, has sold out.

WABASH, IND.—Forgy & McHenry, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish immediately "Travels in the Atlas and Southern Morocco," a volume on his recent explorations by Joseph Thomson, author of "Through Masai Land."

PORTER & COATES will publish at once the "Life and Work of Eli and Sybil Jones," preachers and missionaries for half a century in the Society of Friends, by Rufus M. Jones. The work will contain two portraits.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish shortly an appendix to Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians," which completes the fourth and concluding volume of the work. A full index to the work is in preparation, which will be published later in a separate volume.

WHITE & ALLEN announce that by arrangement with Wm. Blackwood & Sons they will publish simultaneously with their appearance in London the new series of "Tales from Blackwood's" recently inaugurated. For many years no collections of these celebrated tales have been made. "Choice typography, beautiful paper, and handy size" are promised.

BRENTANO's, of No. 5 Union Square, New York, will esteem it a favor if any bookseller will advise them immediately if any person offers for sale a copy of either Lippincott's Pronouncing Gazetteer or Biographical Dictionary, sheep, perfectly new. Copies of these new books were stolen from them recently. They are anxious to detect and prosecute the thief and recover the books.

BRENTANO's have just issued, in London and New York, the "Romance of an Alter Ego," a new novel by General Lloyd Bryce. The intricate plot of the story is cleverly thought out, and developed with care, holding the interest of the reader until the last page. A clever use is made in the unfolding of the story of the latest discoveries of Doctor Charcot, and other students of mesmerism and hypnotism.

CASSELL & Co. will publish at once a collection of short stories by George Parsons Lathrop, entitled "Two Sides of a Story." The volume is made up of the author's more notable contributions to Harper's, The Century and the Atlantic Monthly. Whoever has read his stories in the magazines will be delighted to get them in permanent and handsome form, and their collected appearance will raise up a new equally admiring audience.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have become the American publishers of the Isaac Pitman's Shorthand Books. They will shortly publish De Garmo's "Essentials of Method." The function of the book is to discover, through an analysis of the mental activities involved in knowing, what are the essential elements of good method in teaching. It is accompanied by practical illustrations showing the application of the general laws of right method to all the branches of the common school curriculum.

THE Long Island Historical Society will soon print, for subscribers, about one hundred and fifty unpublished letters of Washington, from its manuscript collections, in a large and handsome octavo volume, entitled "George Washington and Mount Vernon." It will contain a portrait of Washington, not heretofore engraved, from an original painting by Charles Peale (1787), owned by the Rev. Mason Gallagher of Brooklyn; also a portrait of Betty Lewis, Washington's only sister. The historical introduction and annotations will be prepared by Mr. Moncure D. Conway, biographer of Edmund Randolph.

L. PRANG & Co. have published a little booklet containing illustrations in color of the Mayflower and the Goldenrod, with charming verses by Hopewell Goodwin, in which each flower sets forth its own merits to the choice for America's national flower. Its object is chiefly to decide which of the two is considered the most popular flower, and which therefore might be considered the national flower of America. To ascertain the respective popularity of these and our other American flowers, and thereby hasten, if possible, a solution of the question, the above little work is published. A postal-card accompanies each book, on which the purchaser is requested to fill out, with full address, his choice, and return it. The result, as it appears from time to time, will be published in the daily papers in different parts of the country, and on January 1, 1890, L. Prang & Co. will mail to every voter the final decision.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. are as usual among the very first to get their fall novelties into shape for inspection, and this year announce a long line of color-books, art-books, and juveniles. The exquisite finish and daintiness of the Dutton publications is well known in the trade. This year a specialty will be made of "cut out," or "shaped" books, which they have been manufacturing for nearly a year in expectation of the great run their beauty and novelty will doubtless cause. These booklets will range in price from ten cents to thirty-five cents, and will include sails, robins, pussies, owls, oyster-shells, and almost every variety of popular flowers and leaves. Between their artistically shaped covers will be from eight pages upward of artistically printed monotint color and type. Fred Hines and Walter Paget, who have already made many successful books for the house, have improved this year, if possible, on their former triumphs of taste and workmanship. "Nister's Art Calendar for 1890" is sure to be popular. Most of the work published by the Duttons is done in the establishment of this world-famous printer at Nuremberg.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON are preparing in "The Complete Works of William Wordsworth" which cannot fail to be a most welcome set of books. They are to be known as the New Handy Volume Red Line Edition, and will be issued in eight volumes, carefully edited from the best texts. They will be printed from a new font of type by the Glasgow University Press on paper specially made for this edition. The volumes are to be handsomely bound in cloth and issued in a neat box, and will also appear in attractive bindings similar in style to the Illustrated Pocket Shakespeare. Although born nearly one hundred and twenty years ago, Wordsworth was the poet of nature and human life, and as his subjects are always fresh, a neat edition of his works will always be acceptable. Four entirely new booklets in monotint will also be ready for the season of 1889-1890: "The Ocean of Time," with descriptive poetry; "Sweet Home," pictures and poems, edited by Kate E. Spencer; "Sweet Innocence," songs and sketches, arranged by Clarice Cornwall; and Longfellow's "Excelsior." All these monotints are illustrated from original designs by G. H. Edwards, Helen Walton, and Barraud. The trade should make a memorandum to examine carefully the publications of this house.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & CO. have made lavish preparations for supplying the trade in good season with new monochrome and color-books for the holiday season. Texts, illustrations, and manufacture are to be of the very best. Mrs. Molesworth, Rev. J. G. Wood, Prof. Schrieber Manville Fenn, and other writers of this calibre are mentioned among the authors; Mrs. J. P. Sunter, Kate Greenaway, E. M. Jessop, Gordon Browne, and artists of like merit will illustrate the texts; and the execution of the mechanical difficulties of color printing will be divided among European firms excelling in their special lines, thus securing originality and variety of style. The several books made out of the texts of the "Ingoldsby Legends" published by this house are a delight to literary and artistic eyes. Mr. Jessop has once more taken a hand at "The Jackdaw of Rheims," and furnished it with many new illustrations, and he also tries his practised pencil this season on "Netley Abbey." It will pay the trade to examine thoroughly the stock of this firm. If they study their localities and probable buyers they can certainly spread these color-books, which range from three cents to one dollar and a quarter, in such a way that they will tempt every age and taste. The Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, of which this firm are agents, also will have some attractive books, among which "The World of Natural History" in three volumes, translated from the German, with 850 illustrations, is an important work. Their well-known magazine, Sunday, for 1889 will be just as good and just as much called for as its predecessors, and orders should come in promptly.

GEORGE BRUMDER, 286 Water St., Milwaukee, Wis., has just ready the first part of an important work on "North American Birds." No efforts have been spared to make this one of the most excellent works on the subject. The reading-matter is printed from large new type on the finest book paper. The colored plates are made after the original water-color paintings by Prof. Rob. Ridgway, of the Smithsonian Institution, Prof. A. Goering, of Leipsic, and Gustav Muetzel, of Berlin. The firm which produced these originals in a highly finished style, Ernst Kaufmann in Lahr, Germany, and New York, is well known in art-circles for its specialty, chromo-work. The author, Mr. Nehrling, is an active member of the American Ornithologists' Union, a corresponding member of the Nuttall Ornithological Club, and honorary member of a large number of European scientific societies. Mr. Nehrling is an original writer, not simply a compiler. He has observed the life of our birds in the woods of Wisconsin, where he was born, in the prairies of Illinois, in Florida, Texas, Missouri, and many other States. He is well versed also in the literature of American and European ornithology. The ornithological magazines at home and abroad have published series of articles from his pen, which have won him honor and esteem among the scientists as well as among the amateurs in ornithology and the lovers of the beautiful winged inhabitants of our country. In short, Mr. Nehrling and the above-named artists have combined with the publisher to present to the public a work on North American birds which will, by its own merits and its fine make-up, undoubtedly become a standard work. It will be in twelve parts, of 40 to 48 pages reading-matter and three colored plates, and will be completed in the fall of 1890.

WM. ISBISTER, London, will publish shortly Mary Howitt's autobiography, edited by her younger daughter, Miss Margaret. It will occupy two volumes, and will be illustrated.

DAVID NUTT has just published "Selected Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam," rendered into English prose by Mr. Justin Huntly McCarthy. The book, which is issued in a limited edition, has been handsomely printed, in capitals throughout.

SWAN SONNENSCHNEIN & CO. have published the collection of early letters of Jane Welsh Carlyle, edited by Mr. D. G. Ritchie. In addition to those of Mrs. Carlyle, the volume includes eleven unpublished letters of Carlyle, dealing chiefly with his studies in connection with the projected History of German Literature and his "Cromwell."

WARD & DOWNEY will publish shortly the first authentic narrative of the early proceedings of Stanley's expedition to relieve Emin Pasha, under the title of "With Stanley's Rear Column." The author, Mr. J. Rose Troup, who was the transport officer of the expedition, will give a full account of the experiences of the party left at Yambuya. His narrative will include a description of the voyage up the Congo, the camp on the Aruwimi, and a complete diary, showing how events led up to the assassination of Major Barttelot, and the failure of this branch of Stanley's expedition.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

☞ It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, heading—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. ## INFIDELITY REFUTED BY INFIDELS.

A series of arguments, strong, undeniable, and happily put, condemning infidelity from its own premises, by SAMUEL P. SPRECHER, D.D. 12mo, 92 pp., paper, 25 cents.

"It has frequently been remarked by Christian apologists that the truths of Christianity could be proved from the concessions of its adversaries. In the following pages we have endeavored to illustrate that fact."—From the Preface.

The chapters are applied as follows:

The Theory of Imposture; The Theory of Self-Deception; The Rationalistic Theory; The Mythical Theory; The Tendency and Legendary Theories; Robert Elamere, or Current Infidelity; Infidel Testimonies as to the Influence of Jesus; The Gibraltar of Christian Evidences; The Creed of Christendom.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY

ON THE BIBLE. This valuable work, which improves with age, we publish in six quarto volumes. Bound in fine English cloth, 100 illustrations, per volume, $3.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of MATTHEW HENRY."—New York Observer.

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trustworthy."—Rev. C. H. SPURGEON.

"It has now lasted more than one hundred and forty years, and is at this moment more popular than ever, gathering strength as it rolls down the stream of time."—JAMES HAMILTON, D.D.

THE NEW PSYCHIC STUDIES, in their Relations to Christian Thought. By FRANKLIN JOHNSON. 12mo, 91 pp., 75 cents.

What are called Psychic studies now engage the attention of many distinguished minds; some in this country, and more in England. These studies relate to what is commonly known as thought-transference, somnambulism, mesmerism, clairvoyance, spiritualism, apparition of the living, haunted houses, ghosts and Buddhist occultism. Many of the phenomena which these scientists are investigating lie in the dim borderland between the spirit and the body. The researches, here carefully noted, have been chiefly carried on under the direction of the British "Society for Physical Research." In this small volume is presented a great mass of interesting facts, which are made the basis of some important theories and conclusions, worth the careful study of the believers in Christianity, as well as of sceptics.

CONTENTS:—Introductory; Materialism; Superstition and Imposture; Clairvoyance; Prophecy; Monitions; Apparitions of the Living; Prophetic Visions; The Atmosphere of Assemblies; Physical Manifestations in Revivals; Mind Cure; Prayer Cure; Faith Cure; Revelation and Inspiration; Mesmerism; Demoniac Possession; Haunted Houses; The History of Balaam, etc.

FAUSSET'S BIBLE CYCLOPÆDIA. Critical and Expository. Compiled and written by Rev. A. R. FAUSSET, M.A. Illustrated by 600

woodcuts. 1 vol., royal octavo, 750 pp., 3 columns per page, cloth, $5.00.

"More nearly realizes our ideal of a Bible dictionary for all classes than anything that has ever come under our observation."—Lutheran and Missionary.

"A storehouse for those who teach and those who would be taught in all Biblical matters."—Episcopal Register.

FIRST FOLIO SHAKESPEARE. A Photographic fac-simile of the famous First Folio edition of A.D. 1623. Crown 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

A literary curiosity of value to all interested in the great author is the famous First Folio Edition (A.D. 1623). In this fac-simile every curious and important detail is exactly reproduced. The 1623 edition is the sole authority for the texts of many of the most important of Shakespeare's plays, and is also the source of the notable Donnelly cipher.

Extract from Significant Letter from Appleton Morgan, President of The Shakespeare Society of New York:

"Your Reduced Fac-simile (for which my lamented and beloved friend, the late J. O. Halliwell-Phillips, wrote the admirable and instructive Preface) really is what the Booth Reprint does not and cannot claim to be—the Fac-simile of an identical, Original First Folio Shakespeare, and so preferable for exact and scholarly reference—even to the famous Booth Reprint.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY'S

1889 SCHOOL-BOOK CATALOGUE.

Thoroughly revised, very many additions. Subject classification lists added. No increase in size, except in number of pages. Author titles set in larger, broader-face type than the body of the catalogue. As these names of authors are the primary things sought for in consulting catalogue, we place them in this different, blacker-faced type, which the eye finds with little effort. This improvement alone costs us in the aggregate quite a large sum. The large number of titles to be included made it necessary, if the catalogue was to be at all complete, that it should be set solid for the body-type. This meant casting special type without "kerns," black-faced letters, which were larger horizontally, but not vertically, to enable this to be done. We thus give you one-third more titles in the same space, and yet each title more quickly discovered.

ABOUT ACCURACY. We have this year pursued a plan which will enable us to guarantee as accurate a catalogue as any ever issued. We last year kept the type standing, tied up in pages, and have ourselves retained (and have asked our various jobbing friends to do the same) an error-copy of the catalogue. From these error-copies, combined with the publishers' own corrections, which we have freely solicited and freely received, we are enabled (without undergoing the likelihood of making a new crop of errors in re-composition) to eradicate the old errors in pricing, etc., that might exist.

Further, inasmuch as this has enabled us to save the time required for new composition, we are able to delay revision until the last moment, thus incorporating the latest information.

Remember, again, this is the only catalogue with a usable, practicable, telegraphic code. This code has been planned by business men in accordance with the suggestions of many different parties and their needs, and then has been thoroughly revised and rewritten by the expert telegrapher of the Standard Oil Company, the one who compiled their telegraphic code. He has made it thoroughly usable from a telegrapher's point of view. For example, among many other features that he has introduced are the following: C and r and other point-letters are avoided wherever possible, but few letter u appear, excepting in the letter u. There will be but few letter i correspondingly, as i and e conflict telegraphically. There will be but few w and no m after the letter f; from a to f, m is used. The space-letters are avoided as much as possible, and there will be but few letter t, etc. One other point, and that is, every telegraphic word contains exactly five letters, no more and no less, thus very frequently, by this one fact alone, preventing the mistranslation of a message. The column of abbreviations for publishers' names is thrown beyond the titles, and the authors' names are thus left more conspicuous.

It is the only Pocket Catalogue that is at all complete. It has three times as many titles as any other pocket catalogue made.

It is the only catalogue, pocket or otherwise, with a cardboard cover. The careful clerk who appreciates the advantages of being able instantly to consult the catalogue, thus carried and preserved in his pocket at all hours of the day, without the delay frequently incurred in hunting up a book catalogue misplaced by some of his less painstaking confrères, appreciates this point thoroughly. It is money in his employer's pocket to do the same.

It is the only catalogue that shows sales increasing in a geometrical progression year by year, and this in despite of the fact that at first it had some imperfections which are now eliminated. The first year's sales were only fifteen thousand, the second year's forty thousand, and last year's sixty-three thousand seven hundred and fifty. This year we feel confident it will show a yet further increase, since several of our customers have told us that they should take a larger edition than they did a year ago.

PRICES:

In this connection, please remember that the first copy of this catalogue, or any other as good, will cost very nearly five hundred dollars to prepare. Single Catalogue to parties not in the trade, TEN CENTS.

The Literary News.

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS has become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, began in January and will run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work."

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," enlivens each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specialty intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

WHITAKER'S Reference Catalogue.

The New Edition, 1889, of this volume (the English Trade-List Annual) is ready, and the American supply is now in the Custom-House.

The volume is larger and more complete than any previous issue (being about 11 inches thick,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches thicker than the last issue, 1885), and the Index contains about 68,000 entries. It is in stout half leather binding.

The edition is of course limited, and 200 copies have been assigned to America. Orders will be filled in order of receipt, up to the 200, after which no further supply can be guaranteed.

Shipping directions and remittance should accompany each order. The price is $2.50, delivered in New York for enclosure, or to express company. As the weight exceeds 12 pounds, postage will be about $1.00, and for copies by post $3.50 should be remitted.

FIFTY YEARS ON THE TRAIL:

A TRUE STORY OF WESTERN LIFE.

By JOHN Y. NELSON AND HARRINGTON O'REILLY.

Illustrated with over 100 Graphic Sketches by PAUL FRENZENY.

This thrilling story of frontier adventure will be found a record of exceptionally hazardous times, dealing, as it does, with the personal history of an old-time scout, guide, and interpreter, who recounts his deeds of prowess with true sangfroid, and who lives to see cities and towns now standing where he formerly hunted the buffalo, and was himself hunted by the Pawnee and Sioux.

Extract from Preface.—"This book is really a chapter on American frontier history. The spots where villages, townships, and even cities now stand, were familiar to Nelson as camping grounds long before the march of civilization had penetrated the vast tract of country lately marked on the map of the United States with the word 'unexplored.' Few men have run more risks in life and few can congratulate themselves on having had more lucky escapes.

"Few living artists can paint an Indian as Paul Frenzeny, and fewer can depict scenes and character in the West as he can. With him this is a gift enhanced by long residence amongst these people. Had I sought the wide world I could not have found a more able pictorial exponent than he.

"Illustrating this book (the artist adds) has given me more pleasure than any work I have ever undertaken; for it is so graphic that it recalls, without any effort on my part, scenes which I am able to draw, not from imagination but from personal observation."

A Book that Will Prove Interesting to All Members of the Society of Friends.

LIFE AND WORK

OF ELI AND SYBIL JONES.

By RUFUS M. JONES, M.A.

With Portraits. 12mo, 316 pages, cloth extra, $1.50.

For over fifty years they have held the most prominent place as Preachers and Missionaries in the Society of Friends. Sybil Jones certainly ranks among remarkable women. Whittier and John Bright have both spoken in the highest terms of her inspiration, her power, and the poetic imagery of her language.

The life and work of two people whose special power consists in their purity, sincerity, and devotion to the Master whom all Christians worship—written in such a way that it will be equally interesting to all, whether members of the Society of Friends, or belonging to other denominations.

Readings in Church History

By the Rev. JAMES S. STONE, D.D., Rector of Grace Church, Philadelphia; author of the "Heart of Merrie England," etc.

"Readings in Church History." In this series of Studies the reverend author does not undertake to supplant the text-books, nor has he new theories of church history to propound nor old theories to defend, but he gives with graphic power a succession of pictures of personages, places, and events that command the attention and impress upon the memory more vivid and distinct ideas of the progress of the Christian Church from the primitive apostolic era to the present hour than any but the most devoted students are likely to gain from the libraries with which Doctor Stone is so thoroughly familiar."—*Phila. ## NEW BOOKS.

ROGERS AND HIS CONTEMPORARIES.

By P. W. CLAYDEN, author of "Samuel Sharpe, Egyptologist and Translator of the Bible," "The Early Life of Samuel Rogers," etc. 2 volumes, large post 8vo, cloth, $5.00.

"Mr. Clayden, whose long training as a writer of leading articles for a great London newspaper admirably qualified him for what has evidently been a labor of love, has connected his selections from Rogers' correspondence by a sufficiently full narrative and by all needful elucidations. His style is clear, compact, and straightforward, and his volumes furnish abundant materials for forming a just estimate of Rogers' place in English literature and English social life."—Boston Post.

"Mr. Clayden may, we think, look upon his now completed biography of Rogers with considerably more satisfaction than some recent biographers are entitled to feel. Like the former volume of 'Early Life,' but in much fuller measure and far more interesting subjects, this book not only collects all the most valuable part of what had previously been known about its subject, but adds a very great deal of new matter, some of it very interesting indeed."—Saturday Review.

BY LEAFY WAYS.

Brief Studies in the Book of Nature. By F. A. KNIGHT. With numerous beautiful illustrations by E. T. COMPTON. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

"A charming book, beautifully illustrated, and full of delightful reading."—Newcastle Chronicle.

"The author leads us through all the varying year in a series of delightful chapters. It is hard to single out one as superior to another. His diction has a character of its own. So ingeniously does he blend what he has seen with what he has read, and all in such an original manner, that one feels one's self in the presence of a new master. He transmutates the spirit of the country into the language of the town in a way which appeals alike to the naturalist and to the man of letters. His very table of contents is enough to make a Londoner long for another holiday."—London Academy.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL STORIES

On the Golden Texts of the International Lessons of 1889. Second Part, July-December. By EDWARD E. HALE. Uniform in size and style with "Sunday-School Stories, First Part." 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

"It was certainly 'a happy thought' which led the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, with his sisters and other literary coworkers, to prepare the volume of Sunday-School Stories which Roberts Brothers have just published. The stories turn upon and illustrate the 'Golden Texts' in the International Series of Sunday-School Lessons. It is a kind of work which has not been done before—which is rather remarkable when we consider that some millions of children are studying the lessons in question, and that pretty nearly everything else which could be conceived has been devised in the shape of commentaries and lesson helps. But the value of a bright story, illustrating the truth of the lesson, without denominational bias, but with strong religious feeling, and in a way to connect it with practical life, is obvious; and it is this which Mr. Hale and those associated with him have given us. Parents and Sunday-school teachers will welcome these volumes."—Boston Journal.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL STORIES FOR LITTLE CHILDREN

On the Golden Texts of the International Lessons of 1889. July-December. By Miss LUCRETIA P. HALE and Mrs. BERNARD WHITMAN. One volume, square 16mo cloth, $1.00.

"It is pleasant to acknowledge the interest and favor with which the collection already published has been received by teachers of Sunday-schools. But it had scarcely appeared before we received an earnest appeal from all quarters that we would attempt the preparation of another series, intended for the younger children. I therefore urged Mrs. Whitman and my sister Lucretia to undertake at once the compilation of a volume which should meet the purposes of the younger classes in all our Sunday-schools, as they engaged in the study of the International texts for this year. They have undertaken this very pleasant office, and the reader has in hand the stories which they have provided for the little people.

"It is published at the same time with the collection for older boys and girls, which, as before, was written by what I am tempted to call my own 'Ten.' Both of them are published with our best hopes and prayers for the welfare of the young people for whom they are written."—EDWARD E. HALE.

IN MY LADY'S PRAISE.

Poems. Old and New, written to the honor of Fanny, Lady Arnold. By SIR EDWIN ARNOLD. 1 vol., square 16mo, parchment, $1.25.

These are poems written at various times in honor of Mrs. Arnold and now for the first time brought together.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. have added to their twenty-five cent editions of popular fiction "A Heart Twice Won," by Mrs. E. Van Loon, and "The Prairie Flower—adventures in the Far West," by Emerson Bennett. This series now comprises some of the best and fastest-selling books on the Peterson list.

HARPER BROS. publish this week H. Rider Haggard's story of "old and mysterious Egypt," entitled "Cleopatra: being an account of the fall and vengeance of Harmachis, the Royal Egyptian, as set forth by his own hand." The book is profusely illustrated from drawings by Mr. Greiffenhagen and R. Caton Woodville.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish shortly a novel entitled "Such is Life," the first effort in this direction by Miss May Kendall, the young English poetess whose semi-humorous, semi-patetic fantasies, originally contributed to Longmans' Magazine and Punch, were recently gathered into a volume called "Dreams to Sell."

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT will publish immediately "Signs of Promise," being the sermons preached in Plymouth pulpit by Dr. Lyman Abbott from 1887 to 1889. The publishers are confident that "the unanimity, strength, and efficiency in all its work, shown in Plymouth Church during the past two years, will cause a peculiar interest to attach to these utterances of its new pastor, that men may gain some idea of how the powers of that great body have been conserved, reinspired and directed."

D. LOTHROP COMPANY have issued this week, in addition to the three books mentioned in our last issue, "Tennyson's Fairies," and other stories, by Joaquin Miller; and new and cheaper editions in paper cover of "A Modern Jacob," by Hester Stuart, and "The Doctor of Deane," by Mary T. Palmer. They will publish July 1 "One Voyage," a delightful story of life at sea from the passenger's point of view, by Captain Julius A. Palmer; "Chrissy's Endeavor," by Pansy, the story of a bright society girl, whose awakened interest in the Y. P. S. C. E. of a little village where she was summering, leads her to organize a similar society on her return to the city, somewhat to the disgust of her aristocratic family; also a pictorial "History of England in Rhyme" and a similar one of the United States. A week later they will publish "Our Town," a delightful story for young and old in the line of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, by Margaret Sidney; "Sweet-briar," a story of girl life amid the gayeties of "society," by Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood, a story especially adapted for girls between twelve and twenty years of age and besides a perfect manual of etiquette and society manners by one who is a recognized authority on such matters; also, new editions of "Art for Young People;" "Adventures of the Early Discoverers," by Mrs. F. A. Humphrey, "What the Seven Did" and "The Golden West," by Margaret Sidney.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. CHARLES SCRIBNER, we are pleased to note, is back from his European trip in excellent health and spirits.

It will be news to many of his friends in the trade that our associate, Mr. G. D. T. Rouse, has resigned his position with the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, after eighteen years' service, to go to Kearney, Nebraska, where he has associated himself with the Hamilton Loan and Trust Company. Mr. Rouse, though one of the oldest in point of service in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY office, having been with Mr. Leyboldt almost from the start, was one of the younger ones in years. His entering a new field in a new country means for him, therefore, practically a start in actual business life in the best years of a man's existence, and in a branch that offers larger possibilities than seemed to be before him in the calling he has left behind him. He has our best wishes for success.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Lewis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (32mo: 15 cm.); Ti. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Bally, Rev. T. L. Dr. Wallsten's way. N. Y., National Temp. Soc. and Pub. House, 1889. c. 319 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25.

That love and kindness are stronger weapons in reclaiming the drunkard than harshness and denunciation is shown by this story.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. History of the Pacific States of North America. V. 12: Arizona and New Mexico, 1530-1888. San Francisco, Cal., The History Co., 1888. c. '89. 38+829 p. map. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus., or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor., or tree cf., $10.

The fourteen pages of "Authorities quoted" give a fair idea of the rich material upon which this—one of the most important volumes of the series—has been constructed. In no section of the field have the author's resources of original data been richer or more varied. He has consulted the Santa Fé archives, and has had access to rich stores of the most important documentary records from Spain and Mexico; and he has been specially fortunate in being able to utilize, practically for the first time, the works of Villagrà and several important documents bearing on Oñate's conquest. "Nowhere in my work," the author claims, "have I been able to correct more erroneous statements, fill more historical gaps, or, except in the matter of minute details, to supply in comparison with preceding writers more new matter." The result has been a condensed yet exceedingly comprehensive record of all that is historically valuable in the history of what may be considered the most interesting portion of the Pacific United States, or, perhaps, of the whole republic.

*Barham, Rev. R. H., ["Thomas Ingoldsby," pseud.] The Ingoldsby legends; or, mirth and marvels; with a biographical and critical introduction. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1889. 425 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Bartlett, Theodore. Heart stories. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 3-67 p. D. cl., 75 c.

The first story, "Lyddy," was written by Mr. Bartlett for a well-known newspaper syndicate in 1885, and was awarded a prize. Mr. Bartlett became ill after writing it, and died before the honor bestowed upon him was made known. He was born in Wisconsin and spent his life in the West, as a civil engineer. "Lyddy" is a tender, pathetic story of California life, of the Bret Harte type, and is full of promise. There are two other stories, "The charity ball" and "A Christmas story," and a few verses.

*Blanford, H. F. Practical guide to the climates and weather of India, Ceylon, and Burmah, and the storms of Indian seas, based chiefly on the publications of the Indian Meteorological Department. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 13+369 p. O. cl., $3.50.

*Blitz, Mrs. A. Digger Dick's darling, and other tales. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1889. 260 p. D. cl., 75 c.

*Boldrewood, Rolf. Robbery under arms: a story of life and adventure in the bush and in the goldfields of Australia. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 413 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Brandes, G. Impressions of Russia; from the Danish by S: C. Eastman. N. Y., T: Y.

Crowell & Co., [1889.] c. tr. 8+353 p. por. D. $1.25.

Dr. Brandes, the genial and acute Danish critic, who is already favorably known by his "Eminent authors of the nineteenth century," used his exceptional opportunities during a lecturing tour in Russia to study its men and manners. He mingled with all classes and his keen observation enabled him to get a remarkable insight into much that is enigmatical. The first part of his volume is full of piquant anecdotes, clever characterizations and bright descriptions. The reader will not wonder that the book has been put upon the "Index expurgatorius" by the lynx-eyed censor. The second part deals with Russian literature and gives much information about the more famous as well as the less known writers of the present century.

Clayton, Graham. Wheat and tares: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889. c. 5-273 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This story begins some eight years anterior to the civil war and ends a decade after the close of the war. It is intended to be a careful study of Southern scenes and Southern character during that period. In the telling of the story the author has given a faithful account of the Southern people during those eventful years.

*Cookshott, Arthur, and Walters, Rev. F. B. A treatise on geometrical conics, in accordance with the syllabus of the Assoc. for the Improvement of Geometrical Teaching. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 6+205 p. D. cl., $1.25.

*Corbett, Julian. Kophetua the Thirteenth: a novel. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 8+333 p. D. cl., $1.

Crane, T. F., ed. La Société Française au dix-septième siècle: an account of French society in the 17th century from contemporary writers; ed. for the use of schools and colleges with an introduction and notes. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 55+342 p. S. cl., $1.50.

In the Tableaux de la Révolution Française the author gave a picture of a period in political history; in this volume, constructed on the same plan, he presents a period in social history. This is done by extracts in French from works relating to French society in the 17th century—such as contemporary letters, memoirs, essays, etc.

Current discussions in theology; by the professors of Chicago Theological Seminary. V. 6. Bost. and Chic., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1889.] c. 10+473 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A careful summary of the theological literature for the year, duly classified and characterized. It is a summing up of the labors of theologians and critics—a report of progress for the year. The various departments of exegetical, historic, systematic, practical, and pastoral theology will be found to have gathered in them a review of all the works worthy of note issued during the last twelve months.

Deane, Rev. W: J. David: his life and times. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1889.] 6+222 p. D. (Men of the Bible ser.) cl., $1.

"Without entering into vexed questions of authorship, I have felt justified in quoting passages from the Psalms which, whether written by David or not, illustrate his history and his feelings. I have not loaded my pages with formal refutations of the aspersions which have been cast upon his motives and his character. In a popular work of this kind such controversial matter would have been out of place. Virtually I have defended him from undeserved reproaches, and the reader will find in the explanations, afforded by the text, what, I trust, is a just view of his failings and merits."—Preface.

*District of Columbia. Supreme ct. Reports of cases, v. 6; rep. by Franklin H. Mackey. Wash., The Law Reporter print, 1889. 10+393 p. Q. shp., $6.

Encyclopædia Britannica: a dictionary of arts, sciences, and general literature. 9th ed. [American reprint.] With a complete index. V. 24. Phil., J. M. Stoddard Co., 1889. c. 970 p. map and il. Q. subs., cl., $5; shp., $6.

Completes the work, running from Ural-Altaic languages to Zymotic diseases. The chief American additions to the volume are: Wentworth family by F. M. Bird; West Point, by N. B. Webster; Whig party, by D. O. Kellogg; Winthrop family, by F. M. Bird; Women in the United States, by Kate Stephens; Workmen in the U. S., by E. W. Bemis; Zoology of the U. S., by N. B. Webster.

Fraser, G. S. In three cities and a state or two; or, the Holcomb family and fortune, and other tales. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 3+198 p. D. cl., 75 c.

The other stories are called, "Lord Derries' love story," "Little Piggy, a retrospect," and "The king's money."

Gepp, C. G., and Haigh, A. E. A Latin-English dictionary. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889. 7+563 p. S. cl., $1.40.

This volume is the result of an endeavor to supply, in a cheap and handy form, a Latin-English dictionary, containing, with their meanings and inflexions, all the words which junior boys in schools are likely to encounter in the course of their reading; while, at the same time, it is believed to be sufficiently complete to meet the requirements of the ordinary student, or of the rusty scholar who wishes to renew his acquaintance with his favorite authors.

Harris, F. McCready. ["Hope Ledyard," pseud.] Plain talks with young home-makers. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 4+116 p. T. bds., 40 c.

A little book of practical advice for young mothers and wives; it is chiefly intended for the poor, and has grown out of the author's experience as a city missionary. The chapters are entitled: Choosing a home; Furnishing a home; The bedroom; Breakfast, dinner, and tea; The first born; Baby's education; Habits and ailments; Holy secrets; Hints to mothers; First lessons in reading; Mending and making; Sickness; Obedience and punishments; Giving children pleasure; Fresh air in winter; A mother's receipt-book; Neighbors; Mistress and maid; A mother's wages.

*Helps, Arthur. Essays written in the intervals of business; with an introduction and notes by F. J. Rowe and W. T. Webb. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 15+130 p. D. cl., 60 c.

*Hooper, G. Wellington. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 254 p. D. (English men of action.) cl., 60 c.; uncut, 75 c.

Hurst, J. F., D.D., ed. The wedding day: the service; the marriage certificate; words of counsel. Buffalo, H. H. Otis, 1889. c. '88. 48 p. S. cl., net, 60 c.

Contains the form for the solemnization of matrimony, and a blank marriage certificate; also several chapters of good advice about "the new home," "good reading at home," "forbearance," etc. Bound in white and gold.

*Ingram, T. Dunbar. Two chapters of Irish history, 1, The Irish Parliament of James II.; 2, The alleged violation of the treaty of Limerick. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 154 p. O. cl., $2.

Jacksonville Auxiliary Sanitary Assoc. Report, covering the work of the association during the yellow fever epidemic, 1888; ed. by C. S.

Adams. Jacksonville, Florida, Jacksonville Auxiliary Sanitary Assoc., 1889. 351 p. O. pap., gratis.

Kenyon, Ellen E. The coming school; a sequel to "The young idea" by Carolina B. Le Row. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1889.] c. 7+146 p. T. bds., 50 c.

The chief idea with this author is that the "coming school" should develop the particular talents of the individual, and that the pupil should at an early age be able to choose his life vocation, and that his education afterwards should be entrusted to specialists, his training all being directed to the career he has selected. The first periods of education are to be conducted on the natural method. The result of sixteen years of striving "against formalism in education, of longing and hoping for a deeper insight, and more natural methods."

King, C. Between the lines: a story of the war. N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. '88. 4+312 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The action takes place in Virginia, between the lines of the Northern and Southern armies, beginning in August, 1862, just before the second battle of Bull Run! Scouts and secret service men on both sides play prominent parts. There are many daring deeds, many strange encounters of friends and foes, some love scenes, some treachery, and the constant atmosphere of war and battle all through the book.

*Loewy, B. A graduated course of natural science, experimental and theoretical, for schools and colleges. Pt. 1, First year's course for elementary schools. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1889. 10+151 p. S. cl., 60 c.

*New York state reporter. Cont. all the current decisions of the courts of record of New York state. [etc.] ed. by R. M. Stover. V. 20, with index and table of cases. Alb., W. C. Little & Co., 1889. c. 7+28+1093 p. O. shp., $4.

O'Reilly, Harrington. Fifty years on the trail: a true story of western life; il. by Paul Frenzeny. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., 1889. c. 14+381 p. D. pap., $1.

John Nelson, the hero, was what the world calls a "social outcast." Though he had committed no crime, against the laws, his hand was against every man, and every man's hand against him. He had sought this life of his own free will, and lived it for many years on the Western frontier, long before the march of civilization had penetrated that vast and then unsettled country. His experience here recorded is a succession of exciting hunting adventures and life in camp among the Indians. Sometimes the adventures are not very creditable to the hero, but they all possess a strong flavor of truth, which is the chief charm of such books.

Pan, (pseud.) Dinnerology; our experiments in diet from crankery to common-sense : a tale for the times. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. 3-205 p. D. (The household lib., v. 4. no. 31.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A married couple of ten years' standing make the discovery that they are getting uncomfortably stout, and are married to a most uncomfortable dyspepsia. They determine to study diet and to reduce not only their size but their market and doctor's bills. Their experiments are full of interest. First they try an entirely vegetable diet, then they admit fish and meat, but sparingly—the object being all the time to have substantial food at a small cost. Recipes are given throughout of the dishes they try, and a good deal of useful information on food and cooking. The style is bright and clever, recommending the book to others than housekeepers.

Perry, G. B. Uncle Peter's trust; or, following the drums. N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. 3+283 p. il. sq. S. (Harper's young people ser.) cl., $1.

The scene is laid at Sennen, near the Land's End, which forms the westernmost point of England. Joe Stetson, the little hero, had been rescued from a wreck when a baby by Peter Stetson, in charge of the lifeboats, and adopted as his own child. Little Joe's life is the main part of the story. Uncle Peter dies when Joe is ten years old, and his "trust" is transferred to others. "Joe" wants to be a soldier, but first every effort is made to have him adopt a sailor's life. His second protector dies and then Joe becomes a drummer-boy in the British army. After many exciting experiences he goes to India, and discovers his own father in the colonel of his regiment.

Much of the material on which this work is based is to be found in the archives of the American government. Two sets of documents have been published—one, including valuable papers from 1774 to 1777, known as "American archives;" another, documents from 1779 on, with the title "American state papers." Between these two periods are a mass of public papers in the Department of State at Washington, that have never been published, and in great part never been examined. All these works, together with many private unpublished letters, diaries, reports, and other mss. belonging to Western families, were carefully scrutinized by Mr. Roosevelt. The consequence was a flood of new light upon this early history, necessitating its being entirely rewritten. He says, "They give an absolutely new aspect to, and in many cases completely reverse, the current accounts of all the Indian fighting, both against the Cherokees and the Northwestern tribes; they give for the first time a clear view of frontier diplomacy, of the intrigues with the Spaniards, and even of the mode of life in the backwoods, and of the workings of the civil government."

Under the "tontine system" a number of young people take shares by putting up a sum of money in a pool which is funded under trustees. The last surviving member inherits the whole amount. This broad farce relates the efforts of relatives to get at the property of the supposed only survivor. They think him killed in a railway accident and put his body in a barrel, marked "specimens," which they send home, hoping to get it hidden for good. On the train labels are exchanged between this barrel and a box containing a colossal statue of Hercules, and innumerable complications arise. With less artistic treatment the plot would be dangerously ghastly. Mr. Stevenson shows his knowledge of human nature under new conditions. The title of the book is on a yellow label and the advertisement torn from a newspaper and pasted on makes the cover striking.

Mr. Wilder in his chequered career as a public humorist met many eminent men of America and Europe. This volume is rich in personal recollections of them, written in a pleasant and often merry vein. Among those who are the centre of interesting episodes are Henry Ward Beecher, General Grant, Ex-President Cleveland, James G. Blaine, the Prince of Wales, Henry Irving, "Buffalo Bill," and many others no less distinguished.

The main entry under author, or, in the case of anonymous books under title only, gives in parenthesis as (June 1, 8, 15, 22, 29), the date of the number of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY in which the full title is recorded. The more prominent works appear in this list under title and subject also, but the author entry should be consulted for additional particulars. Where not specified the binding is cloth. p. stands for paper; shp. for sheep.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 29, 1889.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE LIMITS OF TRADE BIBLIOGRAPHY.

A LETTER which we gladly print in another column defines interestingly the ideal "Publishers' Trade List Annual." We should be very glad indeed to reach that ideal were it not for the fact, as we have once or twice set forth, that it is beyond the practicable limits of trade bibliography.

We think it may be fairly claimed for this office, from the days of its founder until now, that it has endeavored to reach as nearly as might be to the bibliographical ideal consistent with the possibility of getting back the actual cost of bibliographical enterprises; in fact, it has not always stopped there. The great American Catalogue, for instance, costing over $25,000, showed an actual loss on our books for years after it had been published, and the final increase of price on the few remaining sets gave a surplus of only a few hundred dollars to cover the long and laborious editorial service which had been put into it by Mr. Leypoldt and others who were not on the salary list of that work. Our correspondent proposes practically that an American Catalogue of all books in print should precede the publishers' catalogues in the "Trade List Annual," including not only a full index to all the books entered in the publishers' catalogues there inserted, but also the books of publishers not represented in the Annual, with special lists in addition of medical and scientific books. Such a list would indeed "be the most efficient assistant and be worth many dollars in sales," but it would mean many thousand dollars out of pocket to the unfortunate publisher who should undertake to issue it.

That extraordinary feature of Whitaker's Reference Catalogue to Current Literature, the remarkable index, this year of 404 pages and containing 68,000 entries, is certainly the most valuable part of that offshoot of our own "Trade List Annual." It should be noted, however, that the English work is issued only at intervals of several years, and that its publication in each case has been delayed a year, more or less, for the sake of including this index; and further that the mere mechanical cost of such a feature in connection with the American work would be far more than the net returns which we get from the present Annual. Sales are apparently not so large in this country, although it has nearly twice the number of reading population, as in England, for the English trade seem much more prone to support enterprises of this sort than the American. There appears, in fact, to be a much larger trade constituency to draw upon there. Moreover, the Whitaker index gives only the merest reference to the catalogue and page; the complete index suggested by our correspondent would require several times as much space, and would cost several times as much money.

We are very glad to make this explanation at this time, because we have so many inquiries, suggestions, and even protests throughout the year in regard to this very question of the ideal Annual. From time to time propositions are made by various publishers who have more hope than experience to furnish special bibliographies or other trade tools for which there seems to be a "long-felt want." After a while they come one by one to the sad experience that the want does not materialize in practical support, and it is too often the paper-maker and the printer who have to bear the losses of these experiments. This office endeavors, with the "Trade List Annual," the "Annual Catalogue," and the five-yearly "American Catalogue," to furnish as adequate and complete a bibliographical system as the trade will pay for. The "Trade List Annual" is now on a permanent and satisfactory basis, but any considerable increase in its cost would make it unprofitable and its future uncertain. The "Annual Catalogue," we regret to say, has not had the full support which we had hoped for it, and its future is still uncertain. The support for the "American Catalogue" proper as a permanency has yet to be tested with the volume for 1884-90.

The practicable improvement in the "Trade List Annual" must be in connection with the publishers' lists themselves. Any one who will take the trouble to compare the publishers' catalogues at the time of the first "Trade List Annual" will find how great has been the advance in the interim, due largely to the requirements of the Annual itself. There is still great room for improvement, and any publisher who is wide awake to his own interest finds that it pays him to have a first-class catalogue for use both in the Annual and independently of it. The publisher's catalogue is the unit in trade bibliography, and on its perfection much depends for the success of the publisher and for the comfort of the bookseller. We should be glad to see our way toward the ideal Annual outlined by our correspondent—but the millennium is still some ways off. We do trust, however, to see a union of trade and library interests some ten years hence which may give us an American bibliography of the century which shall be to the credit of the country and the great convenience of the trade.

OUR column of "Books Wanted," which is intended as an accommodation to the trade, and seems to be more and more appreciated by it, gives us unfortunately more trouble than any other department of the WEEKLY. It is looked upon by some of our patrons as a means of keeping a "standing advertisement" of their business in the WEEKLY, such as should come rather in its ordinary advertising departments. If each subscriber should require us to fulfil the contract of five lines in each issue literally, the composition alone would cost us more than the entire amount we obtain from his subscription, and it would be impracticable to issue the WEEKLY at all. We have found it necessary again and again to say to our patrons that it is absolutely necessary to charge for repeated matter, for books which are on the current lists of publishers, and for entries over five lines, and that we cannot undertake to separate advertisements which are sent to us en bloc into "blocks of five" so as to bring them within our limit. To guard against such use of this department, we have been compelled to give notice that its use will be confined to 100 lines per year, beyond which we must make a charge to our subscribers, and that we must ask our friends to send their copy legibly written—a post-card serves perfectly well—and limited to five lines in case they do not wish to pay for additional lines. This department is a valuable one to the trade, and we appreciate their appreciation of it, but we must ask some of our friends to be a little more considerate in their contributions to it.

MARY LAMB, the sister of Charles, gives a pathetic description of a studious boy lingering at a bookstall:

I saw a boy with eager eye
Open a book upon a stall,
And read, as he'd devour it all;
Which, when the stall-man did espy,
Soon to the boy I heard him call,
"You, sir, you never buy a book,
Therefore in one you shall not look."
The boy passed slowly on, and with a sigh
He wished he never had been taught to read,
Then of the old churl's books he should have had no need.

COPYRIGHT AND PATENT RIGHT.

From E. E. Hale's article in the July Forum.

It is a great pity that our original statute arranging for copyright was not made as our patent law was made, so as to include all persons who write books, instead of all American citizens. It does not appear that at that time anybody cared for an exclusive privilege to American authors, and as far as I have ever heard, no reason has ever been given for a distinction between the copyright of a book and the patent on an invention. It should be understood in the whole discussion on copyright that we have always given patents to foreign inventors, that we do so now, and that nobody ever found any difficulty resulting from this habit. It is not a concession, it is a matter of course, exactly as we permit a person who is not an American citizen to walk on the high road, or to drop a letter in the post-office. As the distinction was unfortunately made, there have grown up under it a set of artificial habits which greatly increase the difficulties of coming back to the natural and righteous position. The mere difference of social order between England and America is enough to account for a good many of the difficulties. These are often enhanced by the fact that for a century copyright has been refused to foreign authors not resident in this country.

"A BOOK TRUST."

IN the New York Herald for June 23 was printed under the above heading an interview with "a prominent publisher, an earnest supporter of international copyright, but who is very dubious regarding the success of the measure, at any rate in the near future." Omitting the points with which our readers are only too familiar we extract the following from the reporter's account:

"There seems to be," said he, "no hope of the measure becoming a law so long as the Typographical Union persists in fighting it. The Union has more influence with Congress than all the authors and publishers in the United States combined. The Union seems to think that wages would come down if the bill became a law. The fact is wages are at the very lowest notch now. We can get our composition and electrotyping done to day at practically our own price. The reason? There is a stagnancy among the writers of this country, brought about by the injurious effects of foreign unpaid competition. On the other hand, we don't reprint off foreign books any more than we can help—just enough to 'sweeten' our stock. When we do reprint we swap plates with each other, which reduces the expense to each house, and of course this results in reducing the amount of labor required of the printers. With international copyright two things would happen. American authors would have a wider field and higher remuneration for their work. This would stimulate the exertions of those who are already in the field and bring a number of new ones out. This would at once operate to increase very largely the aggregate demand for typographical work. Again, but one house would print each foreign book, for it would then be protected by copyright. There would be no swapping of plates as now, no pooling of issues, so to speak, to save ourselves expense and to minimize the demand for composition. Three times as many foreign books would be printed then as now. I have no doubt but that international copyright would treble the demand for composition and electrotyping work in this country, and of course wages must go up accordingly. But the printers are too big fools to be convinced. And as long as they fight it I'm afraid there's no chance for it."

"Is there no way in which international copyright could be secured in spite of the Typographical Union?"

"Yes; there are two ways," said my friend, with a smile, "but the trouble is they are both immoral."

"Now you get interesting," I said. "Let me have 'em."

"The first way is to secure a fund of say $100,000 by subscription from all parties interested and go and buy the law from Congress. I fear there are two difficulties in the way of this suggestion. The purses of authors and publishers are too small, and their consciences are too large to permit them to act upon it."

"What is the second plan?"

"The formation of a book trust."

"A book trust? But you would not call that immoral in the same sense that bribery is immoral?"

"No. But many people consider such combinations immoral, and I am not sure but that I so regard them."

"But do you think it possible to form a book trust at this time?"

"Not only possible but probable. I know it is being actively discussed at the present time by the leading reprinting houses."

"By the way, what houses are the reprinting houses?"

"Well, there are quite a number of them. I will give you those I can remember at the moment. They are: John W. Lovell Company, Estes & Lauriat, Porter & Coates, The Worthington Company, The Trow Book Printing and Binding Company, John B. Alden & Co., J. L. Oglevie & Co., Hurst & Co., Laird & Lee, George Munroe, The American News Company, Pollard & Co., Ivers & Co. There are probably half a dozen smaller ones which I do not recollect. All the above will join the trust."

"You do not mention Harper's or Appleton's?"

"No. They would not join the trust unless they had to. But when the trust is formed, as it will be within the year, they may wish to come in. They can't live outside."

"Why are you so confident the trust will be formed?"

"Because I know that self-preservation is the first law of nature. These publishers that I have named to you have several millions of money tied up in the plates of reprinted books which they possess. Under the tremendous competition which now exists this property is becoming less valuable day by day. The books are sold to the trade at so small a price that, far from having anything to pay to the authors, we don't make any profit ourselves."

"Why do you keep on reprinting if there is no money in it?"

"Yes, I thought you would ask me that. But the truth is we must keep on reprinting or go out of the business. You see, though reprinting is not profitable now, it does not follow that it has always been so. When we so-called 'pirates' went into the business and by reprinting foreign books overturned the 'courtesy of the trade' practice it was a profitable thing. Of course it was, or we shouldn't have gone into it. It was so profitable that many people followed our example. Any one can reprint books. It is not necessary to employ readers, critics, and the paraphernalia of a publishing house. It is not necessary to run risks as in the case of legitimate publishing, if I may use that word to distinguish the publication of copyright books from reprinting. All that is needed is to find out some English book that is popular in this country or to watch for the books of English authors who have attained paying audiences in this country. Get copies of their books, send them to a printer and have them done up in as cheap a style as possible, and there you are. The business is so easy that many have gone into it who would not have thought of being publishers under a copyright régime. The result is that the business has been largely overdone. Millions of dollars have been put into it and this capital is now represented in the plates which are owned by the different reprinting houses. Nowadays competition has grown so great that, as I have said before, we are forced to adopt little impromptu pool tactics to protect ourselves every time we reprint our book. We look around among the other reprinters and make up our minds as to which one will be likely to reprint the same book. We go to these and offer them a set of the plates at a fixed price. This has come to be a general custom of the trade. In this way we pool our issues at the expense of the printers and get the cost of publication down to the lowest notch. But in spite of all we are losing money."

"Why don't you all quit, then?"

"We don't reprint one in fifty of the English books now. It is only the most popular books that we put out. There are bright young authors abroad whom our people never hear of simply because no one will take the risk of introducing them to the American public. We just print new books enough to 'sweeten' our stock, so to speak. We live on a legitimate publishing business and carry on the other business at a small loss, looking for something to turn up—like an international copyright law, for instance."

"I still don't quite see why you find it necessary to carry on a profitless business."

"We do it to save our plant. These millions of dollars' worth of plates would be utterly valueless if we don't keep on printing."

"But they seem to be worse than valueless if you do."

"Exactly. And to make them valuable one of two things must happen—international copyright or a book trust. International copyright has been knocked on the head by a shortsighted and foolish guild of artisans. We are forced to take the other course in self-defence."

"What do you expect to accomplish by it?"

"The price of reprints must go up. Then we can begin making money again."

"But some one else will jump in and compete with you when you get the price high enough to make it pay."

"Will they? I don't think you quite understand. You see a book trust composed of the houses I have named to you will own a plant worth millions of dollars. It will possess the plates of every foreign book that is salable in this country—all the standard works, novels, histories, poetry, travel, etc. Everything that can be sold here we have. No one can compete with us until he shall be possessed of a plant of equal value."

"Why not?"

"Well, let us see. Supposing a new man were to start out to compete with us, and begin by reprinting a half dozen of the most popular English novels of the day. We should immediately put the price of those half dozen books way down below cost. We could live on our other books. But how long would he last?"

"Ah! I begin to see."

"Yes, I thought you would. It would take years to accumulate such a plant as the trust would possess and the expenditure of millions of dollars. It would be a risk that no capitalist would think of running. For when he had succeeded in duplicating all the plates he would then only be on even terms with us. He could then do one of two things—compete with us or come into the pool. In the first case he couldn't make enough money, and in the second case he would have forced himself into the trust, but he would have paid, as entrance fee, about a thousand times what it was worth. However, I don't suppose there is any use talking about it. No capitalist would be fool enough to attempt it. No. This trust once formed will be invincible."

SECOND ANNUAL RECEPTION AND GAMES OF HARPER & BROS. EMPLOYÉES.

THE second annual reception of the employés of Harper & Bros., held at the Harlem River Park and Casino, N. Y. City, on the 22d inst., was a success in every particular. Favored by cool, clear weather, and in the choice of able managers and capacious grounds suitable for outdoor and indoor amusement, this might have been foreseen. The entertainment opened at 3 P.M. with a concert by an excellent band. At four o'clock the athletic games began. Mr. William A. Harper was expected to be present and act as referee. He was unable to attend, and his place was filled by Col. Ammon. The judges were G. K. Rosenquest, G. A. Boyd, and Louis Amerman. W. G. Hegeman, ex-official handicapper of the National Athletic Association, was the starter, and T. R. Smith, the timekeeper. After the games the winners assembled at the committee-rooms in the Casino, where the prizes were awarded. J. W. Hallett, the victor in the quarter-mile run, received a handsome gold medal, and R. Clark, second, a silver medal. J. McCarthy, winner of the second game—putting a 16-lb. shot, and J. Austin, second, received similar prizes. Charles Carroll and W. W. Watson, winners of the 200 yards boys' race (handicap), received each a beautifully bound book; and J. Burns, who won the one-mile run, received a handsome solid silver cigar-case.

Long before the hour of the evening reception the hall, which was gayly and prettily festooned, began to fill up with the members of the Association and their friends. Fully three thousand persons were present. The festivities and dancing lasted until midnight. Much of the success of the occasion is due to Messrs. L. T. Donegan, President of the Association; J. F. Boland, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements; J. M. Florsheim, Chairman of the Reception Committee; Thomas J. Sweeney, the Floor Manager, and his two assistants, J. F. Jennings and R. M. Clark.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE IDEAL TRADE LIST ANNUAL.

NEW YORK, June 20, 1889.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

MR. JENKINS' suggestion that the trade agitate the question of an improvement in the Trade List Annual question is a good one and should meet with the approval of all members of the craft.

Our Trade List Annual is far from perfect and is very much behind the Reference Catalogue of our English cousins. Being the most valuable tool of the American book-trade it can and should be made indispensable, and meet the requirements of all. The matter is of the greatest importance, and no one will deny the convenience of a single volume of reference for all current American books, something on the plan of the English list, but improved.

The index of the present Annual is very good as a summary of the books of the year, but further than this it has no value, except as a collection of publishers' catalogues, many of which are so poorly arranged as to be worse than useless, the publishers arranging their list without regard whatever to the time the bookseller is obliged to spend in searching for a book he knows is there, but cannot find until his customer's patience is exhausted and a sale is lost.

My ideal of a perfect catalogue is that of a perfect book, with a complete index of its contents. I would suggest the index of the Annual be an index of all the books mentioned therein, indexed both by title and author, giving where possible the year of publication, size, binding, price, publisher, and the page on his catalogue where the book is more fully described. The index should also include current books of publishers whose list is not in the Annual and should be supplemented with the Educational list as now arranged and with a general list of medical and scientific books such as is issued by Pelton and Van Nostrand.

Such a list will be a most efficient assistant and be worth many dollars in sales. I believe I voice the sentiments of the trade at large in saying that they will gladly pay increase in cost of such a work.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES A. BURKHARDT.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

ANDREW LANG and Rider Haggard, according to the London Athenaeum, are jointly engaged in a literary work.

MR. ANDREW CARNEGIE is at work upon his memoirs. But they are not to be published—at least during his lifetime.

MAX O'RELL has accepted a second invitation to lecture in the United States and Canada. His first appearance will be in January, at Boston, under the auspices of the Press Club.—London Academy.

MR. LEE MERIWETHER, author of "A Tramp Trip" and "The Tramp at Home," has resigned his position at Washington to take the office of Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics and Inspection of the State of Missouri, a position for which he is peculiarly fitted.

THE mystery as to the author of "An Author's Love" is now cleared up, it being admitted that Miss Balch is the author. Miss Balch is an American lady who has been publishing within the present and the last year a series of papers in the English Illustrated Magazine on "Old English Country Houses."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GINN & Co. have just ready a pamphlet entitled "Arithmetical Reviews," by Prof. J. L. Patterson.

McKNIGHT'S BOOKSTORE, 443 Wood St., Pittsburgh, Pa., have issued a series of nine different views of the late Johnstown disaster mounted on heavy cards in three sizes,  $4\frac{1}{2} \times 6$  inches,  $10 \times 12$  inches, and  $18 \times 22$  inches.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY has succeeded in arresting the person who has been using their letter sheets in obtaining books under false pretences. He appears to have been a former employé by the name of Frank Grünenthal, who was discharged from the employ of the Society before October, 1887. Nearly all the books have been returned. One or more of the booksellers united in the complaint against him. Police Justice Gorman remanded him to appear in one of the higher courts for trial.

ALEX. T. LEE, Architect and C. E., 96 Fourth Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., has published a fine bird's-eye view of the devastated valley of the Conemaugh from Nineveh to the lake at South Fork, entitled "From Nineveh to the Lake—The Deluged Valley of the Conemaugh. Scenes Afoot, and an extended Bird's-Eye View of the Valley of the Conemaugh, Johnstown, and the Lake." It is finely lithographed and drawn from personal sketches, and based upon surveys of the Pennsylvania R. R.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have in press the following new novels: "Adrian Lyle," by "Rita;" "Geneviève, or, the children of Port Royal," a story of old France, by the author of "The Spanish Brothers," etc.; and in the series of American Novels, "A Nameless Wrestler," by Josephine W. Bates. They have also in preparation "Elementary Lessons in Heat," by Prof. S. E. Tillman, of the U. S. Military Academy; and a new subscription-book entitled "A Manual of Machine Construction," a practical reference-book for the design, proportions, and method of constructing all kinds of machinery in common use, with all required references for the use of engineers, draughtsmen, and mechanics, by John Richards. They announce the early publication of a midsummer novel called "Three Days," by Samuel Williams Cooper. The book will be neatly gotten up and fully illustrated by Hal Hurst and C. C. Cooper, Jr., the well-known artists. The action of the story, as its name indicates, takes place within the short limit of three days spent at a noted watering-place, which will be readily recognized. The book is said to be realistic in the intensity of the love-story, but free from everything like sensationalism.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FRANCIS S. SALTUS, who frequently wrote under the pseudonym of "Cupid Jones," died on the 25th inst. He was born in New York City in 1849, and at an early age became a humorous writer and paragrapher for the American and foreign press. He was conversant with ten languages and was an accomplished musician. He also wrote poems in French, German, English, and Italian. He was the author of four comic operas and other musical works. In 1873 J. B. Lippincott & Co. published a volume of his verse under the title of "Honey and Gall." Francis S. was the elder half brother of Edgar F. Saltus, the novelist.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.
